FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

The Mission Parlor, No. 38, N. S. G. W., are selling a great many tickets for their benefit at the Alcazar on Monday night. Bill, "The Silent Partner."

Lawrence Barrett sailed for Germany on the 15th inst., to seek the medicinal waters of Carlsbad. Booth will spend his Summer vacation in Boston and Newport.

Lewis Morrison returns to New York after his engagement at the Bijou to complete his arrangements for next season's tour with "Faust." The painters are at work on the scenery, and the new dresses, which will be exceptionally costly and handsome, are also in process of construction. With all its appointments first-class, with the new batteries, motors, electric and calcine apparatus, and other items of outlay, the cost of the new production will run up to about $7,000, in spite of Mr. Morrison's good luck in getting his lumber and canvas at the Langtry sale at such a great bargain.

"Jack" Hamilton, publisher of the N.Y. Dramatic News, sailed for Europe June 12. While at the Paris Exposition, he will be the guest of Col. Cody and Nate Salsbury.

C. H. McConnell left New York on June 12th for Southern California, where he says he will in future remain and attend to his mining interests.

An indictment has been found by the Grand Jury charging the physicians who made an autopsy on the body of W. Irving Bishop with the violation of the Sanitary Code in holding the autopsy before receiving a permit.

Miss Louise Balfe, who is playing the part of Collie in Uncle Joe so successfully, has been specially engaged by Simmonds & Brown to play the leading emotional role in Hans, the Boatman, next season.

Mrs. Langtry will leave for England on August 7th.

Christian Jensen, scenic artist to his majesty Emperor William at the Imperial Court Theatre in Berlin has arrived in this country and has gone to Columbus, O., to paint the scenery for Kojanka. He has brought with him many novel and marvelous scenic and mechanical effects, which will be introduced in the new spectacle.

Emily Soldene's adaptation from the French, Jeanne Fortier, the Breadcarrier, in a prologue and five acts, was produced at Niblo's, New York, June 10th. There is a good deal of dramatic fire in the piece, and interest is sustained throughout; but as a melodrama it is a little too old-fashioned for this day. Mrs. D. P. Bowers was starred as Jeanne, and in the role of the wronged woman gave a fine performance. F. C. Bangs was the villain Gerard, and a vigorous, deep-dyed, unrelenting villain he was.

J. W. Pigott, a very capable actor, once a member of Wallack's Theatre, New York, produced his new four-act comedy, Which Wins? at Terry's London Theatre June 12, and made a very respectable hit. In the company were pretty Alice Lingard, Enid Leslie and George Dalziel, a brother of Editor Davison Dalziel of the New York Truth, all well-known in New York. Mr. Edward Michael, editor of the New York Amusement Gazette, was the manager. Which Wins? will be seen in New York, next season.

The latest advertising dodge comes from the city by the tail end of Lake Michigan, and reads as follows: "An angel wanted: A Young Handsome and Talented Actress already Eminent in her Profession widely known and extensively advertised requires financial assistance to complete arrangements for a Starring Tour with New and Brilliant Drama of her own. Sure fortune for reliable Man who can furnish $4000 address Dramatic 481 Wabash ave Chicago Ill" The "young, handsome and talented actress" does not say if she proposes "to pull" the leg of the "angel" or merely clip his wings.

A good company and good management will give the Bijou a better outlook this summer.

Frank Dare, the excellent horizontal bar gymnast here with Kiralfy, is one of the new Orpheum Company.

John J. Jennings, one of the best character actors San Francisco knows, is hesitating over a summer professional visit to this city.

For new company at the Bijou, run your eyes over the cast of The Celebrated Case.

Two society ladies and a young gentleman of this city will debut in The Celebrated Case at the Bijou Saturday night. The gentleman plays a light comedy role. Pick them out from the cast in an adjoining column.

Mr. M. W. Hanley, Harrigan's business manager, left New York for San Francisco June 18th. He will reach the coast on Monday, June 24th.

The Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels will play the S. F. Press Club a game of baseball next week, in costume, the proceeds to be given for the benefit of the club.

Mr. Morris Peyser has received a letter from Dan McCullough, late treasurer of the Baldwin Theatre, stating that he goes out with Eugene Tompkins' "Mankind" Co. next season as manager and treasurer.

Mr. Barney Fagan, of Thatcher, Primrose & West, the author of "Wedding Bells," is also the inventor and introducer of the musical silver bells. He will introduce next week at the New California his latest silver bell composition, "Music and Its Charms."

George Caine and Jennie Darragh have signed with the Essie Tittel Co. in place of Ida Van Sicien, as was formerly announced. Mr. Caine goes as leading man. The company is engaged to open the season at the new Musee and Theatre, Portland, on July 1st.

The Dramatic News is the authority for the statement that John A. Stevens' trip to our coast has not been abandoned, but that Mr. Stevens, Miss Carrie Turner and another important player will come to California very shortly under the management of M. B. Leavitt. Mr. Sol Berliner will be interested in the venture. The company will consist of ten people, and they will produce a number of Mr. Stevens' successful plays at the Bush St. Theatre.

Stella Rees, Mr. Lewis Morrison's leading lady, was born in Indianapolis. She was leading lady for Edmund Collier for one season, and last Winter was a member of Joseph Jefferson's company.

"Aririell," the new comic opera, is not a success.

Robert Mantell will open in San Francisco July 8th.

Fred. W. Bert will give a production of Lost in Africa next season.

Alexander Salvini will not travel with his father next season, but will remain a member of the Madison Square Co. He says that the only part of any consequence he would have in all of his father's repertoire would be that of Iago.

The brightest thing around the Alcazar is Mark Thall's new $600 headlight. It looms up like the lighthouse on Alcatraz.

Seats are on sale for the Lewis Morrison season at the Bijou.

George Wessells has been engaged in the East specially to play Gounod to Paul Kauvar. George will instill an added bitterness to the part.

A strong company has been engaged through the Mark Thall Dramatic Exchange to support Miss Anita Fallon in her adaption from the French of the society play, "The Coral Bracelet," at the Bush next week. See cast on first page.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

Manager John T. White, lately from the Madison Square Theatre, New York, the new manager of the Bijou Theatre on Market street, opens his season on Saturday night with Lewis Morrison, supported by a company made up of New York and local talent, in the sterling play of "A Celebrated Case." The full cast appears in the Bijou programme space in an adjoing column.

Chas. Shields, the scenic artist at Morosco's, has just finished a new curtain for that popular East-side theatre. The subject is the Berkshire Hills, Mass. The curtain is a very handsome one. It is a credit to both artist and theatre.

On Monday evening, June 24th, every theatre in town will be open and bidding for a portion of the public's patronage.

Col. J. M. Wood, the architect, has returned from a visit of inspection to the New Broadway Theatre he is building at Denver for Manager Leavitt, and still insists it will be the handsomest theatre in the country. It will be finished about Sept. 1st.

Another new comic opera is promised at the Tivoli in July.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair authoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be this week's attraction at the Standard.

James O'Neil will stick to Monte Cristo for the rest of his life. It has made him a pile of money.

See cast of Miss Anita Fallon's new society play, adapted from the French, entitled The Coral Bracelet; or Irene's Vow.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

A few months ago Prof Bushnell had a dog circus, the nucleus of a variety show; he also had a severe attack of managerial fever; so he engaged a company of variety people (all good) and they set off with merry hearts for Honolulu. But under his management the show business was bad, and he concluded he would take his cunning little doggies, sheared like lions, and return to our glorious climate and possibly Cort's circuit. By some oversight on his part he had the salaries of his company in his inside pocket and had lost the combination to the safe. A little matinee in the Honolulu Police Court followed, given by Messrs. Gallagher, Jenkins and Stanley, the ladies of the company assisting for their own benefit. The performers made a bit. They caught on with all their straight turns and they hold ample judgment and costs against the canine instructor. They had to give two performances, however, to get solid, so between times they made up a little family party, toured the Islands and made considerable more than expenses. They hold the paper, but at the second hearing they learned that the Prof. had gone to the island of Maui with his circus, and had taken passage for 'Frisco on a sailing vessel under the name of Clark Bursell, and the places that knew him shall know him no more, at least for the present.

One of the Caron Brothers, the gymnasts of The Twelve Temptations, takes a header over seven chairs set in a row, and has not broke his neck nary time.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Jack Hallinan is in New York, and will cross the ocean to take in the Paris Exposition. Jackson is giving sparring exhibitions in the big Western cities.

Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), Mike Lucie and other good ones to-night at the Bella Union for the Kid's benefit.

Richard Hume has a Summer theatre at Detroit, Mich.

Burt Shenard is the middle man of the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels.

Glenn & Weston, musical kings, and Irwin T. Bush open at the Cremorne June 24th.

Phil J. Stressinger is organizing a musical and specialty company of first-class talent to make an extended tour through Northern California, Oregon, Washington Territory and Montana.

The Stanleys, Gallagher & Jenkins and Ada Devere arrived on the last steamer from Honolulu. They report that the trip to the Islands had sufficient variety in it to make it quite lively.

Standard Theatre, Portland, June 17: Durrell Bros., Dot Melville and Annie Ryner new.

Johnnie Cain and John P. Brace returned from Seattle Monday. They talk of doubling up as "Two of the Burnt Outs." They saved their wardrobes.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the Summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, produces her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," on Monday evening. This promises to be the society event of the week, as our local four hundred will be out in full force on Monday night at the Bush. Stage whispers speak most favorably of the piece.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner, H. Mainhall, and a good company.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO.

Seats now on sale.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Le Moyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller, Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffen, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. The company are perfectly at home in their characters and strive to make the most of them. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

"The Wife" has only this week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. F. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles," that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union, will be the repast at the Alcazar this week

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" will be found to be a fine amusement relish and be much sought after this week.

The comedy, which has been several years before the public, has the self-preserving qualities of being a lively and amusing one, and besides it has in Mr. Polk an admirable comedian, whose character assumptions are clearly outlined, versatile and graphic. Mr. Polk has able support in Mrs. Polk, a good actress and singer, and his very clever company.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company next week.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and is drawing well for its last week.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California next week.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous scenery of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Standard Theatre.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, forms this week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest, and ought to fill the Standard every night. It has been Mr. Thorne's standby in his starring seasons in the East. His Harry Glyndon, the brave coast guardsman, is a fine dramatic impersonation. He sustains the part in a manly, heroic way, and carries the sympathies of his audiences with him through all its vicissitudes.

Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, E. N. Thayer, F. D. Summerfield, John H. Armstrong, Geo. M. Hermance, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Kitty Belmour, Miss May Nannery and others.

Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. The theatre has been placed in complete order, inside and out.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season Saturday night with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case." Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday. The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Seats now on sale.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musically. Prof. Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Miss Lora Hollis will be the star in Darrell Vinton's play, The Man of Gold. The play is one of the mining camp and it is replete with romance and song. Darrell Vinton makes a good Tender Jim, and Jas. Carden plays Smokey as well as Mordaunt could have done it. Miss Lora Hollis is very acceptable as Fanny, beside being the handsomest leading lady Manager Morosco has ever had.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Millar Bros., the Susanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birtha Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akerman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Thursday evening, June 20th, a grand benefit is to be given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who will box four rounds with Mike Lucie Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan & Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers)

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, Congressional Servants, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Skirmishing, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Rosa Karten, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Fanny Karten, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

The Karten Sisters, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton and Bob McDonald make their first appearance this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....JUNE 21, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mrs. Langtry made a hit in her new play, "Esther Santraz," at McVicker's, week of June 10th.

The hot weather has had a demoralizing effect upon Boston theatres.

The funeral of the late John Gilbert, actor and gentleman, took place June 20th at Boston, from the Church of the Unity. Rev. Minot J. Savage conducted the services, which were very simple. A large number of relatives and friends were present. The body is laid at rest in beautiful Forrest Hill Cemetery.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—opens as a dramatic theatre Saturday night under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

The brightest thing around the Alcazar is Mark Thall's new $600 headlight. It looms up like the lighthouse on Alcatraz.

The Mission Parlor, No. 38, N. S. G. W., are selling a great many tickets for their benefit at the Alcazar on Monday night. Bill, "The Silent Partner."

Lawrence Barrett sailed for Germany on the 15th inst., to seek the medicinal waters of Carlsbad. Booth will spend his Summer vacation in Boston and Newport.

Lewis Morrison returns to New York after his engagement at the Bijou to complete his arrangements for next season's tour with "Faust." The painters are at work on the scenery, and the new dresses, which will be exceptionally costly and handsome, are also in process of construction. With all its appointments first-class, with the new batteries, motors, electric and calcine apparatus, and other items of outlay, the cost of the new production will run up to about $7,000, in spite of Mr. Morrison's good luck in getting his lumber and canvas at the Langtry sale at such a great bargain.

C. H. McConnell left New York on June 12th for Southern California, where he says he will in future remain and attend to his mining interests.

An indictment has been found by the Grand Jury charging the physicians who made an autopsy on the body of W. Irving Bishop with the violation of the Sanitary Code in holding the autopsy before receiving a permit.

Miss Louise Balfe, who is playing the part of Collie in Uncle Joe so successfully, has been specially engaged by Simmonds & Brown to play the leading emotional role in Hans, the Boatman, next season.

Mrs. Langtry will leave for England on August 7th.

Christian Jensen, scenic artist to his majesty Emperor William at the Imperial Court Theatre in Berlin has arrived in this country and has gone to Columbus, O., to paint the scenery for Kojanka. He has brought with him many novel and marvelous scenic and mechanical effects, which will be introduced in the new spectacle.

Emily Soldene's adaptation from the French, Jeanne Fortier, the Breadcarrier, in a prologue and five acts, was produced at Niblo's, New York, June 10th. There is a good deal of dramatic fire in the piece, and interest is sustained throughout; but as a melodrama it is a little too old-fashioned for this day. Mrs. D. P. Bowers was starred as Jeanne, and in the role of the wronged woman gave a fine performance. F. C. Bangs was the villain Gerard, and a vigorous, deep-dyed, unrelenting villain he was.

J. W. Pigott, a very capable actor, once a member of Wallack's Theatre, New York, produced his new four-act comedy, Which Wins? at Terry's London Theatre June 12, and made a very respectable hit. In the company were pretty Alice Lingard, Enid Leslie and George Dalziel, a brother of Editor Davison Dalziel of the New York Truth, all well-known in New York. Mr. Edward Michael, editor of the New York Amusement Gazette, was the manager. Which Wins? will be seen in New York, next season.

The latest advertising dodge comes from the city by the tail end of Lake Michigan, and reads as follows: "An angel wanted: A Young Handsome and Talented Actress already Eminent in her Profession widely known and extensively advertised requires financial assistance to complete arrangements for a Starring Tour with New and Brilliant Drama of her own. Sure fortune for reliable Man who can furnish $4000 address Dramatic 481 Wabash ave Chicago Ill" The "young, handsome and talented actress" does not say if she proposes "to pull" the leg of the "angel" or merely clip his wings.

For new company at the Bijou, run your [illegible] the rest of The Celebrated Case.

During the Fallon week at the Bush the usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted—for that week only.

W. B. Gross, Robert Mantell's business representative, is in town to herald his coming.

The Standard opened on Saturday, June 8th, at 8 o'clock P. M., and closed Wednesday at 11:05 P. M. The active season lasted just one week, five days, three hours and five minutes before collapsing, from lack of wind to inflate it longer. As usual, the actors of the company are the principal sufferers.

Robert Mantell opens at the California July 8th in "Monbars," his two years' success.

Joseph Murphy, now in town, opens at the New California July 24th.

Two society ladies and a young gentleman of this city will debut in The Celebrated Case at the Bijou Saturday night. The gentleman plays a light comedy role. Pick them out from the cast in an adjoining column.

Mr. M. W. Hanley, Harrigan's business manager, left New York for San Francisco June 18th. He will reach the coast on Monday, June 24th.

The Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels will play the S. F. Press Club a game of baseball next week, in costume, the proceeds to be given for the benefit of the club.

Mr. Morris Payser has received a letter from Dan McCullough, late treasurer of the Baldwin Theatre, stating that he goes out with Eugene Tompkins' "Mankind" Co. next season as manager and treasurer.

Mr. Barney Fagan, of Thatcher, Primrose & West, the author of "Wedding Belle," is also the inventor and introducer of the musical silver belle. He will introduce next week at the New California his latest silver bell composition, "Music and Its Charms."

George Caine and Jennie Darragh have signed with the Essie Tittel Co. in place of Ida Van Siclen, as was formerly announced. Mr. Caine goes as leading man. The company is engaged to open the season at the new Musee and Theatre, Portland, on July 1st.

The Dramatic News is the authority for the statement that John A. Stevens' trip to our coast has not been abandoned, but that Mr. Stevens, Miss Carrie Turner and another important player will come to California very shortly under the management of M. B. Leavitt. Mr. Sol Berliner will be interested in the venture. The company will consist of ten people, and they will produce a number of Mr. Stevens' successful plays at the Bush St. Theatre.

Jeffreys-Lewis telegraphed her arrival in New York on the 18th inst.

Stella Rees, Mr. Lewis Morrison's leading lady, was born in Indianapolis. She was leading lady for Edmund Collier for one season, and last Winter was a member of Joseph Jefferson's company.

"Ardriell," the new comic opera, is not a success.

Fred. W. Bert will give a production of Lost in Africa next season.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

George Wessells has been engaged in the East specially to play Gounod in Paul Kanvar. George will instill an added bitterness to the part.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

Burt Shepard is the middle man of the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels.

Manager John T. White, lately from the Madison Square Theatre, New York, the new manager of the Bijou Theatre on Market street, opens his season on Saturday night with Lewis Morrison, supported by a company made up of New York and local talent, in the sterling play of "A Celebrated Case." The full cast appears in the Bijou programme space in an adjoining column.

On Monday evening, June 24th, every theatre in town will be open and bidding for a portion of the public's patronage.

Another new comic opera is promised at the Tivoli in July.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

James O'Neil will stick to Monte Cristo for the rest of his life. It has made him a pile of money.

See cast of Miss Anita Fallon's new society play, adapted from the French, entitled The Coral Bracelet; or Irene's Vow, to be produced at the Bush, Monday night, in programme space on first page.

The fruit market man across the way says that the undertakers should be happy now, as the berry season is at its height.

Pixley has often asked, "Why don't our young men come to the front?" It is plain enough to be seen why they don't at The Twelve Temptations. The bald-headed men reserve the front seats ahead of them.

Again has a New England orator extoled "the Pilgrim Fathers who landed on Plymouth Rock for their exalted temperance." They could not have been otherwise—they found all rocks and no rye.

Gay Young Fellow—"I owe a frightful lot of money. I don't see how I can ever pay." "Why don't you do as Baum does?" "How's that?" "Why, get married."

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Rosie Brant, widow of Luke Brant, arrived in New York from England June 6th. She opened at Keith's Gaiety, Boston, Mass., June 10th.

Elliott's Jolly Voyagers open at the Orpheum July 15th. They return East from here. Their baseball club has thus far played without losing a game. The nine is made up as follows: Burton, catcher; Culhane, pitcher; Tom Elliott, first base; Jim Elliott, second base; Mat Elliott, third base; Wilson, shortstop; Pro, left field; Burke, centre field; Fritz right field. Polly Elliott has mastered the one wheel, and now all the Elliotts are one wheel riders.

Crystal Theatre, Philipsburg, Mon., June 10th: Georgie White, Louis Dupont, Annie McGregor, Wheeler the Wonder, May Dupont, Allen & Page, Wm. N. Gray (late of the 3 Kherns), Dowley & Sedley, musical wonders, and Nelson & White.

Manager Meyer presents eight new faces at the Wigwam Theatre next week: The three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, the pony sketch artists, and Zazelle & Mason, the gymnastic double somersaulters. The Wigwam is in the swim.

A few months ago Prof. Bushnell had a dog circus, the nucleus of a variety show; he also had a severe attack of managerial fever; so he engaged a company of variety people (all good) and they set off with merry hearts for Honolulu. But under his management the show business was bad, and he concluded he would take his cunning little doggies, sheared like lions, and return to our glorious climate and possibly Cort's circuit. By some oversight on his part he had the salaries of his company in his inside pocket and had lost the combination to the safe. A little matinee in the Honolulu Police Court followed, given by Messrs. Gallagher, Jenkins and Stanley, the ladies of the company assisting for their own benefit. The performers made a hit. They caught on with all their straight turns and they hold ample judgment and costs against the canine instructor. They had to give two performances, however, to get solid, so between times they made up a little family party, toured the Islands and made considerable more than expenses. They hold the paper, but at the second hearing they learned that the Prof. had gone to the island of Maui with his circus, and had taken passage for 'Frisco on a sailing vessel under the name of Clark Bursell, and the places that knew him shall know him no more, at least for the present.

One of the Caron Brothers, the gymnasts of The Twelve Temptations, takes a header over seven chairs set in a row, and has not broke his neck nary time.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Jack Hallinan is in New York, and will cross the ocean to take in the Paris Exposition. Jackson is giving sparring exhibitions in the big Western cities.

FRIDAY.....JUNE 21, 1889

Notice to Stage Managers.

We cannot make changes in Programmes after two (2) P. M. All changes handed in after that hour will have to lay over until next day.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Hewitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, produces her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," on Monday evening. This promises to be the society event of the week, as our local four hundred will be out in full force on Monday night at the Bush. Stage whispers speak most favorably of the piece.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner, H. Mainhall, and a good company.

The sale of seats is large.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO.

The Bush's usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted next week.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopened with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success was assured.

The company are perfectly at home in their characters and make the most of them. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

"The Wife" has its last performance Saturday night.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author. It achieved a big run both in London and New York. The comedy is in three acts and is a very amusing one. The company are well up in their parts having played them during its long run at the Lyceum.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. F. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles," has been the repeat at the Alcazar this week

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" has proven a fine amusement relish.

Mr. Polk's characterizations are clearly outlined, versatile and graphic. Mr. Polk has able support in Mrs. Polk, a good actress and singer, and his very clever company.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company next week.

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes Sunday night in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy [illegible] and is drawing well for its

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California next week.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous scenery of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season Saturday night with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case" Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday. The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Seats now on sale.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Reilly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musically. Prof. Weltzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weltzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Miss Lora Hollis has been the star in Darrell Vinton's play, The Man of Gold. The play is one of the mining camp and it is replete with romance and song. Darrell Vinton makes a good Tender Jim, and Jas. Carden plays Smokey as well as Mordaunt could have done it. Miss Lora Hollis is very acceptable as Fanny, beside being the handsomest leading lady Manager Morosco has ever had.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James), comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for next week.

Russell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Bursell the versatile, "the great," and always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, re-opens Saturday night as a dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, Frank Valerga, the Misses De Mar and others, and with characteristic energy starts in the field at once.

The opening bill is John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column. Manager Meyer will make a go of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, will have personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices will be retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Millar Bros., the Suanettes, the Steteon Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birtha Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akarman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The theatre overflowed last night at the benefit given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who boxed four rounds with Mike Lucie. Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan & Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers)

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....JUNE 22, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Twelve Temptations gives its last performances at the Grand Saturday afternoon and evening, June 29th. It shows in Los Angeles week of July 1st, Fresno 8 Stockton 9 Oakland 10 11, Sacramento 12 13, Portland week of July 15th.

Judge Marquam has commenced building a new theatre in Portland, Or. It will occupy the block north of the new hotel, and will be a first-class theatre. Col. J. M. Wood furnished the plans. The total capital invested in the block will be $360 000, and is to be completed by the holidays.

Several familiar names appear in Thatcher, Primrose & West's minstrel list: H. W. Brigham, the double-chested bass; T. P. Dixon, who is still attending to "Sally in Our Alley;" J. P. Whitmark, the boy with a baritone; John W. Meyers, the sweet-voiced Californian, and Barney Fagan, who makes the company toe the mark in a graceful drill.

The three Tittel Sisters—three very clever and talented native San Francisco girls—Charlotte, Essie and Minnie leave us on Monday for Portland. Essie and Minnie give their names to the company that opens the new Musee and Theatre in that city on July 1st. Miss Charlotte does not play in Portland, but goes from there via Northern Pacific to New York to take position as leading lady in support of E. H. Sothern, opening at the New York Lyceum Theatre.

Robert Mantell opens at the California July 8th in "Monbars," his two years' success.

The hot weather has had a demoralizing effect upon Boston theatres.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

The brightest thing around the Alcazar is Mark Thall's new $600 headlight. It looms up like the lighthouse on Alcatraz.

The Mission Parlor, No. 38, N. S. G. W., are selling a great many tickets for their benefit at the Alcazar on Monday night. Bill, "The Silent Partner."

Lawrence Barrett sailed for Germany on the 15th inst., to seek the medicinal waters of Carlsbad. Booth will spend his Summer vacation in Boston and Newport.

Mrs. Langtry will leave for England on August 7th.

Victoria Vokes will sail for this country in August, and will open her season at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16th. She will appear in a new three-act comedy, adopted from the French by William Yardley.

The Jew's Eye is the strange title of a three-act play produced in London June 4.

W. W. Randall is now booking the tour for season '90-'91 of J. K. Emmet, Minnie Palmer, Still Alarm, and Clara Morris. Booking for season after next has commenced earlier than usual in New York.

Mr. Sol Berliner, the rich young man who has so far spent $8 000 on A Noble Son, is one of the most conspicuous managers on Broadway. On Wednesday morning he appeared on the new Rialto in a straw hat with light blue silk band, a mauve colored silk shirt with a thousand dollar diamond stud, yellow, blue and red checkered trousers and coat, light russet shoes and a scarlet ribbon two inches wide and four inches long, dangling in the humid breeze from his coat lapel. On the ribbon was five large A's in gilt letters. Watch chain and several thousand dollars worth of rings, diamond lockets, eye-glasses, and a light red scarf around his middle, made him a sight for even Broadway.

Cora Tinnie, a very pretty actress, last year a member of E. E. Rice's Corsair company, has sailed suddenly for England, and threatened never, never, to return.

Maurice Barrymore will star next season in a new play.

E. G. Gilmore and Eugene Tompkins paid off a $120,000 mortgage on the Academy of Music last week, and that sum was only a part of their share of the profits of The Old Homestead.

"Frederick Warde's new play, The Mountebank, will have it's first American production at the Grand Opera House, in New York, October 14." Mr. Warde played The Mountebank during his engagement at the Baldwin Theatre, has he two plays of the same title?

C. A. Gardner, with a company of twenty people, started for the Golden Gate June 3, over the Northern Pacific, for a coast tour of seventeen weeks, under the [illegible] & R. El is. They open

Jas. M. Ward and Carrie Clark Ward are making another trip through the Eureka district; this time with a varied parlor entertainment.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—opens as a dramatic theatre this evening under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Lewis Morrison returns to New York after his engagement at the Bijou to complete his arrangements for next season's tour with "Faust" with a $7,000 outfit.

Two society ladies and a young gentleman of this city will debut in The Celebrated Case at the Bijou this evening. The gentleman plays a light comedy role. Pick them out from the cast in an adjoining column.

During the Fallen week at the Bush the usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted—for that week only.

W. B. Gross, Robert Mantell's business representative, is in town to herald his coming.

The Standard opened on Saturday, June 8th, at 8 o'clock P.M., and closed Wednesday at 11:05 P. M. The active season lasted just one week, five days, three hours and five minutes before collapsing, from lack of wind to inflate it longer. As usual, the actors of the company are the principal sufferers.

Joseph Murphy, now in town, opens at the New California July 24 h.

Mr. M. W. Hanley, Harrigan's business manager, left New York for San Francisco June 18th. He will reach the coast on Monday, June 24th.

The Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels will play the S. F. Press Club a game of baseball next week, in costume, the proceeds to be given for the benefit of the club.

Mr. Barney Fagan, of Thatcher, Primrose & West, the author of "Wedding Bells," is also the inventor and introducer of the musical silver bells. He will introduce next week at the New California his latest silver bell composition, "Music and Its Charms."

Jeffreys-Lewis telegraphed her arrival in New York on the 18th inst.

Stella Rees, Mr. Lewis Morrison's leading lady, was born in Indianapolis. She was leading lady for Edmund Collier for one season, and last Winter was a member of Joseph Jefferson's company.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

Manager John T. White, lately from the Madison Square Theatre, New York, the new manager of the Bijou Theatre on Market st., opens his season this, Saturday night with Lewis Morrison, supported by a company made up of New York and local talent, in the sterling play of "A Celebrated Case." The full cast appears in the Bijou programme space in an adjoining column.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

See cast of Miss Anita Fallon's new society play, adapted from the French, entitled The Coral Bracelet; or Irene's Vow, to be produced at the Bush, Monday night, in programme space on first page.

The fruit market man across the way says that the undertakers should be happy now, as the berry season is at its height.

Pixley has often asked, "Why don't our young men come to the front?" It is plain enough to be seen why they don't at The Twelve Temptations. The bald-headed men reserve the front seats ahead of them.

Gay Young Fellow—"I owe a frightful lot of money. I don't see how I can ever pay." "Why don't you do as Baum did, borrow enough to settle with your creditors, then borrow more off them and skip."

Miss Gusher—I have just heard from our mutual friend, Miss Joribanks. She has married the Duke de Bellcorde. Miss Crusher — Fortunate girl! Did they take a wedding tour? Miss Gusher—The duke's employers could not spare him. He drives a horse-car on Kearny Street.

Foreigner—Who is that solitary individual whom nobody notices? American — He's an ex-President of the United States.

Little Jimmy visits his father's office and after examining the type-writing machine, observes to his mother: "Say marmer, what do they take those to the theatre for?" "My boy," replies his mother, "they do not take them to the theatre." "Well, it's mighty funny then. Pa was tellin' Mr. Nofles that he took his type-writer to the thea——" "James," said his father sternly, "I will see you in the stable this evening."

"John, Mr. Jackson has bought a phonograph." "Is that so?" "Yes. You ought to see it. It repeats everything that's told to it." "I don't see how Edison got a patent on it." "Why not?" "Because it's no improvement on you women."

ELEVEN P. M.

Drop the curtain; put out the light;
The play is ended, and, wrong or right,
The players weary, with minds unstrung,
Enter the bar room one by one.

What's the difference, do you care
That saw them under the footlights' glare?
Do you question if they are ill or well,
As long as no "chestnuts" to you they tell?

"What are their troubles to you?" you say;
"At the end of the week they'll get their pay."
Yes, they'll get it; they are only hired,
To keep the world from getting tired.

They, poor devils, with aching hearts,
Must hide their sorrows and play their parts;
In one short night, from eight to eleven,
Many an actor has earned a Heaven.

So don't begrudge them a glass of beer,
(The Bohemian is sure to crop out here);
Their troubles are over. "Walter!" I cry,
"Eins! Hello, Monty! Hans, make that zwei!"
—[New York Clipper.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Elliott's Jolly Voyagers open at the Orpheum July 15th. They return East from here. Their baseball club has thus far played without losing a game. The nine is made up as follows: Burton, catcher; Culhane, pitcher; Tom Elliott, first base; Jim Elliott, second base; Mat Elliott, third base; Wilson, shortstop; Pro, left field; Burke, centre field; Fritz right field. Polly Elliott has mastered the one wheel, and now all the Elliotts are one wheel riders.

Burt Shenard is the middle man of the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels.

Crystal Theatre, Phillipsburg, Mont., June 10th: Georgie White, Louie Dupont, Annie McGregor, Wheeler the Wonder, May Dupont, Allen & Page, Wm. N. Gray (late of the 3 Khems) Dowley & Sedley, musical wonders, and Nelson & White.

Manager Meyer presents eight new faces at the Wigwam Theatre next week: The three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, the pony sketch artists, and Zazelle & Mason, the gymnastic double somersaulters. The Wigwam is in the swim.

One of the Caron Brothers, the gymnasts of The Twelve Temptations, takes a header over seven chairs set in a row, and has not broke his neck nary time.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Jack Hallinan is in New York, and will cross the ocean to take in the Paris Exposition. Jackson is giving sparring exhibitions in the big Western cities.

Glenn & Weston, musical kings, and Irwin T. Bush open at the Cremorne June 24th.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....JUNE 22, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, produces her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," on Monday evening. This promises to be the society event of the week, as our local four hundred will be out in full force on Monday night at the Bush. Stage whispers speak most favorably of the piece.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner, H. Mainhall, and a good company.

The sale of seats is large.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO

The Bush's usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted next week.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopened with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success was assured.

The company are perfectly at home in their characters and make the most of them. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

"The Wife" has its last performance Saturday night.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author. It achieved a big run both in London and New York. The comedy is in three acts and is a very amusing one. The company are well up in their parts having played them during its long run at the Lyceum.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. B. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles, has been the repast at the Alcazar this week

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" has proven a fine amusement relish.

Mr. Polk's characterizations are clearly outlined, versatile and graphic. Mr. Polk has able support in Mrs. Polk, a good actress and singer, and his very clever company.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company next week.

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes Sunday night in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and is drawing well for its last week.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California next week.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous beauty of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season this evening with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case" Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian). The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, musical groteseques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musically. Prof. Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 100 feet in height and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

Next week the bill will remain the same with one exception, Sun Shu Shane, a juggler from Tonkin, fills in the place left vacant by Signorina Alma.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Miss Lora Hollis has been the star in Darrell Vinton's play, The Man of Gold. The play is one of the mining camp and it is replete with romance and song. Darrell Vinton makes a good Tender Jim, and Jas. Carden plays Smokey as well as Mordaunt could have done it. Miss Lora Hollis is very acceptable as Fanny, beside being the handsomest leading lady Manager Morosco has ever had.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James), comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for next week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, re-opens Saturday night as a dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, Frank Valerga, the Misses De Mar and others, and with characteristic energy starts in the field at once.

The opening bill is John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column. Manager Meyer will make a go of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, will have personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices will be retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Millar Bros., the Suanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akarman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood and Lambert & Bostrum make their first appearances next week. Cain & Akarman's comedy, "My Nephew," with all the company in the cast, will be given every evening.

Tuesday evening, June 25th, there will be a grand glove contest between Tommy Ward and Paddy Gorman with a host of volunteers.

Hallinan & Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers)

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Next week the new faces will be Glenn & Weston, musical artists, Irwin T. Bush, Rose Lonsdale and Bertha Waring, Dunkirk's Dream will be the comedy for the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

The comical farce-comedy, Congressional Servants, is the intermude act.

The laughable farce, Skirmishing, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Rosa Karten, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Fanny Karten, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Monday evening, July 1st, will be the second anniversary of the opening of the Orpheum, when a grand extra performance will be given.

Samuel W. Keene, at one time a member of the Alcazar Company, but of late stage manager of the "Natural Gas" Co., died at his home in Washington June 3d. Mr. Keene was also an amateur portrait painter of considerable merit, and at one time a journalist.

The Eastern papers state that Walt. Whitman says the greatest pleasure of his old age has been in perusing the novels of Charles Dickens. Dickens, as a novelist, begins to take the same rank that Shakespeare does as a poet and dramatist.

Next season Robert Downing will produce "Count Claudio," an entirely new play. He will be supported by Miss Eugenie Blair and a strong company.

The Twelve Temptations gives its last performances at the Grand Saturday afternoon and evening, June 29th. It shows in Los Angeles week of July 1st, Fresno 8, Stockton 9 Oakland 10-11, Sacramento 12-13, Portland week of July 15th.

Judge Marquam has commenced building a new theatre in Portland, Or. It will occupy the block north of the new hotel, and will be a first-class theatre. Col. J. M. Wood furnished the plans. The total capital invested in the block will be $360 000, and it is to be completed by the holidays.

Several familiar names appear in Thatcher, Primrose & West's minstrel list: H. W. Frillman, the double-chested basso; T. P. Dixon, who is still attending to "Sally in Our Alley;" J. P. Whitmark, the boy with a baritone; John W. Meyers, the sweet-voiced Californian, and Barney Fagan, who makes the company toe the mark in a graceful drill.

One of the plays in which William H. Crane will star next season is written by David D. Lloyd, who used to be the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. The leading comedy part, Crane's part, is to a great extent a reproduction of a well-known figure in political circles in Washington, but for obvious reasons the name of the original is with-held. He is an enthusiastic fellow, emphatic in his manner, and something of the color of Washington Phipps in the Banker's Daughter.

Miss Marie Wainwright is being entertained in London very extensively by the leading theatrical people there. Wilson Barrett has given a reception in her honor, and Henry Irving has also entertained her. Miss Wainwright writes to Mr. James, her husband, that she has had two offers to produce Twelfth Night in London in 1890, and will probably accept one of them.

Victoria Vokes will sail for this country in August, and will open her season at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16th. She will appear in a new three-act comedy, adopted from the French by William Yardley.

The Jew's Eye is the strange title of a three-act play produced in London June 4.

W. W. Randall is now booking the tour for season '90-'91 of J. K. Emmet, Minnie Palmer, Still Alarm, and Clara Morris. Booking for season after next has commenced earlier than usual in New York.

Mr. Sol Berliner, the rich young man who has so far spent $8 000 on A Noble Son, is one of the most conspicuous manegers on Broadway. On Wednesday morning he appeared on the new Rialto in a straw hat with light blue silk band, a mauve colored silk shirt with a thousand dollar diamond stud, yellow, blue and red checkered trousers and coat, light russet shoes and a scarlet ribbon two inches wide and four inches long, dangling in the humid breeze from his coat lapel. On the ribbon was five large A's in gilt letters. Watch chain and several thousand dollars worth of rings, diamond lockets, eye-glasses, and a light red scarf around his middle, made him a sight for even Broadway.

Maurice Berrymore will star next season in a new play.

'Frederick Warde's new play, The Mountebank, will have it's first American production at the Grand Opera House, in New York, October 14." Mr. Warde played The Mountebank during his engagement at the Baldwin Theatre, has he two plays of the same title?

C. A. Gardner, with a company of twenty people, started for the Golden Gate June 3, over the Northern Pacific, for a coast tour of seventeen weeks, under the management of Sidney R. Ellis. They open

The dramatic season opens well at the Vienna. "They turned them away" Sunday night.

Ed. Harrigan, Mart. Hanley, his business manager, and the Harrigan contingent from New York arrived on Sunday night, all in good trim.

Geo. P. Wall, advance representative of Duncan B. Harrison and his "Paymaster" Company, next week's attraction at the Bush, is in town.

"The Adams & Cook Co. advertised to give the total proceeds of their regular matinee performance in Bangor, Me., June 8th, for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers. The people of that far-off burgh upheld their reputation for generosity, and the box-office statement would have shown a sum total of $18 65. The money was refunded. It is very probable that the Bangorites looked upon the flood reports as nothing but a hoax." What was the matter with the company?

Jas. M. Ward and Carrie Clark Ward are making another trip through the Eureka district; this time with a varied parlor entertainment.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Lewis Morrison returns to New York after his engagement at the Bijou to complete his arrangements for next season's tour with "Faust" with a $7 000 outfit.

During the Fallon week at the Bush the usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted—for this week only.

W. B. Gross, Robert Mantell's business representative, is in town to herald his coming.

Joseph Murphy, now in town, opens at the New California July 24th.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

The three Tittel Sisters—three very clever and talented native San Francisco girls—Charlotte, Essie and Minnie, leave us on Monday for Portland. Essie and Minnie give their names to the company that opens the new Musee and Theatre in that city on July 1st. Miss Charlotte does not play in Portland, but goes from there via. Northern Pacific to New York to take position as leading lady in support of E. H. Sothern, opening at the New York Lyceum Theatre.

Robert Mantell opens at the California July 8th in "Monbars," his two years' success.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

Cora Tinnie, a very pretty actress, last year a member of E. E. Rice's Corsair company, has sailed suddenly for England, and threatened never, never, to return.

First Tragedian — Good Heavens! me trusty friend, Buskin, as I live! Second Tragedian — You're right, cully. First Tragedian — But, ye gods, how changed! Why do you wear that checker board suit, those yellow gloves, that red neckcloth with you brazen horseshoe on it, those alligator shoes? Second Tragedian—Well, dear old son, the fact is, I've quit the legit and gone in for de razzle dazzle biz, savy. I used ter to play Hamlet when you was doin' de banner act; but I quit it. First Tragedian — But, man, our noble art, the glories of Shakespeare—— Second Tragedian—Just what I used ter say to de landladies, but dey would'nt accept 'em for legal tender for hash and pie. Are you eatin' nowadays?

"Judge," said the prisoner on trial for murder, as he rose to his feet, pale as death, trembling in every limb, and holding in his hand a copy of a St. Louis paper, "do I look like the portrait printed of me in this newspaper?" "There is a slight resemblance, prisoner," replied the astonished Judge, "though of course ——" "Then there is no use of going any further with this trial, Judge," groaned the stricken man, sinking into his chair. "I'm guilty."

Little Jimmy visits his father's office and after examining the type-writing machine, observes to his mother: "Say marmer, what do they take those to the theatre for?" "My boy," replies his mother, "they do not take them to the theatre." "Well, it's mighty funny ther. Pa was tellin' Mr. Nellis that he took his type-writer to the thea——" "James," said his father sternly, "I will see you in the stable this evening."

Pixley has often asked, "Why don't our young men come to the front?" It is plain enough to be seen why they don't at The Twelve Temptations. The bald-headed men reserve the front seats ahead of them.

Fair Shopper (in great store) — There, this novel will do. Don't wrap it up. Clerk—Don't wrap it up? "No, indeed. I'll sit down here and read it to kill time while waiting for my change."

Some one says that a woman should never allow a man to propose marriage to her unless she is willing to become his wife. Some people would deprive the women in this world of all their fun.

ELEVEN P. M.

Drop the curtain; put out the light;
The play is ended, and, wrong or right,
The players weary, with minds unstrung,
Enter the bar room one by one.

What's the difference, do you care
That saw them under the footlights' glare?
Do you question if they are ill or well,
As long as no "chestnuts" to you they tell?

"What are their troubles to you?" you say;
"At the end of the week they'll get their pay."
Yes, they'll get it; they are only hired,
To keep the world from getting tired.

They, poor devils, with aching hearts,
Must hide their sorrows and play their parts;
In one short night, from eight to eleven,
Many an actor has earned a Heaven.

So don't begrudge them a glass of beer,
(The Bohemian is sure to crop out here);
Their troubles are over. "Waiter!" I cry,
"Einz! Hello, Monty! Hans, make that zwei!"
—[New York Clipper.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Elliott's Jolly Voyagers open at the Orpheum July 15th. They return East from here. Their baseball club has thus far played without losing a game. The nine is made up as follows: Burton, catcher; Culhane, pitcher; Tom Elliott, first base; Jim Elliott, second base; Mat Elliott, third base; Wilson, shortstop; Pro, left field; Burke, centre field; Fritz' right field. 'Polly Elliott has mastered the one wheel, and now all the Elliotts are one wheel riders.

Burt Shepard is the middle man of the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels.

Manager Meyer presents eight new faces at the Wigwam Theatre this week: The three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, the pony sketch artists, and Zazelle & Mason, the gymnastic double somersaulters. The Wigwam is in the swim.

The Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels will play the S. F. Press Club a game of baseball next week, in costume, the proceeds to be given for the benefit of the club.

One of the Caron Brothers, the gymnasts of The Twelve Temptations, takes a header over seven chairs set in a row, and has not broke his neck nary time.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Jack Hallinan is in New York, and will cross the ocean to take in the Paris Exposition. Jackson is giving sparring exhibitions in the big Western cities.

Glenn & Weston, musical kings, and Irwin T. Bush open at the Cremorne this week.

A Fine Excursion.

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad (Donohue Broad Gauge) give another excursion to Ukiah on Thursday, the 27th. The former excursion was much enjoyed. The scenery from Cloverdale to Ukiah is grand. Accommodations for all will be provided. The excursionists will leave the Tiburon wharf at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and leave

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....JUNE 24 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, appears in her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," here this week. This promises to be the society event of the week, as our local four hundred will be out in full force to-night at the Bush. Stage whispers speak most favorably of the piece.

The story tells of the witchery of love, that leveler of all distinctions; of a marriage for wealth, of sacrifice for others' benefit, of unjust suspicions, loss of riches, false accusations of crime, established innocence and—curtain.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner, H. Mainhall, and a good company.

The sale of seats is large.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO.

The Bush's usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted this week.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company are giving us a Summer season here.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author. It achieved a big run both in London and New York. The comedy is in three acts and is a very amusing one. The company are well up in their parts having played them during its long run at the Lyceum. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company this week.

It deals with the complications that ensue over the use of a phonograph and a myth by the name of Nemo—a figment of a young attorney, who uses the name as that of a supposititious partner. Backus, a young attorney, has tried to make a business connection with several old lawyers, and, failing in this, he puts up a sign—"Nemo & Backus"—and gets credit for Nemo, towards business generally, alleging that Nemo is absent on important business. At the time of the beginning of the idea of the play, matters are getting hot for Backus; bills are coming in, and many are the inquiries for Nemo. He has asked the hand of a young lady and is refused by her father, who has invested with Nemo. The first client appears for divorce, and claims to have been married to Nemo. Previously a college chum has appeared on the scene asking Backus for money, and takes some belonging to the father of Backus-girl. Then the various scenes follow, abounding in complications, and Backus is saved by his stenographer and his wife.

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

New California Theatre.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California this week.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous beauty of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, com[illegible] cent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

This is the last week of The Twelve Temptations.

Bijou Theatre.

Manager White, a well known Eastern manager, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season with a strong attraction in Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case."

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company consists of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytal (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian).

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. He sustains the centre figure of the the play, around whom the others revolve, with all his wonted power. That Mr. Russ Whytal is a capable and earnest actor is fully proven by the qualities of his Jean Renaud. Samuel Edwards makes his debut here as the impulsive O'Rourke, and plays the part well. Miss Stella Rees is willowy and graceful in form, and an intelligent and cultured actress that endows the character of unfortunate Adrienne with the magnetism of feeling. Florence Roberts has ripened with experience, and plays Valentine with quiet intensity and power. Fanny Young does a fine bit of acting in the last act.

The people in the cast act their parts, not merely promenade through them in a conversational manner as is too much the mode of the day with our Eastern companies.

The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the present combination at the Orpheum, which includes talent from Europe, the Eastern states and the Orient.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, European grotesques; the Oriental juggler, Sun Shu Shane; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musical. Prof. Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch: the Otiental necromancer is a great novelty, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 100 feet in height and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James), comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for this week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The costumes worn by Miss Anita Fallon in the play of "The Coral Bracelet" are marvels of taste and elegance.

Howard P. Taylor is going back East. It is whispered that the new play that Fred. Bert is to produce next season, "Lost in Africa," is a new adaptation of Taylor's of "The Red Pocket-Book." It is a good subject for spectacular effects and "Lost in Africa" is a taking title.

Miss Ada Chamberlain, the Snow Queen of "The Twelve Temptations," is a veritable naiad queen when in the water. She is the young lady who saved two young men from drowning at Manhattan Beach last Summer. Miss Chamberlain made two trips into the water at the risk of her own life, and rescued the last man just as he was going down the third time.

Robert Downing, the tragedian, will be here next season.

Joe Polk introduces an Edison graphophone of the latest construction very successfully in 'The Silent Partner," It belongs to the stage now, and no innocent heroine will be allowed to suffer after the fourth act under false accusation, and no villain be permitted to go unpunished while the tell-tale graphophyne can be made to set things to rights. It will become to the stage what the forged deed has been as a dramatic motor.

Billy Sweatnam has caught a winter's supply of trout for the family. He has them salted down—the trout, not the family. Any left over after Lent will be given to the deserving poor.

J. M. Hill never will learn wisdom. He has a new protege who will make her debut as Juliet next season.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

John Queen has signed for the "end" with the Cleveland-Haverly Minstrels for the coming season. Ed. Marble will be stage manager next season with the same troupe. He is at work on a new afterpiece, which is to have an elaborate production. It is a burlesque of one of the recent popular successes.

The International Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Association will give their first grand invitation ball at B'nai B'rith Hall, Thursday evening, June 27th. The association have issued a very neat card for the occasion.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

The Eastern papers state that Walt. Whitman says the greatest pleasure of his old age has been in reperusing the novels of Charles Dickens. Dickens, as a novelist, begins to take the same rank that Shakespeare does as a poet and dramatist.

Robert Mantell opens at the California July 8th in "Monbars," his two years' success.

The Twelve Temptations gives its last performances at the Grand Saturday afternoon and evening, June 29th. It shows in Los Angeles week of July 1st, Fresno 8, Stockton 9 Oakland 10 11, Sacramento 12-13, Portland week of July 15th.

Several familiar names appear in Thatcher, Primrose & West's minstrel list: H. W. Frillman, the double-chested basso; T. P. Dixon, who is still attending to "Sally in Our Alley;" J. P. Whitmark, the boy with a baritone; John W. Meyers, the sweet-voiced Californian, and Barney Fagan, who makes the company toe the mark in a graceful drill.

The Jew's Eye is the strange title of a three-act play produced in London June 4.

Maurice Barrymore will star next season in a new play.

C. A. Gardner, with a company of twenty people, started for the Golden Gate June 3, over the Northern Pacific, for a coast tour of seventeen weeks, under the management of Sidney R. Ellis. They open at the Bush on July 29th. The season, which opened in August last, will be of eighty weeks' duration.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

During the Fallon week at the Bush the usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted—for this week only.

MARY ANDERSON VERY ILL.

All Dates Have Been Cancelled Until October, 1890.

The following special dispatch appears in the Examiner:

LONDON, June 24.—Mary Anderson decided yesterday, after a conference with the doctors, that she will not be able to appear on the stage again until 1890.

Henry Abbey went to see her to-day and released her from her contract with him to appear in America next October.

The doctors said she must have at least a whole year's rest. Abbey agreed and cancelled the dates for America on condition that she would first appear under his management a year from next October.

It is an open secret that Miss Anderson is not so well as she was when she left New York.

She is stopping with friends at Hampstead under the daily care of the doctors. The World correspondent called there a week ago but was told that Miss Anderson rigidly denied all her visitors, even intimate friends.

Though a great social favorite here she has not accepted a single invitation this season, except to visit Tunbridge Wells last week, which it was hoped would improve her nervous condition.

She is not allowed to go out evenings. Last Saturday afternoon she went to her box at the Gaiety Theatre here with the express desire of seeing Coquelin, and friends who saw her there were much shocked at her pale and wan appearance. She seemed absent-minded, not recognizing friends who have known her since she has been in England.

Sometimes she is well for a day or two, when friends at Hampstead meet her driving about, apparently as well as ever she was; but the next day she shuts herself up in her room and refuses to see any one, even relatives, for a week or ten days at a time.

FIGARO submits that it is very evident Mary Anderson's continued prostration is of an alarming nature from the tenor of the above dispatch, and though the dispatch does not virtually say so, the inference is plainly given that it is mental prostration that is the cause of her ailment. It is a sad outlook for the talented young actress, for "Who can administer to a mind diseased."

Mr. W. H. Power, of Ivy Leaf fame, will manage Mr. Carroll Johnson for the coming five years. Mr. Johnson will make his first appearance in white face in "The Fairy's Well," Sept. 9th, at the Fourteenth St. Theatre, N. Y. He seems to possess the qualifications of an ideal Irish comedy actor, and his bent has long been in that direction. Under the direction of so skillful a manager as W. H. Power he should achieve a worthy triumph.

There is one thing in nature that Shakespeare did not seem to know—that nothing equals banana skins for slippers.

The dramatic season opens well at the Vienna. "They turned them away" Sunday night.

Ed. Harrigan, Mart. Hanley, his business manager, and the Harrigan contingent from New York arrived on Sunday night, all in good trim.

Geo. P. Wall, advance representative of Duncan B. Harrison and his "Paymaster" Company, next week's attraction at the Bush, is in town.

Jas. M. Ward and Carrie Clark Ward are making another trip through the Eureka district; this time with a varied parlor entertainment.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

The three Tittel Sisters—three very clever and talented native San Francisco girls — Charlotte, Essie and Minnie, left us on Monday for Portland. Essie and Minnie give their names to the company that opens the new Musee and Theatre in that city on July 1st. Miss Charlotte does not play in Portland, but goes from there via. Northern Pacific to New York to take position as leading lady in support of E. H. Sothern, opening at the New York Lyceum Theatre.

Next season Robert Downing will produce "Count Claudio," an entirely new play. He will be supported by Miss Eugenie Blair and a strong company.

Cora Tinnie, a very pretty actress, last year a member of E. E. Rice's Corsair company, has sailed suddenly for England, and threatened never, never, to return.

First Tragedian — Good Heavens! me trusty friend, Buskin, as I live! Second Tragedian — You're right, cully. First Tragedian — But, ye gods, how changed! Why do you wear that checker board suit, those yellow gloves, that red neckcloth with you brazen horseshoe on it, those alligator shoes? Second Tragedian—Well, dear old son, the fact is, I've quit the legit and gone in for de razzle dazzle biz, savy. I used ter to play Hamlet when you was doin' de banner act; but I quit it. First Tragedian — But, man, our noble art, the glories of Shakespeare—— Second Tragedian—Just what I used ter say to de landladies, but dey would'nt accept 'em for legal tender for hash and pie. Are you eatin' nowadays?

A Fine Excursion.

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad (Donohue Broad Gauge) give another excursion to Ukiah on Thursday, the 27th. The former excursion was much enjoyed. The scenery from Cloverdale to Ukiah is grand. Accommodations for all will be provided. The excursionists will leave the Tiburon wharf at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and leave Ukiah at 4 o'clock in the afternoon on the return trip Round trip tickets, $2.

One of the Caron Brothers, the gymnasts of The Twelve Temptations, takes a header over seven chairs set in a row, and has not broke his neck nary time.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....JUNE 25, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, appears in her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," at the Bush this week.

The play introduces to us titled personages of the Directoire period in France, and its story tells of the witchery of love, that leveler of all distinctions; of a marriage for wealth, of sacrifice for others' benefit, of unjust suspicions, loss of riches, false accusations of crime, established innocence and—curtain.

The Chronicle says "The Coral Bracelet" "is a strong and well constructed drama, possessing much of the merit of the best of the French school," and claims that Miss Fallon personated the part of Irene Mauclere, the heroine, with "a great deal of feeling and dramatic action;" though demurring to a tendency of overintensity in her acting—a result only of the excitement of a first-night's production. Subsequent performances will remedy that objection. Miss Fallon has sufficient power to hold herself in reserve and make her points strongly.

Mr. Neil Warner, as the old Notary, appears in a character part admirably. H. Mainhall plays the arduous role of Count Faverne in the usual finished and competent manner that he sustains society roles. Miss Meda Brown and Fanny Bowman render their parts very acceptably. W. C. Dudley makes a good Attorney-General, and C. A. Ferguson, Louis Belmour, Edgar Weir and the company generally give good support.

"The Coral Bracelet" is carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments, and elegantly costumed. The third, fourth and fifth acts embodied very strong scenes, and the double set in the two closing acts is a very beautiful one.

Recalls and beautiful floral presentations ruled the evening.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO

The Bush's usual Wednesday matinee will be omitted this week.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company are giving us a Summer season here.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author. It achieved a big run both in London and New York. The comedy is in three acts and is a very amusing one. The company are well up in their parts having played them during its long run at the Lyceum. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

Mr. LeMoyne, as Dick Phenyl, the old lawyer, who loves his bottle, gives us a fine exhibition of his ability as a character actor. Miss Dillon is just suited for the part of Sweet Lavender, and she plays the love scenes charmingly. Mr. Miller is also very good. The third act is very much the best of Miss Cayvan's performance. The piece taken altogether is very enjoyable.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company this week.

It deals with the complications that ensue over the use of a phonograph and a myth by the name of Nemo—a figment of a young attorney, who uses the name as that of a supposititious partner. Backus, a young attorney, has tried to make a business connection with several old lawyers, and, failing in this, he puts up a sign—"Nemo & Backus"—and gets credit for Nemo, towards business generally, alleging that Nemo is absent on important business. At the time of the beginning of the idea of the play, matters are getting hot for Backus; bills are coming in, and many are the inquiries for Nemo. He has asked the hand of a young lady and is refused by her father, who has invested with Nemo. The first client appears for divorce, and claims to have been married to Nemo. Previously a college chum has appeared on the scene asking Backus for money, and [illegible] belonging to the father of Backus in complications, and Backus is saved by his stenographer and his wits.

The comedy fits Mr. Polk and his company admirably. Miss Brandon and Ida Aubrey lose nothing by comparison.

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

New California Theatre.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California this week—and they are not as black as usual either, for they give their Shakespearean first part with white faces. The features of these minstrels are their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. They are, as Geo. Wood used to say, "somewhat different" minstrels.

The set scene of the first part, with its rich crimson, satin back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and their performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

The theatre was full and the performance was received with great favor.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous beauty of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

This is the last week of The Twelve Temptations.

Bijou Theatre.

Manager White, a well known Eastern manager, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season with a strong attraction in Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case."

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company consists of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytal (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian).

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. He sustains the centre figure of the the play, around whom the others revolve, with all his wonted power. That Mr. Russ Whytal is a capable and earnest actor is fully proven by the qualities of his Jean Renaud. Samuel Edwards makes his debut here as the impulsive O'Rourke, and plays the part well. Miss Stella Rees is willowy and graceful in form, and an intelligent and cultured actress that endows the character of unfortunate Adrienne with the magnetism of feeling. Florence Roberts has ripened with experience, and plays Valentine with quiet intensity and power. Fanny Young does a fine bit of acting in the last act.

The people in the cast act their parts, not merely promenade through them in a conversational manner as is too much the mode of the day with our Eastern companies.

The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the present combination at the Orpheum, which includes talent from Europe, the Eastern states and the Orient.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, European grotesques; the Oriental juggler, Sun Shu Shane; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musical. Prof. Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch: the Oriental necromancer is a great novelty, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 100 feet in height and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

The play is intensely melodramatic and calls for more than usual strong acting. The Jack Bunnage of Mr. James Carden is by far the best sustained character in the play. Conchita is displaying considerable talent as the soubrette of the company.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James) comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for this week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, re-opened Saturday night as a dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, Frank Valerga, the Misses De Mar and others, and with characteristic energy starts in the field at once.

The opening bill is John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column. Manager Meyer will make a go of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, will have personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices will be retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Tuesday evening, June 25th, there will be a grand glove contest between Tommy Ward and Paddy Gorman with a host of volunteers.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY..... JUNE 26, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

MANAGER M. B. LEAVITT'S TRANSCONTINENTAL THEATRES.

Manager Leavitt is generally successful in what he undertakes. He has experience, nerve, energy and money to back him, and is a close figurer. For many years past he has been working with his indefatigable tenacity to form a circuit of theatres between New York and San Francisco by getting control of theatres in some of the larger Western cities, and thus command the key to the entire circuit. His object, which originally seemed impossible of consummation, is well nigh a fixed fact.

Mr. Leavitt now holds the lease of the New Windsor Theatre, Chicago, for five years. The New Windsor, now building, will be one of the handsomest theatres in that city. Only first-class attractions will be played, and the house will open Sept. 1st with the finest opera company in the country. He has also leased the Broadway Theatre, Denver, for ten years; another magnificent theatre. It is now being built at a cost of $250 000. Col. J. M. Wood, of this city, is its architect and he has declared that it will be the handsomest theatre in America.

Manager Leavitt is at present negotiating for a theatre in a Western city, on the highway to California, which will add another link in the chain which is to reach from New York to his New Bush Street Theatre in this city. At the present time he can play combinations from ten to fifteen weeks, over the best theatrical circuit in America, and will soon be able to increase the time to twenty, playing them in his own houses in Chicago, Denver and San Francisco. After playing at the Bush St Theatre all his attractions will play the Pacific Coast cities.

Among the attractions already booked for the circuit are the American Opera Company for sixteen weeks, Aronson's Casino Company for the same period and Maggie Mitchell. He is also negotiating with Robert Fraser and William Gill for a pantomime burlesque and extravaganza, called "The Spider and the Fly," which, if he procures, he will put on the road next season.

After a year of constant and wearing work, Mr. Leavitt has decided to take a sea voyage on the City of Paris, sailing from New York July 10th. He will return by the same steamer August 1st. This trip is taken for purposes of rest and recreation by the advice of his physician.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

John Cort is in the field against Seattle. He opened the New Standard Pavilion, June 24th, with the following company: Leopold & Portune, Carrie Monroe, the Holdsworths, the Coyne Bros., the Gottlobs, the Burtons and John Baker.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 24th: Gus Hill's World of Novelties, introducing a stupendous series of startling novelties.

Manager Meyer presents eight new faces at the Wigwam Theatre this week: The three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, the pony sketch artists, and Zazelle & Mason, the gymnastic double somersaulters. The Wigwam is in the swim.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

A Fine Excursion.

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad (Donohue Broad Gauge) gave another excursion to Ukiah on Tuesday, from Tiburon and way stations only. Notwithstanding there were 2 300 excursionists landed at Ukiah, there was no lack of accommodations. All had plenty to eat, and were returned on time, well pleased. The second San Francisco excursion to Ukiah comes off on the 27th, going through without stops. The experienced management of Col. W. H. Menton has made these trips very popular. Accommodations for all will be provided. The excursionists will leave the Tiburon [illegible] o'clock in the morning and

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mr. Archie Gunter, author of "Mr. Barnes of New York" and "Two Nights in Rome," is on his way to San Francisco.

Miss Minnie Ewan, the descendent of an old Virginia family, made her debut as Gilda in "Rigoletto," at London, June 26th, with very gratifying results. Miss Ewan has devoted the past three years to the study of music. The sweetness and purity of her voice entitles her to an equal standing with other American prima donnas.

Mr. Jos. R. Grismer writes from New York that he is now fully equipped in the way of printing for the next season, and that he has also secured several new plays, which he will produce in this city.

Willard Spenser with his "Little Tycoon" Company, contemplates making a second visit to this coast next Spring.

An English journal attributes the death of Carl Rosa to his eating seventy-two oysters on Good Friday night. By the shade of Lucullus, he must have been an oyster fiend.

Some of the London papers assert that Richard Mansfield's London engagement has not been a financial success after all. They say his "Richard" speculation "ate up a pot of money."

Henry Lyons, a well known stage hand and scene painter, was killed at Central Park, Tuesday afternoon, by a heavy piece of scenery preparing for the Pompeii exhibition falling on him and breaking his neck. The deceased leaves a widow and three children, and his death has saddened the hearts of many who knew him as a worthy, industrious man.

FIGARO submits that it is very evident Mary Anderson's continued prostration is of an alarming nature from the tenor of a late dispatch, and though the dispatch does not virtually say so, the inference is plainly given that it is mental prostration that is the cause of her ailment. It is a sad outlook for the talented young actress, for "Who can administer to a mind diseased."

Mr. W. H. Power, of Ivy Leaf fame, will manage Mr. Carroll Johnson for the coming five years. Mr. Johnson will make his first appearance in white face in "The Fairy's Well," Sept. 9th, at the Fourteenth St. Theatre, N. Y., as an Irish comedy actor.

There is one thing in nature that Shakespeare did not seem to know—that nothing equals banana skins for slippers.

Geo. P. Wall, advance representative of Duncan B. Harrison and his "Paymaster" Company, next week's attraction at the Bush, is in town.

The costumes worn by Miss Anita Fallon in the play of "The Coral Bracelet" are marvels of taste and elegance.

Howard P. Taylor is going back East. It is whispered that the new play that Fred. Bert is to produce next season, "Lost in Africa," is a new adaptation of Taylor's of "The Red Pocket-Book." It is a good subject for spectacular effects and "Lost in Africa" is a taking title.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

Robert Downing, the tragedian, will be here next season.

Billy Sweatnam has caught a winter's supply of trout for the family. He has them salted down—the trout, not the family. Any left over after Lent will be given to the deserving poor.

J. M. Hill never will learn wisdom. He has a new protege who will make her debut as Juliet next season.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

Robert Mantell opens at the California July 8th in "Monbars," his two years' success.

The Twelve Temptations gives its last performances at the Grand Saturday afternoon and evening, June 29th. It shows in Los Angeles week of July 1st, Fresno 8, Stockton 9 Oakland 10-11, Sacramento 12-13, Portland week of July 15th.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

William Terris, the English actor, who will begin his American season with Miss Millward at Niblo's, New York, on October 7th, is a rolling stone. He began life in the royal navy, became a banker's clerk, went into the wine trade and then became a practical engineer. After an experience on an Indian tea plantation he reached the stage at the age of 20, making his first appearance in 1870 at a provincial theatre at 18 shillings a week. His next move was to Kentucky, where he engaged with Percy Tattersall in the horse-breeding business, the net result of which was a return home in the steerage of a ship. After a short interval on the stage at Drury Lane, he took to sheep farming on the Falkland Islands. This soon gave out, and so he returned home and to the stage once more.

Hope Glenn, an American contralto singer, who is very popular in London, was married recently in that city to Richard Hurd of Boston. Many fashionable people were present and Sir Arthur Sullivan gave the bride away.

The receipts of the first five nights of Esclarmonde at the Opera Comique, Paris, with Sybil Sanderson in the leading role, reached 25,000 francs.

Henry Irving will open his next London season with The Dead Heart, an old melodrama by Watts Phillips.

Kit, the Arkansas Traveler, is to be done in England, Edwin Cleary having secured the rights from Henry T. Chanfrau.

Joe Polk introduces an Edison graphophone of the latest construction very successfully in 'The Silent Partner." It belongs to the stage now, and no innocent heroine will be allowed to suffer after the fourth act under false accusation, and no villain be permitted to go unpunished while the tell-tale graphophone can be made to set things to rights. It will become to the stage what the forged deed has been as a dramatic motor.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pate."

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Miss Kitty Rivers; then follow Millie Mayfield, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Miss Kitty Rivers makes her first appearance in her repertoire of songs, and Dick Griffin—he of the nimble heels—also makes his initial bow.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

The comical farce-comedy, Who's the Boss, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Travelers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Mabel Adair, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

Misses Mabel Adair and Bessie Carlton are the new faces this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 30th, grand picnic of the Sharp shooters of the Alps Mutual Aid Society at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M, and returning at 7 30 P M. Tickets, for the round trip 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursion, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 26, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, appears in her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," at the Bush this week.

The play introduces to us titled personages of the Directoire period in France, and its story tells of the witchery of love, that leveler of all distinctions; of a marriage for wealth, of sacrifice for others' benefit, of unjust suspicions, loss of riches, false accusations of crime, established innocence and—curtain.

The Chronicle says: "'The Coral Bracelet' is a strong and well constructed drama, possessing much of the merit of the best of the French school," and claims that Miss Fallon personated the part of Irene Mauclerc, the heroine, with "a great deal of feeling and dramatic action;" though demurring to a tendency of overintensity in her acting—a result only of the excitement of a first-night's production. Subsequent performances have remedied that objection.

Mr. Neil Warner, the Old Notary, appears in a character part admirably acted. H. Meinhall plays the arduous role of Count Faverne in the usual finished and competent manner that he sustains society roles, and the company generally give good support.

"The Coral Bracelet" is carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments, and elegantly costumed.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO. —o—

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurates the regular season at the Bush Monday night with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18.h said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with such an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Insia-vogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night "The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects will be presented at the Bush.

Baldwin Theatre.

Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company are giving us a Summer season here.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author. It achieved a big run both in London and New York. The comedy is in three acts and is a very amusing one. The company are well up in their parts, having played them during its long run at the Lyceum. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

Mr. LeMoyne, as Dick Phenyl, the old lawyer, who loves his bottle, gives us a fine exhibition of his ability as a character actor. Miss Dillon is just suited for the part of Sweet Lavender and she plays the love scenes charmingly. Mr. Miller is also very good. The third act is very much the best of Miss Cayvan's performance. The piece taken altogether is very enjoyable. Large houses rule.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining columns.

Next week, "The Marquise," by consent of Victorien Sardou

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, has its first performance by Mr. Polk and company this week.

Its story is: Backus, a young attorney, has tried to make a business connection with several old lawyers, and, failing in this, he puts up a sign—"Nemo & Backus"—and gives credit for Nemo, towards business generally, alleging that Nemo is absent on important matters. But matters are getting hot for Backus; bills are coming in, and many are the inquiries for Nemo. Various funny scenes follow, abounding in complications, and Backus is saved by his stenographer and his wife.

The comedy fits Mr. Polk and his company admirably. Miss Brandon and Ida Aubrey lose nothing by comparison.

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

New California Theatre.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California this week—and they are not as black as usual either, for they give their Shakespearean first part with white faces. The features of these minstrels are their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. They are, as Geo. Wood used to say, "somewhat different" minstrels.

The set scene of the first part, with its rich crimson, satin back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and their performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

The performances are received with great favor.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," closes its season here Saturday night. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous beauty of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Bijou Theatre.

Manager White, a well known Eastern manager, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season with a strong attraction in Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case."

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. He sustains the centre figure of the the play, around whom the others revolve, with all his wonted power, and the support is unusually good.

The people in the cast act their parts, not merely promenade through them in a conversational manner as is too much the mode of the day with our Eastern companies.

The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Mr. Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a New York Madison Square Theatre success, its first production in this city, at the Bijou on Monday.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the present combination at the Orpheum, which includes talent from Europe, the Eastern states and the Orient.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, European grotesques; the Oriental juggler, Sun Shu Shane; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 100 feet in height and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

Next week the attraction will be Dr. Klug and company, direct from Europe.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

The play is intensely melodramatic and calls for more than usual strong acting. The Jack Bunnage of Mr. James Carden is by far the best sustained character in the play. Conchita is displaying considerable talent as the soubrette of the company.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be next week's bill.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James) comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for this week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Burnell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, re-opened Saturday night as a dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, Frank Valerga, the Misses De Mar and others, and with characteristic energy starts in the field at once.

The opening bill is John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column. Manager Meyer will make a go of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, will have personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices will be retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood and Lambert & Rostrum make their first appearances this week. Cain & Akarman's comedy, "My Nephew," with all the company in the cast, will be given every evening.

Miss Flora Hastings, the Snanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Birth Weston and Helen Conklin remain on the bill.

This old established house keeps up its lick in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

UP TO UKIAH.

Ten cars, comfortably filled with the better class of excursion people, made the trip over the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad (Donohue Broad Gauge) to Ukiah on Thursday, arriving at Ukiah at 12.40 and returning here at 8.40. The new section of the road from Cloverdale North never leaves the left bank of the Russian River in its passage through the mountains until it strikes the lower end of Ukiah Valley, some twenty miles, or more, above Cloverdale. This portion of the trip is charmingly picturesque, with its great mountain ranges on both sides of the river that has cut its winding way through their granite walls.

The valley of Ukiah is egg shape, twelve miles long, encircled with mountains, rich in soil, and entirely healthy in climate. The town, dignified by city incorporation, is commercially a lively, active little place, with three newspapers and a growing future before it. It is situated near the centre of the valley. Awnings front its bustling business blocks and shade trees shelter its resident streets. Land within three quarters of a mile of the town is held at from $300 to $400 an acre, and outside in the valley $150 to $200, according to location. The railroad company paid $500 an acre for the orchard land just north of their depot, and an adjoining tract, without orchard, is held at $400.

But, to return to our excursion biz., we would advise all future excursionists to take a Ukiah dinner and leave their lunches at home. Meals were provided in abundance at all the hotels, and the ladies of the town served a fine family dinner under the oaks, at 50 cents a head, that proved one of the most enjoyable things of the excursion.

It had rained a little in the forenoon. Just enough to lay the dust, give the brightest green to great foliage walls covering the mountains on every side, and add to the air a freshness and a fragrance of growing verdure that made the gentle rain come like a blessing—though it was disguised in misty clouds.

These excursions combine health and pleasure, and are made instructive as well in opening a new field of picturesque California. All returned well pleased, and everything went like clockwork under Col. W. H. Menton's experienced management, without a hitch.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

George Thatcher's rented wig covering was the most expensive piece of thatching for its size ever done in this country.

Manager Meyer presents eight new faces at the Wigwam Theatre this week: The three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, the pony sketch artists, and Zizelle & Mason, the gymnastic double somersaulters. The Wigwam is in the swim.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Travers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Dr. Physick — Your blood appears to be a little out of order, madame. I will send you something which will purify it. Mrs. Murray Hill (indignantly) — Purify my blood, sir? Are you not aware that I am one of the Four Hundred?

Philadelphia Art Dealer — Live in New York, eh? New Yorker (proudly) — I am an Alderman in that city, sir. "O! James show the gentleman our new stock of bar-room pictures."

The James M. Donohue makes another sail-around-the-bay excursion on Sunday, leaving Tiburon ferry at 11.30 and returning at 4 o'clock. Col. Menton, manager.

Mrs. Shaw is said to have made $15 000 by her whistling last season. Thousands of women who want $15 have to "whistle for it"—and then they don't get it.

A hint at 11:20 P. M.: He — Why that menacing motion with the fan, Miss Sweetlips? You made me start. She — Fear is just what I wanted to do.

The young King of Spain's nurses probably have little trouble in keeping him clean [illegible]

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Manager Morosco has a grievance against the papers in accepting the charge made by parties who have commenced suit against him for the production of a play called "The Man of Gold," and stating that he copied the parts from the play of "Good as Gold" when in his possession, without making enquiries of him for the other side of the story. The truth of the matter is that he has a Wells, Fargo & Co. receipt for the money paid to a Chicago firm in February last for a type-writer reprint of the play he produced. He did not know that the plays were identical. If he had the least thought that putting his play on would involve litigation in any shape he would never have produced it. Investigation proves that the right of the play, "Good as Gold," seems to be quite a common one. Grismer produced it for two seasons under the title of "The Winerford Lode," and Mr. Morosco has a bill from a variety theatre in a Western city where "Good as Gold," the veritable play in dispute, was the feature only two weeks ago.

Manager Leavitt has booked for the Pacific Coast circuit the American Opera Company for sixteen weeks, Aronson's Casino Company for the same period and Maggie Mitchell. He is also negotiating with Robert Fraser and William Gill for a pantomime burlesque and extravaganza, called "The Spider and the Fly," which, if he procures, he will put on the road next season. The American Opera Company will be the opening attraction for his New Windsor Theatre, Chicago, September 1st.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle will star next season in a new play which has been written for her by Mrs. Chas. Doremus, the author of "The Circus Rider." P. S. Maddox will be her business manager.

The Actors' Order of Friendship gave Lawrence Barrett a royal sendoff on the 8th inst. when he sailed for Europe. Eighty representative American actors were on the dock to wish the tragedian bon voyage.

George T. Melville, the well known clown, has been engaged for the spectacle of 'Kajanka," and at every performance will introduce his wonderful juggling act, which is similar to Paul Cinquevalli's specialty.

The late John Gilbert's estate is estimated at $200,000.

An English journal attributes the death of Carl Rosa to his eating seventy-two oysters on Good Friday night. By the shade of Lucullus, he must have been an oyster fiend.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

Some of the London papers assert that Richard Mansfield's London engagement has not been a financial success after all. They say his "Richard" speculation "ate up a pot of money."

The costumes worn by Miss Anita Fallon in the play of "The Coral Bracelet" are marvels of taste and elegance.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

The Twelve Temptations gives its last performances at the Grand Saturday. It shows in Los Angeles week of July 1st, Fresno 8, Stockton 9, Oakland 10-11, Sacramento 12-13, Portland week of July 15th.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Hope Glenr, an American contralto singer, who is very popular in London, was married recently in that city to Richard Hurd of Boston. Many fashionable people were present and Sir Arthur Sullivan gave the bride away.

The receipts of the first five nights of Esclarmonde at the Opera Comique, Paris, with Sybil Sanderson in the leading role, reached 25,000 francs.

Henry Irving will open his next London season with The Dead Heart, an old melodrama by Watts Phillips.

Kit, the Arkansas Traveler, is to be done in England, Edwin Cleary having secured the rights from Henry T. Chanfrau.

Dubuque, Ia., will have a first-class new opera house next season.

Philadelphia will have eighteen theatres next season.

Gertie Granville has been on a visit to her husband, Tony Hart. She says that he is in perfect health physically, and constantly improving mentally.

Mrs. Mary Holmes is lying very ill with acute rheumatism at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Hands Across the Sea will be produced in Philadelphia and Boston simultaneously, September 2d.

Mr. Abbey, it is now definitely stated, will bring over little Otto Hegner next season to play in about the same number of concerts as little Josef Hoffman — about fifty or sixty—and to stay here from November until May. He will get something like $500 for each concert, and will be accompanied by his father.

James Owen O'Connor contemplates coming to San Francisco next season with a company of his own. Ye Gods!

C. W. Couldock, Dan. Leeson and Mrs. W. G. Jones have been engaged by Klaw and Erlanger for The Great Metropolis.

For Hands Across the Sea, Manager Gustave Kahn has already secured Gus Levick, young Roland Buckstone and W. J. Ferguson.

Sidney Drew, son of Mrs. John Drew, will be married to Gladys Rankin, the elo-

A New York exchange says: "One of the novelties in the production of Howard P. Taylor's spectacular melodrama, Lost in Africa, will be a real live camel and an Orangoutang." We accept the genuiness of the camel on the editor's statement, but who is going to make up for the Orangoutang?

Alex. Comstock has made a great deal of money out of the automatic opera glass boxes, which are now in use in nearly every first-class theatre in the country.

Kate Claxton has purchased the rights to Captain Swift from Manager A. M. Palmer, and will send it on the road next season with Arthur Forrest in the title part.

Patti Rosa will make a tour of this country next season appearing in Tom Craven's Marjorie Daw. Mr. Craven will come over to direct the production of the piece.

John Wild will not go on the road next season as a star.

Minnie Maddern will close her season of Featherbrain June 29th.

Lena Merville has made a hit in the Oolah at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y.

Henry Irving and Wilson Barrett have entertained Marie Wainwright in London.

W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel manager, will have two strong companies on the road next season.

Mollie Fuller, formerly of Edward E. Rice's forces, returns to the stage next season in Later On.

Miss Carrie Godfrey has made a decided hit with the Thompson Opera company in Baltimore.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Mabel Adair, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

Misses Mabel Adair and Bessie Carlton are the new faces this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 30th, grand picnic of the Sharp shooters of the Alps Mutual Aid Society at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M. and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunch on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursion, under the management of P. H. Hill, will be properly looked after.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....JUNE 28, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, presents her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," for the last time here Sunday night.

The play introduces to us titled personages of the Directoire period in France, and its story tells of the witchery of love, that leveler of all distinctions; of a marriage for wealth, of sacrifice for others' benefit, of unjust suspicions, loss of riches, false accusations of crime, established innocence and—curtain.

It was only put up for a week at the Bush, but will be heard of later in a general coast tour

Mr. Neil Warner, Mr. H. Mainhall and the company generally give good support.

—o—

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurates the regular season at the Bush Monday night with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18 h said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with such an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Insievogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night "The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects will be presented at the Bush.

Baldwin Theatre.

Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company are giving us a Summer season here.

"Sweet Lavender" was given, for the first time here, for the second week, and has its last performance Saturday night. The comedy has Proven a good drawing card. The company are well up in their parts, having played them during its long run at the Lyceum. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

Next week, "The Marquise," by consent of Victorien Sardou.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, had its first performance by Mr. Polk and company this week. The comedy is very entertaining and has chronicled a success.

The comedy fits Mr. Polk and his company admirably. Miss Brandon and Ida Aubrey lost nothing by comparison with the Eastern people

Harrigan and his company follow on July 1st in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

The demand for seats is large, and the season opens auspiciously. Harrigan brings with him the two Sparks, Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans. He will depend largely upon our local talent for support.

New California Theatre.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California this week—and they are not as black as usual either, for they give their Shakespearean first part with white faces. The features of these minstrels are their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. They are, as Geo. Wood nased to say, "somewhat different" minstrels.

The set scene of the first part, with its rich crimson, satin back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and their performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

The performances are received with great favor.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," closes its season here Saturday night. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Bijou Theatre.

Manager White, a well known Eastern manager, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season with a strong attraction in Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case."

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. He sustains the centre figure of the the play, around whom the others revolve, with all his wonted power, and the support is unusually good.

The people in the cast act their parts, not merely promenade through them in a conversational manner as is too much the mode of the day with our Eastern companies.

The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Mr. Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a New York Madison Square Theatre success, its first production in this city, at the Bijou on Monday.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the present combination at the Orpheum, which includes talen from Europe, the Eastern states and the Orient.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, European grotesques; the Oriental juggler, Sun Shu Shane; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 100 feet in height and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

Next week the attraction will be Dr. Klug and company, direct from Europe.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

The play is intensely melodramatic and calls for more than usual strong acting. The Jack Bunnage of Mr. James Carden is by far the best sustained character in the play. Conchita is displaying considerable talent as the soubrette of the company.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be next week's bill.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James) comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for this week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Burnell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, re-opened Saturday night as a dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, Frank Valerga, the Misses De Mar and others, and with characteristic energy starts in the field at once.

The opening bill is John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column. Manager Meyer will make a go of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, will have personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices will be retained: Admission, 10 cents; reserved seats, 20 cents.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

If you don't go to the Orpheum next week you cannot see the remarkable effects of Dr. Klug's Giant Microscope Exhibition, a European novelty. Besides there are the three Eddys, the great gymnasts; M'lle Emma Eddy, the graceful lady acrobat; Vanola, the Mexican foot juggler; the three Phoites, the grotesques; Lamandue, emperor of the wire, and the three Carles, the German musical grotesques, in an entertaining and varied bill.

John Cort resurrected his Standard Theatre, Seattle, under a big tent pavilion on the 24th, and has contracted for a new three-story brick theatre, 60x100 feet, to be built on the site of his old Standard, that will seat 1650 people and be ready for opening in September.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as next week's attraction at the Wigwam: Pitrot, the protean artist; Prof. Jean Weitzman, the king of the wire; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; the three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, neat sketch artists; Bursell, of the flying feet, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

The Lily Clay Burlesque Co. are to open at the Grand July 8th. They played to fine business in Helena. The performance is spoken of as clean and enjoyable.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akerman as the two pards, are the new features for next week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Mr. Charles Morrell will be amusement director at the Olympic on and after July 1st.

Martin & Lonsdale, the sketch team, put in new appearances at the Cremorne next week in addition to Glenn & Weston, Hayes & Marion, Irwin T. Bush, Ned Nestell and the regular company in a lively bill.

Prof. Paul, the ventriloquist, and his wife, who is one of the best contortionists in the business; Ed. Lattelle, the great banjo expert, and the Leon Brothers are engaged to play at Badger's Park on the afternoon of July 4th.

There will be a big draw at the Cremorne Wednesday night, Wiley Evans' benefit night, who will set-to with his late Stockton contestant, Charley Turner, and a large array of volunteer talent.

Charles Berkeley succeeds Chas. Rice in the stage management at the Eureka Music Hall July 1st.

Tuesday night will be the boxing tournament night at the Bella Union Theatre. Good talent will appear.

George Thatcher's rented wig covering was the most expensive piece of thatching for its size ever done in this country.

Manager Jack Hallinan is in the East ready to put all his spare change on Sullivan in the coming fight.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Trayers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Theatrical Manager—I must have a new play for next season. Can you furnish it? Dramatic Author—Certainly, if my wife will help me out with the baby talk. Got your star yet? Theatrical Manager—Yes, but he won't be ready to rehearse until fall. His mother refuses to wean him in hot weather.

Dullard—Isn't President Harrison a Sunday-school teacher and a religious man generally? Brightly—Why, of course he is! Haven't you noticed the interest he has been taking lately in the foreign missions?

The James M. Donohue makes another sail-around-the-bay excursion on Sunday, leaving Tiburon ferry at 11.30 and returning at 4 o'clock. Col. Menton, manager.

Wickwire—My belief is that we will all follow the same occupations in the next world that we do here. Yabsley—So? What use will there be for plumbers where there is no water.

Executing murderers by electricity will be a grim illustration of the well known saw that lightning does not strike twice in the same spot.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The wires tell us that Carlotta Patti, sister of Adelina Patti, died in Paris on the 28th. Carlotta was born in Florence in 1840, and like her sister was from her childhood surrounded with musical influences. She possessed a splendid soprano voice, extending to G sharp in alto, and had a facility of vocalization, in the florid Italian style, which was as remarkable as her range of voice. She was however, confined almost entirely to concert singing, as a perceptible lameness prevented her from appearing in operatic roles generally, although she had sung in "The Magic Flute" and a few other operas. Carlotta Patti made her last concert tour some eight years ago in this country and Australia, after which she returned to London and taught singing. She leaves a considerable fortune, all of which she earned in her profession.

Manager Morosco has a grievance against the papers for accepting the charge made by parties who have commenced suit against him for the production of a play called "The Man of Gold," and stating that he copied the parts from the play of "Good as Gold" when in his possession, without making enquiries of him for the other side of the story. The truth of the matter is that he has a Wells, Fargo & Co. receipt for the money paid to a Chicago firm in February last for a type-writer reprint of the play he produced. He did not know that the plays were identical. If he had the least thought that putting his play on would involve litigation in any shape he would never have produced it. Investigation proves that the right of the play, "Good as Gold," seems to be quite a common one. Grismer produced it for two seasons under the title of "The Winerford Lode," and Mr. Morosco has a bill from a variety theatre in a Western city where "Good as Gold," the veritable play in dispute, was the feature only two weeks ago.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle will star next season in a new play which has been written for her by Mrs. Chas. Doremus, the author of "The Circus Rider." P. S. Maddox will be her business manager.

George T. Melville, the well known clown, has been engaged for the spectacle of 'Kajanka," and at every performance will introduce his wonderful juggling act, which is similar to Paul Cincquevalli's specialty.

The late John Gilbert's estate is estimated at $200,000.

Ed Harrigan's opening piece at the Alcazar, July 1st, will be "Pete."

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush July 1st.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Eleana Carey and W. F. Bland—who, in private life, are matrimonially linked under the name of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Blond—are spending the summer on one of the big lake islands at Coburg, Ontario.

Adelina Patti's business in South America is reported as larger than ever before. In Buenos Ayres her performances have been a series of ovations.

Dubuque, Ia., will have a first-class new opera house next season.

Philadelphia will have eighteen theatres next season.

Mrs. Mary Holmes is lying very ill with acute rheumatism at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Mr. Abbey, it is now definitely stated, will bring over little Otto Hegner next season to play in about the same number of concerts as little Josef Hoffman — about fifty or sixty—and to stay here from November until May. He will get something like $500 for each concert, and will be accompanied by his father.

C. W. Couldock, Dan. Leeson and Mrs. W. G. Jones have been engaged by Klaw and Erlanger for The Great Metropolis.

Sidney Drew, son of Mrs. John Drew, will be married to Gladys Rankin, the eldest daughter of McKee Rankin, on August 15th.

A New York exchange says: "One of the novelties in the production of Howard P. Taylor's spectacular melodrama, Lost in Africa, will be a real live camel and an Orangoutang." We accept the genuiness of the camel on the editor's statement, but who is going to make up for the Orangoutang?

Alex. Comstock has made a great deal of money out of the automatic opera glass boxes, which are now in use in nearly every first-class theatre in the country.

Kate Claxton has purchased the rights to Captain Swift from Manager A. M. Palmer, and will send it on the road next season with Arthur Forrest in the title part.

Patti Rosa will make a tour of this country next season appearing in Tom Craven's Marjorie Daw. Mr. Craven will come over to direct the production of the piece.

John Wild will not go on the road next season as a star.

Minnie Maddern will close her season of Featherbrain June 29th.

Lena Merville has made a hit in the Oolah at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y.

Henry Irving and Wilson Barrett have entertained Marie Wainwright in London.

Harry M. Semon will go in advance of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Company next season.

W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel manager, will have two strong companies on the road next season.

Mollie Fuller, formerly of Edward E. Rice's forces, returns to the stage next season in Later On.

The Misses Deaves, two clever, bright and attractive California born girls, who have won an enviable reputation in comedy productions, will star next season in a farcical exemplification of city life, called Chaos Flat. The piece has been very highly spoken of by those to whom its humorous incidents and brilliant musical numbers have been revealed. The Deaves girls should make a lively pair when they come to work together. They are the daughters of Ned Deaves, one of the earliest of pioneer minstrels, and have been on the stage from early girlhood. Both have made many successes. Their professional career began in California, where they had valuable schooling. Rillie is remembered for her sweet Gladys, in The Rijah, and for her pretty performances in Prince Carl, The Rag Baby, and Little Puck. Ada, her sister, has long been known as one of the best character soubrettes on the stage. For the past two seasons she has cut a strong figure in the company of Kate Castleton, and she has now made a strong success in the Chicago Opera House production of Bluebeard, Jr. Chaos Flat is owned by the Misses Deaves and Mr. W. L. Fursman, a bright and active young manager. The season will open in Philadelphia Sept. 9th.

Miss Adelaide Moore opens the next regular season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, August 19th when Pierre Leclercq's play The Love Story will have it's first American representation.

Jeffreys Lewis will receive her benefit money from this city in installments. This is a precaution to guard against entangling financial and emotional alliances.

Mr. J. C. Remington, late of Goodyear Dillon and Cook's Minstrels, will take charge of Manager John Maguire's interests at Helena Mont.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Mabel Adair, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

Misses Mabel Adair and Bessie Carlton are the new faces this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 30th, grand picnic of the Sharp shooters of the Alps Mutual Aid Society at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Luncheon on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hick, will be properly looked after.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, presents her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," for the last time here Sunday night.

The play introduces to us titled personages of the Directoire period in France, and its story tells of the witchery of love, that leveler of all distinctions; of a marriage for wealth, of sacrifice for others' benefit, of unjust suspicions, loss of riches, false accusations of crime, established innocence and—curtain.

It was only put up for a week at the Bush, but will be heard of later in a general coast tour.

Mr. Neil Warner, Mr. H. Mainhall and the company generally give good support.

—o—

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurates the regular season at the Bush Monday night with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18 h said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with such an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Inslavogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night 'The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects will be presented at the Bush

Baldwin Theatre.

Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company are giving us a Summer season here.

"Sweet Lavender" was given, for the first time here, for the second week, and has its last performance Saturday night. The comedy has proven a good drawing card. The company are well up in their parts, having played them during its long run at the Lyceum. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

Next week, "The Marquise," by consent of Victorien Sardou.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, had its first performance by Mr. Polk and company this week. The comedy is very entertaining and has chronicled a success. Last performance Sunday night.

The comedy fits Mr. Polk and his company admirably. Miss Brandon and Ida Awbrey lost nothing by comparison with the Eastern people.

Ned Harrigan commences his season next week in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas of New York characters and New York life. Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

Harrigan brings with him the two Sparks, Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He will depend largely upon our local talent for support.

The demand for seats is large, and the season opens auspiciously.

New California Theatre.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California this week—and they are not as black as usual either, for they give their Shakespearean first part with white faces. The features of these minstrels are their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. They are, as Geo. Wood used to say, "somewhat different" minstrels.

The set scene of the first part, with its rich crimson, satin back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and their performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

The performances are received with great favor.

Grand Opera House.

Bijou Theatre.

Manager White ought to be satisfied with the attendance that has greeted his opening attraction in Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case." The performance is a very strong one.

The people in the cast act their parts, not merely promenade through them in a conversational manner as is too much the mode of the day with our Eastern companies.

Lewis Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a New York Madison Square Theatre success, its first production in this city, at the Bijou on Monday.

In addition to the company Mr. Morrison brought with him from New York, Fanny Young and Miss Clyde Heron will appear in the cast.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the present combination at the Orpheum, which includes talen from Europe, the Eastern states and the Orient

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, European grotesques; the Oriental juggler, Sun Shu Shane; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Next week the attraction will be Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscope the Eddys, acrobats; Vanola, foot juggler; the three Pholtes, pantomimists; Lamondue, wire walker; the Carle Family and the Hungarian Orchestra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. James Carden's new protean drama, "The Old Toll House," will be presented for the first time with a full and efficient cast. Miss Claudia Barto resumes her place as leading lady.

The play is intensely melodramatic and calls for more than usual strong acting. The Jack Bunnage of Mr. James Carden is by far the best sustained character in the play. Conchita is displaying considerable talent as the soubrette of the company.

The company are well chosen and the piece runs smoothly.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be next week's bill.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This popular and commodious resort presents the Three Franklins (John, Lillie and James); comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team, and Zazelle & Mason, premier gymnasts, as the new faces for this week.

Kissell and his champion drill, Emery & Russell in their musical duos, Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Next week the new people are Prof. Jean Witzman, the Bicketts and the great Pitrot.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, F. M. Franklin, Kittie Belmour, Elsie Adair and others, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

The opening bill was John Brougham's 2-act comedy-drama, "The Irish Emigrant," with that laugh-provoking comedy, "Pink Dominos," as the afterpiece. The cast of both pieces can be found in the programme advertisement in adjoining column, and the plays have been well represented.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Next week the attraction will be J. J. Wallace in his original play, "The Irish Exile," an emotional Irish drama in a prologue and three acts, with Mr. Wallace as the patriot hero, Gerald Fitzgerald

Bella Union Theatre.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood and Lambert & Rostrum make their first appearances this week. Cain & Akarman's comedy, "My Nephew," with all the company in the cast, will be given every evening.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

If you don't go to the Orpheum this week you cannot see the remarkable effects of Dr. Klug's Giant Microscope Exhibition, a European novelty. Besides there are the three Eddys, the great gymnasts; M'lle Emma Eddy, the graceful lady acrobat; Vanola, the Mexican foot juggler; the three Phoites, the grotesques; Lamanque, emperor of the wire, and the three Carles, the German musical grotesques, in an entertaining and varied bill.

John Cort resurrected his Standard Theatre, Seattle, under a big tent pavilion on the 24th, and has contracted for a new three-story brick theatre, 60x100 feet, to be built on the site of his old Standard, that will seat 1650 people and be ready for opening in September.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: Pitrot, the protean artist; Prof. Jean Weitzman, the king of the wire; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; the three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, neat sketch artists; Bursell, of the flying feet, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Mr. Charles Morrell is the amusement director at the Olympic.

Martin & Lonsdale, the sketch team, put in new appearances at the Cremorne this week in addition to Glenn & Weston, Hayes & Marion, Irwin T. Bush, Ned Nestell and the regular company in a lively bill.

Prof. Paul, the ventriloquist, and his wife, who is one of the best contortionists in the business; Ed. Lattelle, the great banjo expert, and the Leon Brothers are engaged to play at Badger's Park on the afternoon of July 4th.

There will be a big draw at the Cremorne Wednesday night, Wiley Evans' benefit night, who will set-to with his late Stockton contestant, Charley Turner, and a large array of volunteer talent will appear.

Charles Berkeley succeeds Chas. Rice in the stage management at the Eureka Music Hall this week.

Tuesday night will be the boxing tournament night at the Bella Union Theatre. Good talent will appear.

George Thatcher's century-old covering was the most extensive piece of thatching for its size ever done in this country.

Manager Jack Hellman is in the East ready to put all his spare change on Sullivan in the coming fight.

The Comique presents a pleasing and varied bill. Burns and Travers appear in acts and specialties and have surrounded themselves with a good company. There is always something lively on at the Comique.

Jim Wild will not go on the road next season as a star.

Lena Merville has made a hit in the Odah at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y.

Henry Irving and Wilson Barrett have entertained Marie Wainwright in London.

Harry M. Semon will go in advance of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Company next season.

W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel manager, will have two strong companies on the road next season.

Jeffreys Lewis will receive her benefit money from this city in installments. This is a precaution to guard against entangling financial and emotional alliances.

Mr. J. Remington, late of Goodyear Dillon and Cook's Minstrels, will take charge of Manager John Maguire's interests at Helena Mont.

Patti Rosa will make a tour of this country next season appearing in Tom Craven's Marjorie Daw. Mr. Craven will come over to direct the production of the piece.

John A. Mackay will play the principal part in Kicks and Kisses, a new musical comedy by Edwin Atwell and J. Armory Knox, which H. S. Taylor will produce next season.

W. S. Cleveland, the manager of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel company, announces that he will enlarge the Japanese Annex and introduce a new Parisian first part next season.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mr. Frank H. Tyner, representative of Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company, arrived to-day, and is hustling out the paper for his attraction with lightning speed.

There will be Fourth of July matinees at the New Bush Street Theatre, Alcazar, California, Bijou, Orpheum, Morosco's, Vienna and Wigwam.

Mapleson's London opera season opened badly. There was a loss of £5,000 on the first week, and he gracefully stepped out leaving his backers the "management." What a dear old fellow he is.

Gustav Amberg has signed an engagement for the appearance in America of Josef Kains, the celebrated leading man of Germany.

The wires tell us that Carlotta Patti, sister of Adelina Patti, died in Paris on the 28th. Carlotta was born in Florence in 1840, and like her sister was from her childhood surrounded with musical influences. She possessed a splendid soprano voice, extending to G sharp in alto, and had a facility of vocalization, in the florid Italian style, which was as remarkable as her range of voice. She was, however, confined almost entirely to concert singing, as a perceptible lameness prevented her from appearing in operatic roles generally, although she had sung in "The Magic Flute" and a few other operas. Carlotta Patti made her last concert tour some eight years ago in this country and Australia, after which she returned to London and taught singing. She leaves a considerable fortune, all of which she earned in her profession.

Manager Morosco has a grievance against the papers for accepting the charge made by parties who have commenced suit against him for the production of a play called "The Man of Gold," and stating that he copied the parts from the play of "Good as Gold" when in his possession, without making enquiries of him for the other side of the story. The truth of the matter is that he has a Wells, Fargo & Co. receipt for the money paid to a Chicago firm in February last for a type-writer reprint of the play he produced. He did not know that the plays were identical. If he had the least thought that putting his play on would involve litigation in any shape he would never have produced it. Investigation proves that the right of the play, "Good as Gold," seems to be quite a common one. Grismer produced it for two seasons under the title of "The Winerford Lode," and Mr. Morosco has a bill from a variety theatre in a Western city where "Good as Gold," the veritable play in dispute, was the feature only two weeks ago.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle will star next season in a new play which has been written for her by Mrs. Chas. Doremus, the author of "The Circus Rider." P. S. Maddox will be her business manager.

The Lily Clay Burlesque Co. opens at the Grand Sunday night. They played to fine business in Helena. The performance is spoken of as clean and enjoyable.

George T. Melville, the well known clown, has been engaged for the spectacle of "Kajanka," and at every performance will introduce his wonderful juggling act, which is similar to Paul Cincquevalli's specialty.

The late John Gilbert's estate is estimated at $200,000.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush this week.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Helena Carey and W. F. Bland—who, in private life, are matrimonially linked under the name of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wood—are spending the summer on one of the big lake islands at Coburg, Ontario.

Adelina Patti's business in South America is reported as larger than ever before. In Buenos Ayres her performances have been a series of ovations.

Dubuque, Ia., will have a first-class new opera house next season.

Philadelphia will have eighteen theatres next season.

Mrs. Mary Holmes is lying very ill with acute rheumatism at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Mr. Abbey, it is now definitely stated, will bring over little Otto Hegner next season to play in about the same number of concerts as little Josef Hoffman — about fifty or sixty—and to stay here from November until May. He will get something like $500 for each concert, and will be accompanied by his father.

C. W. Couldock, Dan. Leeson and Mrs. W. G. Jones have been engaged by Klaw and Erlanger for The Great Metropolis.

Sidney Drew, son of Mrs. John Drew, will be married to Gladys Rankin, the eldest daughter of McKee Rankin, on August 15th.

A New York exchange says: "One of the novelties in the production of Howard P. Taylor's spectacular melodrama, Lost in Africa, will be a real live camel and an Orangoutang." We accept the genuiness of the camel on the editor's statement, but who is going to make up for the Orangoutang?

Alex. Comstock has made a great deal of money out of the automatic opera glass boxes, which are now in use in nearly every first-class theatre in the country.

Kate Claxton has purchased the rights to Captain Swift from Manager A. M. Palmer, and will send it on the road next season with Arthur Forrest in the title part.

KIRBY'S "DEATH!"

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Kirby was a Bowery mime,
And a Roscius in its eyes,
With the Bowery in its prime!

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Said the gods unto the gods,
As they closed their sleepy eyes,
And each ragged Homer nods.

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Was his mimic "death" a "show?"
Did he show th' whites o' his eyes,
And into "convulsions" go?

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Artist he, or artisan;
Was their genius in his eyes?
Was he less or more than man?

Did he "die" by fits and starts,
To the music of the fiddle?
Showing "death" in all his parts,
In a serio-comic riddle?

Was his "death" the best of him,
With the artificial rift?
Reacting was the test of him—
Whiskey knocked him out of life!

Was his "acting" bad or good?
Was his life as was his death?
Was his "art" misunderstood?
Was his soul a shibboleth?

Who can answer, now he plays
With his part in heavenly scenes;
Maybe, under Shakespeare's gaze,
'Mid the stage's kings and queens!

Now he understands it all—
Seeing with anointed eyes;
E'en I make my final "fall,"
Wake me up when Kirby dies!

Or, the rather (oh, the joy
That impersonation gives)!
Though the rapture cling and cloy,
Wake me up when Kirby lives!

For he liveth, never fear!
And he still impersonates;
On a stage, and in a sphere,
In the presence of the Fates!

JAMES OWEN O'CONOR.

The Misses Deaves, two clever, bright and attractive California born girls, who have won an enviable reputation in comedy productions, will star next season in a farcical exemplification of city life, called Chaos Flat. The piece has been very highly spoken of by those to whom its humorous incidents and brilliant musical numbers have been revealed. The Deaves girls should make a lively pair when they come to work together. They are the daughters of Ned Deaves, one of the earliest of pioneer minstrels, and have been on the stage from early girlhood. Both have made many successes. Their professional career began in California, where they had valuable schooling. Rillie is remembered for her sweet Gladys, in The Rajah, and for her pretty performances in Prince Carl, The Rag Baby, and Little Puck. Ada, her sister, has long been known as one of the best character soubrettes on the stage. For the past two seasons she has cut a strong figure in the company of Kate Castleton, and she has now made a strong success in the Chicago Opera House production of Bluebeard, Jr. Chaos Flat is owned by the Misses Deaves and Mr. W. L. Fursman, a bright and active young manager. The season will open in Philadelphia Sept. 9th.

Miss Adelaide Moore opens the next regular season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, August 19th when Pierre Leclercq's play The Love Story will have it's first American representation.

MONDAY..... JULY 1, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

Fourth of July Matinees will be given at the New Bush Street Theatre, California, Alcazar, Bijou, Orpheum, Morosco's, Vienna and Wigwam.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurates the regular season at the Bush this week with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18th said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with such an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Inslavogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night "The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects will be presented at the Bush

The take is large.

Alcazar Theatre.

Ned Harrigan commences his season this week in "Peep," one of his life-like comedy-dramas in which he depicts life in the South during the War of the Rebellion and twelve years afterwards. It is the piece he was at work on during his last visit to this city and the one that made the success of his New York season in 1888.

Charlie Reed, our popular comedian has been specially engaged for the Harrigan season.

Harrigan brings with him John and Joseph Stevens, Dan and James Burke, John Decker, Mr. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He will depend largely upon our local talent for support.

The demand for seats is large, and the season opens auspiciously.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page

New California Theatre.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, who have caught on so strong at the California, must close their season this week to give dates to Mantell and his "Monbars." The distinctive features of these minstrels are their novel Shakespearean first part with white faces, their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers.

The set scene of the first part, with its bright, rich crimson back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and the performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

Robert Mantell in his strong play of "Monbars" follows next week.

Bijou Theatre.

Lewis Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a New York Madison Square Theatre success, its first production at this house. This is one of Robert Buchanan's strongest plays, and its interest is well developed and sustained to the end.

In addition to the company Mr. Morrison brought with him from New York, Fanny Young and Miss Clyde Heron will appear in the cast.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week the attraction will be Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscope; the Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty; the three Phoites, pantomimists; Lamondue, wire walker; the Carle Family and the soloist of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

This is the second anniversary week of the Orpheum's successful career, and what a world of talent Managers Walter and Roberts have entertainment presented. They have given opera seasons, specialty seasons, minstrel seasons, Shakespearean seasons, comedy seasons, pantomime seasons, and run all through the line of amusements, presenting attractions from every country—for they have been distinctively importers of talent—for the pleasure of their patrons. These gentlemen have proven themselves to have been indeed caterers in amusements.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house, with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be this week's bill, Mr. Darrell Vinton and Mr. James Carden alternating in the roles of Badger and Bloodgood, the banker.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week the new people are Prof. Jean Witzman, the Bicketts, Bob Harrison and the great Pitrot.

The three Franklins (John, Lillie and James); comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team; Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, F. M. Franklin, Adeline Brandon, Kittie Belmour, Elsie Adair and others, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week the attraction will be J. J. Wallace in his original play, "The Irish Exile," an emotional Irish drama in a prologue and three acts, with Mr. Wallace as the patriot hero, Gerald Fitzgerald.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week is to be a gala week. Stanley & Beasley, musical artists and Griffin & Langan have been added to the already strong bill.

Johnnie Cain's new and laughable comedy, "Two Buzzards, Cain and Akarman sustaining the principal roles, will be one of the features of the bill.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Birth Weston and Helen Conklin remain on the bill.

This old established house keeps up its record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday evening, July 2nd, there will be a grand boxing tournament between some of the well known boxing experts.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week, Martin & Lonsdale, musical sketch team, are the new people.

Glenn & Weston, musical artists, Irwin T. Bush, Rose Lonsdale, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and Jessie Cogill continue to please the Cremorne's patrons.

The sensational comedy drama, entitled "Flanagan's Pup," will be produced every evening.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

On July 3d Manager Homan will give Willy Evans, the colored boxer, a benefit. In addition to the regular bill a long list of specialties will be given, winding up with a glove contest between Wiley Evans and Charles Turner, who was the victor in a previous contest. In the course of the evening, Wiley Evans will spar [illegible] with Paddy Smith for a well filled

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong; then follow Millie Mayfield, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, makes his first appearance this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

The comical farce-comedy, Nice Weather, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Wonderland, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, W. Baker and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part, entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 7th, grand picnic of the Ladies' Athletic club at Seaside Gardens.

Visitor—Well, Tommy, how are you getting on at school? Tommy (aged 8)—First-rate. I ain't doing as well as some of the other boys, though. I can stand on my head, but I have to put my feet against the fence. I want to do do it without being near the fence at all, and I guess I can after awhile.

Baseball Maiden—Yes, Mr. Joblots, all is over between us. Here is the ring. Mr. Joblots—I am to understand, then, Mabel, that our engagement is at an end? Baseball Maiden—Exactly. I give you your release and expect to sign a new man the latter part of the week. Good-by.

"What is an echo?" asked the teacher of the infant class. "It's what you hear when you shout," replied a youngster. "Is it caused by a hill or a hollow?" again asked the teacher. "Both," was the ready reply. "How so?" "The hill throws back the holler."

Judge (to dynamite suspect)—What is your name? Prisoner—Howells, your honor. Judge—Are you related to the novelist? Prisoner (shamefacedly)—Yes, your Honor. Judge—You are discharged. No one of that family would have anything to do with a plot.

Flossy—O mamma, see that man wheeling a baby carriage! I don't think a man should do that. Mother—Florence, you must not talk so foolishly. You will think differently when you grow up.

New Arrival—Can I come in? St. Peter—Where do you hail from? New Arrival—From Boston. St. Peter—Boston eh? Well, you can go in, but I want to warn

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The revolutionizing lady acrobat, M'lle Emma Eddy, who turns somersaults in long skirts, a la man, at the Orpheum, is one of the greatest specialty novelties ever on its stage. The revolvers are done with such quickness that the lady's skirts never become disarranged and there is not a suggestion of an immodest nature in her wonderful act. It brings down the house with applause.

This is the last week of the Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels at the California, and all the good things evolved in their programme.

J. E. Joseph, the leader of the Bush, and his excellent orchestra are often complimented by "recalls." Their rendering of "The Lady Picking Mulberries," a la Chinese orchestra, this week is notably good.

No pent up continent contracts Barnum's powers—to say nothing of Utica—for he is going to take his whole show over the briny for a London season in the Fall. His agent has leased the Olympia for exhibition purposes, and gives out that as the show is "too ponderous to move over the country" it will not be exhibited in any other city than London. That is Barnum bunkum. His show has been moved pretty lively over the country here, and can travel the same way there. Its transportation across the Atlantic will be the greatest difficulty It will take a big steamer or two to do that, and menagerie animals generally don't care much about going to sea for their health. There is a deal of trouble and some risk in it

Fernando Fleury, musical character change artist; the La Rolle Bros. and Howard, Alton & Stuart are drawing good houses at the Washington Theatre, San Antonio, Texas.

Morton & Goldie have dissolved partnership, and each is in search of a new partner.

If you don't go to the Orpheum this week you cannot see the remarkable effects of Dr. King's Giant Microscope Exhibition, a European novelty. Besides there are the three Eddys, the great gymnasts; M'lle Emma Eddy, the graceful lady acrobat; Vanola, the Mexican foot juggler; the three Phoites, the grotesques; Lamandue, emperor of the wire, and the three Carlee, the German musical grotesques, in an entertaining and varied bill.

John Cort resurrected his Standard Theatre, Seattle, under a big tent pavilion on the 24th, and has contracted for a new three-story brick theatre, 60x100 feet, to be built on the site of his old Standard, that will seat 1650 people and be ready for opening in September.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: Pitrot, the protean artist; Prof. Jean Weitzman, the king of the wire; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; the three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, neat sketch artists; Burnell, of the flying feet, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Mr. Charles Morrell is the amusement director at the Olympic.

Martin & Lonsdale, the sketch team, put in new appearances at the Cremorne this week in addition to Glenn & Weston, Hayes & Marion, Irwin T. Bush, Ned Nestell and the regular company in a lively bill.

Prof. Paul, the ventriloquist, and his wife, who is one of the best contortionists in the business; Ed. Lattelle, the great banjo expert, and the Leon Brothers are engaged to play at Badger's Park on the afternoon of July 4th.

There will be a big draw at the Cremorne Wednesday night, Wiley Evans' benefit night, who will set-to with his late Stockton contestant, Charley Turner, and a large array of volunteer talent will appear.

Charles Berkeley succeeds Chas. Rice in the stage management at the Eureka Music Hall this week.

This Tuesday night will be the boxing tournament night at the Bella Union Theatre. Good talent will appear.

Manager Jack Hallinan is in the East ready to put all his spare change on Sul-

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mrs. Judge Terry will shortly deliver a lecture at the Grand Opera House on the subject of her litigation with the Sharon family, under the management of Charles MacGeachy, who held her under contract to appear there three years ago as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." Sharon's death occurring at the time caused a cancellation of the engagement. The contract calls for an extended lecturing tour and specifies that Mrs. Terry shall have seventy per cent of the receipts; that she shall travel in a special car, have suites of rooms with her meals served in them at hotels, and keep herself as much as possible from public observation by being veiled when traveling. Judge Terry will not accompany his wife steadily during her tour, as a member of his family will go with Mrs. T. as chaperone. They will be only little quiet talks, but, like the warm breath of the South, they may have a withering effect upon the roses of Sharon and extend over a wide Field of action.

Manager Gus Pitou, now here, is accredited with giving James O'Neill the start in "Monte Cristo," which has made him a rich man. He drifted around here in San Francisco for years under Tom Maguire's blighting management. He went East and Mr. Pitou persuaded him to give up "The American King," a play that was giving him a frost, and launch out in "Monte Cristo." Result, a fortune.

Genial, big-hearted Dick Fitzgerald, one of the oldest and best known of New York's dramatic agents, died in that city on the 24th ult. at the age of 46. The only reproving thing that could be said of him is those sad words, "His own worst enemy."

The staging of "The Paymaster" is great. It has been made a feature of the play since we saw it here. It is the only tank play that has lived. It holds water as a big attraction where the other wet plays have petered out.

Terry has joined the gang.

Beatrice Lieb, a popular Eastern actress, makes a charming Irish heiress and heroine of "The Paymaster."

"Pete," Harrigan's piece at the Alcazar, deals in Southern life exclusively. It was never played here before. He produced it in New York after he returned from San Francisco.

The boys from the gallery of the Bush gave cheers for Harrison and Theodore Hamilton in front of the Bush after the performance of "The Paymaster" last night.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque company that is sweeping down upon us via the Northern R. R., leaving a trail of success to mark its path. The performance is spoken of as clean and enjoyable.

J. J. Wallace comes to the front with his three-act drama, "The Irish Exile," playing the part of Fitzgerald, the patriot, at the Vienna this week, in his usual clear-cut and vigorous style.

Charlie Reed says he will black up "fur de las' time" during his Alcazar engagement, notwithstanding his tumultuous reception Monday night.

Lewis Morrison has given great attention to the production of "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," at the Bijou this week. It is very effectively staged.

Morosco's company in "The Streets of New York" this week, James Carden and Darrell Vinton alternating as Badger and Bloodgood (Gid) every night.

During Mr. Harrigan's engagement at the Alcazar he will produce two new plays for the first time on any stage.

What used to be John McCullough's bonnie Kate Forsythe made "quite a successful" London debut, in the Comedy Theatre, on the 29th, so the wires tell us. The play was "The Tigress," the fiercest of titles for a play with a woman for its heroine, and yet the account says, "Its theme is not constructively strong, but the dialogue may be called delightfully simple, and some of the situations are picturesque." Ah, we are afraid it was a sick "Tigress." The support is English, and Miss Forsythe contemplates a tour in the provinces with her play.

Mr. Frank H. Tyner, representative of Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company, arrived to-day, and is hustling out the paper for his attraction with lightning speed.

There will be Fourth of July matinees at the New Bush Street Theatre, Alcazar, California, Bijou, Orpheum, Morosco's, Vienna and Wigwam.

Mapleson's London opera season opened badly. There was a loss of £5 000 on the first week, and he gracefully stepped out leaving his backers the "management." What a dear old fellow he is.

Gustav Amberg has signed an engagement for the appearance in America of Josef Kains, the celebrated leading man of Germany.

The late John Gilbert's estate is estimated at $200,000.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It opens at the Bush this week.

Gus Levick will create the leading role in "Hands Across the Sea" under Gustave Kahn's management.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel manager, will have two strong companies on the road next season.

Jeffreys Lewis will receive her benefit money from this city in installments. This is a precaution to guard against entangling financial and emotional alliances.

Mr. J. . Remington, late of Goodyear Dillon and Cook's Minstrels, will take charge of Manager John Maguire's interests at Helena Mont.

Patti Rosa will make a tour of this country next season appearing in Tom Craven's Marjorie Daw. Mr. Craven will come over to direct the production of the piece.

John A. Mackay will play the principal part in Kicks and Kisses, a new musical comedy by Edwin Atwell and J. Armory Knox, which H. S. Taylor will produce next season.

W. S. Cleveland, the manager of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel company, announces that he will enlarge the Japanese Annex and introduce a new Parisian first part next season.

A Paris cable reports Mme. Adelina Patti as being seriously ill in South America.

Miss Adelaide Moore opens the next regular season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, August 19th when Pierre Leclercq's play The Love Story will have it's first American representation

Miss Carrie Godfrey has made a decided hit with the Thompson Opera company in Baltimore.

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....JULY 2, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

Fourth of July Matinees will be given at the New Bush Street Theatre, California, Alcazar, Bijou, Orpheum, Morosco's, Vienna and Wigwam.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurates the regular season at the Bush this week with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18th said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with such an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Insavogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night 'The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Alcazar Theatre.

Ned Harrigan commences his season this week in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas, in which he depicts life in the South during the War of the Rebellion and twelve years afterwards. It is the piece he was at work on during his last visit to this city and the one that made the success of his New York season in 1888.

Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been welcomed home in a most enthusiastic manner.

Harrigan brings with him John and Joseph Sparks, Dan and James Burke, John Decker, Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He depends largely upon our local talent for support.

Mr. Harrigan, as Pete, shows careful study and thorough knowledge of the negro character, and as a result he gives us the eccentric simplicity of the negro in a perfect manner. Mrs. Yeamans is just the same as she was, and always will be the only true Irishwoman in dramatic life.

The demand for seats is large, and the season opens auspiciously.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Waddy Googan, with forty-three speaking parts, will be the attraction next week. It had an unprecedented run in New York last season.

New California Theatre.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, who have caught on so strong at the California, must close their season this week to give dates to Monteil and his "Monbars." The distinctive features of these minstrels are their novel Shakespearean first part with white faces, their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers.

The set scene of the first part, with its bright rich crimson back-ground and elegant costumes, is one of unparalleled minstrel richness, and the performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

The Brothers Byrne give an entirely new and original performance, which has never been equaled by any in their special line of business, save and except the Ravels.

W. H. Barber gives some wonderful exhibitions of bicycle riding, showing himself to be

Bijou Theatre.

Lewis Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a New York Madison Square Theatre success, its first production at this house. This is one of Robert Buchanan's strongest plays, and its interest is well developed and sustained to the end.

Mr. Morrison's impersonation is well studied and finely sustained throughout. Miss Stella Rees is graceful, forcible and effective, in the last scene particularly. Miss Clyde Heron has an unpleasant role, nevertheless it is well played. Miss Roberts is natural and pretty as Alice Bellair. Little Mabel Bowman is a charming bit of precocious humanity, and, as Gretchen, wins all hearts. Mr. Russ Whytal renders Mr. Morrison fine support as the rascally partner.

The piece has been handsomely mounted, and we think it has been fully demonstrated that the Bijou is well suited to dramatic purposes.

In addition to the company Mr. Morrison brought with him from New York, Fanny Young and Miss Clyde Heron will appear in the cast.

Next week, the great London success, Devil Carefoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," will have its first production in this city.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music, ballet and beauty, with gorgeous scenery, rich costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill consists of "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and scenes, and the dashing burlesque of Robinson Crusoe, with all the company in its spectacular effects.

Announcement received too late for to-day. It will appear to-morrow.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week the attraction is Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty; the three Pholtes, pantomimists; Lamondue, wire walker; the Carle Family and the soloist of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

This is the second anniversary week of the Orpheum's successful career, and what a world of talent Managers Walter and Roberts have brought to this coast during the two years of its existence; and how varied has been the entertainment presented. They have given opera seasons, specialty seasons, minstrel seasons Shakespearean seasons, comedy seasons, pantomime seasons, and run all through the line of amusements, presenting attractions from every country—for they have been distinctively importers of talent—for the pleasure of their patrons. These gentlemen have proven themselves to have been indeed caterers in amusements.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house, with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be this week's bill, Mr. Darrell Vinton and Mr. James Carden alternating in the roles of Badger and Bloodgood, the banker.

Mr. Carden took the part of Badger, last night, in a very satisfactory manner, and that too without using Frank Mayo as a model. To-night he assumes the role of Bloodgood, and Darrell Vinton will be the happy Bohemian Badger. Charlie Bates has grown to be a manly fellow, and he plays the double role of the Faithweathers, father and son, very well. Miss May Nannery looks very pretty as Lucy Fairweather and is sufficiently pathetic.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week the new people are Prof. Jean Witzman, the Bicketts, Bob Harrison and the great Pitrot.

The three Franklins (John, Lillie and James); comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team; Burnell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, F. M. Franklin, Adeline Brandon, Kittie Belmour, Elsie Adair and others, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week the attraction will be J. J. Wallace in his original play, "The Irish Exile," an emotional Irish drama in a prologue and three acts, with Mr. Wallace as the patriot hero, Gerald Fitzgerald.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week is to be a gala week. Stanley & Beasley, musical artists, and Griffin & Langan have been added to the already strong bill.

Johnnie Cain's new and laughable comedy, "Two Buzzards, Cain and Akarman sustaining the principal roles, will be one of the features of the bill.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Birth Weston and Helen Conklin remain on the bill.

This old established house keeps up its record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday evening, July 2nd, there will be a grand boxing tournament between some of the well known boxing experts.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week, Martin & Lonsdale, musical sketch team, are the new people.

Glenn & Weston, musical artists, Irwin T. Bush, Rose Lonsdale, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and Jessie Cogill continue to please the Cremorne's patrons.

The sensational comedy drama, entitled "Flanagan's Pup," will be produced every evening.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

On July 3d Manager Homan will give Wily Evans, the colored boxer, a benefit. In addition to the regular bill a long list of specialties will be given, winding up with a glove contest between Wiley Evans and Charles Turner, who was the victor in a previous contest. In the course of the evening, Wiley Evans will spar four rounds with Paddy Smith for a well filled purse.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Billy Emerson's bright lights, his resplendent array of personal jewelry pledged to the suspended California National Bank, probably as security for the rent of the Bijou when he held possession of it, was sold by order of the receiver on Tuesday by Easton & Eldridge at public auction. They consisted of a watch and fob chain, two diamond rings, three scarf-pins, diamond charm, sleeve-buttons and locket. The aggregate returns of the sale was $789 50. So passes the glory of Emerson's headlights. A friend wired Emerson that they would be sold, "Answer," and this dispatch came back: "Let her go, Gallagher. WM. EMERSON."

The zoological part of the Columbia Gardens, Butte City, comprises bears, antelope, elk, a mountain lion, a beautiful specimen, kangaroos, foxes, eagles, fancy pigeons, peacocks and other specimens. All are well cared for in appropriate quarters. The taste displayed and liberality manifested by Messrs. Gordon and Ritchie speak volumes for their enterprise and their faith in Butte and its people.

Coliseum Theatre, Helena: Ward & Jess, Kittie Francis, Ollie Sutter, Crimmins & Gore, Della Wall, Carroll & Nealey, James Grey, the great American sharpshooters (Den Howe, Amy and Jet) and the Clifford Sisters.

Club Theatre, Victoria, B. B.: Hughes & Oxford, Geo. Sherwood, Lillie Parker, Ruby Knight, George Kidd and M'lle Bertha.

The company at the Arion Theatre, Butte City, for this week are Kitty Williams, Dollie Weston, Gus Hess, Kitty Chapman, Burt Baker, Lillie Richter, Frank Brown, Mamie Yager, Geo. O'Donnell, Lizzie Leyton, Bessie Marr, Harry Stokes, Ed. McCree, Belle Carson, May Swan, Eva Colton, Dan Murphy, Tony Farmel, Eva Cleaves and Frank Binney.

A grand benefit was given to Mr. J. R. Letcher, treasurer of Cort's Standard Theatre, Portland, June 28th. The principal feature of the bill was the appearance of Jack Dempsey, Dave Campbell, heavyweight of the Northwest, and a six-round glove contest between Denny Costigan, of New York, and James Bates, middleweight champion of the Northwest. Over half a hundred people were on the bill.

If you don't go to the Orpheum this week you cannot see the remarkable effects of Dr. Klug's Giant Microscope Exhibition, a European novelty. Besides there are the three Eddys, the great gymnasts; M'lle Emma Eddy, the graceful lady acrobat; Vanola, the Mexican foot juggler; the three Phoites, the grotesques; Lamandue, emperor of the wire, and the three Carles, the German musical grotesques, in an entertaining and varied bill.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: Pitrot, the protean artist; Prof. Jean Weitzman, the king of the wire; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; the three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, neat sketch artists; Bursell, of the flying feet, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Charles Berkeley succeeds Chas. Rice in the stage management at the Eureka Music Hall this week.

The revolutionizing lady acrobat, M'lle Emma Eddy, who turns somersaults in long skirts, a la man, at the Orpheum, is one of the greatest specialty novelties ever on its stage. The revolvers are done with such quickness that the lady's skirts never become disarranged and there is not a suggestion of an immodest nature in her wonderful act. It brings down the house with applause.

This is the last week of the Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels at the California, and all the good things evolved in their programme.

J. E. Joseph, the leader of the Bush, and his excellent orchestra are often complimented by "recalls." Their rendering

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

There will be Fourth of July matinees at the New Bush Street Theatre, Alcazar, California, Bijou, Orpheum, Morosco's, Vienna and Wigwam.

Mr. Neil Warner has received notice that he has been appointed master of reading in the High Senior Schools of Montreal at a salary of $1200 a year; also teacher of elocution in the McGill Normal School, with an additional salary which will make his compensation reach about $2 000 annually.

There is a probability of Lewis Morrison and M. B. Curtis appearing together in a new play at the Bijou.

A large floral piece, in imitation of a tomales outfit, was given Charlie Reed on Monday evening, and his friends insisted upon the "Tomales" song for a second encore. Plain Charlie has no flies on him, at least none that FIGARO saw while there. Possibly Dr. Klug has them all at the Orpheum under his giant microscope.

The make-up of the Chinese actors is something quite extraordinary. There are no female players, but the male players perform women's parts with such skill that it is difficult to believe they are not women, the imitation of the feminine voice and gesture being absolutely perfect. The face and neck of the actor is first painted snow white—Chinese white, in fact—and on that is painted the delicate complexion of the ideal of Chinese female beauty, with flushed cheeks, black eyebrows and eye-lashes, cherry lips, etc. A wig of thick, glossy, braided black hair, fastened with large-headed pins, completes the disguise as far as the head is concerned. But all other details of figure and dress are carefully attended to, the shoes being ingeniously contrived so as to give the appearance of the Chinese ladies' little trotters. The costumes of the company are almost too gorgeous for description, some of the garments being said to be worth thousands of dollars. A Chinese theatre decidedly has its points, and the company will be welcomed here if only for a onange.—[N. Y. Truth.

Manager Morosco has "Six Degrees of Crime" underlined for the next week's attraction at his theatre.

Washington Norton (a pioneer minstrel) and wife, with their "Merrymakers" Co., were giving drawing-room entertainments at Malta, June 7th, under the patronage of the Governor. The Nortons are en route homeward. They own a large fruit and cattle ranch in Shasta County.

A dramatization of Rider Haggard's "Dawn," which was a success in London when it was produced under the title of "Devil Caresfoot," will be given for the first time in America at the Bijou July 8.

James W. Hamilton presented Charlie Reed a queer kind of a watch at his reception at the Alcazar Monday night. It is a Vienna made oxidized silver ticker, pretty thick in the girth, and in looks is a reminder in miniature of the watch that Wood & Shepard use in their musical act at the California. But this watch is a different kind of a watch—it is a teller. It is full of little wheels and dials, and tells Reed the day of the week and month, what time rehearsal is called, and scores how many beers he drinks at night, besides telling him when the moon is full—as well as when he is full—and many other things. It is a dry watch and can be soaked without injuring its works. Mr. Reed will be happy to show any doubting Thomas the watch as proof of the truth of this statement.

Our illustration to-day is pretty Lilly Clay, the burlesque queen. Who commences a one-week's stand next Sunday at the Grand, when she can be seen.

Mrs. Judge Terry will shortly deliver a lecture at the Grand Opera House on the subject of her litigation with the Sharon family, under the management of Charles MacGeachy, who held her under contract to appear there three years ago as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." Sharon's death occurring at the time caused a cancellation of the engagement. The contract calls for an extended lecturing tour and specifies that Mrs. Terry shall have seventy per cent of the receipts; that she shall travel in a special car, have suites of rooms with her meals served in them at hotels, and keep herself as much as possible from public observation by being veiled when traveling. Judge Terry will not accompany his wife steadily during her tour, as a member of his family will go with Mrs. T. as chaperone. They will be only little quiet talks, but, like the warm breath of the South, they may have a withering effect upon the roses of Sharon and extend over a wide Field of action.

Manager Gus Piton, now here, is accredited with giving James O'Neill the start in "Monte Cristo," which has made him a rich man. He drifted around here in San Francisco for years under Tom Maguire's blighting management. He went East and Mr. Piton persuaded him to give up "The American King," a play that was giving him a frost, and launch out in "Monte Cristo." Result, a fortune.

No pent up continent contracts Barnum's powers—to say nothing of Utica—for he is going to take his whole show over the briny for a London season in the Fall. His agent has leased the Olympia for exhibition purposes, and gives out that as the show is "too ponderous to move over the country" it will not be exhibited in any other city than London. That is Barnum bunkum. His show has been moved pretty lively over the country here, and can travel the same way there. Its transportation across the Atlantic will be the greatest difficulty. It will take a big steamer or two to do that, and menagerie animals generally don't care much about going to sea for their health. There is a deal of trouble and some risk in it.

Beatrice Lieb, a popular Eastern actress, makes a charming Irish heiress and heroine of "The Paymaster."

"Pete," Harrigan's piece at the Alcazar, deals in Southern life exclusively. It was never played here before. He produced it in New York after he returned from San Francisco.

The boys from the gallery of the Bush gave cheers for Harrison and Theodore Hamilton in front of the Bush after the performance of "The Paymaster" Monday night.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque company that is sweeping down upon us via the Northern R. R., leaving a trail of success to mark its path. The performance is spoken of as clean and enjoyable.

J. J. Wallace comes to the front with his three-act drama, "The Irish Exile," playing the part of Fitzgerald, the patriot, at the Vienna this week, in his usual clear-cut and vigorous style.

The staging of "The Paymaster" is great. It has been made a feature of the play since we saw it here. It is the only tank play that has lived. It holds water as a big attraction where the other wet plays have petered out.

Charlie Reed says he will black up "fur de las' time" during his Alcazar engagement, notwithstanding his tumultuous reception Monday night.

Lewis Morrison has given great attention to the production of "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," at the Bijou this week. It is very effectively staged.

Morosco's company in "The Streets of New York" this week, James Carden and Darrell Vinton alternating as Badger and Bloodgood (Gid) every night.

Terry has joined the gang.

What used to be John McCullough's bonnie Kate Forsythe made "quite a successful" London debut, in the Comedy Theatre, on the 29th, so the wires tell us. The play was "The Tigress," the fiercest of titles for a play with a woman for its heroine. The support is English, and Miss Forsythe contemplates a tour in the provinces with her play.

Mr. Frank H. Tyner, representative of Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company, is in town, and is hustling out the paper for his attraction with lightning speed.

Duncan B. Harrison's "Paymaster" has been moulded into a very strong play, and he brings with him a very strong company in support—Theodore Hamilton, Thos. A. Wise, Annie Alliston and others. It is at the Bush this week.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Emily Soldene will travel next season with Mestayer's Tourists.

Billy Emerson's bright lights, his resplendent array of personal jewelry pledged to the suspended California National Bank, probably as security for the rent of the Bijou when he held possession of it, was sold by order of the receiver on Tuesday by Easton & Eldridge at public auction. They consisted of a watch and fob chain, two diamond rings, three scarf-pins, diamond charm, sleeve-buttons and locket. The aggregate returns of the sale was $789 50. So passes the glory of Emerson's headlights. A friend wired Emerson that they would be sold, "Answer," and this dispatch came back: "Let her go, Gallagher. WM. EMERSON."

If you don't go to the Orpheum this week you cannot see the remarkable effects of Dr. Klug's Giant Microscope Exhibition, a European novelty. Besides there are the three Eddys, the great gymnasts; M'lle Emma Eddy, the graceful lady acrobat; Vanola, the Mexican foot juggler; the three Phoites, the grotesques; Lamandue, emperor of the wire, and the three Carles, the German musical grotesques, in an entertaining and varied bill.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: Pitrot, the protean artist; Prof. Jean Weitzman, the king of the wire; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; the three Franklins, sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the improvisatore on local subjects; Franks & O'Dell, neat sketch artists; Bursell, of the flying feet, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

The revolutionizing lady acrobat, M'lle Emma Eddy, who turns somersaults in long skirts, a la man, at the Orpheum, is one of the greatest specialty novelties ever on its stage. The revolvers are done with such quickness that the lady's skirts never become disarranged and there is not a suggestion of an immodest nature in her wonderful act. It brings down the house with applause.

This is the last week of the Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels at the California, and all the good things evolved in their programme.

James W. Hamilton presented Charlie Reed a queer kind of a watch at his reception at the Alcazar Monday night. It is a Vienna made oxidized silver ticker, pretty thick in the girth, and in looks is a reminder in miniature of the watch that Wood & Shepardson in their musical act at the California. But this watch is a different kind of a watch—it is a teller. It is full of little wheels and dials, and tells Reed the day of the week and month, what time rehearsal is called, and scores how many beers he drinks at night, besides telling him when the moon is full—as well as when he is in—and many other things. It is a dry watch and can be soaked without injuring its works. Mr. Reed will be happy to show any doubting Thomas the watch as proof of the truth of this statement.

Our illustration to-day is pretty Lilly Clay, the burlesque queen. Who commences a one-week's stand next Sunday

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

There were large houses at all the theatres on the afternoon and evening of the Fourth.

Though Duncan B. Harrison is handicapped in acting as Robert Emmet O'Connor, the paymaster in his play, he acts the part in a manly, earnest manner, and with feeling and magnetism.

Matt. Morgan, the scenic artist, has returned East.

Miss Ethel Douglas does a fine piece of emotional acting as the mother in "The Paymaster," and Miss Ida Ward plays a soubrette colleen charmingly.

Nick Roberts leaves for the East, on business intent, on Sunday. He returns shortly.

48,000 cubic feet of water are required for the tank scenes in "The Paymaster" at the Bush. Manager Gottlob's water bill this week is larger than his wine one.

Nearly all the closed theatres in New York are in the hands of scrubbers, painters, carpenters and decorators preparatory to the beginning of the ensuing season, which promises a multitude of musical and dramatic novelties, as will be seen by the following list of opening dates and attractions to be presented:

Bijou, "The Lion and the Lamb"	August	5
Niblo's, Bolossy Kiralfy's Spectacle	"	19

Dixey's new burlesque to be produced next Fall will be called "Seven Ages."

The estate of the late John E. Owens, the comedian, lately realized $28,000, which is one-fifth of its original cost.

Gustave Frohman will star Charles Bowser in "Cheek" next season.

Benton Harbor, Mich., has a new $40,000 opera house ready for the coming Fall.

Kate Claxton and Arthur H. Forrest have bought "Captain Swift" from A. M. Palmer for next Winter's stellar service.

New York Truth is in receipt of a letter from C. E. Blanchett, dated Berlin, June 12th. Mr. Blanchett went over to Germany as the avant courier of the "Wild America Show," an enterprise capitalized and organized by Dr. Carver and Fred. Whitney, son of C. J. Whitney, the Detroit theatrical manager. It is a gigantic undertaking and promises to cut the ground from under Buffalo Bill's feet. "I am pleased," writes Mr. Blanchett, "to say that I have secured the Hippodrome adjoining the 'Great Zoologischer Gartens' for the Wild America Show. I have been two weeks trying to get a lease and today paid my necessary deposit and got my papers. I have been much assisted in my efforts by Mr. Coleman, of the American Legation, and also the New York World correspondent. The grounds are in the city limit, cover twelve acres and are very accessible." The show is, according to all accounts, quite as attractive as Buffalo Bill's, and there is no doubt the latter gentleman will be in anything but an amiable frame of mind when he finds that a rival has taken the cream of the German tour away from him.

William A. Brady has offered the winner of the Kilrain-Sullivan fight $500 a week and all expenses for forty weeks to spar in the concert hall scene in "After Dark" next season, opening in Boston at the Grand Opera House August 19th.

Manager Augustus Pitou has bought of Nathal & Marx an original French play by Edouard Cadol, of the French Society of Dramatic Authors, which he will produce next season with Rose Coghlan in the title role. Mr. Nathan colaborated with Cadol in the writing of the play, which has been accepted by the Theatre Francais in Paris and will be produced there.

Manager Frederick W. Bert is greatly encouraged over the prospects of "Lost in Africa," the new spectacular melodrama which he produces in New York Sept. 2nd. He has already booked dates in Brooklyn and Philadelphia, and a return date in New York. If the new play is as successful as is expected it will have a long run in the latter city. The scenic and mechanical effects will be of an elaborate character, notably a sensational and realistic shipwreck in mid-ocean and a caravan crossing an African desert.

The standing conundrum in the theatrical profession nowadays is, what does Augustin Daly intend to do next season? Mr. Daly has engaged all kinds of odd talent of late, from a negro minstrel to a funny old woman, and curiosity as to how he will utilize them is now at a boiling point. It will probably have to boil, however, until Mr. Daly opens his season, for of all managers in the profession, he is the most uncommunicative on any point, but especially with regard to his business plans.

Mr. Neil Warner has received notice that he has been appointed master of reading in the High Senior Schools of Montreal at a salary of $1200 a year; also teacher of elocution in the McGill Normal School, with an additional salary which will make his compensation reach about $2 000 annually.

There is a probability of Lewis Morrison and M. B. Curtis appearing together in a new play at the Bijou.

Manager Morosco has "Six Degrees of Crime" underlined for the next week's attraction at his theatre.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque company that is sweeping down upon us via the Northern R. R., leaving a trail of success to mark its path. The performance is spoken of as clean and enjoyable.

J. J. Wallace comes to the front with his three-act drama, "The Irish Exile," playing the part of Fitzgerald, the patriot, at the Vienna this week, in his usual clear-cut and vigorous style.

Morosco's company in "The Streets of New York" this week, James Carden and Darrell Vinton alternating as Badger and Bloodgood (Gid) every night.

Terry has joined the gang.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Augustin Daly has engaged R. G. Wilson, negro comedian; Cronin, the variety specialist, and Mrs. Annie Yeamans, of Harrigan's company, for next season.

Some of the greatest musical geniuses were filled with imaginary terrors. Mozart fancied he was environed by people anxious to poison him. Chopin and Meyerbeer dreaded being alone in the dark. Rossini was subject to fits of despondency, resulting from a fear of going mad. Gounod when at work is a victim to melancholy, and Donizetti is credited with having composed his most famous aria just after venting his rage by striking his wife.

Dockstader's Minstrels are doing poorly at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York.

It is reported that Augustin Daly has signed a contract to take his company to London next Spring.

Foreign potentates and nobles do not disdain to pose as musical instrumentalists. Queen Victoria and the Princess Louisa are fine organists, the Prince of Wales is a fair banjo player, the Princess of Wales is an artistic pianist, the Duke of Cannaught is a good flutist, the Emperor of Russia is a fair cornetist, the Duke of Edinburgh fiddles at concerts, the Queen of Italy is a charming pianist, the Empress of Austria effects the zither, Prince Henry of Prussia is a composer and plays on violin and piano, the Queen of Roumania is good on both harp and piano, King George of Greece is clever with hand bells and wine glasses of various tones and sizes, and the Empress of Japan is exceedingly proficient on the Koto a large zither, and they are all in the show business on state occasions.

Alice Lingard talks of a starring tour in America. If she comes, she will be more than welcome, but if she really contemplates any such move, she ought not to take much longer making up her mind. She was a great favorite in this country, and she would undoubtedly be received with open arms; it may be added, for the special information of impressionable humanity, that she is still as beautiful as ever.

Minnie Dilbey who sang with Maplesons company in New York, has been engaged for three months at the Imperial Opera House, St. Petersburg.

FRIDAY.....JULY 5, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurated the regular season at the Bush this week with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18th said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Inslavogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night 'The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Alcazar Theatre.

Ned Harrigan commenced his season this week in "Pete," one of his life-like comedy-dramas, in which he depicts life in the South during the War of the Rebellion and twelve years afterwards.

Mr. Harrigan, as Pete, shows careful study and thorough knowledge of the negro character, and as a result he gives us the eccentric simplicity of the negro in a perfect manner. Mrs. Yeamans is just the same as she was, and always will be the only true Irishwoman in dramatic life.

Charlie Reed, our popular comedian, has been welcomed home in a most enthusiastic manner.

Harrigan brings with him John and Joseph Sparks, Dan and James Burke, John Decker, Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He depends largely upon our local talent for support.

The demand for seats is large, and the season opens auspiciously.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Waddy Googan, with twenty-five speaking parts, will be the attraction next week. It had an unprecedented run in New York last season. It is an Irish American play of New York life, introducing distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

New California Theatre.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels close their season this week to give dates to Mantell and his "Monbars." The distinctive features of these minstrels are their novel Shakespearean first part with white faces, their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. The performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

Sunday night will be last chance to see the minstrels.

Robert Mantell opens in "Monbars" next week. Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and his piece is a very strong one, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes. The scenic artist of the California, Mr. Moess, has been busy during the minstrel season on work required for "The Monbars." He has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes will

Bijou Theatre.

Lewis Morrison produces "Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," a Madison Square Theatre success, its first production at this house, this week. This is one of Robert Buchanan's strongest plays, and its interest is well developed and sustained to the end.

Mr. Morrison's impersonation is well studied and finely sustained throughout. Miss Stella Rees is graceful, forcible and effective, in the last scene particularly. Miss Clyde Heron has an unpleasant role, nevertheless it is well played. Miss Roberts is natural and pretty as Alice Bellair. Little Mabel Bowman is a charming bit of precocious humanity, and, as Gretchen, wins all hearts. Mr. Russ Whytal renders Mr. Morrison fine support as the rascally partner.

The piece has been handsomely mounted, and we think it has been fully demonstrated that the Bijou is well suited to dramatic purposes.

In addition to the company Mr. Morrison brought with him from New York, Fanny Young and Miss Clyde Heron appear in the cast.

Next week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," will have its first production in this city.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music, ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, rich costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill consists of "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and scenes, and the dashing burlesque of Robinson Crusoe, with all the company in its spectacular effects.

See announcement on another page of FIGARO, containing an accurate likeness of the "Fair Lilly of burlesquers."

Orpheum Opera House.

This week the attraction is Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty; the three Pholtes, pantomimists; Lamondue, wire walker; the Carle Family and the soloist of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

This is the second anniversary week of the Orpheum's successful career, and what a world of talent Managers Walter and Roberts have brought to this coast during the two years of its existence; and how varied has been the entertainment presented. They have given opera seasons, specialty seasons, minstrel seasons Shakespearean seasons, comedy seasons, pantomime seasons, and run all through the line of amusements, presenting attractions from every country—for they have been distinctively importers of talent—for the pleasure of their patrons. These gentlemen have proven themselves to have been indeed caterers in amusements.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house, with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," will be this week's bill, Mr. Darrell Vinton and Mr. James Carden alternating in the roles of Badger and Bloodgood, the banker.

Mr. James Carden sustains the part of Badger in a very satisfactory manner, and that too without using Frank Mayo as a model. Off-nights he assumes the role of Bloodgood, and Darrell Vinton will be the happy Bohemian Badger. Charlie Bates has grown to be a manly fellow, and he plays the double role of the Faithweathers, father and son, very well. Miss May Nannery looks very pretty as Lucy Fairweather and is sufficiently pathetic.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week the new people are Prof. Jean Weitzman, the Bicketts, Bob Harrison and the great Pitrot.

The three Franklins (John, Lillie and James); comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team; Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, F. M. Franklin, Adeline Brandon, Kittie Belmour, Elsie Adair and others, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week the attraction will be J. J. Wallace in his original play, "The Irish Exile," an emotional Irish drama in a prologue and three acts, with Mr. Wallace as the patriot hero, Gerald Fitzgerald.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison inaugurated the regular season at the Bush this week with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18th said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Inala-vogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night 'The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Alcazar Theatre.

Ned Harrigan has drawn large houses in "Pete," in which he depicts life in the South during the War of the Rebellion and twelve years afterwards, supported by Charlie Reed and his New York importations.

Harrigan brings with him John and Joseph Sparks, Dan and James Burke, John Decker, Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He also draws largely upon our local talent for support.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Waddy Googan, with twenty-five speaking parts, will be the attraction next week. It had an unprecedented run in New York last season. It is an Irish American play of New York life, introducing distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

New California Theatre.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels close their season this week to give date to Mantell and his "Monbars." The distinctive features of these minstrels are their novel Shakespearean first part with white faces, their clever comedians, fine vocalists, novel acts, new stage business and taking specialty performers. The performance is novel as well as being amusing and entertaining.

Sunday night will be last chance to see the minstrels.

Robert Mantell opens in "Monbars" next week. Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and his piece is a very strong one, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes. The scenic artist of the California, Mr. Mosse, has been busy during the minstrel season on work required for "The Monbars." He has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes will be new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" will have a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

"Borgfeldt & Co., or Partners," has chronicled another success for Morrison and company at the Bijou this week. The play has had a careful and effective representation. It gives way to another dramatic novelty after Sunday night.

The piece has been handsomely mounted, and we think it has been fully demonstrated that the Bijou is well suited to dramatic purposes.

Next week, the great London success, Devil's Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," has its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot, nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

Jean Clora Walters, just returned from the East, has been specially engaged to play Pigott.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company opens at the Grand Sunday night. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music, ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, rich costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill consists of "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and scenes, and the dashing burlesque of Robinson Crusoe, with all the company in its spectacular effects.

See announcement on another page of FIGARO, containing an accurate likeness of the "Fair Lilly of burlesquers."

Orpheum Opera House.

This week the attraction is Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty; the three Phoites, pantomimists; Lamondue, wire walker; the Carle Family and the soloist of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

This has been the second anniversary week of the Orpheum's successful career, and has been duly celebrated.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

That fine standard play and dramatic picture of New York life, "The Streets of New York," has been this week's bill, Mr. Darrell Vinton and Mr. James Carden alternating in the roles of Badger and Bloodgood, the banker.

Mr. James Carden sustained the part of Badger in a very satisfactory manner, and that too without using Frank Mayo as a model. Off-nights he assumed the role of Bloodgood, and Darrell Vinton was the happy Bohemian Badger. Miss May Nannery looked very pretty as Lucy Fairweather and was sufficiently pathetic.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week the new people are Prof. Jean Weitzman, the Bicketts, Bob Harrison and the great Pitrot.

The three Franklins (John, Lillie and James); comedy sketch artists; J. W. Kelley, the comedian and remarkable impromptu versifier; Franks & O'Dell, song and dance team; Bursell the versatile, "the great," and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Next week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre. Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre, having become the proprietor of the same, has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, headed by J. J. Wallace, G. M. Turner, F. M. Franklin, Adeline Brandon, Kittie Belmour, Elsie Adair and others, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week the attraction will be J. J. Wallace in his original play, "The Irish Exile," an emotional Irish drama in a prologue and three acts, with Mr. Wallace as the patriot hero, Gerald Fitzgerald.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission

Bella Union Theatre.

This week is to be a gala week. Stanley & Beasley, musical artists, and Griffin & Langan have been added to the already strong bill.

Johnnie Cain's new and laughable comedy, "Two Buzzards, Cain and Akarman sustaining the principal roles, will be one of the features of the bill.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Birth Weston and Helen Conklin remain on the bill.

This old established house keeps up its record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Another strong bill for next week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion zouave drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week, Martin & Lonsdale, musical sketch team, are the new people.

Glenn & Weston, musical artists, Irwin T. Bush, Rose Lonsdale, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and Jessie Cogill continue to please the Cremorne's patrons.

The sensational comedy drama, entitled "Flanagan's Pup," will be produced every evening.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons next week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Miss Lulu Merritt, the favorite balladist. The laughable comedy, entitled It's Hard to Love, is underlined for the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong; then follow Millie Mayfield, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, makes his first appearance this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

The comical farce-comedy, Nice Weather, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Wonderland, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Jos. R. Grismer has returned from New York with two new plays, "The Burglar" and "The Tigress." The former is an enlargement of "Editha's Burglar," and is said by Boston papers to be a second "Little Lord Fauntleroy." It also achieved a marked success in New York. "The Tigress" is now running in New York and London. Mr. Grismer has the Pacific Coast right to both plays and will present them at the Bush Street Theatre, commencing August 12th.

Abbey has engaged the following opera company to tour this country, opening in Chicago, December 9th: Patti and M'lle De Vere, sopranos; contralto, M'lle Guerine Fabbri; tenors, Signors Commendatore, Francesco Tomagno, Faigi de Zuccia, Robet Vanne and Perrugini; baritones, Sigs. del Puente, Zardo and Maresealchi; bassos, Signors Maracassa and Nooara; buffos, Sigs. Carbone and Mighara; conductors, Sigs. Arditi and Lapio; stage manager, W. Parry.

Jean Clara Walters has returned from the East, and makes her appearance in a good character part in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week.

The wires tell us that Tamagno, the lyric tenor, made a big hit at his debut in London as Otello, in Verdi's opera of that title, on the night of the 5th. His voice is pronounced remarkable for its power, clearness and compass. He has a fine stage presence and is an impressive actor. The dispatch places him at the head of heroic tenors. Abbey holds Tomagno under engagement for an American tour next season.

J. R. Grismer, Phœbe Davies, E. J. Buckley and Jean Clara Walters arrived from the East last week, and will pass the Summer in San Francisco.

48,000 cubic feet of water are required for the tank scenes in "The Paymaster" at the Bush. Manager Gottlob's water bill this week is larger than his wine one.

Archie Gunter and Clay Greene, the dramatists, are with us again to spend the Summer.

The name of the company organized for the coming year by Mr. John H. Russell is The Criterion Farce-Comedy Company. He has three plays from which to choose, and has already engaged Charles Reed, John D. Gilbert, Ignacio Martinetti, W. S. Mallaly, and John J. Ruddy, and the entire company will be completed within the next ten days. The tour will only take in the principal cities in the country. The season will open early in August. This organization will be for the production of farce-comedies alone, and will accept material from all authors who can write for the stage. There will be no stars in the organization. Every member of the company will be featured alike, and the success of enterprise will depend upon the general ensemble and not upon the names of one or two individuals. The City Directory is one of the comedies secured, and On Easy Street, by Clay M. Greene, will probably be another. They are booked at the Bush.

Miss Anna L. Jackson, late of the Conreid Opera company, has signed with Mr. Lewis Morrison for next season.

The Ferguson and Mack Comedy company, under the management of Major Chas. E. Rice, will open their regular season at Bridgeport August 19th.

Lester Wallack's Rosedale has been sold by Arthur Wallack to T. C. Howard, who will put it on the road next season with E. W. Sullivan and Rose Stahl as stars.

Stuart Robson's next tour will begin in Chicago early in September with Steele Mackeye's new play called An Arrant Knave.

Memphis, Tenn., is to have a new $100,000 opera house ready for next season's business.

Francis Wilson tries all his gags on his wife before springing them on the public.

A prestidigitateur named Miller came from England July 1st. He is said to be the most remarkable man, now living, in the magical line.

Oolah is doing so well at the Broadway Theatre, New York, that it will probably be continued all summer without a break.

Charles Arnold arrived in England from Australia June 22d. After filling an engagement in London he sails for this country opening his tour in Hans, the Boatman, Sept. 2, in Chicago. Mr. Arnold will be seen in Philadelphia at the Walnut Street Theatre in October.

Salvini, Charles Wyndham, and Richard Mansfield will occupy Palmer's Theatre, New York, for the first eighteen weeks of Emma Abbott has been interviewed in London. She "was a cloud of black lace; in deep mourning, but radiant with smiles." "Although I am in Europe," said the lady, "I work hard, studying from twelve to sixteen hours a day, or preparing for the new parts I am to appear in." We fear Mrs. Abbott will wear out what little voice she has if she keeps up this sixteen hours a day practice. That is more than John L. was subjected to in his training, and he only lasted 72 oper—rounds we mean. If she breaks down her wardrobe will fill the void. She tells the reporter that she is going to "have thirty new dresses from Worth and Felix. One mantle alone cost a small fortune. It is the mate to one constructed for the Queen of Portugal, only more elaborate. It is five yards long, and is covered with hand embroidery of the richest designs and workmanship." Abbott is rising out of the weeds of widowhood in a manner worthy of the Shah of Persia.

John Moore, the Denver manager, is in town.

A dispatch from Neversink, N. J., July 5th, states that Neil Burgess, the actor, who was badly burned last week by the explosion of a gas machine, is in a critical condition.

Charley Day writes Sam Martin that he is going to Buffalo to take the press biz. of one of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Companies next season. There will be two distinct companies in the field. Send us your advance paper, Charley.

Though Duncan B. Harrison is handicapped in acting as Robert Emmet O'Connor, the paymaster in his play, he acts the part in a manly, earnest manner, and with feeling and magnetism.

Matt. Morgan, the scenic artist, has returned East.

Miss Ethel Douglas does a fine piece of emotional acting as the mother in "The Paymaster," and Miss Ida Ward plays a soubrette colleen charmingly.

Nick Roberts left for the East, on business intent, on Sunday. He returns shortly.

"The Wife" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and "Sweet Lavender" the balance of this week at the Baldwin.

Nearly all the closed theatres in New York are in the hands of scrubbers, painters, carpenters and decorators preparatory to the beginning of the ensuing season, which promises a multitude of musical and dramatic novelties, as will be seen by the following list of opening dates and attractions to be presented:

Kate Claxton and Arthur H. Forrest have bought "Captain Swift" from A. M. Palmer for next Winter's stellar service.

New York Truth is in receipt of a letter from C. E. Blanchett, dated Berlin, June 12th. Mr. Blanchett went over to Germany as the avant courier of the "Wild America Show," an enterprise capitalized and organized by Dr. Carver and Fred. Whitney, son of C. J. Whitney, the Detroit theatrical manager. It is a gigantic undertaking and promises to out the ground from under Buffalo Bill's feet. "I am pleased," writes Mr. Blanchett, "to say that I have secured the Hippodrome adjoining the 'Great Zoologischer Gartens' for the Wild America Show. The grounds are in the city limit, cover twelve acres and are very accessible." The show is, according to all accounts, quite as attractive as Buffalo Bill's, and there is no doubt the latter gentleman will be in anything but an amiable frame of mind when he finds that a rival has taken the cream of the German tour away from him.

William A. Brady has offered the winner of the Kilrain-Sullivan fight $500 a week and all expenses for forty weeks to spar in the concert hall scene in "After Dark" next season, opening in Boston at the Grand Opera House August 19th.

Manager Augustus Pitou has bought of Nathal & Marx an original French play by Edouard Cadol, of the French Society of Dramatic Authors, which he will produce next season with Rose Coghlan in the title role. Mr. Nathan colaborated with Cadol in the writing of the play, which has been accepted by the Theatre Francais in Paris and will be produced there.

Manager Morosco gives the "Six Degrees of Crime" for this week's attraction at his theatre.

A dramatization of Rider Haggard's "Dawn," which was a success in London when it was produced under the title of "Devil Caresfoot," will be given for the first time in America at the Bijou this week.

Manager Leavitt has booked a series of excellent and varied attractions for his New Bush Street Theatre. They include the American Opera Company; John H. Russell's new farce-comedy, "The City Directory;" the Great Herrmann; the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels; the New York Casino Company; Frank Daniels in "Little Puck;" Maggie Mitchell; Murray & Murphy's Comedy Company; J. M. Hill's Company, in "A Possible Case" and other plays; Gill & Frazer's spectacular burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly;" the latest Eastern success, "The Burglar;" Della Fox; Vernona Jarbeau; "The Tourists," and Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Novelties. SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels separate and reorganize at the close of their present season. In fact the company is already disintegrated, Billy West having withdrawn from it before it started on its Pacific Coast tour. West and Primrose will organize a company bearing their own names in the East, to start out in August, and Thatcher and Fagan, of the present organization, will join forces and put another company in the field.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

Harry Armstrong, the minstrel, leaves for New York to-day. He is engaged for the new Primrose & West's Minstrels for their coming season.

Lilly Clay and her Colossal Gaiety Co. are at the Grand Opera House. Lilly is a British blonde, born in Derbyshire, in 1862, and is a remarkable woman. She heads and manages her burlesque company so successfully that she has driven all rival companies from the field. In recognition of this fact she is known in the East under the nom de theatre of "The Survival of the Fittest."

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: The Carle Family, four sketch groteseques; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle in music and dancing, are new. Besides there are Pitrot, the protean artist; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; Miss Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

The revolutionizing lady acrobat, M'lle Emma Eddy, who turns somersaults in long skirts, a la man, at the Orpheum, is one of the greatest specialty novelties ever on its stage. The revolvers are done with such quickness that the lady's skirts never become disarranged and there is not a suggestion of an immodest nature in her wonderful act. It brings down the house with applause.

This is the last week of the Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels at the California, and all the good things evolved in their programme.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Augustin Daly has engaged R. G. Wilson, negro comedian; Cronin, the variety specialist, and Mrs. Annie Yeamans, of Harrigan's company, for next season.

Dockstader's Minstrels are doing poorly at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York.

It is reported that Augustin Daly has signed a contract to take his company to London next Spring.

Our illustration to-day is pretty Lilly Clay, the burlesque queen. Who commenced a one-week's stand Sunday night at the Grand, where she can be seen.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison is in his farewell week at the Bush this week with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 16th said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster" was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Insla-vogne glade with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night "The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Mr Charles McCarthy in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan," with twenty-five speaking parts is the attraction this week. Waddy had an unprecedented run in New York last season. It is an Irish American play of New York life, introducing distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

The reputation of its New York run and Harrigan's popularity will theatre "Waddy Googan" a big house and a warm reception to-night.

Harrigan brings with him John and Joseph Sparks, Dan and James Burke, John Decker, Mrs Annie Yeamans and Emily Yeamans as his New York contingent. He also draws largely upon our local talent for support.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell opens in "Monbars" this week. Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting and his piece is a very strong one, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes. The scenic artist of the California, Mr. Moses, has been busy during the minstrel season on work required for "The Monbars." He has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau in white and gold, with portrait panels, the third shows St. Malo a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine France; the fifth an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes will be new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" will have a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Carefoot, a dramatization of H Rider Haggard's "Dawn" has its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Carefoot, nicknamed the "Devil" in the prologue, and as Phillip Carefoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Carefoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, if its reputation is to be credited.

Jean Clara Walters just returned from the East, has been specially engaged to play Pigott.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colonial Gaiety Company is the attraction at the Grand. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music, ballet and beauty, with gorgeous scenery, fairy costumes and stage appointments and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill opens with "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and tableaux, interspersed with end-men witticisms—new and good—and well rendered songs. The vaudeville and specialty features are by Alice Townsend, the La Porte Sisters, the Sheehans, the Metropolitan Trio, Emmerson & Cook and others, and are well given.

The dashing burlesque of "Robinson Crusoe," with all the company in its spectacular effects, closes the performance and permits of an unusually entertaining display of the company in burlesque, singing, and particularly in marches and groupings.

The theatre was full to the doors.

Lilly Clay's company is at the Grand for this week only. Last performance Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, and the soloists of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

Callahan the premier ventriloquist; Brown & Mason, aerial marvels; Miss Kittie Drew, vocal soubrette, and Albert Lee comic vocalist are the new faces for this week.

Next week the attraction will be the London Specialty Company.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical monologuist; Drummond & Stahle, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pietro, nature's mimic, the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos C Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre. 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr Chas Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol" with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien will be the attraction.

Wm Courtright, Maggie Burnell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr Frank A Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion square drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Ackerman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Rosslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing

Halliman's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Halliman's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week. California's representative song and dance artists Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair a very pleasing vocalist, and Miss Lulu Merritt, the favorite balladist. The laughable comedy, entitled It's Hard to Love, is the dramatic feature.

Irwin T Bush, Mattie Wallace Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong Edna Earle Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Billy De Orme, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

Miss Edna Earle puts in a new appearance this week.

The comical farce-comedy Our Hash House is the last on the bill.

The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat compact minor theatre and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday July 14th, grand picnic of the Ferndale Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez, leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10:15 A. SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Lillly Clay's burlesquers are all black-haired beauties except one solitary half blonde-headed young lady, that looks like a lemon drop in a licorice candy parcel when they are all on the stage. A couple of the Clay feminines were strolling up Market street yesterday taking in the town, when near Sixth street one of them started suddenly and uttered a loud cry of fear as a black cat jumped out and rushed past them

"Oh! Emma, did you see that omen of bad luck?" cried the frightened one.

"What! a black cat?" replied the other black-haired one.

"Certainly."

"Nonsense! It is only a story put up on us by those horrid British blondes."

"Is that all, Emma? Oh, I'm so much obliged."

And then they sauntered on all serene, with their raven plumage shining in the sun.

We are requested, in the most delicate writing, to ask Dr. Klug if he will not put a hair from a young gentleman's moustache in microscopic exhibition. Please, Doctor, do.

Vanola, the Mexican wonder, is the best juggler in the business. His transformations are something entirely new and pleasing.

Cort's New Standard Pavilion, Seattle, July 8th: McAvoy & Rogers, Haley & Flinn, De Mar Sisters, Walter Le Roy and Florence Clayton new.

Brown & Mason do a very clever trapeze act at the Orpheum this week. They fully deserve the applause given them.

Cort's Standard, Portland, July 8th: The Thies (Bob and Lulu), Baker & Kelley, Julia Walcott, Tenbrooke & Hanson and W. J. Morton new.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, July 8th: The Gus Hill combination.

It was a grand entertainment at the Zoological Gardens, Butte City, July 4th. A balloon ascension by Miss Millie Viola, with a thrilling leap from the balloon with the aid of a parachute when the airship was up 6 000 feet. A fine specialty performance in the pavilion, winding up with a grand display of fireworks in the evening. The Zoological Gardens bear the same relation to the people of Butte City that Woodward's Gardens did to us in the days gone by.

Little May Brandon is at the Palace Theatre, Denver, Col., playing to good business. Harry and Maud Devoy are at the Olympic, and Ed. Monorief, Hazel Lester, Charlie Donavin and Post & Gross are at the Central, Denver. All the theatres are doing good business.

Arion Theatre, Butte City: Kittie Williams, Dollie Weston, John Lord, Fannie Gorman, Mamie Hager, Ed. McCree, Joe Lyons, Nibbe & Harrison. Kittie Chapman, Harry Stokes, Lillie Richter, Burt Baker, Essie Cleaves, Gus Brown, Burt St. Clair, Lizzie Leyton, Eva Claire, Belle Carson, Birdie Lewis and Frank Binney.

Theatre Comique, Tacoma, W. T., July 1st: Barrett & Livingstone, Goodman & Harrison, Lillie Bailey, the Mauri Sisters and Miss Nellie Woods new.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

Harry Armstrong, the minstrel, has left for New York. He is engaged for the new Primrose & West's Minstrels for their coming season.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: The Carle Family, four sketch grotesques; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stable in music and dancing, are new. Besides there are Pitrot, the protean artist; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; Miss Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Our illustration to-day is pretty Lilly Clay, the burlesque queen. Who commenced a one-week's stand Sunday night at the Grand, where she can be seen.

Francis Wilson tries all his gags on his wife before springing them on the public.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

C. E. White, advance for Charles McCarthy and his drama of New York life, "One of the Bravest," next week's attraction at the Bush, is in town.

There are, it appears, two Charles E. Cooks. The one who is published in the Eastern papers as having left the Maude Banks company in Concord, New Hampshire, in the lurch with salaries unpaid, is not the Charles E. Cook of the Baldwin Theatre. Our Chas. E. is a Californian, has never extended his theatrical trips outside of the Pacific Coast, has never been East of the Rockies, and is at present decidedly of the opinion that it is not always a desirable thing to have a namesake.

Mrs. Judge Terry at latest advices will lecture under the management of Mr. C. F. Riggs of Fresno. Mr. Riggs starts for Los Angeles to-day, and will make all necessary arrangements for the appearance of his star. It is intimated that Mrs. Terry has made certain changes in her lecture based upon information at hand, concerning the recent failure of her manager to fulfill his contract.

Theodore Hamilton has uncongenial lines in "The Paymaster," but carries out very effectively the accomplished bad man in authority and regimentals.

Clyde Harron as the adventuress in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou does a fine piece of characterization.

John F. Ward, the Larry O'Brien of "The Paymaster," is a good comedian and one of the best of stage Irishmen.

The tribulations of Manager R. B. Norris, of George A. D. Johnson, are these: He found his star stranded in Chicago, and after paying his hotel bills and advancing him money to get his trunk, etc., brought him to Grand Rapids, Mich., to play "Jekyll and Hyde," "Stricken Blind" and "Our Boys" during the week of June 17th. Mr. Johnson, who may not have been stricken blind, but was probably one of our boys, while conceding his indebtedness to his manager, declined to play on the 20th unless two weeks' board was paid and $20 in cash was given to him. He was then dismissed. His star set in gloom, and the company went on all the same.

"There is a report current in stage circles," says a New York exchange, "that Marie Jansen will shortly become the wife of a local shirt manufacturer." Nonsense. Marie would blush at the thought of it.

W. J. Florence played Mose in Ben A. Baker's "Glance at New York" at Gothic Hall, corner Broadway and Pearl streets, New York, August 16, 1849. This was the part that Frank Chanfrau made his great hit in as a tough, slangy New York fireman at Mitchell's Olympic, 444 Broadway, a year or two previous.

Marie Prescott proposes to encase herself in Iago breeches and play that scheming villain to McLean's Othello next Fall. We shall see.

Emma Abbott has been interviewed in London. She "was a cloud of black lace; in deep mourning, but radiant with smiles." "Although I am in Europe," said the lady, "I work hard, studying from twelve to sixteen hours a day, or preparing for the new parts I am to appear in." We fear Mrs. Abbott will wear out what little voice she has if she keeps up this sixteen hours a day practice. That is more than John L. had in training, and he was pretty well used up in 76 oper—rounds we mean. If she breaks down her wardrobe will fill the void. She tells the reporter that she is going to "have thirty new dresses from Worth and Felix. One mantle alone cost a small fortune. It is the mate to one constructed for the Queen of Portugal, only more elaborate. It is five yards long, and is covered with hand embroidery of the richest designs and workmanship.' Abbott is rising out of the weeds of widowhood in a manner worthy of the Shah of Persia.

John Moore, the Denver manager, is in town.

Charley Day writes Sam Martin that he is going to Buffalo to take the press biz. of one of the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Companies next season. There will be two distinct companies in the field. Send us your advance paper, Charley.

Though Duncan B. Harrison is handicapped in acting as Robert Emmet O'Connor, the paymaster in his play, he acts the part in a manly, earnest manner, and with feeling and magnetism.

Nick Roberts left for the East, on business intent, on Sunday. He returns shortly.

"The Wife" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and "Sweet Lavender" the balance of this week at the Baldwin.

Manager Morosco gives the "Six Degrees of Crime" for this week's attraction at his theatre.

Jos. R. Grismer has returned from New York with two new plays, "The Burglar" and "The Tigress." The former is an enlargement of "Editha's Burglar," and is said by Boston papers to be a second "Little Lord Fauntleroy." It also achieved a marked success in New York. "The Tigress" is now running in New York and London. Mr. Grismer has the Pacific Coast right to both plays and will present them at the Bush Street Theatre, commencing August 12th.

It is reported that Augustin Daly has signed a contract to take his company to London next Spring.

J. R. Grismer, Phœbe Davies, E. J. Buckley and Jean Clara Walters arrived from the East last week, and will pass the Summer in San Francisco.

48,000 cubic feet of water are required for the tank scenes in "The Paymaster" at the Bush. Manager Gottlob's water bill this week is larger than his wine one.

A dramatization of Rider Haggard's "Dawn," which was a success in London when it was produced under the title of "Devil Caresfoot," will be given for the first time in America at the Bijou this week.

Manager Leavitt has booked a series of excellent and varied attractions for his New Bush Street Theatre. They include the American Opera Company; John H. Russell's new farce-comedy, "The City Directory;" the Great Herrmann; the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels; the New York Casino Company; Frank Daniels in "Little Puck;" Maggie Mitchell; Murray & Murphy's Comedy Company; J. M. Hill's Company, in "A Possible Case" and other plays; Gill & Frazer's spectacular burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly;" the latest Eastern success, "The Burglar;" Della Fox; Vernona Jarbeau; "The Tourists," and Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Novelties. Nine of these fifteen attractions will be entirely new to us, never having visited San Francisco before.

Rose Coghlan is rusticating, riding, boating and fishing by turns, at Sausalito.

Jean Clara Walters has returned from the East, and makes her appearance in a good character part in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

The name of the company organized for the coming year by Mr. John H. Russell is The Criterion Farce-Comedy Company. He has three plays from which to choose, and has already engaged Charles Reed, John D. Gilbert, Ignacio Martinetti, W. S. Mallaly, and John J. Ruddy, and the entire company will be completed within the next ten days. The tour will only take in the principal cities in the country. The season will open early in August. This organization will be for the production of farce-comedies alone, and will accept material from all authors who can write for the stage. There will be no stars in the organization. Every member of the company will be featured alike, and the success of enterprise will depend upon the general ensemble and not upon the names of one or two individuals. The City Directory is one of the comedies secured, and On Easy Street, by Clay M. Greene, will probably be another. They are booked at the Bush.

Miss Anna L. Jackson, late of the Conreid Opera company, has signed with Mr. Lewis Morrison for next season.

Tom Craven at present starring in England, and the author of the Stowaway, comes to America next season to support Patti Rosa in the new play he has written for her entitled Margery Daw. Miss Rosa's tour will be under the personel management of Mr. William Calder, an actor and manager well known here and in England.

Kajanka, has been booked for half of the season in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and will not be presented west of Chicago or south of Cincinnati. The massive scenic and mechanical effects and the large number of people employed in the representation will prevent the spectacle from being played in any but one week stands.

The Burglar, which has made such a marked success in Boston, with Maurice Barrymore and John T. Sullivan in the cast, is at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, this month.

Portland, Me., is building a new theatre to cost $75,000.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison is in his farewell week at the Bush this week with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18.h said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Insla-vogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize. Judging from the reception accorded it last night, "The Paymaster" is in for a big week's business.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan," with twenty-five speaking parts, is the attraction this week. Waddy had an unprecedented run in New York last season. It is an Irish American play of New York life, introducing distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

Mr Harrigan's portrayals of the character Waddy Googan, the Irish hack-driver, and Joe Cornello, the half-crazed Italian sailor, are capitally given, and are very enjoyable. Mrs. Yeamans, as Mary Googan, his wife, has a part admirably suited to her; in the tipsy scene she is very funny. John Sparks, as Goble, the German officer, is also very good. Charley Reed has but little to do in this piece, but he does that little well.

The scene in the Cafe is about the best in the play, the slight difference between the imported waiters being well carried out.

There are a number of songs incidental to the piece, which, like all of Braham's music and Harrigan's words, take, and were loudly applauded. The play will run during the week, and will doubtless draw, although we await Harrigan's old plays, which to us seem to be of more dramatic force and ability.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," is the attraction at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with the mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Antony Fitzgerald, as Father Dominick, a priest, is very good. Mr. Fitzgerald is a favorite here, and his reception last night was very flattering. Mr. Mantell's support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," has its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Caresfoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, in a prologue and four acts. Mr. Morrison plays the dual role with his usual clear incisive manner of characterization. His make-up is excellent. In the dying scene he carries off the full honors. All the ladies do well.

Miss Stella Rees, who is a talented and accomplished actress, does a powerful piece of acting in the scene where she loses her reason on hearing of the report of her lover's death.

Jean Clara Walters, just returned from the East, is capital as Pigott.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company is the attraction at the Grand. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, fairy costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill opens with "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and tableaux, interspersed with end-men witticisms—new and good—and well rendered songs. The vaudeville and specialty features are by Alice Townsend, the La Porte Sisters, the Sheehans, the Metropolitan Trio, Emmerson & Cook and others, and are well given.

The dashing burlesque of "Robinson Crusoe," with all the company in its spectacular effects, closes the performance and permits of an unusually entertaining display of the company in burlesque, singing, and particularly in marches and groupings.

The theatre was full to the doors.

Lilly Clay's company is at the Grand for this week only. Last performance Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, and the soloists of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

Callahan, the premier ventriloquist; Brown & Mason, aerial marvels; Miss Kittie Drew, vocal soubrette, and Albert Lee, comic vocalist, are the new faces for this week.

Next week the attraction will be the London Specialty Company.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house, with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The honors of the piece fall upon Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. James Carden and Mr. Darrell Vinton, all doing good work in their respective characters.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pitrot, nature's mimic; the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison, the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol," with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien, will be the attraction.

Wm. Courtright, Maggie Bursell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion zouave drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Miss Lulu Merritt, the favorite balladist. The laughable comedy, entitled It's Hard to Love, is the dramatic feature.

Irwin T. Bush, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong, Edna Earle, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

Miss Edna Earle puts in a new appearance this week.

The comical farce-comedy, Our Hash House, The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof. Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 10, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

"Waddy Googan" has the Baldwin full share of catchy music. "Where the Swallows and Chippies Parade" takes the cake.

Harper's of July devotes five pages to Harrigan, Hoyt and Denman Thompson. It finds Harrigan's art "essentially sympathetic and delicate, and hopes he will, with his excellent fidelity and refined perception, have the courage to discard altogether the traditional allegiance to intrigue, and in some simple framework frankly commit himself to a prolongation of sketches." FIGARO hopes he will not commit himself to prolongate too much of his simple framework. He is getting stout enough now.

"The Railroad of Love" will be the Daly opening, with Ada Rehan and all the company in Hymen Hayman's train.

The cast of "Googan" is long. Harrigan, Reed, Sparks and Mrs. Yeamans are the principals.

"Devil Caresfoot" is the second Haggard novel to be produced in this city. "She" was dramatically native here and to the manner born.

At the "Battle of Gettysburg" in New York an Edison phonograph delivers the lecture on Pickett's charge. If Col. Roberts, who delivers Dr. Klug's microscope exhibition lecture, could charge the instrument, we would guarantee that every phonographic word would be heard.

When Moobars cauterizes the mad dog bite on his bare arm you hear a property sizzle. This is indeed the day of counterfeit realism in stage effects.

Augustin Daly and company arrive tomorrow, opening at the Baldwin Monday. They play the first week "The Railroad of Love." The second week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Lottery of Love" and "The Wife of Socrates;" Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening, "7-20-8." The third week, varied bill, "Samson and Delilah," "An International Match," "A Woman's Won't," "The Inconstant," "A Night Off," etc.

C. E. White, advance for Charles McCarthy and his drama of New York life. "One of the Bravest," next week's attraction at the Bush, is in town.

There are, it appears, two Charles E. Cooks. The one who is published in the Eastern papers as having left the Maude Banks company in Concord, New Hampshire, in the lurch with salaries unpaid, is not the Charles E. Cook of the Baldwin Theatre. Our Chas. E. is a Californian, has never extended his theatrical trips outside of the Pacific Coast, has never been East of the Rockies, and is at present decidedly of the opinion that it is not always a desirable thing to have a namesake.

Manager Morosco gives the "Six Degrees of Crime" for this week's attraction at his theatre.

Manager Leavitt has booked a series of excellent and varied attractions for his New Bush Street Theatre. They include the American Opera Company; John H. Russell's new farce-comedy, "The City Directory;" the Great Herrmann; the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels; the New York Casino Company; Frank Daniels in "Little Puck;" Maggie Mitchell; Murray & Murphy's Comedy Company; J. M. Hill's Company, in "A Possible Case" and other plays; Gill & Frazer's spectacular burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly;" the latest Eastern success, "The Burglar;" Della Fox; Vernona Jarbeau; "The Tourists," and Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Novelties. Nine of these fifteen attractions will be entirely new to us, never having visited San Francisco before.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

The Burglar, which has made such a marked success in Boston, with Maurice Barrymore and John T. Sullivan in the cast, is at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, this month.

Francis Wilson tries all his gags on his wife before springing them on the public.

Duncan B. Harrison, the Paymaster, acts and reads with more impressiveness on crutches than many of the English drawlers do in the New York companies on their natural underpins.

The telegraphic mention of McCaull's commitment to an insane asylum was not a surprise to his intimates. A steamer companion from Europe with him lately says that his mental condition had become deplorable. He was unable to talk connectedly and had great difficulty in controlling the movements of his body. For over a year past he has not been personally active in his business.

Boston found Mr. Mantell's Monbar love-making "delicious in its sweetness." Nothing of the ice-cream temperature about it, like the home article, we suppose.

Wm. Cronin, of "One of the Bravest" Company, that comes to the Bush next week, will be remembered here as Peek-a-boo Scanlan's former partner when Scanlan & Cronin were the most popular of sketch teams.

"Pinafore," "Cinderella" and "Satanella" are the three long hold outs of the Tivoli's ten years. Each ran sixty-three nights. That is the nearest the Tivoli came to the Sullivan-Kiraln run at Richburg.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in "One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically, and has made it a great favorite in every Eastern city.

Rose Coghlan is rusticating, riding, boating and fishing by turns, at Sausalito.

Several years ago an advance agent arrived in Dover, N. H., and sought the theatre. He ran against the janitor and began to pump him in regard to the town. "How do shows pay here?" he asked. "Pooty good—depends on what kind they are," replied the old man. "How do you think Boucicault would do up here?" put in the agent as a feeler (Boucicault was then in the zenith of his fame with "The Shaughraun"). "Boucicault—Boucicault—who's Boucicault?" pondered the old man. "Oh, yes, now I remember him He wouldn't pull at all. He performed here last season with a magician and made a dead failure—he fell off the rope."

Mr. Abbey will fill the Mary Anderson dates in this country next season by bringing over a branch of the Gaiety Theatre Burlesque Co. to play "Faust Up to Date." It is believed none of the performers who were recently here under the Gaiety trade-mark will return with this second organization. Mr. Leslie, Miss Farren, Miss Hood, Mr. Danby and Misses Linde and Grey will remain in London. The company to be sent over here is headed by Miss Florence St. John, whose name is in London pronounced Singe-on, with the accent on the Singe. This is the part of it that the dudes of Gotham will do well not to forget.

Robert Frazer is putting on the "Last Days of Pompeii" at Kansas City. It is to be hoped the Days will be longer there than they were here.

Mrs. Langtry is reported on the sick list from a severe attack of bronchitis.

Gladys Rankin will be a member of the "Burglar" Co. next season. She will then be Mrs. Sidney Drew. Her husband will also be a member of the same company.

Clyde Harron as the adventuress in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou does a fine piece of characterization.

John F. Ward, the Larry O'Brien of "The Paymaster," is a good comedian and one of the best of stage Irishmen.

The tribulations of Manager R. B. Norris, of George A. D. Johnson, are these: He found his star stranded in Chicago, and after paying his hotel bills and advancing him money to get his trunk, etc., brought him to Grand Rapids, Mich., to play "Jekyll and Hyde," "Stricken Blind" and "Our Boys" during the week of June 17th. Mr. Johnson, who may not have been stricken blind, but was probably one of our boys, while conceding his indebtedness to his manager, declined to play on the 20th unless two weeks' board was paid and $20 in cash was given to him. He was then dismissed. His star set in gloom, and the company went on all the same.

We are requested, in the most delicate writing, to ask Dr. Klug if he will not put a hair from a young gentleman's moustache in microscopic exhibition. Please, Doctor, do.

"There is a report current in stage circles," says a New York exchange, "that Marie Jansen will shortly become the wife of a local shirt manufacturer." Nonsense. Marie would blush at the very idea of a—manufacturer.

Marie Prescott proposes to encase herself in Iago breeches and play that scheming villain to McLean's Othello next Fall. We shall see.

Though Duncan B. Harrison is handicapped in acting as Robert Emmet O'Connor, the paymaster in his play, he acts the part in a manly, earnest manner, and with feeling and magnetism.

"The Wife" to-night. "Sweet Lavender" the balance of this week at the Baldwin.

Theodore Hamilton has uncongenial lines in "The Paymaster," but carries out very effectively the accomplished bad man in authority and regimentals.

48,000 cubic feet of water are required for the tank scenes in "The Paymaster" at the Bush. Manager Gottlob's water bill this week is larger than his wine one.

It is said that Charles Alfred Byrne's Pearl of Perkin will be put on the road next season by Rice and Dixey under the management of George W. Wadleigh.

The Chicago Opera House regular season will open with Mr. William H. Crane.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

This is the last week of the present specialty company at the Orpheum. Dr. Klug's microscope exhibition is a very attractive one, and Colonel Roberts' explanatory lecture is clearly delivered, witty and terse. Emma Eddy, the long-skirted acrobat, is another novelty of note.

There are three Franks and three Marions in the profession, all California boys. Morris Franks and Sam Marion, the best of teams, are at the Cremorne this week. Hayes & Marion, another first-class team, are also there.

Lilly Clay's burlesquers are all black-haired beauties except one solitary half blonde-headed young lady, that looks like a lemon drop in a licorice candy parcel when they are all on the stage. A couple of the Clay feminines were strolling up Market street yesterday taking in the town, when near Sixth street one of them started suddenly and uttered a loud cry of fear as a black cat jumped out and rushed past them

"Oh! Emma, did you see that omen of bad luck?" cried the frightened one.

"What! a black cat?" replied the other black-haired one.

"Certainly."

"Nonsense! It is only a story put up on us by those horrid British blondes."

"Is that all, Emma? Oh, I'm so much obliged"

And then they sauntered on all serene, with their raven plumage shining in the sun.

Vanola, the Mexican wonder, is the best juggler in the business. His transformations are something entirely new and pleasing.

Cort's New Standard Pavilion, Seattle, July 8th: McAvoy & Rogers, Haley & Flinn, De Mar Sisters, Walter Le Roy and Florence Clayton new.

Brown & Mason do a very clever trapeze act at the Orpheum this week. They fully deserve the applause given them.

Cort's Standard, Portland, July 8th: The Thies (Bob and Lulu), Baker & Kelley, Julia Walcott, Tenbrooke & Hanson and W. J. Morton new.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, July 8th: The Gus Hill combination.

Theatre Comique, Tacoma, W. T., July 1st: Barrett & Livingstone, Goodman & Harrison, Lillie Bailey, the Mauri Sisters and Miss Nellie Woods new.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: The Carle Family, four sketch grotesques; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle in music and dancing, are new. Besides there are Pitrot, the protean artist; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; Miss Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison is in his farewell week at the Bush this week with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison and company played a week in Denver en route here, and this is what the Denver Times of June 18 h said of play and players:

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison's thrilling realistic comedy-drama, entitled "The Paymaster," was presented at the Tabor Grand last evening to an audience that filled the theatre in every part and received the play with outbursts of continuous and enthusiastic applause. The piece was presented with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City, the fourth act especially being one of the finest ever displayed in Denver. When the curtain rose on this act, displaying the Inslavogue glade, with an actual waterfall descending a distance of thirty feet into a river of real water, the applause was so great that it was fully five minutes before the actors on the stage could continue the dialogue. The cast is a remarkably strong one, and where all are so evenly balanced it is unnecessary to individualize.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush, and the above notice is as applicable to the performance of "The Paymaster" as it was in Denver. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced.

See description in announced advertisement on this page.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan," with twenty-five speaking parts, is the attraction this week. Waddy had an unprecedented run in New York last season. It is an Irish American play of New York life, introducing distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

Mr. Harrigan's portrayals of the characters Waddy Googan, the Irish hack-driver, and Joe Cornello, the half-crazed Italian sailor, are capitally given, and are very enjoyable. Mrs. Yeamans, as Mary Googan, his wife, has a part admirably suited to her; in the tipsy scene she is very funny. John Sparks, as Goble, the German officer, is also very good. Charley Reed has but little to do in this piece, but he does that little well.

The scene in the Cafe is about the best in the play, the slight difference between the imported waiters being well carried out.

There are a number of songs incidental to the piece, which, like all of Braham's music and Harrigan's words, take, and were loudly applauded. The play will run during the week, and will doubtless draw, although we await Harrigan's old plays, which to us seem to be of more dramatic force and ability.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," is the attraction at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with the mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with disgust of all about tant characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," has its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Caresfoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, in a prologue and four acts. Mr. Morrison plays the dual role with his usual clear incisive manner of characterization. His make-up is excellent. In the dying scene he carries off the full honors. All the ladies do well.

Miss Stella Rees, who is a talented and accomplished actress, does a powerful piece of acting in the scene where she loses her reason on hearing of the report of her lover's death.

Jean Clara Walters, just returned from the East, is capital as Pigott.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company is the attraction at the Grand. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, fairy costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill opens with "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and tableaux, interspersed with end-men witticisms—new and good—and well rendered songs. The vaudeville and specialty features are by Alice Townsend, the La Porte Sisters, the Sheehans, the Metropolitan Trio, Emmerson & Cook and others, and are well given.

The dashing burlesque of "Robinson Crusoe," with all the company in its spectacular effects, closes the performance and permits of an unusually entertaining display of the company in burlesque, singing, and particularly in marches and groupings.

The theatre was full to the doors.

Lilly Clay's company is at the Grand for this week only. Last performance Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, and the soloists of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

Callahan, the premier ventriloquist; Brown & Mason, aerial marvels; Miss Kittie Drew, vocal soubrette, and Albert Lee, comic vocalist, are the new faces for this week.

Next week the attraction will be the London Specialty Company.

The Orpheum enters its third year known everywhere as a popular San Francisco house, with every prospect of extended successful years before it.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The honors of the piece fall upon Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. James Carden and Mr. Darrell Vinton, all doing good work in their respective characters.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pitrot, nature's mimic; the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison, the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol," with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien, will be the attraction.

Wm. Courtright, Maggie Bursell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion zouave drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Miss Lulu Merritt, the favorite balladist. The laughable comedy, entitled It's Hard to Love, is the dramatic feature.

Irwin T. Bush, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong, Edna Earle, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morine.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He

The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof. Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part, entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 14th, grand picnic of the Ferndale Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Irate Passenger (to street-car conductor)—I want you to understand, sir, that you are paid to answer questions. Tell me when we have passed Broad street. Conductor (smiling)—All right mum. Conductor (ten minutes later)—We have passed Broad street now, mum. Git off on the right-hand side and walk back nine blocks.

Sunday-school Teacher — Now, you have named all but two of the persons who went into the ark. Can you tell who they were, Arthur? Arthur — Ham. Sunday-school Teacher—That's right. Who was the last one? Horace, your hand is up; you may answer. Horace (drawling) — Eggs.

Wickwire — You look a little warm, Yabsley. Yabsley — I am, somewhat. Just been looking at an ice gorge, too. Wickwire — Ice gorge? Yabsley — That's what I said. Took that new girl of mine down town and she got away with four plates and then froze up.

Caller—Doctor, Mr. Divine, the muscle-reader, fell into a sort of trance a little while ago, and we cannot arouse him. Is it catalepsy or death? Doctor (a great scientist)—Bring me his head and I'll soon tell you.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

San Francisco is strong enough dramatically just now to challenge any city in the Union to a show of hands. We have Augustin Daly's Company, Frohman's N. Y. Lyceum Company, Ned Harrigan and his New York contingent, Robert Mantell and Co., Duncan B. Harrison and the "Paymaster" Co., Lewis Morrison and Co., Augustin Daly, Charles Frohman, Augustus Pitou, Rose Coghlan, Joseph Murphy, Jos. R. Grismer, Charlie Reed, Clay Green, Archie Gunter and Lilly Clay's fair burlesquers now with us. Most of them playing and drawing paying patronage at our theatres, and all enjoying our mid-July coolly tempered trade-winds that freshly sweep in from the adjacent Pacific, our great climatic temporizer.

"The Brass Monkey" comes out here in three months. Mr. Hoyt comes out with it, as does dainty Flora Walsh and Charles Drew, so long comedian with the Carleton Opera Company.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

A night off. Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. gives it at San Jose 15, Stockton 16, Sacramento 17, Carson 19 Virginia City 20, Reno 21, Ogden 23, Park City 24, Salt Lake 25.

Paris is full—but the theatres are not. The Exhibition, the Wild West Show, the Tower Eiffel and other out-of-door attractions are drawing crowds day and night, much to the disgust and loss of managers, many of them having resolved to close their houses for the summer. Instead of benefitting them, the exhibition has hurt them severely, just as the Centennial hurt the business at the New York play-houses two months ago. The theatrical profession need not, therefore, build big expectations on the World's Fair to be held in New York in 1892 to celebrate the 400th anniversary of the landing of Columbus.

Rudolph Aronson, who is still in Europe, is soon to hear the new Gilbert and Sullivan opera, and if he likes it, it will be done at the Casino next season simultaneously with its production in London. Geraldine Ulmer will then create the leading role in this country.

"Wards Grogan" has the Bush full share of catchy music. "Where the Swallows and Chippies Parade" takes the cake.

Harper's 4th July devotes five pages to Harrigan, Hoyt and Dunean Thompson. It finds Harrigan's art "essentially sympathetic and delicate, and hopes he will, with his excellent fidelity and refined perception, have the courage to discard altogether the traditional allegiance to intrigue, and in some simple framework frankly commit himself to a prolongation of sketches." FIGARO hopes he will not commit himself to prolongate too much of his simple framework. He is getting stout enough now.

The cast of "Grogan" is long. Harrigan, Reed, Sparks and Mrs. Yeamans are the principals.

"David Caresfoot" is the second Haggard novel to be produced in this city. "She" was dramatically native here and to the manner born.

When Monbars canters the mad dog bite on his bare arm you hear a property sizzle. This is indeed the day of counterfeit realism in stage effects.

Augustin Daly and company arrive today, opening at the Baldwin Monday. They play the first week "The Railroad of Love." The second week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Lottery of Love" and "The Wife of Socrates;" Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening, "7-20-8." The third week varied bill, "Samson and Delilah," "An International Match," "A Woman's Wo'n't," "The Inconstant," "A Night Off," etc.

Boston found Mr. Mantell's Monbar

Wm. Cronin (formerly of Scanlan & Cronin), Add Weaver (who plays a veteran fireman of "Old 41"), Geo. Reynolds as Pete, "who use'ter tote de water buckets an' targets," Miss Estella Wellington and Miss Olive West are in the cast of Charles McCarthy's "One of the Bravest" at the Bush next week. Like "Curley" McCarthy, Weaver and Reynolds have been seasoned in California climate before.

E. J. Buckley and Miss Isabel Morris will follow Harrigan's season at the Alcazar, August 26th.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

John W. Thompson and Miss Emma Wilmott have been specially engaged to play Mr. and Mrs. Coggswell in "Old Lavender" next week.

Morrison does admirable work in make-up and impersonation as aged father and afterwards as youthful son in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week. It is something like the "Faust" transition, and he has had experience in both lines to aid him.

An enormous business is being done by the new spectacular extravaganza of the Chicago Opera House, "Bluebeard, Jr." At every performance the house is sold out before the curtain is raised. The production is the most elaborate of the kind ever seen in this country. This is evidently appreciated by the way Chicago theatre-goers are patronizing the piece. "Bluebeard, Jr.," is up for a fourteen weeks' run. Its receipts so far have even exceeded those of "The Crystal Slipper" last year, which was one of the greatest successes ever known in the West. The management has given up all idea of going into New York the coming year, as a satisfactory theatre in that city could not be secured for a run of six or eight months.

Charles W. Allison, the well known character actor, has been engaged for Minnie Palmer's English tour. Mr. Allison will be the only American actor in Miss Palmer's company.

Joseph Jefferson and Stuart Robson will be the only comedians in England or America next season who will play legitimate comedy. Mr. Jefferson will continue in "The Rivals," and possibly "The Heir at Law." Mr. Robson will present the new romantic play by Steele Mackaye, which will give him an eccentric character of true Shakespearean flavor. In addition to this he will have the exclusive control of "The Henrietta," surely the brightest and purest play since Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" struck a mortal blow at the indecencies of Wycherley and Congreve.

The Eastern papers say: "Herrmann, the magician, has had his life insured for $800 000." FIGARO thinks that Herrmann must be losing his head, or he would not be bucking so heavily against a game that he has to die before he can make a winning.

Duncan B. Harrison, the Paymaster, acts and reads with more impressiveness on crutches than many of the English drawlers do in the New York companies on their natural underpins.

Wm. Cronin, of "One of the Bravest" Company, that comes to the Bush next week, will be remembered here as Peek-a-boo Scanlan's former partner when Scanlan & Cronin were the most popular of sketch teams.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in "One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically, and has made it a great favorite in every Eastern city.

Robert Fraser is putting on the "Last Days of Pompeii" at Kansas City. It is to be hoped the Days will be longer there than they were here.

Mrs. Langtry is reported on the sick list from a severe attack of bronchitis.

Gladys Rankin will be a member of the "Burglar" Co. next season. She will then be Mrs. Sidney Drew. Her husband will also be a member of the same company.

Clyde Hurron as the adventuress in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou does a fine piece of characterization.

John F. Ward, the Larry O'Brien of "The Paymaster," is a good comedian and one of the best of stage Irishmen.

"There is a report current in stage circles," says a New York exchange, "that Marie Jansen will shortly become the wife of a local shirt manufacturer." Nonsense. Marie would blush at the very idea of a—manufacturer.

"Sweet Lavender" goes the balance of this week at the Baldwin.

Theodore Hamilton has uncongenial lines in "The Paymaster," but carries out very effectively the accomplished bad man in authority and regimentals.

48 000 cubic feet of water are required for the tank scenes in "The Paymaster" at the Bush. Manager Gottlob's water bill this week is larger than his wine one.

The scene of Henry F. Dixey's new play, The Seven Ages, is laid in New York, and gives Dixey a far greater chance to show his versatile talents than was afforded him by Adonis. He plays eight different characters. At first, he is a young fellow connected with the oldest and best families of New York life. While waiting to take his cousins to the circus, he falls asleep in his grandfather's chair, and his dream makes up the subsequent action of the play. This mental vision carries him back to the time when his grandparent was an infant, and Dixey presents his grandfather all through the old gentleman's life, appearing first as a baby in a perambulator, next as a school boy, and so on through the various ages of human life, up to the time of the old gentleman's death, when the dream is broken, and the young fellow finds himself again in the drawing-room of the family mansion,

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Dost thou know, unfortunate baldhead, whose lonesome hairs stand up in very desolation of companionship when thy silk hat tile is removed, as if to cry "Ah, there!" in the spirit of sociability, that Lilly Clay's Gaiety Company give their last performance at the Grand on Sunday night.

Ten years ago Charlie Reed was engaged at the Bella Union, appearing as both vocalist and actor. In the first part he sang "In My Mind," a parody on the at that time popular ballad, "Baby Mine." Reed's amusing sketch, "Take it Off," was the interlude act. The performance concluded with "The French Spy," Reed as Col. De Courcy. The Vaidis Sisters, Patti Rosa, Tommy Brae and Tom Casselli were also billed at the same time.

$12,500 is what Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels corralled at the California during their two weeks.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

This is the last week of the present specialty company at the Orpheum. Dr. King's microscope exhibition is a very attractive one, and Colonel Roberts' explanatory lecture is clearly delivered, witty and terse. Emma Eddy, the long-skirted acrobat, is another novelty of note.

There are three Franks and three Marions in the profession, all California boys. Morris Franks and Sam Marion, the best of teams, are at the Cremorne this week.

Manager Meyer presents the following company as this week's attraction at the Wigwam: The Carle Family, four skaters grotesque; Gus Leonard, musical monologist; Drummond & Stahle in musical and dancing, are new. Besides these are Patrick, the professional artist; the Bicketts, trapeze wonders; Bob Harrison, the comedian; Miss Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste, and Thos. C. Leary, the versatile genius.

Stanley & Bassley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

A TROUPE OF SAMOA WARRIORS.

Mr. W. C. Cunningham, who expended several years in world trotting, hunting up foreign curiosities in the Orient for Barnums' shows, and who brought the only Australian blacks that ever left that country here about eight years ago, is on the top wave again. Eighteen months ago he arrived here to arrange for the appearance of a troupe of dusky islanders from Samoa, expecting them on by the next steamer; but the war broke out there, and no natives were permitted to leave the island. This was an unfortunate disappointment for Cunningham. When peace began to dawn he sailed for the land of Malietoa, and writes from there that he will arrive on the next steamer with nine of the Samoan warriors, chosen for their intelligence, and expertness in spear throwing, dancing and native diversions.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison is in his farewell week at the Bush this week with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster," produced with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

—o—

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke other men and women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is pronounced by the Eastern press to be one of the most intense excitement.

See announce advertisement on this page.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan," with twenty-five speaking parts, is the attraction this week. Waddy introduces distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

Mr. Harrigan's portrayals of the characters Waddy Googan, the Irish hack-driver, and Joe Cornello, the half-crazed Italian sailor, are capitally given, and are very enjoyable. Mrs Yeamans, as Mary Googan, his wife, has a part admirably suited to her; in the tipsy scene she is very funny. John Sparks, as Goble, the German officer, is also very good. Charley Reed has but little to do in this piece, but he does that little Sport well.

The scene in the Cafe is about the best in the play, the slight difference between the imported waiters being well carried out.

There are a number of songs incidental to the piece, which, like all of Braham's music and Harrigan's words, take, and are loudly applauded. The piece has drawn well.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, will be the bill next week at the Alcazar. Here we shall have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," is the attraction at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with the mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not saundering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with por-

Ille-s'-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," has its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Caresfoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, in a prologue and four acts. Mr. Morrison plays the dual role with his usual clear incisive manner of characterization. His make-up is excellent. In the dying scene he carries off the full honors. All the ladies do well.

Miss Stella Rees, who is a talented and accomplished actress, does a powerful piece of acting in the scene where she loses her reason on hearing of the report of her lover's death.

Jean Clara Walters, just returned from the East, is capital as Pigott.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company is the attraction at the Grand. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, fairy costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill opens with "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and tableaux, interspersed with end-men witticisms—new and good—and well rendered songs. The vaudeville and specialty features are by Alice Townsend, the La Forte Sisters, the Sheehans, the Metropoliton Trio, Emmerson & Cook and others, and are well given.

The dashing burlesque of "Robinson Crusoe," with all the company in its spectacular effects, closes the performance and permits of an unusually entertaining display of the company in burlesque, singing, and particularly in marches and groupings.

The theatre was full to the doors.

Lilly Clay's company is at the Grand for this week only. Last performance Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, and the soloists of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

Callahan, the premier ventriloquist; Brown & Mason, aerial marvels; Miss Kittie Drew, vocal soubrette, and Albert Lee, comic vocalist, are the new faces for this week.

Next week's attraction will be Moore & Gillett's London Specialty Company, comprising the five Gillette, the monarchs of the wheel; M'lle Ella Raime, violin virtuoso; Tyson and Vaughn, musical wonders; Kuriz, the lightning toss-juggler; Basco & Roberts, trapeze comiques; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers; Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder; Ida Aime, vocalist; John D. Linton, musical king, and Dalton & Goodwin, impersonators of plantation characters.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The honors of the piece fall upon Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. James Carden and Mr. Darrell Vinton, all doing good work in their respective characters.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stable, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pitrof, nature's mimic; the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison, the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol," with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien, will be the attraction.

Wm. Courtright, Maggie Bursell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion zouave drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Mr. Joe Natus, the celebrated tenor of Johnson & Slavin's minstrels. The laughable comedies, entitled "No Pinafore" and "Dodging Creditors," are the dramatic features.

Irwin T. Bush, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong, Elna Earle, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morins.

Billy De Orme, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

Miss Edna Earle puts in a new appearance

The comical farce-comedy, Our Hash House, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof. Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part, entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 14th, grand picnic of the Ferndale Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

"For shame, William, to come home to your wife so late. Last night it was 12, and now it is actually 2 o'clock in the morning." "Well, well, my darling, don't be angry. Supposing I had come home early, it would have been 2 o'clock now just the same."

Mrs. Holmes—Why, what's the matter, Angeline? Your eye and your nose—have you been in a railroad accident? Mrs. Laidlow—No, dear; the Woman's Club had a little election last night and I was up for President. That's all.

"I saw you at the opera last night, Mr. Smythe. Did you enjoy it?" "Yes, much." "Which part did you like best?" "O, I don't know exactly. It struck me as being the prettiest when they all wore pink."

Lawyer—My conscience troubled me a little last night about that fee I charged Jones yesterday. Friend (astonished)—Your conscience? Lawyer—Certainly. I was afraid that I had been unjust to myself.

"No, I don't want the thing," said a man when importuned to buy a "pigs in clover" puzzle. "It is not a novelty to me. I've been a passenger-car conductor for twenty-five years."

The smart young man said he had not been in the drug store long, but he had been at the soda fountain long enough to be

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam next week.

We are in receipt of a handsome white satin programme from Cort's Standard Theatre, Portland, a souvenir of the monster testimonial benefit given Mr. John R. Letcher, the popular business manager of the theatre.

Hilton, the wonder, with the Lilly Clay Co. is unusually clever. He performs all his feats with such marvelous quickness that it robs the act of all the usual unpleasant features.

San Francisco is full of female fleas. Preserved specimens can be procured of Col. Roberts at the box office of the Orpheum Theatre. Apply early so as to avoid the hop.

Clinton's Theatre Royal, Portland, July 8th: Fillmore & Darrell, Eva Lester, Campbell & Nibbe, Tommy Rosa, Riley & Fern, Rose Sydell, Jack Wallace and Starrin & Rickling new.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, Mo.: Smith & Fuller, Belle Mansfield, O'Dale & Karnes, Miss Fannie Alton, Carroll & Lewis, J. B. Houlehan, Gibson & Alton, Prof. Wm. Adams, Evans & Krause and Billy Hayter.

Dost thou know, unfortunate baldhead, whose lonesome hairs stand up in very desolation of companionship when thy silken tile is removed, as if to cry "Ah, there!" in the spirit of sociability, that Lilly Clay's Gaiety Company give their last performance at the Grand on Sunday night.

Ten years ago Charlie Reed was engaged at the Bella Union, appearing as both vocalist and actor. In the first part he sang "In My Mind," a parody on the at that time popular ballad, "Baby Mine." Reed's amusing sketch, "Take it Off," was the interlude act. The performance concluded with "The French Spy," Reed as Col. De Courcy. The Valdis Sisters, Patti Rosa, Tommy Bree and Tom Casselli were also billed at the same time.

$12 500 is what Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels corralled at the California during their two weeks.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

This is the last week of the present specialty company at the Orpheum. Dr. Klug's microscope exhibition is a very attractive one, and Colonel Roberts' explanatory lecture is clearly delivered, witty and terse. Emma Eddy, the long-skirted acrobat, is another novelty of note.

There are three Franks and three Marions in the profession, all California boys. Morris Franks and Sam Marion, the best of teams, are at the Cremorne this week.

Stanley & Beasley, the musical specialists; Griffin & Langan, the Irish sketch team, and Johnnie Cain's musical farce-comedy, "The Two Buzzards," with Cain and Akarman as the two pards, are the new features for this week at the Bella Union Theatre.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

A TROUPE OF SAMOA WARRIORS.

Mr. W. C. Cunningham, who expended several years in world trotting, hunting up foreign curiosities in the Orient for Barnums' shows, and who brought the only Australian blacks that ever left that country here about eight years ago, is on the top wave again. Eighteen months ago he arrived here to arrange for the appearance of a troupe of dusky islanders from Samoa, expecting them on by the next steamer; but the war broke out there, and no natives were permitted to leave the island. This was an unforeseen disappointment for Cunningham. When peace began to dawn he sailed for the land of Malietoa, and writes from there that he will arrive on the next steamer with nine of the Samoan warriors, chosen for their intelligence, and expertness in spear

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Sunday evening the Morrison season at the Bijou will come to a close. Mr. Morrison has given us "A Celebrated Case," "Partners" and "Devil Caresfoot" in a most admirable manner. The pieces have all been finely mounted, the stage settings calling for especial notice.

The San Francisco Opera Co., headed by Delhaur & Debrimont, have abandoned their contemplated country tour. The few concerts given in adjacent towns by the company show a balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

Mr. Fid. M. Page makes the most of the small part of Jakes in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week. He is busy, but never "too busy" to prevent his accepting a little tip.

Next week the Vienna Garden will offer as its attraction Mr. Geo. S. Fleming in the strong emotional romantic melodrama, in four acts, entitled "My Mother." Mr. F. M. Page, Geo. Pauncefort and Harry Moore have been added to the company.

Dorste & Oreste, Pauline Markham, Louisa and Ray Allen, of the Allen Sisters, and the Dare Bros. have signed with M. B. Leavitt for his spectacular pantomimic burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly," written by Robert Fraser and Wm. Gill, which will take the road next season under Mr. Leavitt's management.

The regular dramatic season at the Bijou will commence August 19th. Manager White has engaged a first-class Eastern dramatic company and he will present the latest dramatic successes.

Tim Murphy will again try "Dreams" after he closes his next season with "A Brass Monkey." He proposes to take it to the Pacific Slope next season.

Eugene Tompkins is in London buying up all the melodramas he can find.

Bolossy Kiralfy is enthusiastic over "Antiope," which will be produced at Niblo's Theatre, N. Y., August 19th.

Brander Matthews' new play for W. H. Crane will be called "On Probation."

Neil Burgess, who was seriously hurt at his Summer home at the Highlands, N. J., and almost burned to death, was in New York a few days ago, but looked "a sight." His life was saved by his wife's coolness.

The company which H. S. Taylor will put on the road next season in "Kicks and Kisses" will include J. W. Herbert, J. A. Mackey, R. A. Roberts and others. There will be no one particularly featured or starred, the people being selected for parts thoroughly suited to them.

Dan Williams will star next season in "A Grasse Widow." The company will play the Pacific Slope only.

Lawrence Barrett will not return from Europe until September 1st. From last report his mumps are as large as ever.

Mme. Theo promises to make another tour in this country next season.

Sara Bernhardt has introduced a new fashion in sleeves among a lot of new dresses for 'Camille." It is closely gathered on the inside seam and makes soft folds on the outside of the arm. It is called the Bernhardt sleeve, and finishes with a bow of ribbons at the wrist.

Wm. Cronin, of 'One of the Bravest" Company, that comes to the Bush next week, will be remembered here as Peek-a-boo Scanlan's former partner when Scanlan & Cronin were the most popular of sketch teams.

Helen Ludington, once contralto of the American Opera, is to sing in "The Old Homestead" at the New York Academy next season.

Ladies will wear "pancake" hats next Winter, so there will be a chance for occupants of rear orchestra chairs to see what is going on behind the footlights.

Phyllis Broughton, the London actress has settled her suit for breach of promise against Viscount Dangan for $10,000 and costs.

Toronto, Canada, is to have a new and handsome theatre to be called the Academy of Music.

A new opera is announced for early production called "Pour la Patrie," by Verdi, which turns out to be a version of his "La Battaglia di Legnano," which was first seen forty years ago, and which promptly achieved a failure.

Rudolph Dellinger's new opera, "Capt. Fracasse," has been secured by Col. McCaull.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in 'One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically, and has made it a great favorite in every Eastern city.

The Roman theatres have revived "Calandra," a comedy written by Cardinal Bibbienna, which was performed at the Vatican before Leo X. nearly four centuries ago. Forty years later it was acted in Paris before Catharine de Medicis, and was announced as "a play for grown-up people, and ladies were requested to go veiled.

London now boasts of sixty-five theatres and five hundred music halls (variety houses) with a total capacity for 325,000 people.

The Eastern papers say: "Herrmann, the magician, has had his life insured for $800,000." FIGARO thinks that Herrmann must be losing his head, or he would not be bucking so heavily against a game that he has to die before he can make a winning.

Duncan B. Harrison, the Paymaster, acts and reads with more impressiveness on crutches than many of the English drawlers do in the New York companies on their natural underpins.

When Monbars canterizes the mad dog bite on his bare arm you hear a property sizzle. This is indeed the day of counterfeit realism in stage effects.

Augustin Daly's company arrived Thursday. They open at the Baldwin Monday. They play the first week 'The Railroad of Love." The second week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Lottery of Love" and "The Wife of Socrates;" Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening, "7-20 8" The third week varied bill, "Samson and Delilah," "An International Match," "A Woman's Woe's," "The Inconstant," "A Night Off," etc.

The Vienna Theatre—formerly Vienna Garden—is now a dramatic theatre under the management of Charles Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam. See cast and plays in programme ad. in our columns.

Boston found Mr. Mantelli's Monbar love-making "delicious in its sweetness." Nothing of the ice-cream temperature about it, like the home article, we suppose.

San Francisco is strong enough dramatically just now to challenge any city in the Union to a show of hands. We have Augustin Daly's Company, Frohman's N. Y. Lyceum Company, Ned Harrigan and his New York contingent, Robert Mantell and Co., Duncan B. Harrison and the "Paymaster" Co., Lewis Morrison and Co., Augustin Daly, Charles Frohman, Augustus Pitou, Rose Coghlan, Joseph Murphy, Jos. R. Grismer, Charlie Reed, Clay Green, Archie Gunter and Lilly Clay's fair burlesquers now with us. Most of them playing and drawing paying patronage at our theatres, and all enjoying our mid-July coolly tempered trade-winds that freshly sweep in from the adjacent Pacific, our great climatic temporizer.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

Theodore Hamilton has uncongenial lines in "The Paymaster," but carries out very effectively the accomplished bad man in authority and regimentals.

"Waddy Googan" has the Braham full share of catchy music. "Where the Swallows and Chippies Parade" takes the cake.

Wm. Cronin (formerly of Scanlan & Cronin), Add Weaver (who plays a veteran fireman of "Old 41"), Geo. Reynolds as Pete, "who use'ter tote de water buckets an' targets," Miss Estella Wellington and Miss Olive West are in the cast of Charles McCarthy's "One of the Bravest" at the Bush next week. Like "Curley" McCarthy, Weaver and Reynolds have been seasoned in California climate before.

E. J. Buckley and Miss Isabel Morris will follow Harrigan's season at the Alcazar, August 26th.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

John W. Thompson and Miss Emma Wilmott have been specially engaged to play Mr. and Mrs. Coggewell in 'Old Lavender" next week.

Morrison does admirable work in make-up and impersonation as aged father and afterwards as youthful son in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week. It is

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison closes his engagement Sunday night at the Bush with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster," produced with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a fine company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

—o—

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is pronounced by the Eastern press to be one of the most intense excitement.

See announcement advertisement on this page.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan," with twenty-five speaking parts, is the attraction this week. Waddy introduces distinctive cosmopolitan characters that belong to the Gotham atmosphere, with plenty of the fun element in it and a number of catchy songs by Braham.

Mr. Harrigan's portrayals of the characters Waddy Googan, the Irish hack-driver, and Joe Cornello, the half-crazed Italian sailor, are capitally given, and are very enjoyable. Mrs Yeamans, as Mary Googan, his wife, has a part admirably suited to her; in the tipsy scene she is very funny. John Sparks, as Gobie, the German officer, is also very good. Charley Reed has but little to do in this piece, but he does that little Sport well.

The scene in the Cafe is about the best in the play, the slight difference between the imported waiters being well carried out.

There are a number of songs incidental to the piece, which, like all of Braham's music and Harrigan's words, take, and are loudly applauded. The piece has drawn well.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, will be the bill next week at the Alcazar. Here we shall have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," is the attraction at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with the mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," had its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot, nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Caresfoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, in a prologue and four acts. Mr. Morrison plays the dual role with his usual clear incisive manner of characterization. His make-up is excellent. In the dying scene he carries off the full honors. All the ladies do well.

Miss Stella Rees, who is a talented and accomplished actress, does a powerful piece of acting in the scene where she loses her reason on hearing of the report of her lover's death.

Jean Clara Walters, just returned from the East, is capital as Pigott.

The Bijou will close Sunday night for a short time. The Morrison season has been an artistic success and financially a good one.

The regular season commences August 19th with a new Eastern stock company, in all the latest dramatic successes.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company is the attraction at the Grand. This is an Eastern spectacular burlesque organization, with music ballet and beauty; with gorgeous scenery, fairy costumes and stage appointments, and all that goes to make up a big spectacular show. It consists of forty artists, including English and French dancers, and also, for the first time in this city, an Egyptian ballet in national dances. The bill opens with "Beauty in Dreamland," in which more than a dream is presented of beautiful women, groupings and tableaux, interspersed with end-men witticisms—new and good—and well rendered songs. The vaudeville and specialty features are by Alice Townsend, the La Porte Sisters, the Sheehans, the Metropolitan Trio, Emmerson & Cook and others, and are well given.

The dashing burlesque of "Robinson Crusoe," with all the company in its spectacular effects, closes the performance and permits of an unusually entertaining display of the company in burlesque, singing, and particularly in marches and groupings.

The theatre was full to the doors.

Lilly Clay's company is at the Grand for this week only. Last performance Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Miss Emma Eddy, the dashing lady acrobat, is a perfect marvel of grace and acrobatic skill; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, and the soloists of the Hungarian Orchestra in select instrumental gems.

Callahan, the premier ventriloquist; Brown & Mason, aerial marvels; Miss Kittie Drew, vocal soubrette, and Albert Lee, comic vocalist, are the new faces for this week.

Next week's attraction will be Moore & Gillett's London Specialty Company, comprising the five Gillette, the monarchs of the wheel; M'lle Ella Raime, violin virtuoso; Tyson and Vaughn, musical wonders; Kuriz, the lightning toss-juggler; Basco & Roberts, trapeze comiques; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers; Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder; Ida Aime, vocalist; John D. Linton, musical king, and Dalton & Goodwin, impersonators of plantation characters.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The honors of the piece fall upon Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. James Carden and Mr. Darrell Vinton, all doing good work in their respective characters.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stahle, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pitrot, nature's mimic; the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison, the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

The new people for next week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Dramee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol," with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien, will be the attraction.

Wm. Courtright, Maggie Bursell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Kissell, the champion zouave drillist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Mr. Joe Natus, the celebrated tenor of Johnson & Slavin's minstrels. The laughable comedies, entitled "No Pinafore" and "Dodging Creditors," are the dramatic features.

Irwin T. Bush, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong, Edna Earle, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morina.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

Miss Edna Earle puts in a new appearance this week.

The comical farce-comedy, Our Hash House, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof. Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part, entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 14th, grand picnic of the Ferndale Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

"I saw you at the opera last night, Mr. Smythe. Did you enjoy it?" "Yes, much." "Which part did you like best?" "O, I don't know exactly. It struck me as being the prettiest when they all wore pink."

A legal tussel is very clearly in view between M. B. Leavitt and Phil Lehnen about the ownership of the new Windsor Theatre, at Chicago. But Leavitt holds the winning cards.

"No, I don't want the thing," said a man when importuned to buy a "pigs in clover" puzzle. "It is not a novelty to me. I've been a passenger-car conductor for twenty-five years.

There will be two companies playing A Bunch of Keys next season. Gus Bothner will have the Eastern company, and Chas. W. Daniels the Western company.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

John Cort closes his Standard Theatre, Portland, next week, for alterations and renovation. It will be re-opened with an entire new company on August 19 h.

The Cogill Brothers, the California minstrel boys, have become rivited to Australia, and will probably pass their lives there. Their minstrel and burlesque company is an accredited favorite both in the larger cities and in "the colonies."

Mr. Charles H. Day goes out this season as business manager of one of the Cleveland Minstrel Companies.

Ned Homan has tendered a complimentary benefit to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart, to take place at the Cremorne on Wednesday evening, July 17th. Mr. Stewart is very ill with consumption at San Jose, with no hope of recovery. There are a host of volunteers for the occasion, including well known boxers and specialty people.

John Cort's New Standard Theatre, Seattle, will be ready by September 10th. It will be a model vaudeville theatre and a large one.

When the Central Park re-opens a medley of Pompeiian scenery, circus, hippodrome and concert will be the attraction. A curious ensemble, but one it is to be hoped that will in a measure re-imburse the unfortunate managers of "The Last Days of Pompeii."

J. W. Kelley, the Irish comedian, makes his initial bow with his budget of fun and nonsense at the Cremorne next week.

John S. Marr, who joined Barney Ferguson in this city after he and Mack separated, and went East with him as Ferguson & Mack, has branched off for himself and is doing single specialties in the East.

Billy Arnold to the front. The Lida Gardner Female Mastodons and Mlle. Garretta's Australian Novelties was recently organized in Butte City for a tour of the Northwest. The company includes Lida Gardner, Mlle. Garretta, the Pavenellis, Billy Arnold, Camille Kenyor, Lizzie and Frank Arnold, Ed. Monte and Garretta's performing pigeons, Australian parrots and cockatoos, and that intractable; kicking kangaroo, that won't work, but is billed like a circus.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam next week.

San Francisco is full of female fleas. Preserved specimens can be procured of Col. Roberts at the box office of the Orpheum Theatre. Apply early so as to avoid the hop.

Dost thou know, unfortunate baldhead, whose lonesome hairs stand up in very desolation of companionship when thy silken tile is removed, as if to cry "Ah, there!" in the spirit of sociability, that Lilly Clay's Gaiety Company give their last performance at the Grand on Sunday night.

Ten years ago Charlie Reed was engaged at the Bella Union, appearing as both vocalist and actor. In the first part he sang "In My Mind," a parody on the at that time popular ballad, "Baby Mine." Reed's amusing sketch, "Take it Off," was the interlude act. The performance concluded with "The French Spy," Reed as Col. De Courcy. The Vaidis Sisters, Patti Ross, Tommy Bree and Tom Casselli were also billed at the same time.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

This is the last week of the present specialty company at the Orpheum. Dr. Klug's mioroscope exhibition is a very attractive one, and Colonel Roberts' explanatory lecture is clearly delivered, witty and terse. Emma Eddy, the long-skirted acrobat, is another novelty of note.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

A night off. Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. gives it at San Jose 15, Stockton 16, Sacramento 17, Carson 19. Virginia City 20, Reno 21, Ogden 23, Park City 24, Salt Lake 25.

London now boasts of sixty-five theatres and five hundred music halls (variety houses) with a total capacity for 325,000

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Lyceum Company pass the Sunday en route to Los Angeles, where they put in next week.

The Ben and Idalene Cotton Company have returned to the city after an extended tour. Business is getting very dull, theatrically, in the interior. It is midsummer and hot weather there.

Fashionable intelligence. The Samoan warriors are stopping at Huettman's Hotel, Market and Polk streets. They will hold a public levee at the Orpheum on Monday night.

The "Oofty-Goofty" of the New York press, the Sun, Morning Journal, Dramatic News, Clipper and other journals—Mr. Gus Phillips, manager of "One of the Bravest"—arrived in town with his company to-day.

Sunday evening the Morrison season at the Bijou will come to a close. Mr. Morrison has given us "A Celebrated Case," "Partners" and "Devil Caresfoot" in a most admirable manner. The pieces have all been finely mounted, the stage settings calling for especial notice.

The San Francisco Opera Co., headed by Delhaur & Debrimont, have abandoned their contemplated country tour. The few concerts given in adjacent towns by the company show a balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

Mr. Fid. M. Page makes the most of the small part of Jakes in "Devil Caresfoot" at the Bijou this week. He is busy, but never "too busy" to prevent his accepting a little tip.

Next week the Vienna Garden will offer as its attraction Mr. Geo. S. Fleming in the strong emotional romantic melodrama, in four acts, entitled "My Mother." Mr. F. M. Page, Geo. Pauncefort and Harry Moore have been added to the company.

Dorste & Oreste, Pauline Markham, Louisa and Ray Allen, of the Allen Sisters, and the Dare Bros. have signed with M. B. Leavitt for his spectacular pantomimic burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly," written by Robert Fraser and Wm. Gill, which will take the road next season under Mr. Leavitt's management.

The regular dramatic season at the Bijou will commence August 19th. Manager White has engaged a first-class Eastern dramatic company and he will present the latest dramatic successes.

Tim Murphy will again try "Dreams" after he closes his next season with "A Brass Monkey." He proposes to take it to the Pacific Slope next season.

Eugene Tompkins is in London buying up all the melodramas he can find.

Bolossy Kiralfy is enthusiastic over "Antiope," which will be produced at Niblo's Theatre, N. Y., August 19th.

Brander Matthews' new play for W. H. Crane will be called "On Probation."

Neil Burgess, who was seriously hurt at his Summer home at the Highlands, N. J., and almost burned to death, was in New York a few days ago, but looked "a sight." His life was saved by his wife's coolness.

Dan Williams will star next season in "A Grasse Widow." The company will play the Pacific Slope only.

Lawrence Barrett will not return from Europe until September 1st. From last report his mumps are as large as ever.

Mme. Theo promises to make another tour in this country next season.

Sara Bernhardt has introduced a new fashion in sleeves among a lot of new dresses for "Camille." It is closely gathered on the inside seam and makes soft folds on the outside of the arm. It is called the Bernhardt sleeve, and finishes with a bow of ribbons at the wrist.

Wm. Cronin, of "One of the Bravest" Company, that comes to the Bush next week, will be remembered here as Peek-a-boo Scanlan's former partner when Scanlan & Cronin were the most popular of sketch teams.

Helen Ludington, once contralto of the American Opera, is to sing in "The Old Homestead" at the New York Academy next season.

Ladies will wear "pancake" hats next Winter, so there will be a chance for occupants of rear orchestra chairs to see what is going on behind the footlights.

Phyllis Broughton, the London actress has settled her suit for breach of promise against Viscount Dangan for $10,000 and costs.

Toronto, Canada, is to have a new and handsome theatre to be called the Academy of Music.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in "One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically, and has made it a great favorite in every Eastern city.

The Roman theatres have revived "Calandra," a comedy written by Cardinal Bibbienna, which was performed at the Vatican before Leo X. nearly four centuries ago. Forty years later it was acted in Paris before Catharine de Medicis, and was announced as "a play for grown-up people, and ladies were requested to go veiled.

The Eastern papers say: "Herrmann, the magician, has had his life insured for $800,000." FIGARO thinks that Herrmann must be losing his head, or he would not be bucking so heavily against a game that he has to die before he can make a winning.

E. J. Buckley and Miss Isabel Morris will follow Harrigan's season at the Alcazar, August 26th.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

John W. Thompson and Miss Emma Wilmott have been specially engaged to play Mr. and Mrs. Coggswell in "Old

ARRIVAL OF THE SAMOAN WARRIORS.

The nine Samoan warriors secured by Mr. Cunningham, who secured the Australian blacks for Barnum's show about eight years ago, arrived on the steamer Umatilla to-day. They are fine, fierce-looking men, dark and swarthy, with shiny skins, and, strange to say, with hair of reddish tinge. The native dresses they still wore on the steamer—only a sort of breech-cloth about the waist—showed their muscular and lithe bodies to the best advantage.

The world's attention has been directed toward Samoa since the late international disturbances there, and as they are the first Samoans that ever left the islands in a body they will naturally prove a great curiosity. As such Managers Gustav Walter & Co. have secured them to appear in their war dresses in spear throwing and other war-like customs, and in their songs, dance and games, at the Orpheum on Monday.

When Monbars cauterizes the mad dog bite on his bare arm you hear a property sizzle. This is indeed the day of counterfeit realism in stage effects.

Augustin Daly's company at the Baldwin play next week "The Railroad of Love." The second week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Lottery of Love" and "The Wife of Socrates;" Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening, "7-20 8" The third week, varied bill, "Samson and Delilah," "An International Match," "A Woman's Won't," "The Inconstant," "A Night Off," etc.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

Wm. Cronin (formerly of Scanlan & Cronin), Add Weaver (who plays a veteran fireman of "Old 41") Geo. Reynolds as Pete, "who use'ter tote de water buckets an' targets," Miss Estella Wellington and Miss Olive West are in the cast of Charles McCarthy's "One of the Bravest" at the Bush next week. Like "Curley" McCarthy, Weaver and Reynolds have been seasoned in California climate before.

The following stanza from Amelie Rives poem An Autumn Dream has inspired London burlesque maidens with the hope that she will devote her poetic gifts to writing burlesques:

The naked hills lie wanton to the breeze,
The fields are nude, the groves unfrocked;
Bare are the shivering limbs of shameless trees;
What wonder is it that the corn is shocked?

At the recent Bal des Artistes of the Paris Opera Sarah Bernhardt appeared as conductor of an orchestra of one hundred and twenty musicians, with Coquelin as the leader of the violins. Late in the evening, when they played the Infernal Quadrille, which was danced with diabolical spirit, Coquelin cut such antics that he broke his bow and then smashed his violin over the head of a dancer, all with immence enthusiasm.

Milt Gotthold will be the business manager of Josh Hart's Theatre Comique, New York, next season.

Mrs. Alice Chapin Ferris, sister of Mayor Chapin, of Brooklyn, made her debut on the London Globe Theatre stage recently as the heroine of Virginia, the Soldier's Daughter.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Duncan B. Harrison closes his engagement Sunday night at the Bush with his picturesque sensational military drama of "The Paymaster," produced with an attention to detail rarely witnessed outside of New York City.

All its scenic effects are presented at the Bush. The daring leap in the second act, to escape from the guard house, and the more daring dive made in the fourth act to rescue the drowning heroine are the sensational episodes of the play. The piece has a flae company to sustain it, and we congratulate Mr. Harrison on its success.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be next week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is pronounced by the Eastern press to be one of the most intense excitement.

See announce advertisement on this page.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Waddy Googan" has drawn good houses all the week, but must give way to another of Harrigan's pieces after Sunday night.

Mr. Harrigan's portrayals of the characters Waddy Googan, the Irish hack-driver, and Joe Cornello, the half-crazed Italian sailor, are capitally given, and are very enjoyable. Mrs. Yeamans, Charlie Reed, the Sparks, the Coopers, Fanny Young and the company generally have given good support in their characterizations.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, will be the bill next week at the Alcazar. Here we shall have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," is the attraction at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting, and is proving its drawing qualities by being continued for its second week.

Bijou Theatre.

This week, the great London success, Devil Caresfoot, a dramatization of H. Rider Haggard's "Dawn," had its first production in this city, with Lewis Morrison as David Caresfoot nicknamed the "Devil," in the prologue, and as Philip Caresfoot, his son, in the drama.

"Devil Caresfoot" is a picturesque and stirring drama, in a prologue and four acts. Mr. Morrison plays the dual role with his usual clear incisive manner of characterization. His make-up is excellent. In the dying scene he carries off the full honors.

Miss Stella Rees and company have rendered very efficient support.

The Bijou will close Sunday night for a short time. The Morrison season has been an artistic success and financially a good one. Manager John T. White deserves especial credit for the liberal manner in which the pieces he produced have been mounted, and for general good management of his first season. Its success is a favorable augury for his coming new season.

The regular season commences August 19th with a new Eastern stock company, in all the latest dramatic successes.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Grand Opera House.

Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company closes Sunday night at the Grand, "and bid farewell to every fear and wipe their weeping eyes" as they leave San Francisco. You can take your last glimpses of "Beauty in Dreamland" and bid good-by to "Robinson Crusoe" Sunday night.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of Dr. Klug, direct from Europe, with his giant microscopes, magnifying objects one million times square; among the lot, a California flea, and a drop of Spring Valley Water. The Eddys, the very Apollos of gymnasts; Vanola, foot juggler, a Mexican novelty, Schmidt's Swiss Warblers and present company.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum Monday night. They will appear in the spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also in physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, Moore & Gillett's London Specialty Company, comprising the five Gilletts, the monarchs of the wheel; M'lle Ella Baime, violin virtuose; Tyson and Vaughn, musical wonders; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Basco & Roberts, trapeze comiques; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers; Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder; Ida Aime, vocalist; John D. Linton, musical king, and Dalton & Goodwin, impersonators of plantation characters.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, the sensational melodrama, Six Degrees of Crime, will be the attraction; a great play and one that inculcates a strong moral lesson.

The honors of the piece fall upon Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. James Carden and Mr. Darrell Vinton, all doing good work in their respective characters.

The company are well chosen and the plays are always put upon the stage in the best possible manner.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

This week, the new people will be: The Carle Family; Gus Leonard, musical moke; Drummond & Stable, musical blacksmiths, and Helen Conklin, song and dance artiste.

Pitrot, nature's mimic; the Bicketts, finished aerial artists; Bob Harrison, the versatile comedian, and the always welcome Thos. C. Leary are retained to round out a good full bill.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

The new people for next week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Dramee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week "Fun on the Bristol," with Harry Connors in his great part of the Widow O'Brien, will be the attraction.

Wm. Courtright, Maggie Bursell and others do their specialties in the piece, in the grand saloon scene, and add a specialty entertainment to the dramatic one.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Another strong bill for this week, which will present in conjunction with the favorite artists retained the following new faces: Lettie Le Vyne, the charming vocalist; Thatcher & Drew and Miss Gertie Taylor. Cain and Akarman's funny comedy, "Rapid Transit," with the whole company in the cast, is the opening piece.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there. Friday night is also amateur night, when there is always some new talent presented.

The great Kissell and his champion drill next week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akarman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Munis Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present four new artists to their patrons this week: California's representative song and dance artists, Franks & Marion; Miss Stella Clair, a very pleasing vocalist, and Mr. Joe Natus, the celebrated tenor of Johnson & Slavin's minstrels. The laughable comedies, entitled "No Pinafore" and "Dodging Creditors," are the dramatic features.

Irwin T. Bush, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Hayes & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by Bessie Armstrong, Edna Earle, Lottie Gardner and Marie Morine.

Billy De Ome, eccentric comedian, vocalist and dancer, repeats his success this week. He also introduces his wonderful trained dog, Josh.

Miss Edna Earle puts in a new appearance this week.

The comical farce-comedy, Our Hash House, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Love and War, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Prof. Paul, America's representative ventriloquist, and Miss Nettie Stanley, prima donna, are the new faces this week.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Nettie Stanley, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Prof. Paul and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in an international first-part, entitled America's Reception of Nations, commences the entertainment.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 14th, grand picnic of the Ferndale Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

William DeLacy (William Merritt), leaper with Duckback's Circus at Fairfield, Iowa, lately attempted a double summersault in mid-air while leaping over five horses and three men and fractured his spinal column by falling on his back. His injuries were fatal, and his remains were subsequently interred at Mt. Pleasant, Ia.

"I saw you at the opera last night, Mr. Smythe. Did you enjoy it?" "Yes, much." "Which part did you like best?" "O, I don't know exactly. It struck me as being the prettiest when they all wore pink."

Housewife—Your impudence amazes me. I infer from your nose, that —— Tramp — Ah, madam, you do me a great wrong. I do not drink. My nose is simply a blush absorber.

There will be two companies playing A Bunch of Keys next season. Gus Bothner will have the Eastern company, and Chas. W. Daniels the Western company.

Manager J. Wesley Rosenquest has secured a five years' lease of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, dating from next September.

The smart young man said he had not been in the drug store long, but he had been at the soda fountain long enough to be a fizzician.

Mrs. Alicia Ann Stuart, mother of Stuart Robson, died at her home in Boston, recently aged eighty-three.

Alf. M. Hampton will play the leading comedy role in Frank Tannehill's new piece, Bric-a-Brac, next season.

Miss Emily Kean will play the leading role in Loyal Love, which opens Sept. 16, at Philadelphia.

W. J. Scanlan returns from Europe about August 18th.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

John Cort closes his Standard Theatre, Portland, next week, for alterations and renovation. It will be re-opened with an entire new company on August 19th.

The Cogill Brothers, the California minstrel boys, have become rivited to Australia, and will probably pass their lives there. Their minstrel and burlesque company is an accredited favorite both in the larger cities and in "the colonies."

Mr. Charles H. Day goes out this season as business manager of one of the Cleveland Minstrel Companies.

Ned Homan has tendered a complimentary benefit to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart, to take place at the Cremorne on Wednesday evening, July 17th. Mr. Stewart is very ill with consumption at San Jose, with no hope of recovery. There are a host of volunteers for the occasion, including well known boxers and specialty people.

John Cort's New Standard Theatre, Seattle, will be ready by September 10th. It will be a model vaudeville theatre and a large one.

When the Central Park re-opens a medley of Pompeiian scenery, circus, hippodrome and concert will be the attraction. A curious ensemble, but one it is to be hoped that will in a measure re-imburse the unfortunate managers of "The Last Days of Pompeii."

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

J. W. Kelley, the Irish comedian, makes his initial bow with his budget of fun and nonsense at the Cremorne this week.

John S. Marr, who joined Barney Ferguson in this city after he and Mack separated, and went East with him as Ferguson & Mack, has branched off for himself and is doing single specialties in the East.

Billy Arnold to the front. The Lida Gardner Female Mastodons and Mlle. Garretta's Australian Novelties was recently organized in Butte City for a tour of the Northwest. The company includes Lida Gardner, Mlle. Garretta, the Pavenellis, Billy Arnold, Camille Kenyon, Lizzie and Frank Arnold, Ed. Monta and Garretta's performing pigeons, Australian parrots and cockatoos, and that intractable, kicking kangaroo, that won't work, though he is billed like a circus.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam this week.

Ten years ago Charlie Reed was engaged at the Bella Union, appearing as both vocalist and actor. In the first part he sang "In My Mind," a parody on the at that time popular ballad, "Baby Mine." Reed's amusing sketch, "Take it Off," was the interlude act. The performance concluded with "The French Spy," Reed as Col. De Courcy. The Vaidis Sisters, Patti Rosa, Tommy Bree and Tom Casselli were also billed at the same time.

This is the last week of the present specialty company at the Orpheum. Dr. Klug's microscope exhibition is a very attractive one, and Colonel Roberts' explanatory lecture is clearly delivered, witty and terse. Emma Eddy, the long-skirted acrobat, is another novelty of note.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

A night off. Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. gives it at San Jose 15, Stockton 16, Sacramento 17, Carson 19 Virginia City 20, Reno 21, Ogden 23, Park City 24, Salt Lake 25.

Toronto, Canada, is to have a new and handsome theatre to be called the Academy of Music.

The Eastern papers say: "Herrmann, the magician, has had his life insured for $800,000." FIGARO thinks that Herrmann must be losing his head, or he would not be bucking so heavily against a game that he has to die before he can make a winning.

E. J. Buckley and Miss Isabel Morris will follow Harrigan's season at the Alcazar, August 26th.

Joseph Murphy commences his season

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Manager Al Hayman is on his feet again and leaves for New York Wednesday.

George M. Ciprico is going to "resume his position on the stage again." Hung be the flys with black.

Milton Nobles comes to the Bijou this Fall.

Sara Chalmers, of the Daly's, was a debutante in the "Lottery of Love" last October. She had been a prominent amateur actress before that.

Louise Dillon, the bright little soubrette of the Lyceum Company, is going to try whether married life is a failure or not. There is nothing like experience in these abstruse questions.

Mrs. McKee Rankin has a new play to star in.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

The Bijou has closed—this is not an obituary notice. It opens again with an Eastern company August 19th.

Stuart Robson made his appearance fifty years ago at the Holiday St. Theatre, Baltimore, and played with Edwin Forrest, and yet he is only 53 years old. He played the child in Pizarro—and, it FIGARO remembers rightly, his voice was very squeaky at the time.

Ellie Wilton goes out with a Palmer traveling "Jim the Penman."

Karl Gardner in "Fatherland" will be the next attraction at the Bush July 29th.

Sophie Worrell Knight is coming this way with a company before long.

C. B. Bishop remains with E. H. Sothern next season. He could not be improved on for his line.

Joe Murphy follows "Monbars" at the California. His plays are "Shaun Rhue," "Kerry Gow" and "The Donagh."

Miss Helen Marlborough, now playing in Los Angeles, was severely injured by being thrown from a runaway horse while riding out to Manager Wyatt's residence at Pasadena.

The Lyceum Company passed Sunday en route to Los Angeles, where they put in this week.

The Ben and Idalene Cotton Company have returned to the city after an extended tour. Business is getting very dull, theatrically, in the interior. It is midsummer and hot weather there.

Fashionable intelligence. The Samoan warriors are stopping at Huettman's Hotel, Market and Polk streets. They will hold public levees at the Orpheum this week.

The "Oofty-Goofty" of the New York press, the Sun, Morning Journal, Dramatic News, Clipper and other journals—Mr. Gus Phillips, manager of "One of the Bravest"—arrived in town with his company to-day.

On Sunday evening the Morrison season at the Bijou terminates. Mr. Morrison has given us "A Celebrated Case," "Partners" and "Devil Caresfoot" in a most admirable manner. The pieces have all been finely mounted, the stage settings calling for especial notice.

The San Francisco Opera Co., headed by Delhaur & Debrimont, have abandoned their contemplated country tour. The few concerts given in adjacent towns by the company show a balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

This week the Vienna Garden will offer as its attraction Mr. Geo. S. Fleming in the strong emotional romantic melodrama, in four acts, entitled "My Mother." Mr. F. M. Page, Geo. Paunceforte and Harry Moore have been added to the company.

Dorste & Oreste, Pauline Markham, Louisa and Ray Allen, of the Allen Sisters, and the Dare Bros. have signed with M. B. Leavitt for his spectacular pantomimic burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly," written by Robert Fraser and Wm. Gill, which will take the road next season under Mr. Leavitt's management.

The regular dramatic season at the Bijou will commence August 19th. Manager White has engaged a first-class Eastern dramatic company and he will present the latest dramatic successes.

Tim Murphy will again try "Dreams" after he closes his next season with "A Brass Monkey." He proposes to bring it to the Pacific Slope next season.

Eugene Tompkins is in London buying up all the melodramas he can find.

Bolossy Kiralfy is enthusiastic over "Antiope," which will be produced at Niblo's Theatre, N. Y., August 19th.

Brander Matthews' new play for W. H. Crane will be called "On Probation."

Neil Burgess, who was seriously hurt at his Summer home at the Highlands, N. J., and almost burned to death, was in New York a few days ago, but looked "a sight." His life was saved by his wife's coolness.

Dan Williams will star next season in "A Grasse Widow." The company will play the Pacific Slope only.

Lawrence Barrett will not return from Europe until September 1st. From last report his mumps are as large as ever.

Mme. Theo promises to make another tour in this country next season.

Wm. Cronin, of "One of the Bravest" Company, that plays at the Bush this week, will be remembered here as Peek-a-boo Scanlan's former partner when Scanlan & Cronin were the most popular of sketch teams.

Ladies will wear "pancake" hats next Winter, so there will be a chance for occupants of rear orchestra chairs to see what is going on behind the footlights.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in "One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically and has made it a

ARRIVAL OF THE SAMOAN WARRIORS.

The nine Samoan warriors secured by R. A. Cunningham, who secured the Australian blacks for Barnum's show about eight years ago, arrived on the steamer Umatilla Saturday. They are fine, fierce-looking men, dark and swarthy, with shiny skins, and, strange to say, with hair of reddish tinge. The native dresses they still wore on the steamer—only a sort of breech-cloth about the waist—showed their muscular and lithe bodies to the best advantage.

The world's attention has been directed toward Samoa since the late international disturbances there, and as they are the first Samoans that ever left the islands in a body they will naturally prove a great curiosity. As such Managers Gustav Walter & Co. have secured them to appear in their war dresses in spear throwing and other war-like customs, and in their songs, dance and games, at the Orpheum this week.

Augustin Daly's company at the Baldwin play this week "The Railroad of Love." The second week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Lottery of Love" and "The Wife of Socrates;" Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening, "7-20 8" The third week, varied bill, "Samson and Delilah," "An International Match," "A Woman's Won't," "The Inconstant," "A Night Off," etc.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

John W. Thompson and Miss Emma Wilmott have been specially engaged to play Mr. and Mrs. Coggswell in "Old Lavender" next week.

Wm. Cronin (formerly of Scanlan & Cronin), Add Weaver (who plays a veteran fireman of "Old 41"), Geo. Reynolds as Pete, "who use'ter tote de water buckets an' targets," Miss Estella Wellington and Miss Olive West are in the cast of Charles McCarthy's "One of the Bravest" at the Bush this week. Like "Curley" McCarthy, Weaver and Reynolds have been seasoned in California climate before.

The following stanza from Amelie Rives poem An Autumn Dream has inspired London burlesque maidens with the hope that she will devote her poetic gifts to writing burlesques:

The naked hills lie wanton to the breeze,
The fields are nude, the groves unfrocked;
Bare are the shivering limbs of shameless trees;
What wonder is it that the corn is shocked?

At the recent Bal des Artistes of the Paris Opera Sarah Bernhardt appeared as conductor of an orchestra of one hundred and twenty musicians, with Coquelin as the leader of the violins. Late in the evening, when they played the Infernal Quadrille, which was danced with diabolical spirit, Coquelin cut such antics that he broke his bow and then smashed his violin over the head of a dancer, all with immence enthusiasm.

Milt Gotthold will be the business manager of Josh Hart's Theatre Comique, New York, next season.

Mrs. Alice Chapin Ferris, sister of Mayor Chapin, of Brooklyn, made her debut on the London Globe Theatre stage recently as the heroine of Virginia, the Soldier's Daughter.

Von Bulow, the famous pianist, says "an operatic tenor is not a man; he is an

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," will be this week's attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is pronounced by the Eastern press to be one of the most intense excitement.

See announce advertisement on this page.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, will be the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," for the last week at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting, and is proving its drawing qualities by being continued for its second week.

Bijou Theatre.

The Bijou closed Sunday night for a short time. The Morrison season has been an artistic success and financially a good one. Manager John T. White deserves especial credit for the liberal manner in which the pieces he produced have been mounted, and for general good management of his first season. Its success is a favorable augury for his coming new season.

The regular season commences August 19th with a new Eastern stock company, in all the latest dramatic successes.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They will appear in the spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also in physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising a great number of artists, put in a first appearance.

See programme.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday nights of renown in Europe equal to and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance, will give us two nights of his wonders only.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office daily from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Dramee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week, the strong emotional melodrama in four acts, entitled "My Mother," with Mr. Geo. S. Fleming as the star.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akarman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Manie Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Johnnie Cain, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Rena Stanley, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there. Friday night is also amateur night, when there is always some new talent presented.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present three new artists to their patrons this week: Mr. Jas. W. Kelley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. B. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

J. P. BOGARDUS,

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Mixtures," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Alice Mansfield, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 21st, grand picnic of the Bill-Posters' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

William DeLacy (William Merritt), leaper with Duchack's Circus at Fairfield, Iowa, lately attempted a double summersault in mid-air while leaping over five horses and three men and fractured his spinal column by falling on his back. His injuries were fatal, and his remains were subsequently interred at Mt. Pleasant, Ia.

Housewife—Your impudence amazes me. I infer from your nose, that —— Tramp —— Ah, madam, you do me a great wrong. I do not drink. My nose is simply a blush absorber.

Manager J. Wesley Rosenquest has secured a five years' lease of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, dating from next September.

The smart young man said he had not been in the drug store long, but he had been at the soda fountain long enough to be a fizzician.

ELEVEN P. M.

Drop the curtain; put out the light;
The play is ended, and, wrong or right,
The players weary, with minds unstrung,
Enter the bar room one by one.

What's the difference, do you care
That saw them under the footlights' glare?
Do you question if they are ill or well,
As long as no "chestnuts" to you they tell?

"What are their troubles to you?" you say;
"At the end of the week they'll get their pay."
Yes, they'll get it; they are only hired,
To keep the world from getting tired.

They, poor devils, with aching hearts,
Must hide their sorrows and play their parts;
In one short night, from eight to eleven,
Many an actor has earned a Heaven.

So don't begrudge them a glass of beer,
(The Bohemian is sure to crop out here);
Their troubles are over. "Waiter!" I cry,
"Eins! Hello, Monty! Hans, make that zwei!"
—[New York Clipper.

William Crane's forthcoming comedy by Brander Matthews is called On Probation, and deals with the misadventures of an American business man at the Paris Exposition.

Sioux City Iowa, is to have a new $200,000 Grand Opera House next season.

Gustave Amberg has engaged the great German actress Herminie Ciara Delia to begin at his Irving Place Theatre, New York, October 1st.

Steele Mackaye's new play, An Arrant Knave, written for Stuart Robson, will be a costly production, owing to the number and richness of the fourteenth century dresses and scenes required for its effective representation.

The veteran New Orleans manager, David Bidwell, has provided a line of strong attractions for his Academy and St. Charles Theatres.

Graham Crawford and Alice, his wife, have been secured by Janauschek for a third season.

Frank L. Goodwin has prepared The White Elephant, a new musical comedy, for production at the New York Bijou on July 15th.

W. J. Scanlan returns from Europe about August 18th.

Mme. Sembrich has made such a furore in Paris as Amina in La Sonnambula that the local critics pronounce her to be the legitimate successor to Adelina Patti.

Richard Mansfield is back again from his London engagement, which is reported to have realized more glory than cash.

Edwin Booth made his first appearance at the Boston Museum as Tressel in Richard III, September 10th, 1849. Pretty near forty years ago.

Manager Rudolph Aronson, returning from Europe brings the score and libretto of the new opera La Mexicana.

Joseph Doner, a brother of John D. Gilbert, will be the comedian with Mattie Vickers' company next season.

Miss Agnes Evans, late of Evans and Hoey's Parlor Match company, will play leading roles in the burlesque with the May Howard Burlesque Company next season.

Lillian Russell is singing better than eve she did before, and since she has appeared in The Brigands, her acting has improved wonderfully. She is certainly the Queen of American Comic Opera—a mile a head of any of the rest.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

George Drew's funny afterpiece, "Half Way," closes the show at the Bella Union this week. It is really very amusing.

Elite Theatre, Tombstone: Grant & Martyn, the Staleys (Harry and Lily), Mabel Harrison, Le Drew, Ada Mortimer, Eugene Aschlemann and Chas. A. Keene.

When Barnum's Big Show goes to England it will take 800 people—performers, tent-men, animal keepers and assistants of all kinds. Three large steamers will be required to carry circus, menagerie, company and baggage, and the cost of the trip will be at least $500,000. It opens on the Olympia Grounds, London, in October next.

Mr. Charles Boyle, in his wonderful specialty, "Fun on the Beach," introduces some great acrobatic feats which are warmly applauded by the Eureka patrons.

Theatre Comique, Butte City, July 8: Talbot & Cunningham, the Bartineos, May Ruonels, Vernon Sisters, Maggie Foster, Lulu Roze, Frank Binney, Kittie Chapman, Joseph Lyon, Avery Bros., Mamie Dampierre, Fannie Gorman, Dollie Weston, John Lord, Nibbe & Harrison, Mattie Blair, Gardner & Bernard, Lida York, Flora Story, Eclipse Quartette, Zola Vera and Jessie Vernon.

Mr. Frank Binney assumed the stage management of the Theatre Comique, Butte City, July 8th.

Koster & Bial's, New York, July 8th: "Monte Cristo, Jr.," with Louise Searle, Connie Leslie, George Murphy and others.

The Cogill Brothers, the California minstrel boys, have become rivited to Australia, and will probably pass their lives there. Their minstrel and burlesque company is an accredited favorite both in the larger cities and in "the colonies."

Mr. Charles H. Day goes out this season as business manager of one of the Cleveland Minstrel Companies.

Ned Homan has tendered a complimentary benefit to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart, to take place at the Cremorne on Wednesday evening, July 17th. Mr. Stewart is very ill with consumption at San Jose, with no hope of recovery. There are a host of volunteers for the occasion, including well known boxers and specialty people.

John Cort's New Standard Theatre, Seattle, will be ready by September 10th. It will be a model vaudeville theatre and a large one.

When the Central Park re-opens a medley of Pompeiian scenery, circus, hippodrome and concert will be the attraction. A curious ensemble, but one it is to be hoped that will in a measure re-imburse the unfortunate managers of "The Last Days of Pompeii."

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

J. W. Kelley, the Irish comedian, makes his initial bow with his budget of fun and nonsense at the Cremorne this week.

Billy Arnold to the front. The Lida Gardner Female Mastodons and Mlle. Garretta's Australian Novelties was recently organized in Butte City for a tour of the Northwest. The company includes Lida Gardner, Mlle. Garretta, the Pavenellis, Billy Arnold, Camille Kenyon, Lizzie and Frank Arnold, Ed. Monts and Garretta's performing pigeons, Australian parrots and cockatoos, and that intractable, kicking kangaroo, that won't work, though he is billed like a circus.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam this week.

Ten years ago Charlie Reed was engaged at the Bella Union, appearing as both vocalist and actor. In the first part he sang "In My Mind," a parody on the at that time popular ballad, "Baby Mine." Reed's amusing sketch, "Take it Off," was the interlude act. The performance concluded with "The French Spy," Reed as Col. De Courcy. The Vaidis Sisters, Patti Rosa, Tommy Bree and Tom Casselli were also billed at the same time.

Big boxing nights at the Bella Union Tuesday and Friday this week.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Neil Burgess, who had such an unfortunate experience in cremation the other day, is about 45 years old and was born in Boston. His real name is John Knot, and he was graduated from the variety stage. His first venture as a star in women playing was made about twelve years ago with the "Widow Bedott," written by E. A. Locke, 'Petroleum V. Nasby."

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Ada Reban is just the merest trifle plumper than of old.

Barnum begins to want to make a reputation for himself. He is not after money in his trip to England with his "Greatest Show on Earth." It is fame he wants. He says: "Money? Money has nothing to do with it. I am not after money this time, I have money enough. I am not going into this thing as a money-making scheme, and I shall be very well satisfied if we pay expenses. It has been my chief desire for many years to give the English people a show, greater and grander than they have ever seen there, and as I am now nearly 80 years old, I determined to do it while I was still in robust health."

Olive West, of "One of the Bravest" Co., is a San Francisco girl.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the week of the 22nd at the Alcazar.

Charles McGeachy, who was going to take Sarah Althea out lecturing, is really ill at the Lick House. People thought otherwise, and that he made illness an excuse.

Manager Al Hayman is on his feet again and leaves for New York Wednesday.

"One of the Bravest" is a drama of New York characters and life scenes, and, like Harrigan's pieces, intrenches on specialty grounds. McCarthy, Miss Estella Wellington, Messrs. Thompson, Weaver and Casey individually and collectively come to the front with songs and specialties.

George M. Ciprico is going to "resume his position on the stage again." Hung be the flys with black.

Milton Nobles comes to the Bijou this Fall.

Sara Chalmers, of the Daly's, was a debutante in the "Lottery of Love" last October. She had been a prominent amateur actress before that.

Louise Dillon, the bright little soubrette of the Lyceum Company, is going to try whether married life is a failure or not. There is nothing like experience in these abstruse questions.

Mrs. McKee Rankin has a new play to star in.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

The Bijou has closed—this is not an obituary notice. It opens again with an Eastern company August 19th.

Stuart Robson made his appearance fifty years ago at the Holiday St. Theatre, Baltimore, and played with Edwin Forrest, and yet he is only 53 years old. He played the child in Pizarro—and, if FIGARO remembers rightly, his voice was very squeaky at the time.

Sophie Worrell Knight is coming this way with a company before long.

C. B. Bishop remains with E. H. Sothern next season. He could not be improved on for his line.

Joe Murphy follows "Monbars" at the California. His plays are "Shaun Rhue," "Kerry Gow" and "The Donagh."

Miss Helen Marlborough, now playing in Los Angeles, was severely injured by being thrown from a runaway horse while riding out to Manager Wyatt's residence at Pasadena.

Fashionable intelligence. The Samoan warriors are stopping at Huettman's Hotel, Market and Polk streets. They will hold public levees at the Orpheum this week.

This week the Vienna Garden will offer as its attraction Mr. Geo. S. Fleming in the strong emotional romantic melodrama, in four acts, entitled "My Mother." Mr. F. M. Page, Geo. Pauncefort and Harry Moore have been added to the company.

Dorste & Oreste, Pauline Markham, Louisa and Ray Allen, of the Allen Sisters, and the Dare Bros. have signed with M. B. Leavitt for his spectacular pantomimic burlesque, "The Spider and the Fly," written by Robert Fraser and Wm. Gill, which will take the road next season under Mr. Leavitt's management.

The regular dramatic season at the Bijou will commence August 19th. Manager White has engaged a first-class Eastern dramatic company and he will present the latest dramatic successes.

Tim Murphy will again try "Dreams" after he closes his next season with "A Brass Monkey." He proposes to bring it to the Pacific Slope next season.

Eugene Tompkins is in London buying up all the melodramas he can find.

Dan Williams will star next season in "A Grasse Widow." The company will play the Pacific Slope only.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

Mme. Theo promises to make another tour in this country next season.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in 'One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco

THEATRICAL CENTERS.

London has sixty-five theatres when its season is in full blast. Next Winter New York will have thirty-four theatres, Philadelphia seventeen, Chicago twenty and Boston ten. For the week of July 8th San Francisco had, according to programmes published, thirteen theatres open. Eight dramatic theatres, Bush, California, Baldwin, Alcazar, Grand Opera House, Bijou, Morosco's and Vienna (the last recently changed from a variety to a dramatic house); one opera theatre, the Tivoli—reveling in its tenth anniversary with a revival of its opening attraction, 'Pinafore"—and the Orpheum, Wigwam, Bella Union and Cremorne, admission variety theatres. We had only one theatre closed, the Standard. This is a pretty good showing for the middle of July. The most of these theatres run the year round, Winter and Summer, every night including Sundays. Their seasons never close; they are merely imaginary points of time, if noted at all. The Tivoli has given uninterrupted operatic performances by its own company for over ten years, being closed in all that time only six nights, necessitated in making a change in their stage. And this may be taken as record of the history of all our principal theatres. They all raise their curtain year out and year in every night.

Karl Gardner in "Fatherland" will be the next attraction at the Bush July 29th.

Lawrence Barrett will not return from Europe until September 1st. From last report his mumps are as large as ever.

The Eastern papers say: "Herrmann, the magician, has had his life insured for $800,000." FIGARO thinks that Herrmann must be losing his head, or he would not be bucking so heavily against a game that he has to die before he can make a winning.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

John W. Thompson and Miss Emma Wilmott have been specially engaged to play Mr. and Mrs. Coggswell in "Old Lavender" this week.

Wm. Cronin (formerly of Scanlan & Cronin), Add Weaver (who plays a veteran fireman of "Old 41"), Geo. Reynolds as Pete, "who use'ter tote de water buckets an' targets," Miss Estella Wellington and Miss Olive West are in the cast of Charles McCarthy's "One of the Bravest" at the Bush this week. Like "Curley" McCarthy, Weaver and Reynolds have been seasoned in California climate before.

Von Bullow, the famous pianist, says "an operatic tenor is not a man; he is an illness."

Since the Johnstown disaster, more than one hundred and fifty actors have taken out accident insurance policies. If an accident should happen to any of the one hundred and fifty insured, they will receive a weekly sum of $25 as long as they are unable to work, and if they join the "great majority," their heirs receive $5,000. All this costs just $16.

Bob Watt is writing a comedy for Laura Joyce, in which she will star next season.

The company engaged for The White Elephant, are: Harry C. Clark, Georgia

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," presents a strong attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake restaurant is a good foil for theother people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. The Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets," of George Reynolds'; Zeke or "Old Forty-one" of Add Weaver's, and Buster Kelly of H. S. Parker's, were good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece will make a sensation and will draw.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" on the 29th. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, is the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a country banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

Mr. Harrigan's impersonation of "Old Lavender" is too well known to San Francisco people to require any further comment, simply to say that Mr. Harrigan presents the character with the same quiet, finely sustained force, that marked his performance two seasons ago at the Bush St. Theatre. Charley Reed is very clever as "Rats," Old Lav's friend in adversity, and shares the honors with the star.

The songs and music incidental to the piece are full of melody, and never fail to receive an encore.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," for the last week at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with mental and bodily pain, he becomes filled with distrust of all about him. He gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not staunfering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have impor- three fine scenes for the play: The first act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting, and is proving its drawing qualities by being continued for its second week.

Bijou Theatre.

The Bijou closed Sunday night for a short time. The Morrison season has been an artistic success and financially a good one. Manager John T. White deserves especial credit for the liberal manner in which the pieces he produced have been mounted, and for general good management of his first season. Its success is a favorable augury for his coming new season.

The regular season commences August 19th with a new Eastern stock company, in all the latest dramatic successes.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising Ed. Russell, in Silence and Fun; Dupont, a great contortionist; John Brace, comedian; Vanola, the juggler; Bessie Richards, the banjo queen; Kennedy, the bycicliist; Lew Berger, crayon artist; Joe Natus, vocalist; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers, and Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder. It is a big bill.

See programme.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday nights, of renown in Europe equal to that which Herrmann enjoys in this country. Doctor Faure Nicolay has appeared before most of the monarchs of Europe, including the Czar of Russia, who presented the Doctor and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office daily from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week's attraction, the sensational drama "Burr Oaks."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic theatre by Mr. Chas. Meyer, the successful manager of the Wigwam Theatre. He has engaged a

J. P. BOGARDUS.

This week, the strong emotional melodrama in four acts, entitled "My Mother," with Mr. Geo. S. Fleming as the star.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akarman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Munis Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Johnnie Cain, Geo. Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present three new artists to their patrons this week: Mr. Jas. W. Kelley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. B. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Mixtures," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Laura Manning, May Morrell, Alice Mansfield, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 21st, grand picnic of the Bill-Posters' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M., and returning at 7 30 P.M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

William Crane's forthcoming comedy by Brander Matthews is called On Probation, and deals with the misadventures of an American business man at the Paris Exposition.

Sioux City Iowa, is to have a new $200,000 Grand Opera House next season.

Steele Mackaye's new play, An Arrant Knave, written for Stuart Robson, will be a costly production, owing to the number and richness of the fourteenth century dresses and scenes required for its effective representation.

The veteran New Orleans manager, David Bidwell, has provided a line of strong attractions for his Academy and St. Charles Theatres.

Graham Crawford and Alice, his wife, have been secured by Janauschek for a third season.

Frank L. Goodwin has prepared The White Elephant, a new musical comedy, for production at the New York Bijou this week.

W. J. Scanlan returns from Europe about August 18th.

Mme. Sembrich has made such a furore in Paris as Amina in La Sonnambula that the local critics pronounce her to be the legitimate successor to Adelina Patti.

Richard Mansfield is back again from his London engagement, which is reported to have realized more glory than cash.

Edwin Booth made his first appearance at the Boston Museum as Tressel in Richard III, September 10th, 1849. Pretty near forty years ago.

Manager Rudolph Aronson, returning from Europe brings the score and libretto of the new opera La Mexicana.

Lillian Russell is singing better than ever she did before, and since she has appeared in The Brigands, her acting has improved wonderfully. She is certainly the Queen

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY..... .....JULY 17, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Wm. H Crane has secured the successful English comedy, "The Balloon," as one of his pieces that he will introduce to us when he comes to the Bush St. Theatre later on in the season.

What fine and d licate flavor Harrigan's Lavender has!

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian illusionist, gives a grand entertainment at the Standard Theatre July 20th and 21st. The programme includes prestidigitation, mesmerism, hypnotism, magnetism and fine cycloramic views.

Mr. Robert Downing has another new play, "The White Pilgrim," in addition to 'Count Claudic," over which he grows very enthusiastic. The costumes are to be Pagan, Christian and French of the 12th century.

John T. Malone has been engaged to play Iago to Alexandre Salvini's Othello, and corresponding parts in other plays of Salvini's repertoire. Mr. Malone is an old California boy and graduate of St. Mary's College, Santa Clara, and in his youth was intended for the priesthood.

By the death of D'Alvini Prof. Herrmann loses his most important assistant. D'Alvini was almost, if not quite, as great a feature of the Herrmann show as Herrmann himself. 'Cremation" belonged to D'Alvini, and he was the life of "Black Art." The Professor has some idea of canceling his dates in the United States, except his California tour, and going over to Australia for a season there.

Mrs. Yeamans' deaf, good-natured Mother Crawford is played with zest and finish.

Mme. Ponisi has been engaged by Richard Mansfield for the old woman's part in "Richard III."

Phineas T. Barnum was eighty-one years old July 5th, and he is as full of energy and enterprise as the majority of men half his age.

Esau and Isaac, otherwise Imre and Bolossy Kiralfy, have "kissed and made up."

'Put on Your Bridal Veil" for the Alcazar Theatre next week.

Nat Goodwin's son, it is reported, has developed habits that are causing his parents considerable alarm. He insists upon staying up all night howling at the top of his lungs for more drink, and it is feared his fondness for the bottle will prove incurable.

"The Oolah" having passed its fiftieth night, is making its way steadily towards its one hundredth night.

Miss Georgie Dickson, one of the best old women in the profession, goes with Gillette's "Legal Wreck" next season.

The next regular season at the Bijou Theatre, New York, begins August 19th with Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Vaudeville Company.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

Von Bullow, the famous pianist, says "an operatic tenor is not a man; he is an illness."

Herbert Holcombe will play the Squire in A Midnight Bell next season.

Mr. Haydon Tills, a well-known tenor has located in New York, and seems about to revolutionize the art of voice teaching.

Gounod's Romeo and Juliet was lately presented in London in French, and was voted as being a very dull work.

Edward Thurnaer will present Proff essor Miller, an English magician, in New York next month.

Bob Watt is writing a comedy for Laura Joyce, in which she will star next season.

The company engaged for The White Elephant, are: Harry C. Clark, Georgia Parker, Lee Harrison, Bessie Cleveland, Alf. Hampton, E. A. Locke, and Guy Nickols. The season opens this week at the Bijou Theatre, New Yorr.

"Howard P. Taylor, the author of Lost in Africa, has a genuine orangoutang and a live camel from Woodward's Zoological Gardens in San Francisco. They will be seen in Mr. Taylor's new melodrama." —Eddy's Squibs. We know all about the dizzy camel, and think the other specimen must be one of Buckley's escaped lambs.

Mr. T. Henry French has secured Her Father, which was given at an author's

Daly leaves out "Love on Crutches" in his revivals. This was a lucky play for one of his young ladies, Edith Kingdon. She gained her Gould in it. 'Tis said that Daly is suspicious of that play—what if the peerless Ada Rehan should meet her matrimonial fate in it. The precedent it involved is not to be invited needlessly.

Minnie Palmer goes to Europe July 23.

Neil Burgess will probably never act again.

William H. Crane is passing the summer at Cohasset on Boston Bay.

Roland Reed is in the Catskills, where he is hunting the festive trout.

Charles Bowser is rehearsing his company in "Cheek" at Stamford, Conn.

The last scene in "Old Lavender" between the brothers is very touching.

Kate Claxton expects a comfortable income from the royalty of her plays. She has already let "The Two Orphans" and "The World Against Her."

A romantic and scenic Mexican melodrama, "El Toro Espado (The Bullfighter)," is in the field for next season. It is to be garnished with fandango dancers and mandolin serenaders.

'Have you a magnificent wardrobe?" asked the manager, addressing the actress who had just applied for an engagement. 'Why, no," she replied, "I have no wardrobe at all. I'm in the burlesque line, you know."

And she was engaged on the spot.

A. M. Palmer has engaged for his next New York season Maurice Barrymore, Agnes Booth, Annie Russell, Edward Bell, Louis Masser, Maud Harrison, Marie Burroughs, Katherine Rogers, Walden Ramsey, E. M. Holland, J. H. Stoddart and Frederic Robinson. Salvini, Charles Wyndham and Richard Mansfield will occupy his theatre for the first seventeen weeks of next season. The Italian tragedian will begin an engagement on October 7th and remain four weeks. Wyndham will then have the stage for six weeks and Mansfield follows for eight weeks.

Laura Joyce Bell proposes to star next season in a comedy now being written.

Harry and Lizzie Godbold and J. H. Weaver have signed with "Kajanka" for the coming season.

The Misses Anna and Ricci Allen, daughters of John Allen, California born girls, and now quite famous dancers, have signed contracts for "Kajanka" next season.

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Ada Rehan is just the merest trifle plumper than of old.

Barnum begins to want to make a reputation for himself. He is not after money in his trip to England with his "Greatest Show on Earth." It is fame he wants. He says: "Money? Money has nothing to do with it. I am not after money this time, I have money enough. I am not going into this thing as a money-making scheme, and I shall be very well satisfied if we pay expenses. It has been my chief desire for many years to give the English people a show, greater and grander than they have ever seen there, and as I am now nearly 80 years old, I determined to do it while I was still in robust health."

Olive West, of "One of the Bravest" Co, is a San Francisco girl.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the week of the 22nd at the Alcazar.

"One of the Bravest" is a drama of New York characters and life scenes, and, like Harrigan's pieces, intrenches on specialty grounds. McCarthy, Miss Estella Wellington, Messrs. Thompson, Weaver and Casey individually and collectively come to the front with songs and specialties.

George M. Ciprico is going to "resume his position on the stage again." Hung be the flys with black.

Milton Nobles comes to the Bijou this Fall.

Sara Coalmers, of the Daly's, was a debutante in the "Lottery of Love" last October. She had been a prominent amateur actress before that.

Louise Dillon, the bright little soubrette of the Lyceum Company, is going to try whether married life is a failure or not. There is nothing like experience in these abstruse questions.

Mrs. McKee Rankin has a new play to star in.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

Stuart Robson made his appearance fifty years ago at the Holiday St. Theatre, Baltimore, and played with Edwin Forrest, and yet he is only 53 years old. He played the child in Pizarro—and, it FIGARO remembers rightly, his voice was very squeaky at the time.

Ellie Wilton goes out with a Palmer traveling "Jim the Penman."

Joe Murphy follows "Monbars" at the California. His plays are "Shaun Rhue," "Kerry Gow" and "The Donagh."

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

Mme. Theo promises to make another tour in this country next season.

Charles McCarthy, Larry Howard in "One of the Bravest," is a San Francisco boy, and was known here in his boyhood days as Curley McCarthy. He plays his character heroically, and has made it a great favorite in every Eastern city.

Karl Gardner in "Fatherland" will be the next attraction at the Bush July 29th.

Mons. Dupont, the contortionist at the Orpheum this week, does some unprecedented things. His lamp act, in which he places a lamp on his head, lies down on the floor, passes a hoop over body and lamp, and recovers his position again with the lighted lamp balanced untouched on his head all the time, is a wonder of flexibility and equipoise.

An overflowing house is expected at the Cremorne to-night (June 17th) to witness the benefit programme for Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart.

The Samoans at the Orpheum are the very pink of savages. They are none of the swarthy pigeon-toed fellows, but on the contrary are quite light of skin, almost lemon-colored in fact, and have auburn hair. From their excessive agility, and from the ready manner in which they handle their war clubs (shillalies), and the color of their hair, we can readily see why the Samoans are accredited with being of Irish extraction. Even their war-cry, "Fau-won-agh-bragh," is suggestive of Celtic origin.

George Drew's funny afterpiece, "Half Way," closes the show at the Bella Union this week. It is really very amusing.

Elite Theatre, Tombstone: Grant & Martyn, the Staleys (Harry and Lily), Mabel Harrison, La Drew, Ada Mortimer, Eugene Aschlemann and Chas. A. Keene.

When Barnum's Big Show goes to England it will take 800 people—performers, tent-men, animal keepers and assistants of all kinds. Three large steamers will be required to carry circus, menagerie, company and baggage, and the cost of the trip will be at least $500,000. It opens on the Olympia Grounds, London, in October next.

Mr. Charles Boyle, in his wonderful specialty, "Fun on the Beach," introduces some great acrobatic feats which are warmly applauded by the Eureka patrons.

Ned Homan has tendered a complimentary benefit to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart, to take place at the Cremorne this, Wednesday evening, July 17th. Mr. Stewart is very ill with consumption at San Jose, with no hope of recovery. There are a host of volunteers for the occasion, including well known boxers and specialty people.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

J. W. Kelley, the Irish comedian, makes his initial bow with his budget of fun and nonsense at the Cremorne this week.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam this week.

A Western museum exhibits a snake skin upon which the following truthful explanation is posted: "Skin of the serpent that tempted Eve in the Garden of Paradise. It was killed by Adam the following day after the treason. Adam hit it with a club, of which traces are still left. This skin was part of the inheritance of Adam, and was preserved in his family in Asia."

By-and-by. St. Peter (at the gate)—"Who knocks?" "I'm the man who made

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," presents a strong attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake restaurant is a good foil for the other people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece will make a sensation and will draw.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" on the 29th. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, is the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

Mr. Harrigan's impersonation of "Old Lavender" is too well known to San Francisco people to require any further comment, simply to say that Mr. Harrigan presents the character with the same quiet, finely sustained force, that marked his performance two seasons ago at the Bush St. Theatre. Charley Reed is very clever as Dick, "the rat," Old Lav's friend in adversity; the Sparks, the Coopers, John Thompson, and others, render good support.

Mrs. Yeamans as Mother Crawford, the keeper of the sailors' boarding house, is simply admirable.

The songs and music incidental to the piece are full of melody, and never fail to receive an encore.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, will form next week's bill at Alcazar.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," for the last week at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being [illegible] of fine scenery acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The firs act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting, and is proving its drawing qualities by being continued for its second week.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement at the California next week in his new play, "The Donagh."

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and experiness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising Ed. Russell, in Silence and Fun; Dupont, a great contortionist; John Brace, comedian; Vanola, the juggler; Bessie Richards, the banjo queen; Kennedy, the byciclist; Neuberger, crayon artist; Joe Natus, vocalist; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers, and Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder. It is a big bill.

See programme.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday nights, of renown in Europe equal to that which Herrmann enjoys in this country. Doctor Faure Nicolay has appeared before most of the monarchs of Europe, including the Czar of Russia, who presented the Doctor and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office daily from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton streets, is now conducted as a regular dramatic

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akarman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Munis Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present three new artists to their patrons this week: Mr. Jas. W. Kelley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. B. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Mixtures," with all

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

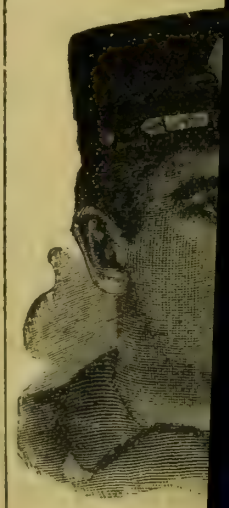
The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 21st, grand picnic of the Bill-Posters' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

THEATRICAL CENTERS.



London has sixty-five theatres when its season is in full blast. Next Winter New York will have thirty-four theatres, Philadelphia seventeen, Chicago twenty and Boston ten. For the week of July 8th San Francisco had, according to programmes in FIGARO, thirteen theatres open. Eight dramatic theatres, Bush, California, Baldwin, Alcazar, Grand Opera House, Bijou, Morosco's and Vienna (the last recently changed from a variety to a dramatic house); one opera theatre, the Tivoli—reveling in its tenth anniversary with a revival of its opening attraction, "Pinafore"—and the Orpheum, Wigwam, Bella Union and Cremorne, admission variety theatres. We had only one theatre closed, the Standard. This is a pretty good showing for the middle of July. The most of these theatres run the year round, Winter and Summer, every night including Sundays. Their seasons never close; they are merely imaginary points of time, if noted at all. The Tivoli has given uninterrupted operatic performances by its own company for over ten years, being closed in all that time only six nights, necessitated in making a change in their stage. And this may be taken as record of the history of all our principal theatres. They all raise their curtain year out and year in every night.

The summer season at the Bijou Theatre, New York, opened June 15th, with Mr. John Fowler's farce-comedy, The White Elephant. The farce tells the story of one Timothy Tottles, a venerable elder of the church, who secured a comic opera called

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

"Old Lavender" has its share of songs. "Poverty's Tears Ebb and Flow," "Extra, Extra," "Jolly Old Owls," "Get Up, Jack; John, Sit Down," "Sweetest Love" and "Please Put That Down" are the ditties of the evening.

"The Merchant of Venice" is to be done in French in September." We know that the quality of mercy is not strained, for Portia tells us so, but we are afraid it will be kind of filtered out in the translation.

Edward E. Rice will provide the music for Dixey's "Seven Ages."

They are valuing Bach in Vienna after having neglected him so long.

"'Uncles and Aunts' is one of the plays in Crane's starring repertory." Where are the Cousins? We must protest again this. You must put those pretty, black-stockinged Cousins in the play, William, if you expect to capture the town with it at the Bush.

A Philadelphia exchange tells us that Leonard H. Wales, "a Pennsylvanian," has composed a new opera, "The Lion of Peru." FIGARO has heard of it. It is a great opera, so full of gentle harmonies, and so consistent. Even the Lion does not roar in his death scene. He only takes a little Peruvian bark to slow music.

"One of the Bravest" had an immense Wednesday matinee at the Bush. All three circles filled. The Call, in speaking of the performance, pronounces "the fire scene one of the most startling and effective that has ever been put on the stage in this city," and says, "Some of the little folks present were somewhat startled by the realism of the stage work. Several had to be retired till their emotion was calmed. The piece is drawing like 'a house a-fire.'"

Frank Howard in Geo. S. Knight's "Over the Garden Wall," under the management of Bert & Siesons, will be one of the coming attractions at the Orpheum.

Giddy gossip has it that Dion Boucicault and Louise Thorndyke no longer speak as they pass by.

In "Monbars" the most perfect stage pictures are given. They have seldom been equaled in this city.

Wm. H. Crane has secured the successful English comedy, "The Balloon," as one of his pieces that he will introduce to us when he comes to the Bush St. Theatre later on in the season.

What fine and delicate flavor Harrigan's Lavender has!

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian illusionist, gives a grand entertainment at the Standard Theatre July 20th and 21st. The programme includes prestidigitation, mesmerism, hypnotism, magnetism and fine cycloramic views.

John T. Malone has been engaged to play Iago to Alexandre Salvini's Othello, and corresponding parts in other plays of Salvini's repertoire. Mr. Malone is an old California boy and graduate of St. Mary's College, Santa Clara, and in his youth was intended for the priesthood.

Mrs. Yeamans' deaf, good-natured Mother Crawford is played with zest and finish.

Mme. Ponisi has been engaged by Richard Mansfield for the old woman's part in "Richard III."

Esau and Isaac, otherwise Imre and Belossy Kiralfy, have "kissed and made up."

"Put on Your Bridal Veil" for the Alcazar Theatre next week.

Nat Goodwin's son, it is reported, has developed habits that are causing his parents considerable alarm. He insists upon staying up all night howling at the top of his lungs for more drink, and it is feared his fondness for the bottle will prove incurable.

"The Oolah" having passed its fiftieth night, is making its way steadily towards its one hundredth night.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd

"Howard P. Taylor, the author of Lost in Africa, has a genuine orangoutang and a live camel from Woodward's Zoological Gardens in San Francisco. They will be seen in Mr. Taylor's new melodrama."

Dickens' beautiful Christmas story of "The Cricket on the Hearth" has embalmed that tiny little songster in all hearts as the household god of good fortune—and so we verily believe it is. Stepping into Manager Harry Mann's office in the New California, last evening, we found him listening with evident pleasure to the cheerful chirps of the jolliest of crickets, that had secreted himself somewhere about his desk. No serenade could have been half so pleasant. It was not a complimentary ovation; no pean of praise; but a song of promise, telling of good engagements, full houses, and all good things—a recitive of favorable augeries for the future. The building is of brick, stone and iron, and entirely new, and how the little chirpping prophet got into the building and in the recesses of the manager's almost air-tight new desk is an enigma not easily solved.

The professional tour of the Ida Van Siclen Comedy Company has been anything but successful financially. Johnny Williams (the sometimes idle comedian), Miss Dot Rossmore, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Murphy and Alf. Lanco, former members of the company, returned to town from Truckee last night. They report salaries paid, but estimate the venture $1500 loser so far.

Robert Bert & Siesons will play the Eastern pantomime Nick Roberts' 'Humpty Dumpty," over the California circuit, commencing in September. The company, scenery and all its appointments will be organized in New York and come direct to San Francisco to open its season.

The Oakland Theatre, or Colosseum that used to be, is burnishing up. It has been reseated, the seats being from the old California Theatre, reupholstered and provided with incandescent lights.

Mr. Robert Mantell plays Monbars in a scholarly, manly and vigorous way, and sustains the character throughout without the slightest tinge of sickly sentimentality.

Mme. Janisch, the actress, is said to be confined in an insane asylum near Vienna, the result of morbid dejection brought about by financial reverses. Formerly she handled money freely, bathed in champagne regularly, lived in a luxury that equaled anything Vienna has ever seen in its private life and became famed for her reckless disregard of the "sinews of war" and for her joyous disposition.

Daly leaves out "Love on Crutches" in his revivals. This was a lucky play for one of his young ladies, Edith Kingdon. She gained her Gould in it. 'Tis said that Daly is suspicious of that play—what if the peerless Ada Rehan should meet her matrimonial fate in it. The precedent it involved is not to be invited needlessly.

Minnie Palmer goes to Europe July 23.

Neil Burgess will probably never act again.

The next regular season at the Bijou Theatre, New York, begins August 19th with Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Vaudeville Company.

Charles Bowser is rehearsing his company in "Cheek" at Stamford, Conn.

The last scene in "Old Lavender" between the brothers is very touching.

Kate Claxton expects a comfortable income from the royalty of her plays. She has already let "The Two Orphans" and "The World Against Her."

A romantic and scenic Mexican melodrama, "El Toro Espado (The Bull-fighter)," is in the field for next season. It is to be garnished with fandango dancers and mandolin serenaders.

A. M. Palmer has engaged for his next New York season Maurice Barrymore, Agnes Booth, Annie Russell, Edward Bell, Louis Masser, Maud Harrison, Marie Burroughs, Katherine Rogers, Walden Ramsey, L. M. Holland, J. H. Stoddart and Frederic Robinson. Salvini, Charles Wyndham and Richard Mansfield will occupy his theatre for the first seventeen weeks of next season. The Italian tragedian will begin an engagement on October 7th and remain four weeks. Wyndham will then have the stage for six weeks and Mansfield follows for eight weeks.

Laura Joyce Bell proposes to star next season in a comedy now being written.

Harry and Lizzie Godbold and J. H. Weaver have signed with "Kajanka" for the coming season.

The Misses Anna and Ricci Allen, daughters of John Allen, California born girls, and now quite famous dancers, have signed contracts for "Kajanka" next season.

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Ada Rehan is just the merest trifle plumper than of old.

Olive West, of "One of the Bravest" Co., is a San Francisco girl.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the week of the 22nd at the Alcazar.

"One of the Bravest" is a drama of New York characters and life scenes, and, like Harrigan's pieces, intrenches on specialty grounds. McCarthy, Miss Estella Wellington, Messrs. Thompson, Weaver and Casey individually and collectively come to the front with songs and specialties.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

Joseph Sparks is Smoke, Charlie Reed Dick "the rat," Geo. Merritt Pop Jones and Mrs. Yeamans Mother Crawford in "Old Lavender."

Karl Gardner in "Fatherland" will be

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The wires tell us that while Bristol & Co.'s circus was exhibiting in Milford, on the 17th, a large section of the seats fell precipitating 600 people to the ground, badly bruising and otherwise injuring hundreds. While the wreckage and injured people were being removed there was a rush for the reserved seats to view the wreck, when suddenly half of that section fell with 200 spectators, creating a panic which was quelled with difficulty. In the second accident no one was seriously hurt. Five persons were probably fatally injured in the first fall. [Bristol's was a small circus doing the "outside" towns.]

The Cremorne was not one-sixteenth part large enough to hold the crowd that wanted to attend the monster benefit tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart Wednesday night.

Muldoon's Picnic—the Sullivan and Kilrain fight.

Mons. Dupont, the contortionist at the Orpheum this week, does some unprecedented things. His lamp act, in which he places a lamp on his head, lies down on the floor, passes a hoop over body and lamp, and recovers his position again with the lighted lamp balanced untouched on his head all the time, is a wonder of flexibility and equipoise.

The Samoans at the Orpheum are the very pink of savages. They are none of the swarthy pigeon-toed fellows, but on the contrary are quite light of skin, almost lemon-colored in fact, and have auburn hair. From their excessive agility, and from the ready manner in which they handle their war clubs (shillalies), and the color of their hair, we can readily see why the Samoans are accredited with being of Irish extraction. Even their war-cry, "Fan-won-agh-bragh," is suggestive of Celtic origin.

George Dew's funny afterpiece, "Half Way," closes the show at the Bella Union this week. It is really very amusing.

When Barnum's Big Show goes to England it will take 800 people—performers, tent-men, animal keepers and assistants of all kinds. Three large steamers will be required to carry circus, menagerie, company and baggage, and the cost of the trip will be at least $500,000. It opens on the Olympia Grounds, London, in October next.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

Wayne & Evans, knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaughn and Jos. Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists, open at the Wigwam this week.

A Western museum exhibits a snake skin upon which the following truthful explanation is posted: "Skin of the serpent that tempted Eve in the Garden of Paradise. It was killed by Adam the following day after the treason. Adam hit it with a club, of which traces are still left. This skin was part of the inheritance of Adam, and was preserved in his family in Asia."

By-and-by. St. Peter (at the gate)—"Who knocks?" "I'm the man who made that $35,000 winning at faro." "O, certainly. Won't you come in?" "Well, I don't know. What's the limit?"

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," presents a strong attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake restaurant is a good foil for theother people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece will make a sensation and will draw.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" on the 29th. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, is the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

Mr. Harrigan's impersonation of "Old Lavender" is too well known to San Francisco people to require any further comment, simply to say that Mr. Harrigan presents the character with the same quiet, finely sustained force, that marked his performance two seasons ago at the Bush St. Theatre. Charley Reed is very clever as Dick, "the rat," Old Lav's friend in adversity; the Sparks, the Coopers, John Thompson, and others, render good support.

Mrs. Yeamans as Mother Crawford, the keeper of the sailors' boarding house, is simply admirable.

The songs and music incidental to the piece are full of melody, and never fail to receive an encore.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, will form next week's bill at Alcazar.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell, in "Monbars," for the last week at the California. "Monbars" is a dramatic story of unrequited love, murderous machinations, unjust jealousy, heroism, forgiveness, and true affection as the result of all. The piece is strong in the last acts, as well as being a picturesque play that permits of fine scenery and rich costumes.

Mr. Mantell is famed for his impassioned acting, and is very effective in the last scenes, when racked with mental and bodily pain, acts in the old school dramatic vigor, not sauntering through his part in a listless manner in the new style of making believe act. Mr. Mark Price and Miss Charlotte Behrens have important characters, and render them forcibly. The support is satisfactory all through.

The scenic artist, Mr. Moses, has painted three fine scenes for the play: The fire act represents a reception-room in an old French chateau, in white and gold, with portrait panels; the third shows St. Malo, a pretty fortified seaport town in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France; the fifth, an interior in the home of Monbars. The costumes are new, rich and historically correct. "Monbars" has a fine stage setting, and is proving its drawing qualities by being continued for its second week.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement at the California next week in his new play, "The Donagh."

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising Ed. Russell, in Silence and Fun; Dupont, a great contortionist; John Brace, comedian; Vanola, the juggler; Bessie Richards, the banjo queen; Kennedy, the bycicliat; Neuberger, crayon artist; Joe Natus, vocalist; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers, and Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder. It is a big bill.

See programme.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday nights, of renown in Europe equal to that which Herrmann enjoys in this country. Doctor Faure Nicolay has appeared before most of the monarchs of Europe, including the Czar of Russia, who presented the Doctor and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office daily from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Next week, the three Eddys, acrobats and tumblers; Gallagher & Jenkins, knockabout team; the Kaisers, tyrolean warblers, and Miss Carrie Monroe, the original paper queen, put in first appearances.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Vienna Theatre.

The Vienna Theatre, for years known as the Vienna Garden, corner Sutter and Stockton [illegible] regular dramatic and comedy company, and has entered the field with characteristic energy.

This week, the strong emotional melodrama in four acts, entitled "My Mother," with Mr. Geo. S. Fleming as the star.

Manager Meyer has already made a success of the Vienna. His business qualification, experience and reliability have been proven by the successful career of the Wigwam. Mr. Frank A. Meyer, his son, has personal supervision as business manager of the Vienna Theatre.

The old prices are retained: Admission, 10 cents; front reserved seats, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akerman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Munis Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present three new artists to their patrons this week: Mr. James Riley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. B. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 21st, grand picnic of the Bill-Posters' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A M., and returning at 7 30 P.M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Actresses and singers who have made their names great had little except energy and talent to start with. Minnie Hauk was the daughter of a poor Rivington street carpenter. Sarah Bernhardt and Matilda Heron were milliners' apprentices. Clara Morris began as an "extra" ballet girl. Christine Nilsson was a barefooted Swedish peasant girl. Rachel begged in the streets of Paris. Charlotte Cushman's parents were very poor. Adelaide Neilson was a child's nurse. Jennie Lind was a poor teacher's daughter. Adelaide Phillips, the dead contralto, and Sara Jewett came from Treasury clerkships, Maud Granger from a sewing machine and Margaret Mather from a West Side convent.

The summer season at the Bijou Theatre, New York, opened June 15th, with Mr. John Fowler's farce-comedy, The White Elephant. The farce tells the story of one Timothy Tottles, a venerable elder of the church, who secured a comic opera called The White Elephant. Tottles endeavors to produce the opera, and the obstacles he encounters in trying to do so are expected to furnish most of the amusing scenes. Messrs. Alf Hampton and Lee Harrison, eccentric comedians, have been engaged to play the characters of Getsome and Takesome, two actors in hard luck.

Bolossy Kiralfy brought with him from Europe the new spectacular extravaganza Antiope for the reopening of Niblo's. Mr. Kiralfy says the scenery and accessories for this production will weigh nearly two hundred tons, and that he has engaged Maude Dickson, a fine English vocalist; Rose Ridgeway, of Drury Lane; Elsie Irving and Alice Gilbert, Mr. Hanneway, the great grotesque dancer, and a number of other stage notables, to appear in Antiope.

The cranks are getting more reckless every day. Now they are [illegible]

FRIDAY.....JULY 19, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Augustin Daly's company have given us the best high comedy imperonation this week, in "The Railroad of Love" we have had for many a month. Their art is the acme of acting and a charming counterfeit of nature—bright, mental, cultured nature, at that.

Manager Wyatt of Los Angeles is about closing his opera season. The business done does not warrant its continuance. Pretty Mrs. Paddleford, otherwise Betty Grard, will be out of an engagement.

John Jack, the well known actor and manager, who carried his stellar honors in the last as Falstaff, is revisiting San Francisco after a ten years' absence. Mr. Jack would prove a card if any theatre had an opening date.

News from abroad. "A new Jewish drama by Henry Doblin, cousin of Comedian Charles S. Dickson, is called Joseph Lewis & Son,' in which Lewis Morrison and M. B. Curtis are shortly to appear in San Francisco.'

It is possible that Mr Jos. Grismer and wife will go Australia next season.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels disbanded in Salt Lake City. They had still three weeks to travel under Manager M. B. Leavitt's management, and they were in possession of his tickets from Salt Lake to Omaha. They used these jumping out and going straight to New York. Mr. Leavitt is out about $1,000 for these tickets. Mr. Leavitt is not in the best of humor, and must naturally look upon the affair as a barefaced swindle.

Gertie Granville Hart has been engaged as soubrette for Edgar Selden's "Will o' the Wisp" Co. Her husband, Tony Hart, will travel with her at least a portion of the season.

Eben Plympton goes as leading man for Julia Marlow next season.

Etelka Gerster is at Berlin, Germany, and it is denied that she has lost her voice entirely. She sang at a concert in Berlin lately for the benefit of the Johnstown, Pa., flood sufferers, and raised about $400.

Francis Wilson says that matrimonial matches ought not to be made light of.

The Union Square Theatre, N. Y., will open its preliminary Fall season Aug. 12 with a spectacular melodrama called 'El Toro Espada (The Bull-Fighter),' the scenes for which are laid in Mexico. The engagement is for two weeks.

"Old Lavender" has its share of songs. "Poverty's Tears Ebb and Flow," "Extra, Extra," "Jolly Old Owls," "Get Up, Jack; John, Sit Down," "Sweetest Love" and "Please Put That Down" are the ditties of the evening.

"'Uncles and Aunts' is one of the plays in Crane's starring repertory." Where are the Cousins! We must protest against this. You must put those pretty, black-stockinged Cousins in the play, William, if you expect to capture the town with it at the Bush.

A Philadelphia exchange tells us that Leonard H. Wales, "a Pennsylvanian," has composed a new opera, "The Lion of Peru." FIGARO has heard of it. It is a great opera, so full of gentle harmonies, and so consistent. Even the Lion does not roar in his death scene. He only takes a little Peruvian bark to slow music.

"One of the Bravest" had an immense Wednesday matinee at the Bush. All three circles filled. The Call, in speaking of the performance, pronounces "the fire scene one of the most startling and effective that has ever been put on the stage in this city," and says, "Some of the little folks present were somewhat startled by the realism of the stage work. Several had to be retired till their emotion was calmed. The piece is drawing like 'a house a fire.'"

Frank Howard in Geo. S. Knight's "Over the Garden Wall," under the management of Bert & Sissons, will be one of the coming attractions at the Orpheum.

Giddy gossip has it that Dion Boucicault and Louise Thorndyke no longer speak as they pass by.

Joseph Howarth during his starring tour in Paul Kauvar next season, will further tempt the gods by occasionally appearing as Hamlet.

M. B. Leavitt has, unquestionably, the lease of the new Windsor Theatre in Chicago, and has already booked some of the best attractions for next season. His new [illegible]

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday week.

The Perry Bros. have returned from New York, where they succeeded in booking their successful play, "Two Pair," for next season.

Herbert Marsden, the Louisiana gentleman who stars next season, is a young man of fine physique, with a rich, well-trained voice, and the brains and means to make a go of the tour he has prepared for. It has been the ambition of his life to properly produce the plays he is about to present, and especially the characters he will assume therein. Mr. Marsden's support will be the very best that can be obtained. Mr. Lewis Gillespie, his manager, has been connected with the leading educational institutions of the South as an instructor in elocution and reading.

Hearty John Jack is in town, and if he does not find an opening date here will organize a company with himself and wife—Annie Firman—at its head for the Northwestern circuit. Mr. Jack proposes to make some one of the growing towns in that circuit his future home.

The Michigan Senate has passed a bill which limits the rate of fare on railways in that state to two cents a mile. Here's a way to down the Interstate Oppression law.

Henry E. Dixey's new play, 'The Seven Ages," will be produced first at the Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia, Sept. 23d.

Edward J. Henley, who is recognized as one of the very best actors on our stage, will go starring next season under the management of Harry Cregier, of Chicago, and the principal feature of his repertoire will be "Deacon Brodie."

Ezra F. Kendall, of 'A Pair of Kids," is in New York. His next season will open at the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mass. Mrs. Kendall (Jennie Dunn) and baby are summering at Tonawanda, N. Y. Baby has a pair of teeth.

Wm. H Hamilton, the well known theatrical insurance agent of New York, insured the life of Henry Greenwall, the Texas manager, for $100 000

Louis Harrison is getting "The Noblest Romen of Them All" ready for next season. His brother Sam will be his manager.

Dickens' beautiful Christmas story of "The Cricket on the Hearth" has embalmed that tiny little songster in all hearts as the household god of good fortune—and so we verily believe it is. Stepping into Manager Harry Manu's office in the New California, last evening, we found him listening with evident pleasure to the cheerful chirps of the jolliest of crickets, that had secreted himself somewhere about his desk. No serenade could have been half so pleasant. It was not a complimentary ovation; no pean of praise; but a song of promise, telling of good engagements, full houses, and all good things—a recitive of favorable augeries for the future. The building is of brick, stone and iron, and entirely new, and how the little chirpping prophet got into the building and in the recesses of the manager's almost air-tight new desk is an enigma not easily solved.

The professional tour of the Ida Van Siclen Comedy Company has been anything but successful financially. Johnny Williams (the sometimes idle comedian), Miss Dot Rossmore, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Murphy and Alf. Lando, former members of the company, returned to town from Truckee last night. They report salaries paid, but estimate the venture $1500 loser so far.

Robert Bert & Sissons will play the Eastern pantomime Nick Roberts' 'Humpty Dumpty,' over the California circuit, commencing in September. The company, scenery and all its appointments will be organized in New York and come direct to San Francisco to open its season.

Mr. Robert Mantell plays Monbars in a scholarly, manly and vigorous way, and sustains the character throughout without the slightest tinge of sickly sentimentality.

Daly leaves out "Love on Crutches" in his revivals. This was a lucky play for one of his young ladies, Edith Kingdon. She gained her Gould in it. 'Tis said that Daly is suspicious of that play—what if the peerless Ada Rehan should meet her matrimonial fate in it. The precedent it involved is not to be invited needlessly.

The last scene in "Old Lavender" between the brothers is very touching.

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Ada Rehan is just the merest trifle plumper than of old.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the week of the 22nd at the Alcazar.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

Karl Gardner in 'Fatherland" will be the next attraction at the Bush July 29th.

Mary Anderson's health will not permit her to act for at least a year to come. Manager Henry E. Abbey will fill her next Winters dates in this country with the London Gaiety Company.

The Michigan Senate has passed a bill which limits railroad charges for transportation to two cents a mile.

The Tigress and Kate Forsyth have made a joint failure in London.

Nettie Lyford, who has taken Marie Jansen's place in The Oolah, is a "swell" Malden, Mass., maiden who did good work

Ferguson & Mack (Marr) will come together again later on in their play, "McCarthy's Mishaps." They open their season at Bridgeport, Conn., August 19th. Company engaged: Billy Carroll, R. E. and J. F. Callahan, E. A. Begley, Geo. A. Cumn, Misses Lizzie Daly, Carrie Behr, Rose Osbourne and Dolly Walton. Major Chas. E. Rice with George W. Wadleigh, managers.

Turtle Jones, the well known pantomimist of the Hanlon Brothers' company, committed suicide in London recently. He died at St. Thomas' Hospital.

Perry Bros. will reopen the Club Theatre, Los Angeles, Aug 31st, with a strong specialty company.

Muldoon's Picnic—the Sullivan and Kilrain fight.

George Drew's funny afterpiece, "Half Way," closes the show at the Bella Union this week. It is really very amusing.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

A Western museum exhibits a snake skin upon which the following truthful explanation is posted: "Skin of the serpent that tempted Eve in the Garden of Paradise. It was killed by Adam the following day after the treason. Adam hit it with a club, of which traces are still left. This skin was part of the inheritance of Adam, and was preserved in his family in Asia."

"The Merchant of Venice" is to be done in French in September." We know that the quality of mercy is not strained, for Portia tells us so, but we are afraid it will be kind of filtered out in the translation.

In 'Monbars" the most perfect stage pictures are given. They have seldom been equaled in this city. It will be withdrawn after Sunday night.

Wm. H. Crane has secured the successful English comedy, "The Balloon," as one of his pieces that he will introduce to us when he comes to the Bush St. Theatre later on in the season.

What fine and delicate flavor Harrigan's Lavender has! Last "Lavender" night, Sunday.

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian illusionist, gives a grand entertainment at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday. The programme includes prestidigitation, mesmerism, hypnotism, magnetism and fine cycloramic views. His show will be first-class. He has really a fine European reputation.

Mrs. Yeamans' deaf, good-natured Mother Crawford is played with zest and finish.

Esau and Isaac, otherwise Imre and Bolossy Kiralfy, have "kissed and made up."

'Put on Your Bridal Veil" for the Alcazar Theatre next week.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd

"Howard P. Taylor, the author of Lost in Africa, has a genuine orangoutang and a live camel from Woodward's Zoological Gardens in San Francisco. They will be seen in Mr. Taylor's new melodrama." —Eddy's Squibs. We know all about the dizzy camel, and think the other specimen must be one of Buckley's escaped lambs.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," presents a strong attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake restaurant is a good foil for theother people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece has made a sensation and is drawing.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" on the 29th. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender," the play in which Harrigan gives one of his most popular and most artistic impersonations, is the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second act.

Mr. Harrigan's impersonation of "Old Lavender" is too well known to San Francisco people to require any further comment, simply to say that Mr. Harrigan presents the character with the same quiet, finely sustained force, that marked his performance two seasons ago at the Bush St. Theatre. Charley Reed is very clever as Dick, "the rat," Old Lav's friend in adversity; the Sparks, the Coopers, John Thompson, and others, render good support.

Mrs. Yeamans as Mother Crawford, the keeper of the sailors' boarding house, is simply admirable.

The songs and music incidental to the piece are full of melody, and never fail to receive an encore.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, will form next week's bill at Alcazar.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell closes his two weeks' engagement in "Monbars" on Sunday night.

Mr. Mantell gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, and has played a very good season in his strong play.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement at the California next week in his new play, "The Donagh," one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is in the working up of this sacrilege and the punishment that followed it that forms a play of most interesting events in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

The Call, in canvassing Mr. Murphy's professional qualities, says: "Without being a Tyrone Power, a Hudson or a Collins, Mr. Murphy is the only Irish delineator we have to the front at present, and his success, not only in this city but in every metropolis in the United States, is in evidence of his capability to fill the line of characters he assumes."

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising Ed. Russell, in Silence and Fun; Dupont, a great contortionist; John Brace, comedian; Vanola, the juggler; Bessie Richards, the banjo queen; Kennedy, the bycicliat; Neuberger, crayon artist; Joe Natus, vocalist; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers, and Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder It is a big bill.

See programme.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre Saturday and Sunday nights, of renown in Europe equal to that which Herrmann enjoys in this country. Doctor Faure Nicolay has appeared before most of the monarchs of Europe, including the Czar of Russia, who presented the Doctor and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office daily from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Next week, the three Eddys, acrobats and tumblers; Gallagher & Jenkins, knockabout team; the Kaisers, tyrolean warblers, and Miss Carrie Monroe, the original paper queen, put in first appearances.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akarman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing

LARRY DONOVAN (SHAUN RHUE).....MR. JOSEPH MURPHY.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

The Cremorne management present three new artists to their patrons this week: Mr. James Riley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. R. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Mixtures," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music H. H.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10 15 A M., and returning at 7 30 P M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip, 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicago; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera Company, Maggie Mitchell, Jed Prouty, Rice's Corsair Co., Jim, the Penman, Rice's Evangeline, Held by the Enemy, Legal Wreck, Tin

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Capt. Theodore Roberts has returned to summer here with his parents. He will rejoin Fanny Davenport's company when she opens her season at the Baldwin in August.

The summer heat in Los Angeles is having a blighting effect upon the theatrical attendance there, and all through Southern California. Even the N. Y. Lyceum Company only did "fair" business in Los Angeles. Wyatt's Opera Co. languishes. He contemplates sending them on an interior trip up through Northern California and Oregon after August 14th. The People's Theatre closes to-night for a three weeks' rest.

John W. Thompson, Chas. J. Edmonds, Harry Mainhall, Belle Melville, Minnie Young, Helene Cotton and others have been engaged to support Joseph Murphy at the California.

Augustin Daly's company have given us the best high comedy impersonation this week, in "The Railroad of Love" we have had for many a month. Their art is the acme of acting and a charming counterfeit of nature—bright, mental, cultured nature, at that.

Manager Wyatt of Los Angeles is about closing his opera season. The business done does not warrant its continuance. Pretty Mrs. Paddleford, otherwise Betty Girard, will be out of an engagement.

It is possible that Mr. Jos. Grismer and wife will go Australia next season.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels disbanded in Salt Lake City. They had still three weeks to travel under Manager M. B. Leavitt's management, and they were in possession of his tickets from Salt Lake to Omaha. They used these jumping out and going straight to New York. Mr. Leavitt is out about $1,000 for these tickets. Mr. Leavitt is not in the best of humor, and must naturally look upon the affair as a barefaced swindle.

Gertie Granville Hart has been engaged as soubrette for Edgar Selden's "Will o' the Wisp" Co. Her husband, Tony Hart, will travel with her at least a portion of the season.

Eben Plympton goes as leading man for Julia Marlowe next season.

Etelka Gerster is at Berlin, Germany, and it is denied that she has lost her voice entirely. She sang at a concert in Berlin lately for the benefit of the Johnstown, Pa., flood sufferers, and raised about $400.

Francis Wilson says that matrimonial matches ought not to be made light of.

The Union Square Theatre, N. Y., will open its preliminary Fall season Aug. 12 with a spectacular melodrama called "El Toro Espada (The Bull-Fighter)," the scenes for which are laid in Mexico. The engagement is for two weeks.

Frank Howard in Geo. S. Knight's "Over the Garden Wall," under the management of Bart & Sissons, will be one of the coming attractions at the Orpheum.

Giddy gossip has it that Dion Boucicault and Louise Thorndyke no longer speak as they pass by.

Joseph Howarth during his starring tour in Paul Kauvar next season, will further tempt the gods by occasionally appearing as Hamlet.

M. B. Leavitt has, unquestionably, the lease of the new Windsor Theatre in Chicago, and has already booked some of the best attractions for next season. His new spectacular and comic burlesque, The Soldier and the Fly, will begin its season in September.

Enoch Arden failed to open Sunday night, July 14th, at Hooley's Chicago Theatre, and it devolved upon Will McConnel to make the unwelcome announcement to a large audience. On Tuesday the play was given in fine style. Much depends upon the scenic effects and the fourteen specialties introduced, and, enjoyable as the performance is, it is a question whether the legitimate dramatic effect of Tennyson's Enoch Arden is not sacrificed in the endeavor to make the production a catchy one.

The Earl's Heir, the new play for Tommy Russell's starring tour, is by John A. Harrington (John Carboy). In it Master Russell will assume the character of two boys. It will be put on about August 19th.

Frederic de Belleville is in Berlin, Germany.

John R. Rogers says that Miss Palmer has made so much money that hereafter she will act only six months in the year, and then only because she loves her art.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Who is the youth who, when all danger's past,
Exclaims in act the fifth: "Ah, at last,"
And makes the villain quail and look aghast?
The hero.

Who is the damsel cast in virtue's mold,
So sweetly simple to her parent old,
Rejects the villain, says: "I scorn thy gold?"
The heroine.

Who knows not conscience, law, nor etiquette;
Says of the heroine, "She'll be mine yet,"
And generally smokes a cigarette?
The villain (polished).

Who are the low-browed twain there, muttering;
Whom "sneaky music" to the stage will bring;
Who "stick at nothing"—or at everything?
The villain's "creatures."

Who is the aged peasant, short of breath,
Turned out of doors by what the villain saith,
Who always seems just at the point of death?
The heroine's father.

Who is it pays the cash, the theatre fills,
Who longs to sympathize with other ills
Than children stolen, birthmarks and forged wills
The audience.

—[AMERICA.

The Newcomb Family will open at the Orpheum next week.

Mr. Charles Chappelle, as Charles Godfrey in "The Danites," played to good business at Morosco's popular south side theatre this week.

A press dispatch from Los Angeles a few days ago stated that Miss Helen Marlborough—the actress who is to be one of Mrs. Brown-Potter's support next season—was in that city, a guest of Manager Wyatt, and that she had been "severely injured by being thrown from her horse." We wish to relieve the suspense of the public in regard to Miss Marlborough's injuries. The lady was not actually thrown from her horse. The "spirited animal" shied sideways at something and pranced under the branches of a roadside tree, which rudely scratched the rider's nose. The injuries are not fatal. The lady will recover.

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday week.

The Perry Bros. have returned from New York, where they succeeded in booking their successful play, "Two Pair," for next season.

Hearty John Jack is in town, and if he does not find an opening date here will organize a company with himself and wife—Annie Firman—at its head for the Northwestern circuit. Mr. Jack proposes to make some one of the growing towns in that circuit his future home.

The Michigan Senate has passed a bill which limits the rate of fare on railways in that state to two cents a mile. Here's a way to down the Interstate Oppression law.

Henry E. Dixey's new play, "The Seven Ages," will be produced first at the Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia, Sept. 23d.

Louis Harrison is getting "The Noblest Roman of Them All" ready for next season. His brother Sam will be his manager.

Mr. Robert Mantell plays Monbars in a scholarly, manly and vigorous way, and sustains the character throughout without the slightest tinge of sickly sentimentality.

Daly leaves out "Love on Crutches" in his revivals. This was a lucky play for one of his young ladies, Edith Kingdon. She gained her Gould in it. 'Tis said that Daly is suspicious of that play—what if the peerless Ada Rehan should meet her matrimonial fate in it. The precedent it involved is not to be invited needlessly.

The last scene in "Old Lavender" between the brothers is very touching.

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the week of the 22nd at the Alcazar.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

Karl Gardner in "Fatherland" will be the next attraction at the Bush July 29th.

In "Monbars" the most perfect stage pictures are given. They have seldom been equaled in this city. It will be withdrawn after Sunday night.

What fine and delicate flavor Harrigan's Lavender has! Last "Lavender" night, Sunday.

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian illusionist, gives a grand entertainment at the Standard Theatre to-night and Sunday. The programme includes prestidigitation, mesmerism, hypnotism, magnetism and fine cycloramic views. His show will be first-class. He has really a fine European reputation.

Mrs. Yeamans' deaf, good-natured Mother Crawford is played with zest and finish.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" on the 22nd.

W. J. Scanlan has closed his tour of Great Britain, and after visiting the Paris Exposition will return to this country in time to begin his next starring tour, which opens September 2d in Cleveland.

Mr. Wilson Barrett opens the new theatre at Halifax, England, August 5th, with an address. Halifax is Barrett's native place.

Emma Abbott is in Bayreuth, Germany. She sails for home, August 10th.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The second annual picnic of the Bill Posters comes off to-morrow. They are the boys that always make things stick.

Tommy O'Brien, the popular little comedian, is in training for the part which he is to play in "Zozo" next season, under the management of M. T. Boomer. The role is a particularly long one, and in Mr. O'Brien, whose real name is Moses Levi (his father lives on First street, above the gashouse), has to do a song and dance, fight six rounds with the heavy man, interpolate an acrobatic specialty, have a broadsword combat and fall from a platform ten feet high. His father was somewhat apprehensive that the part would be too heavy for little Moses, but we assured him that "Tommy" would get away with it, and come back at the end of the season a full-fledged comedian. We know Tommy. He is a stayer.

Ferguson & Mack (Marr) will come together again later on in their play, "McCarthy's Mishaps." They open their season at Bridgeport, Conn., August 19th. Company engaged: Billy Carroll, R. E. and J. F. Callahan, E. A. Begley, Geo. A. Camp, Misses Lizzie Daly, Carrie Behr, Rose Osbourne and Dolly Walton. Major Chas. E. Rice with George W. Wadleigh, managers.

Turtle Jones, the well known pantomimist of the Hanlon Brothers' company, committed suicide in London recently. He died at St. Thomas' Hospital.

Perry Bros. will reopen the Club Theatre, Los Angeles, Aug. 31st, with a strong specialty company.

Muldoon's Picnic—the Sullivan and Kilrain fight.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

When Barnum takes his Big Show abroad in October he will have among his other curiosities a chap who imitates Stuart Robson. As Mr. Robson hasn't played in London for fifteen years, it is not likely that the imitation will be recognized by a great many people, but Mr. Barnum says that he wants to give our English cousins a phonographic reflection of what he considers the funniest voice ever emanating from a human throat.

The Comedie Francaise will soon be left entirely without the great men who have maintained its name for the past twenty years. Coquelin, Delaunay, and Maubant have retired; Thiron and Barre are invalide, and hardly ever perform; Got must in the natural course of things soon quit the stage; and Febvre has just sent in his resignation, which, however, according to the regulations of the establishment, will not take effect until twelve months hence. Worms and Mounet-Sully will soon be the sole survivors of one of the French theatre's most brilliant periods. The younger members of the company hardly promise to keep up its traditions on the former level.

Edward Michael and N. C. Goodwin, Jr. have disagreed about the time for the production of J. W. Piggott's play, The Bookmaker, and probably Mr. Goodwin may not do that piece after all.

Punctilious Traveler—Now, what ought little boys to say when a gentleman gives them a nickle for carrying his satchel? Small Boy—Tain't 'nough.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, in his play of "One of the Bravest," presents a strong attraction. This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake restaurant is a good foil for theother people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece has made a sensation and is drawing.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" on the 29th. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Old Lavender" is the bill this week at the Alcazar. Here we have Harrigan as a jaunty banking-house clerk in the first act, and in his inimitable Old Lavender, the wharf waif, in Pop Jones' Coffee House, and in his caboose home in the second and third acts.

The play has drawn full houses and is very satisfactorily sustained throughout.

Last "Old Lavender" night Sunday.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms next week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

New California Theatre.

Robert Mantell closes his two weeks' engagement in "Monbars" on Sunday night.

Mr. Mantell gives to the requirements of the part intensity of feeling, much skill and power. He acts in the old school dramatic vigor, and has played a very good season in his strong play.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement at the California next week in his new play, "The Donagh," one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

The Call, in canvassing Mr. Murphy's professional qualities, says: "Without being a Tyrone Power, a Hudson or a Collins, Mr. Murphy is the only Irish delineator we have to the front at present, and his success, not only in this city but in every metropolis in the United States, is in evidence of his capability to fill the line of characters he assumes."

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, have been engaged by Managers Gustav Walter & Co. to appear at the Orpheum this week. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and will prove a great card.

In addition to the Samoans, the London Specialty Company, comprising Ed. Russell, in Silence and Fun; Dupont, a great contortionist; John Brace, comedian; Vanola, the juggler; Bessie Richards, the banjo queen; Kennedy, the bycicliat; Neuberger, crayon artist; Joe Natus, vocalist; Kurtz, the lightning toss-juggler; Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers, and Little Tot Guichard, song and dance wonder. It is a big bill.

Standard Theatre.

We are to have a Parisian mesmerist and magician—by the way of South America and Mexico—at the Standard Theatre to-night and Sunday night, of renown in Europe equal to that which Herrmann enjoys in this country. Doctor Faure Nicolay has appeared before most of the monarchs of Europe, including the Czar of Russia, who presented the Doctor and the "Sibyl" (Miss Rosina), who travels in company, splendid diamond ornaments to prove how pleased he had been with the performance.

The Call says: "Nicolay may be called a scientific illusionist and mesmerist. He gives practical essays of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, the influence of music, etc. His prestidigitation is sans apparatus. He has also a singular effect in billiards, where the balls make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time, absorbingly interesting."

Dr. Nicolay's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

The Doctor will set aside 20 per cent of his profits for the benefit of the sufferers by the Seattle fire.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office from 2 to 5 P. M.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be "The Danites," the play founded on the Mormon atrocities charged to that secret order, with Mr. Chas. Chapelle in his great part of the Parson. The piece is one that met with great favor here when it was presented by McKee Rankin and the California Theatre Co. Particular attention has been paid to the assignment of the characters in the present instance; James Carden, Darrell Vinton, Miss Marshall and Conchita having responsible parts in support of the star.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Wigwam Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Wayne & Evans, America's knockabout Dutch duo; Beatrice Vaghn and James Tyson, musical artists; Drawee, the expert juggler, and the Adams Sisters, vocalists.

Manager Meyer holds the Wigwam in the front rank of popular resorts by presenting new attractions every week and catering with experience, judgment and liberality for the public.

Next week, the three Eddys, acrobats and tumblers; Gallagher & Jenkins, knockabout team; the Kaisers, tyrolean warblers, and Miss Carrie Monroe, the original paper queen, put in first appearances.

Popular prices rule at the Wigwam Theatre: 10 cents; front seats, reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The great Kissell and his champion drill this week, and also the Brothers Lion in their new aerial and sensational act, entitled "Zamphillerostration." Johnnie Cain makes his reappearance at the same time. Cain & Akerman's laughable comedy of "Maloney's Visit" commences the entertainment, with all the company in the cast, introducing singing, dancing and Munis Leo's renowned living statues and pictures.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

THE THEATR

Publication Office, 532 Merchant Street, belo
J. P. BOGARDUS.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

James Reilly, singing character comedian, and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for next week.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

The Cremorne management presented these artists to their patrons this week: Mr. James Riley, punster and topical vocalist; Miss Kittie Drew, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Steve Carroll, the peculiar comedian.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Franks & Marion and Sadie Fairfield remain.

The entire company are presented in Mr. Ed. R. Lang's comedy, "A Bunch of Jays."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances next week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

A bevy of pretty women at the Comique headed by the famous vocalists and sketch change artists, the Stetson Sisters, Bessie Armstrong and Lottie Gardner.

A. J. McNiece, the talented song and dance artist, comedian and vocalists, joins the Comique company this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "A Box of Fun," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Mixtures," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Bob McDonald, Chas. Boyle and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entire company in the opening part, arranged by Mr. Chas. Berkeley, entitled "The Eureka Picnic."

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy is in his last week in his stirring play, "One of the Bravest.' This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake stand, is a good foil for the other people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece has made a sensation and is drawing.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" next week. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms this week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement here in his new play, "The Donagh"—a sacred casket—one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is the working up to this sacrilege, and the punishment that followed it that forms a play of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

The Call, in canvassing Mr. Murphy's professional qualities, says: "Without being a Tyrone Power, a Hudson or a Collins, Mr. Murphy is the only Irish delineator we have to the front at present, and his success, not only in this city but in every metropolis in the United States, is in evidence of his capability to fill the line of characters he assumes."

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, are in their last week at the Orpheum. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs and also physical

In addition to the Samoans, the following new specialty artists appear this week: The Newcomb Family, vocalists and sketch artists, five in number; Hallet & Raymond, grotesque comedians and dancers; Verna Hernkol, the Vienna waltz singer; the Brothers Glenco, the musical artists, and Wm. Gibbons, eccentric comedian. Vanola, the Mexican juggler, and Joe Natus, tenor vocalist, are retained. This is a strong array of attractions.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks." Mr. Chas. Chappelle assumes the role of Burr Oaks, a young farmer, afterwards an outcast. Miss May Nannary plays Maggie Oaks and our favorite Conchita has the pleasing soubrette role of Sallie Beadle.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

James Reilly, singing character comedian, and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for this week.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances this week.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Kitty Drew remain.

The entire company are presented in the blood-curdling drama, "McGinty's Racket."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

John and Lou Cook join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "Kitty and the Baby," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Rink," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, the Bateson Sisters and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Mabel Adair, Bob McDonald, James Post and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with Charles Berkeley's sparkling first-part, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Post & Ashley, sketch team, and Miss Mabel Adair are the new faces.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 28 h, grand picnic of the Golden Eagle Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip, 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Who is the youth who, when all danger's past,
Exclaims in act the fifth: "Ahs, at last,"
And makes the villain quail and look aghast?
The hero.

Who is the damsel cast in virtue's mold,
So sweetly simple to her parent old,
Rejects the villain, says: "I scorn thy gold?"
The heroine.

Who knows not conscience, law, nor etiquette;
Says of the heroine, "She'll be mine yet"
And generally smokes a cigarette?
The villain (polished).

Who are the low-browed twain there, muttering;
Whom "sneaky music" to the stage will bring;
Who "stick at nothing"—or at ev'rything?
The villain's "creatures."

Who is the aged peasant, short of breath,
Turned out of doors by what the villain saith,
Who always seems just at the point of death?
The heroine's father.

Who is it pays the cash, the theatre fills,
Who longs to sympathize with other ills
Than children stolen, birthmarks and forged wills
The audience.

—[AMERICA.

The Comedie Francaise will soon be left entirely without the great men who have maintained its name for the past twenty years. Coquelin, Delaunay, and Maubant have retired; Thiron and Barre are invalids, and hardly ever perform; Got must in the natural course of things soon quit the stage; and Febvre has just sent in his resignation, which, however, according to the regulations of the establishment, will not take effect until twelve months hence. Worms and Mounet-Sully will so to be the sole survivors of one of the French theatre's most brilliant periods. The younger members of the company hardly promise to keep up its traditions on the former level.

The New York Society for the Prevention of cruelty to Children has put an extinguisher upon Proctor's juvenile Pinafore company. First clever little Miss Heckler was forbidden to appear as Josephine; then Master Parr as the Captain and Charlie J. Heckler as Sir Joseph were removed by order and adults replaced them. If this society can tolerate barefooted little girls peddling through the Winter's snows, there seems to be little reason for sitting down upon well cared for children cultivating their voices in public.

Miss Olga Brandon will be the leading lady of the Kendals' company during their tour of America. Miss Brandon has greatly improved in her acting, and is the special favorite of Mrs. Kendal. The repertoire will consist of The Iron Master, The Queen's Shilling, White Lies, Weaker Sex, Scrap of Paper, and probably Impulse. The season in America is for twenty weeks, beginning at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, October 7th, for four weeks.

When Barnum takes his Big Show abroad in October he will have among his other curiosities a chap who imitates Stuart Robson. As Mr. Robson hasn't played in London for fifteen years, it is not likely that the imitation will be recognized by a great many people, but Mr. Barnum says that he wants to give our English cousins a phonographic reflection of what he considers the funniest voice ever emanating from a human throat.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicago; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera company, Maggie Mitchell, Jed Prouty, Rice's Corsair Co., Jim, the Penman, Rice's Evangeline, Held by the Enemy, Legal Wreck, Tin Soldier, Margatet Mather, Frank Mayo,

John R. Rogers says that Miss Palmer has made so much money that hereafter she will act only six months in the year, and then only because she loves her art. She doesn't care for the money. Of course nobody will doubt the accuracy of Mr. Rogers' statement.

The Earl's Heir, the new play for Tommy Russell's starring tour, is by John A. Harrington (John Carboy). In it Master Russell will assume the character of two boys. It will be put on about August 19th.

Edward Michael and N. C. Goodwin, Jr. have disagreed about the time for the production of J. W. Piggott's play, The Bookmaker, and probably Mr. Goodwin may not do that piece after all.

Mr. Wilson Barrett opens the new theatre at Halifax, England, August 5th, with an address. Halifax is Barrett's native

The Fiske-Riggs opposition still stirs up the stagnant theatrical waters of Fresno occasionally. Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels played at Riggs' Theatre Saturday night and Manager Fiske, of the Fresno Opera House, got in an attachment on the box office of Riggs' for $150 against T. P. & W., claiming that he had engaged the minstrels to appear at his house for that night, and that they had violated the contract to his damage in that amount by not appearing.

Post & Ashley, the favorite sketch team, open at the Eureka Music Hall this week. They have just returned to the city after a long and successful season in Arizona.

Mr. Owen Dale, the well known actor, is underlined to appear at the Bella Union at an early date in "The Royal Biddy," supported by Miss Rose Hersee and other well chosen talent.

There is a fine fire scene in "One of the Bravest" for these rather cool nights in this city by the sea.

Dave Wambold was one of the Birch, Backus & Wambold San Francisco Minstrels—the middle man of the minstrel constellation—first in this city twenty years ago, and afterwards New York's favorite minstrels against all opposition until the decline of minstrelsy came. The wires tell us that his wife, after nursing the sick minstrel for several years, has declared for a separation. Wambold is over fifty years old and has been living comfortably on money that he saved when at the height of his professional success. He is in New York afflicted with locomotor ataxia. Until a few weeks ago he was nursed by Mrs. Wambold. The two had a serious difference over money matters it is said. Now Wambold admits that arrangements are being made for a separation. He said the demand for separation came from his wife, and that he could not oppose her desire. He has been opposed to her wish to go upon the stage. He alleges he had deposited in bank for her use enough money to support her as long as she lives.

Perry Bros. will reopen the Club Theatre, Los Angeles, Aug. 31st, with a strong specialty company.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

Tommy O'Brien, the popular little comedian, is in training for the part which he is to play in "Z," next season, under the management of M. T. Boomer. The role is a particularly long one. In it Mr. O'Brien, whose real name is Moses Levi (his father lives on First street, above the gashouse), has to do a song and dance, fight six rounds with the heavy man, interpolate an acrobatic specialty, have a broadsword combat and fall from a platform ten feet high. His father was somewhat apprehensive that the part would be too heavy for little Moses, but we assured him that "Tommy" would get away with it, and come back at the

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

"Fatherland" comes to the Bush next week. It is a play of stirring incidents that appeal to the sympathies of its audiences. Mr. Gardner's company in support is a strong one, numbering twenty people, and his piece has been a great success everywhere.

It is very funny to see the party in "Leather Patch" bound for the Undertakers' Masquerade Ball crowd themselves into that hack.

"The Donagh" shows a handsome panoramic view of the Lakes of Killarney.

Violinist Sarasate's tour of America next season is to be made under Henry E. Abbey's management.

Wm. Terriss has revised "The Shaughraun" in London with success, playing Captain Molyneux himself.

"The King of Sweden has written a one-act historical play which is to be produced next season in six different cities—Stuttgart, Aix-la Chapelle, Halle, Nuremburg, Breslau and Konigsberg." FIGARO predicts that that royal effort will be a six-times success all along the circuit.

Bolossy Kiralfy's new extravaganza for New York and a Western market will be a modified version of the mimical ballet, "Antiope," which had a run of two hundred nights at the London Alhambra last year. He will have a number of English burlesque performers in the company.

We have three actors of San Francisco origin playing star engagements at our theatres this week: Joseph Murphy at the California, Edward Harrigan at the Alcazar and Charles McCarthy at the Bush. Our home attractions are brought well to the front just at present.

Augustin Daly notes his annual milestones in the journey of his life by gathering his company around him socially on each occasion. Last year he kept July 20th, his birthday anniversary, at Stratford-on-Avon; the year previous it fell to him in San Francisco, and on Saturday night he won his fifty-second round in the contest with old Time, and celebrated it most pleasantly in his usual genial but unpretensive way.

Mr. Neil Warner's farewell benefit will take place at the Baldwin Theatre August 11th. "A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will probably be the programme, but it has not been definitely arranged as yet.

Twenty years ago, when Mr. Joe Murphy was a young and dapper minstrel boy, he played at Maguire's Opera House under Sherry Corbyn's management together with Ben Cotton and his son, Master Bennie. Jake Wallace and Armes Beaumont were in the same company. Now he has Ben's daughter in his company, who gets along nicely with the part intrusted to her.

Miss Agnes Herndon, backed by $60,000, is making ready for her Fall tour in a number of plays, some of them new and some others already successful at her hands.

W. J. Gilmore is going to revive "The Devil's Auction."

J. J. Rosenthal goes in advance of M. B. Leavitt's "Spider and the Fly."

Augustin Daly, accompanied by a contingent of his company, were at the Bush last night. Mr. Daly appeared to be studying up the dramatic construction and stage effects of "One of the Bravest."

The Donagh that the play deals with is a holy casket six hundred years old, supposed to contain blessed extracts from the gospels.

The engine used in "One of the Bravest" is a spare machine from the Oakland Fire Department.

Carl Gardner's "Fatherland" is full of pretty music, taking business and romantic situations.

Miss Lora Hollis will take a benefit Wednesday evening at the Bijou Theatre. "Forget-Me-Not" will be given with Miss Hollis as Stephanie, supported by Neil Warner, Theodore Roberts, Miss Nellie Buckley and Mrs. Sara Stevens. E. J. Buckley and Edger Weir will read and Frank Howard will sing a topical song.

Ada Rehan, Mrs. Gilbert, Jas. Lewis and others were occupants of the stage boxes of the Bush Sunday night.

The first of Harrigan's plays that catches on big at the Alcazar will be run for two weeks. Wonder if it is "The Leather Patch?"

Miss Isabel Morris has some idea of making a tour of the Pacific Coast at the close of the Alcazar engagement.

Mrs. Yeamans this week as Mrs. McCarthy has a part just suited to her. She gets a deal of humor out of it.

Mrs. Gilbert in "The Lottery of Love" appears in a role that borders very closely upon low comedy.

The Newcomb Family will open at the Orpheum this week.

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday next.

The Perry Bros. have returned from New York, where they succeeded in booking their successful play, "Two Pair," for next season.

Henry E. Dixey's new play, "The Seven Ages," will be produced first at the Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia, Sept. 23d.

"One of the Bravest's" fire scene wakes up the house with its real horses, real engine, real water, real life-belts, real scaling ladders, real men jumbled in picturesque confusion.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the present week at the Alcazar.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" this week.

Etelka Gerster is at Berlin, Germany, and it is denied that she has lost her voice entirely. She sang at a concert in Berlin lately for the benefit of the Johnstown, Pa., flood sufferers, and raised about $400.

It is possible that Mr. Jos. Grismer and wife will go Australia next season.

The summer heat in Los Angeles is having a blighting effect upon the theatrical attendance there, and all through Southern California. Even the N. Y. Lyceum Company only did "fair" business in Los Angeles. Wyatt's Opera Co. languishes. He contemplates sending them on an interior trip up through Northern California and Oregon after August 14th. The People's Theatre has closed for a three weeks' rest.

John W. Thompson, Chas. J. Edmonds, Harry Mainhall, Belle Melville, Minnie Young, Idalene Cotton and others have been engaged to support Joseph Murphy at the California.

Joseph Martin, a Flemish musician, has added another E string to the violin with good results, and now proposes to experiment with a second A string.

J. L. Toole, the comedian of the British, has accepted an offer from Williamson, Garner and Musgrove for a forty weeks' tour in Australia, commencing next spring. Toole's Theatre in London, is a mere shooting-box of the drama. It contains but 600 seats. Toole is sui generis and Londoners all love him. He appears to be a cross between Billy Crane and Frank Daniels and is clever in his make up and wonderful in his facial expression. Toole acts all over. Toole hit the audience quite hard in a fetching little farce, Artful Cards, written by F. C. Burnard. Little Puck Daniels could make this three-act farce a great go by adding a few pretty girls with catchy songs and subtracting a few long gowns. Toole lacks elasticity, but the English do not care for that. They seem to be satisfied with Toole because he is Toole.

Bluebeard Jr., the last Chicago spectacular hit, comes here after a while. As it stands now it is strongly flavored with San Francisco, for Clay Greene wrote it, and Ada Deaves and Lily Post are its principals. We shall see the original libretto, but not the original cast.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy is in his last week in his stirring play, "One of the Bravest." This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake stand, is a good foil for the other people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece has made a sensation and is drawing.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" next week. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms this week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

Mr. Harrigan's Jeremiah McCarthy, the undertaker's son, is a neat bit of Irish comedy acting. The company is just about the same as two years ago; the only one really missed being Bradley. There are four distinct character Irishmen, all clearly drawn, natural and admirably impersonated, and free from coarseness. The New York negro characters are rich studies in their humor, and the female parts are equally strong.

See cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement here in his new play, "The Donagh"—a sacred casket—one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is the working up to this sacrilege, and the punishment that followed it that forms a play of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

The Call, in canvassing Mr. Murphy's professional qualities, says: "Without being a Tyrone Power, a Hudson or a Collins, Mr. Murphy is the only Irish delineator we have in the front at present, and his success, not only in this city but in every metropolis in the United States is in evidence of his capability to fill drama. In many instances the situations are full and pronounced. Mr. Murphy as Lanty, John W. Thompson as Dorsey McMurragh, Mr. Charles J. Edmonds as Mr. McBride, Mr. M. Heppard as Dennis, Miss Belle Melville as Rose Coonan, and Miss Minnie Young as Kate, deserve especial credit for fine acting.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, are in their last week at the Orpheum. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and have proven great drawing cards.

In addition to the Samoans, the following new specialty artists appear this week: The Newcomb Family, vocalists and sketch artists, five in number; Hallet & Raymond, grotesque comedians and dancers; Verna Herukol, the Vienna waltz singer; Emery & Russell, the musical artists, and Wm. Gibbons, eccentric comedian. Vanola, the Mexican juggler, and Joe Natus, tenor vocalist, are retained. This is a strong array of attractions.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oake." Mr. Chas. Chappelle assumes the role of Burr Oake, a young farmer, afterwards an outcast. Miss May Nannary plays Maggie Oake and our favorite Conchita has the pleasing soubrette role of Sallie Beadle.

"Burr Oake" is playing to full houses and has made a dramatic hit. Darrell Vinton renders the part of Eben Hartstone surprisingly well and brings out all the points to be made very clearly, and he shares the honors of the production with Mr. Chapelle.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

James Reilly, singing character comedian, and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for this week.

Johnnie Cain, Geo. Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances this week.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Kitty Drew remain.

The entire company are presented in the blood-curdling drama, "McGinty's Racket."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

John and Lou Cook join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "Kitty and the Baby," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Rink," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, the Bretson Sisters and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

The entertainment commences with Charles Berkeley's sparkling first-part, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Post & Ashley, sketch team, and Miss Mabel Adair are the new faces.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 28th, grand picnic of the Golden Eagle Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Dinner at Martinez, 50 cents. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

EXCURSION TO UKIAH.

The last mid-week $2 family excursion to Ukiah, the picturesque capital and principal city of Mendocino county will be made on Thursday. The trip includes 113 miles of travel over the S. F. and North Pacific road and return. The upper portion of the road where it follows the bank of the Russian River, that has cut its way through twenty miles of mountain range, is as picturesque as any line of travel in the state. The valley of Ukiah is about twelve miles long and from three to five miles in width. Its soil is productive and its climate notably healthy. It is surrounded by high mountain ranges of the altitude of Tamalpais or higher, which are covered with luxuriant foliage to their very tops.

The excursionists will leave Tiburon ferry at 7.40 A. M., arrive at Ukiah at 12.30, and returning will leave Ukiah at 4 P. M., reaching home at 8:30. The excursion will be under the personal management of Col. W. H. Menton, the excursion manager of the North Pacific road, a guarantee that everything will be properly supervised.

Ample accommodations for dinner, in which baked chicken pie and other appetizing items peculiar to rural bills of fare, will be provided at the hotels and under a canopy of trees by a Church Association of Ladies at 50 cents a meal. We write from experience of the last excursion, and, with the memory of the menu served, advise that lunches be left at home on this occasion.

The New York Society for the Prevention of cruelty to Children has put an extinguisher upon Proctor's juvenile Pinafore company. First clever little Miss Heckler was forbidden to appear as Josephine; then Master Parr as the Captain and Charlie J. Heckler as Sir Joseph were removed by order and adults replaced them. If this society can tolerate barefooted little girls peddling through the Winter's snows, there seems to be little reason for sitting down upon well cared for children cultivating their voices in public.

Clover continues to draw large audiences at Palmer's Theatre, New York. No engagement in the history of the house has been so successful.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Karl Gardner and the "Fatherland" Company are in town enjoying their first rest for over a year. Mr. Gardner is busy superintending the production of "Fatherland" for next week at the Bush.

Wilton Lackaye is among the new people engaged by Augustia Daly for his next season. Mr. Lackaye was Rose Coghlan's leading man East, and is a young, graceful and talented actor. What is Daly going to do with all his new people?

J. K. Murray goes with the Thompson Opera Co.

Miss Ricca Allen will enact the role of Satan in "Kajanka." This is the first time the role of Satan has been intrusted to a female.

John A. Stevens has a new play which he has christened "Wife for Wife."

Louise and Ray Allen have joined "The Spider and the Fly" Co. Season opens at Trenton, N. J. Sept. 20th.

Photographs of what we are to have in the way of scenery in "Fatherland" ornament the store windows and show grand views of the Tyrolean Alps and handsome groupings of the Spinstube (spinning-bee night), the Lilac and the Sangerfest scenes.

Sara Bernhardt's present London season opened very flat. It was ushered in with an apology for her illness. Sarah and her support were listless in their work. Then she had a row with her manager, and flew to the press to denounce him. She was so bitter and vehement that most of the papers refused to give her a hearing.

It is very funny to see the party in "Leather Patch" bound for the Undertakers' Masquerade Ball crowd themselves into that hack.

"The Donagh" shows a handsome panoramic view of the Lakes of Killarney.

Violinist Sarasate's tour of America next season is to be made under Henry E. Abbey's management.

Wm. Terriss has revised "The Shaughraun" in London with success, playing Captain Molyneux himself.

"The King of Sweden has written a one-act historical play which is to be produced next season in six different cities—Stuttgart, Aix-la Chapelle, Halle, Nuremburg, Breslau and Konigsberg." FIGARO predicts that that royal effort will be a six-times success all along the circuit.

Bolossy Kiralfy's new extravaganza for New York and a Western market will be a modified version of the mimical ballet, "Antiope," which had a run of two hundred nights at the London Alhambra last year. He will have a number of English burlesque performers in the company.

We have three actors of San Francisco origin playing star engagements at our theatres this week: Joseph Murphy at the California, Edward Harrigan at the Alcazar and Charles McCarthy at the Bush. Our home attractions are brought well to the front just at present.

Harrigan produces The Leather Patch for the present week at the Alcazar.

Joseph Murphy commences his season at the California in "The Donagh" this week.

Joseph Martin, a Flemish musician, has added another E string to the violin with good results, and now proposes to experiment with a second A string.

Bluebeard Jr., the last Chicago spectacular bit, comes here after a while. As it stands now it is strongly flavored with San Francisco, for Clay Greene wrote it, and Ada Deaves and Lily Post are its principals. We shall see the original libretto, but not the original cast.

There will be many noticeable revivals the coming season. Richard III, with Richard Mansfield, and Twelfth Night, with Marie Wainwright, are prominent among them. It is probable Augustin Daly will again show his skill with a Shakespearean play. Salvini will, no doubt, repeat his famous role of Othello, and Booth and Modjeska will also be seen in a number of Shakespearean parts. Then Anthony and Cleopatra will be on the list, with Mrs. Potter and Kyrle Bellew, and Julia Marlowe, if she plays at all here, will

Mrs. Scott-Siddons will give a series of recitals on the Pacific Coast this Fall. The tour will open at Denver Sept. 16th. All of the larger cities will be visited, including San Francisco, Portland and Victoria. The tour will close in Winnipeg.

M. B. Leavitt has engaged Hilda Thomas, Bessie Cleveland, Pauline Markham, Marguerite Wood, Lulu Redden, Dorate & Oreste, Louise and Ray Allen and August Siegrist for his spectacle, "Spider and the Fly." Jake Rosenthal will travel in advance of the company.

Tony Pastor sailed from Liverpool July 24th, and will bring with him Miss Millie Hylton, male character singer; Revene & Athos, groteseque acrobats and dancers; Miss Lizzie Collins, serio comic, and the Sisters Graham, duettists and dancers.

The new Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels, divided into two equally strong companies, opened July 15th in Rochester and Buffalo to large houses. Manager Cleveland used a special engine in order to be present at both openings.

Neil Burgess is recovering from his recent accident, and will open at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y., in "The Country Fair," August 29th.

What's the matter with Helen Bertram, the new prima donna of the McCaull Opera Company? It is rumored that she is living happily with her husband. This should be investigated by the management and a scandal avoided.

Kate Seymour, a fancy actress from London, will be one of the stars of Prof. Herrmann's Transatlantic Vandeville Co.

The members of Rose Coghlan's company are en route for this city. The season of Miss Coghlan opens Aug. 5.

"The White Elephant" is not a success at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y.

William Boyd will be Agnes Herndon's leading man next season.

Patti Rosa has returned from Europe, and is looking the picture of health.

"The Lion and the Lamb" will lay down together August 5th at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y.

Joseph Mack will probably manage R. D. McLean and Marie Prescott next season.

"Fatherland" comes to the Bush next week. It is a play of stirring incidents that appeal to the sympathies of its audiences. Mr. Gardner's company in support is a strong one, numbering twenty people, and his piece has been a great success everywhere.

Augustin Daly notes his annual milestones in the journey of his life by gathering his company around him socially on each occasion. Last year he kept July 20th, his birthday anniversary, at Stratford-on-Avon; the year previous it fell to him in San Francisco, and on Saturday night he won his fifty-second round in the contest with old Time, and celebrated it most pleasantly in his usual genial but unpretensive way.

Mr. Neil Warner's farewell benefit will take place at the Baldwin Theatre August 11th. "A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will probably be the programme, but it has not been definitely arranged as yet.

Twenty years ago, when Mr. Joe Murphy was a young and dapper minstrel boy, he played at Maguire's Opera House under Sherry Corbyn's management together with Ben Cotton and his son, Master Bennie. Jake Wallace and Armes Beaumont were in the same company. Now he has Ben's daughter in his company, who gets along nicely with the part intrusted to her.

Miss Agnes Herndon, backed by $60,000, is making ready for her Fall tour in a number of plays, some of them new and some others already successful at her hands.

W. J. Gilmore is going to revive "The Devil's Auction."

The Donagh that the play deals with is a holy casket six hundred years old, supposed to contain blessed extracts from the gospels.

The engine used in "One of the Bravest" is a spare machine from the Oakland Fire Department.

Manager Al Hayman, of the Baldwin, left for the East Monday, accompanied by his wife.

Miss Isabel Morris has some idea of making a tour of the Pacific Coast at the close of the Alcazar engagement.

Mrs. Yeamans this week as Mrs. McCarthy has a part just suited to her. She gets a deal of humor out of it.

Mrs. Gilbert in "The Lottery of Love" appears in a role that borders very closely upon low comedy.

The Newcomb Family are at the Orpheum this week.

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday next.

Leander Richardson, the editor of the New York Dramatic News and Sporting Age, who is one of the most widely known journalists in the United States, has written a new novel called Lord Dummersey, which is about to be published by John Delay, of New York. The book tells the story of a bogus English lord in New York, petted, feted, and assisted in his nefarious schemes by the toadies of society, until he succeeds in surrounding himself with complications that lead to his ruin. This personage, though a rascal, is as plucky as they make them, and is a picturesque and brilliant figure. Maurice Barrymore, the well-known and brilliant literateur and actor, pronounces Mr. Richardson's story the

The Fiske-Riggs opposition still stirs up the stagnant theatrical waters of Fresno occasionally. Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels played at Riggs' Theatre Saturday night and Manager Fiske, of the Fresno Opera House, got in an attachment on the box office of Riggs' for $150 against T. P. & W., claiming that he had engaged the minstrels to appear at his house for that night, and that they had violated the contract to his damage in that amount by not appearing.

Post & Ashley, the favorite sketch team, open at the Eureka Music Hall this week. They have just returned to the city after a long and successful season in Arizona.

Mr. Owen Dale, the well known actor, is underlined to appear at the Bella Union at an early date in "The Royal Biddy," supported by Miss Rose Hersee and other well chosen talent.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Charles McCarthy is in his last week in his stirring play, "One of the Bravest." This is a drama of New York life, with the greatest sensational fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by the aid of scaling ladders. Midst the flame and smoke men and even women are seen to jump from the upper windows and alight in safety in the jumping blankets held by strong arms to catch them. Life-lines and life-belts are also brought into requisition to save life, while a real fire engine and horses, dashing across the stage, add to the reality of the scene. This scene lasts about eleven minutes, and is one of the most intense excitement. It is a far better fire scene than that famed one in "The Streets of New York," and the life-saving business makes it really thrilling.

"One of the Bravest" has the scope of Harrigan's plays in its introduction of New York characters. McCarthy's Larry Howard, the fireman, a manly young fellow with a heroic spirit, is admirably sustained. Wm. Cronin as Widow Grogan, keeper of a coffee and cake stand, is a good foil for the other people in the play, and creates lots of fun. Frank Casey as Rats, a New York street boy, is also notably amusing in his work, and M. Thompson's Policeman McGinty can be classed in the same catalogue. George Reynolds' Pete, the "gen'l'man of color who use'ter tote de targets;" Add Weaver's Zeke or "Old Forty-one," and H. S. Parker's Buster Kelly, are good portrayals of different types of New York characters.

Miss Olive West and Miss Estella Wellington sustain their roles creditably, the latter doing an excellent dance, and the company enliven up the third act with some very clever specialties, including McCarthy's fire song, One of the Bravest.

The piece has made a sensation and is drawing.

—o—

Chas. A. Gardner, "Karl Gardner," a very popular German comedian, and a very sweet singer, follows "One of the Bravest," in "Fatherland" next week. The action of the play takes place in Tyrol, and partakes of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land. The play is pronounced one of "great interest," and draws everywhere.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms this week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

Mr. Harrigan's Jeremiah McCarthy, the undertaker's son, is a genuine bit of Irish comedy acting. The company is just about the same as two years ago; the only one really missed being Bradley. There are four distinct character Irishmen, all clearly drawn, natural and admirably impersonated, and free from coarseness. The New York negro characters are rich studies in their humor, and the female parts are equally strong.

There is really a flavor of Dickens in the graphic sketching and individuality of character that Harrigan has grouped together in "Leather Patch."

Our space will not permit of an extended notice. We can only call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement here in his new play, "The Donagh"—a sacred casket—one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is the working up to this sacrilege, and the punishment that followed it that forms a play of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

this city but in every metropolis in the United States, is in evidence of his capability to fill the line of characters he assumes."

Mr. Murphy makes his bow in "The Donagh" as Lanty Killaly, in this strikingly romantic drama. In many instances the situations are full and pronounced. Mr. Murphy as Lanty, John W. Thompson as Dorsey McMurragh, Mr. Charles J. Edmonds as Mr. McBride, Mr. M. Heppard as Dennis, Miss Belle Melville as Rose Coonan, and Miss Minnie Young as Kate, deserve especial credit for fine acting.

Standard Theatre.

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian mesmerist and magician, who showed in his two nights performances at the Standard last week that he combines the mesmeric powers of Kennedy and the conjuring skill of Herrmann, and did things in both lines that neither could do, will give two farewell performances at the Standard Theatre on Saturday and Sunday nights, prior to his departure for Paris.

Dr. Nicolay is a mystery, a remarkable scientific illusionist and mesmerist. His prestidigitation is without the aid of apparatus. He gives wonderful exhibitions of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, etc. His billiard exhibition is one of his greatest mysteries. He makes the balls reverse the laws of billiards, perform the most difficult curves, and almost make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time absorbingly interesting.

The Doctor's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office from 2 to 5 P. M. Box office open on Friday.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, are in their last week at the Orpheum. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and have proven great drawing cards.

In addition to the Samoans, the following new specialty artists appear this week: The Newcomb Family, vocalists and sketch artists, five in number; Hallet & Raymond, grotesque comedians and dancers; Verna Hernkol, the Vienna waltz singer; Emery & Russell, the musical artists, and Wm. Gibbons, eccentric comedian. Vanola, the Mexican juggler, and Joe Natus, tenor vocalist, are retained. This is a strong array of attractions.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks." Mr. Chas. Chappelle assumes the role of Burr Oaks, a young farmer, afterwards an outcast. Miss May Nannary plays Maggie Oaks and our favorite Conchita has the pleasing soubrette role of Sallie Beadle.

"Burr Oaks" is playing to full houses and has made a dramatic hit. Darrell Vinton renders the part of Eben Hartstone surprisingly well and brings out all the points to be made very clearly, and he shares the honors of the production with Mr. Chapelle.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

James Reilly, singing character comedian, and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for this week.

Johnnie Cain, Geo. Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances this week.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Kitty Drew remain.

The entire company are presented in the blood-curdling drama, "McGinty's Racket."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction [illegible] evening.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

John and Lou Cook join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "Kitty and the Baby," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Rink," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, the Stetson Sisters and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Mabel Adair, Bob McDonald, James Post and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with Charles Berkeley's sparkling first-part, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Post & Ashley, sketch team, and Miss Mabel Adair are the new faces.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

The last mid-week $2 family excursion to Ukiah, the picturesque capital and principal city of Mendocino county, will be made on Thursday. The trip includes 113 miles of travel over the S. F. and North Pacific road and return. The upper portion of the road where it follows the bank of the Russian River, that has cut its way through twenty miles of mountain range, is as picturesque as any line of travel in the state. The valley of Ukiah is about twelve miles long and from three to five miles in width. Its soil is productive and its climate notably healthy. It is surrounded by high mountain ranges of the altitude of Tamalpais or higher, which are covered with [illegible]

4 P. M, reaching home at 8:30. The excursion will be under the personal management of Col. W. H. Menton, the excursion manager of the North Pacific road, a guarantee that everything will be properly supervised.

Ample accommodations for dinner, in which baked chicken pie and other appetizing items peculiar to rural bills of fare, will be provided at the hotels and under a canopy of trees by a Church Association of Ladies at 50 cents a meal. We write from experience of the last excursion, and, with the memory of the menu served, advise that lunches be left at home on this occasion.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....JULY 25, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

THATCHER, PRIMROSE & WEST'S AFFAIRS.

The reason why the minstrel firm of Thatcher, Primrose & West is in a state of dissolution is divulged in the suit that Primrose and West have jointly brought against George Thatcher for dissolution of partnership. The complaint says that Thatcher has at various times broken his contract to assist at all performances by becoming too intoxicated to do so, and especially—on which the case is founded for application in this city—on June 27th and 28th, while the company was performing at the California Theatre, when he was unable to perform. It is averred that by reason of such acts on the part of the defendant the business of the firm is jeopardized and willfully injured. Therefore a dissolution is asked.

It was known when these minstrels were in this city that Primrose and West intended drawing out of the firm, but it was not supposed that the law would have to be appealed to to sever the unexpired copartnership contract, which does not expire until October, 1892

In his specialty turn at the California Thatcher used to present himself very pleasantly to the audience by saying that in demand to the public's requirements to introduce something new in minstrelsy he had done so, and they had not noticed it. He had come on the stage through a middle door in the scenery in place of gliding on from a side entrance, as the minstrels had always done, and had got no applause for it. But he has succeeded in making a sensation now. It is alleged he has become an epicure in his sprees, with an ambition to drink up all the champagne in the country; in fact, a sort of a "Champagne Charley" of minstrels.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Stirk Family opened successfully at the Palace Exhibition, Sydney, where they remain six weeks, and go from there to Melbourne for the same period.

Cort's Standard Pavilion, Seattle, July 22: Gus Hill's Challenge Specialty Co.

Koster & Bial's Theatre, New York, July 22: The "Monte Cristo, Jr.," Co., Austin Sisters and the Gaiety Dancers.

Chas. Cardello (formerly of Cardello & Vidella, the bar performers) is laid up with a broken leg received in Sells Bros.' circus at Spokane Falls while doing a flying leap over horses and elephants.

Tony Pastor sailed from Liverpool July 24th, and will bring with him Miss Millie Hylton, male character singer; Revene & Athor, grotesque acrobats and dancers; Miss Lizzie Collins, serio comic, and the Sisters Graham, duettists and dancers.

Kate Seymour, a fancy actress from London, will be one of the stars of Prof. Herrmann's Transatlantic Vaudeville Co.

John Hall, who had charge of Alma Stuart Stanley's wardrobe when she was playing in this city, and had also served for years as dresser for Sheridan, was arrested as a morphine wreck on Sunday and was sentenced to ninety days in the House of Correction.

Mrs. Terry is resolved to carry out her lecturing tour and holds receipts for halls already engaged in cities in Nevada. A few experiments will probably satisfy all parties interested of the unprofitableness of her lecturing project.

Ed B. Long's laughable comedy, "Hackmeier's Son," and the Ford Bros.' comedy act, 'Mrs. Grapp's Sally Boy," are on the programme this week at the Chemnitz.

Mr. Edward Lattelle, a fine banjo player, plays at the Orpheum during July 29th. He is one of the best in the business.

Post & Ashley, the favorite knock-about team, open at the Eureka Music Hall this week. They have just returned to the city after a long and successful season in Arizona.

Mr. Owen Dale, the well known actor, is underlined to appear at the Bella Union at an early date in "The Royal Middy," [illegible]

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

"The Logaire" will follow "Cordelia's Aspirations" at the Alcazar the week of August 5th.

Robert Mantell will star next season in "The Corsican Brothers" under Manager Pitou, opening at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, N. Y., in the Fall.

The juvenile "Pinafore" season at Proctor's Theatre, N. Y., has come to an abrupt close.

"The Burglar" is doing the best business at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, ever known at that theatre at this time of the year. This is the play that Mr. Joseph Grismer will produce at the Bush Street Theatre in August.

Charlie Reed closes his special engagement at the Alcazar Sunday night.

Fanny Bowman joins the Grismer forces at the Bush Street Aug. 12th.

Mrs. O'Sullivan Dimpfel, the Baltimore society actress, concerning whose personal charms so much was heard a year or so ago when she appeared in Duncan B Harrison's "Paymaster," has apparently dropped out of the profession altogether. The lady did not make a distinguished success as an actress, and she would wear the costliest kind of tea-gowns in the most incongruous surroundings.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons will give a series of recitals on the Pacific Coast this Fall. The tour will open at Denver Sept. 16th. All of the larger cities will be visited, including San Francisco, Portland and Victoria. The tour will close in Winnipeg.

M. B. Leavitt has engaged Hilda Thomas, Bessie Cleveland, Pauline Markham, Marguerite Wood, Lulu Redden, Doreste & Oreste, Louise and Ray Allen and August Siegrist for his spectacle, "Spider and the Fly." Jake Rosenthal will travel in advance of the company.

The new Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels, divided into two equally strong companies, opened July 15th in Rochester and Buffalo to large houses. Manager Cleveland used a special engine in order to be present at both openings.

Neil Burgess is recovering from his recent accident, and will open at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y., in "The Country Fair," August 29th.

What's the matter with Helen Bertram, the new prima donna of the McCaull Opera Company? It is rumored that she is living happily with her husband. This should be investigated by the management and a scandal avoided.

The members of Rose Coghlan's company are en route for this city. The season of Miss Coghlan opens Aug. 5.

"The White Elephant" is not a success at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y.

William Boyd will be Agnes Herndon's leading man next season.

Patti Rosa has returned from Europe, and is looking the picture of health.

"The Lion and the Lamb" will lay down together August 5th at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y.

"Fatherland" comes to the Bush next week. It is a play of stirring incidents that appeal to the sympathies of its audiences. Mr. Gardner's company in support is a strong one, numbering twenty people, and his piece has been a great success everywhere.

Mr. Neil Warner's farewell benefit will take place at the Baldwin Theatre August 11th. "A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will probably be the programme, but it has not been definitely arranged as yet.

Twenty years ago, when Mr. Joe Murphy was a young and dapper minstrel boy, he played at Maguire's Opera House under Sherry Corbyn's management together with Ben Cotton and his son, Master Bennie. Jake Wallace and Armes Beaumont were in the same company. Now he has Ben's daughter in his company, who gets along nicely with the part intrusted to her.

W. J. Gilmore is going to revive "The Devil's Auction."

The Donagh that the play deals with is a holy casket six hundred years old, supposed to contain blessed extracts from the gospels.

The Newcomb Family are at the Orbeum this week.

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday next.

Karl Gardner and the "Fatherland" Company are in town enjoying their first rest for over a year. Mr. Gardner is busy superintending the production of "Fatherland" for next week at the Bush.

Wilton Lackaye is among the new people engaged by Augustin Daly for his next season. Mr. Lackaye was Rose Coghlan's leading man East, and is a young, graceful and talented actor. What is Daly going to do with all his new people?

J. K. Murray goes with the Thompson Opera Co.

Miss Ricca Allen will enact the role of Satan in "Kajanka." This is the first time the role of Satan has been intrusted to a female.

William Brown of Chicago is, according to The Stage, probably the oldest circus-rider in America. He began equestrain life when four years and a half old, and is now 90. At 13 he was first jockey to King George III.

Lena Dare, the Queen of the air, is one of the chief attractions in Paris.

Wright, Dayton and Piggott are paint-

Idalene Cotton is rapidly developing into a jolly little soubrette.

Miss Lora Hollis had a very pleasant benefit at the Bijou last night.

Geo. H. Wood plays Palestine Puter in "Cordelia's Aspirations" at the Alcazar next week.

Frank Mayo returns to his old love, "Davy Crockett," next season.

M. B. Leavitt has already booked some thirty leading attractions for the new Windsor Theatre, Chicago.

Fred Pelham comes to San Francisco to make the preliminary arrangements for Mrs. Scott-Siddons' tour of the Pacific Coast.

There has been trouble in the "Said Pasha" Co., Richard Stahl, the composer, having carried off all the scores and the libretto. He claims that he has not been properly treated by the Kreling Bros., and they in turn declare that he had everything he was entitled to. Mr. Stahl is going to Germany for a year or two.

John A. Stevens has a new play which he has christened "Wife for Wife."

Louise and Ray Allen have joined "The Spider and the Fly" Co. Season opens at Trenton, N. J. Sept. 20th.

Photographs of what we are to have in the way of scenery in "Fatherland" ornament the store windows and show grand views of the Tyrolean Alps and handsome groupings of the Spinstube (spinning-bee night), the Lilac and the Sangerfest scenes.

Joseph Mack will probably manage R. D. McLean and Marie Prescott next season.

Sara Bernhardt's present London season opened very flat. It was ushered in with an apology for her illness. Sarah and her support were listless in their work. Then she had a row with her manager, and flew to the press to denounce him. She was so bitter and vehement that most of the papers refused to give her a hearing.

It is very funny to see the party in "Leather Patch" bound for the Undertakers' Masquerade Ball crowd themselves into that hack.

"The Donagh" shows a handsome panoramic view of the Lakes of Killarney.

We have three actors of San Francisco origin playing star engagements at our theatres this week: Joseph Murphy at the California, Edward Harrigan at the Alcazar and Charles McCarthy at the Bush. Our home attractions are brought well to the front just at present.

There will be many noticeable revivals the coming season. Richard III, with Richard Mansfield, and Twelfth Night, with Marie Wainwright, are prominent among them. It is probable Augustin Daly will again show his skill with a Shakespearean play. Salvini will, no doubt, repeat his famous role of Othello, and Booth and Modjeska will also be seen in a number of Shakespearean parts. Then Anthony and Cleopatra will be on the list, with Miss Price and Karle Bellew, and Julia Marlowe, if she plays at all here, will be seen in Shakespeare. Some of the minor stars are also in training for a go-as-you-please tussle with the immortal bard.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicago; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera company, Maggie Mitchell, Jed Prouty, Rice's Corsair Co., Jim the Penman, Rice's Evangeline,

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Sunday night is the last night of Chas. McCarthy and "One of the Bravest," in the greatest fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by people jumping from the top story of the burning building into jumping blankets held to receive them, and by scaling-ladders, life-lines and life-belts.

The piece has made a sensation and has drawn large houses.

—o—

Earl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine Hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" next week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinstube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. They are all scenes peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is accredited with a magnetism of feeling in his part of a Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage."

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company of twenty odd people in support, with fine scenery and costumes.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms this week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

Mr. Harrigan's Jeremiah McCarthy, the undertaker's son, is a genuine bit of Irish comedy acting. The company is just about the same as two years ago; the only one really missed being Bradley. There are four distinct character Irishmen, all clearly drawn, natural and admirably impersonated, and free from coarseness. The New York negro characters are rich studies in their humor, and the female parts are equally strong.

There is really a flavor of Dickens in the graphic sketching and individuality of character that Harrigan has grouped together in "Leather Patch."

Our space will not permit of an extended notice. We can only call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week, "Cordelia's Aspirations."

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement here in his new play, "The Donagh"—a sacred casket—one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is the working up to a trial of this test that forms a play of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

The Call, in canvassing Mr. Murphy's professional qualities, says: "Without being a Tyrone Power, a Hudson or a Collins, Mr. Murphy is the only Irish delineator we have to the front at present, and his success, not only in this city but in every metropolis in the United States, is in evidence of his capability to fill the line of characters he assumes."

Mr. Murphy makes his bow in "The Donagh" as Lanty Killaly, in this strikingly romantic drama, and acts with his wonted humor, quick-

the situations are full and pronounced. Mr. John W. Thompson as Dorsey McMurragh, Mr. Charles J. Edmonds as Mr. McBride, Mr. M. Heppard as Dennis, Miss Belle Melville as Rose Coonan, Miss Minnie Young and Miss Idaline Cotton deserve especial credit for fine acting.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shan Rhue" at the California next week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Shan Rhue) in his inevitable way.

Standard Theatre.

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian mesmerist and magician, who showed in his two nights performances at the Standard last week that he combines the mesmeric powers of Kennedy and the conjuring skill of Herrmann, and did things in both lines that neither could do, will give two farewell performances at the Standard Theatre on Saturday and Sunday nights, prior to his departure for Paris.

Dr. Nicolay is a mystery, a remarkable scientific illusionist and mesmerist. His prestidigitation is without the aid of apparatus. He gives wonderful exhibitions of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, etc. His billiard exhibition is one of his greatest mysteries. He makes the balls reverse the laws of billiards, perform the most difficult curves, and almost make caroms by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time absorbingly interesting.

The Doctor's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office from 2 to 5 P. M. Box office open on Friday.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and expertness, are in their last week at the Orpheum. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-lances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and have proven great drawing cards.

In addition to the Samoans, the following new specialty artists appear this week: The Newcomb Family, vocalists and sketch artists, five in number; Hallet & Raymond, grotesque comedians and dancers; Verna Herukol, the Vienna waltz singer; Emery & Russell, the musical artists, and Wm. Gibbons, eccentric comedian. Vanola, the Mexican juggler, and Joe Natus, tenor vocalist, are retained. This is a strong array of attractions.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks." Mr. Chas. Chappelle assumes the role of Burr Oaks, a young farmer, afterwards an outcast. Miss May Nannary plays Maggie Oaks and our favorite Conchita has the pleasing soubrette role of Sallie Beadle.

"Burr Oaks" is playing to full houses and has made a dramatic hit. Darrell Vinton renders the part of Eben Hartstone surprisingly well and brings out all the points to be made very clearly, and he shares the honors of the production with Mr. Chapelle.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr. Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

James Reilly, singing character comedian and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for this week.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result, good business.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances this week.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Kitty Drew remain.

The entire company are presented in the blood-curdling drama, "McGinty's Racket."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

John and Lou Cook join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "Kitty and the Baby," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Rink," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, the Stetson Sisters and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Mabel Adair, Bob McDonald, James Post and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with Charles Berkeley's sparkling first-part, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Post & Ashley, sketch team, and Miss Mabel Adair are the new faces.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 28th, grand picnic of the Golden Eagle Club at Seaside Gardens

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Dinner at Martinez, 50 cents. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Fraser Coulter has been engaged for the company to support Miss Adelaide Moore in The Love Story which is to be made known August 19th at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York.

The London Gaiety dancers, four in number, have been engaged for Kajanka. They are beautiful young women and better dancers than Lottie Lind or Sylvia Grey, and are very popular in London.

PROFESSIONAL SALARIES EAST.

The New York Mirror asserts that there has been a great cut in professional salaries East for the coming season, and never before has there been so many applications for engagemeats in New York. "It seems," says the Mirror, "as if all the professionals of the country had congregated in this city, augmented by an unprecedented accession of the aspirants from the various dramatic schools and elocutionary foundries, and the ambitious offshoots of the variety business who are desirous of shouldering the fardels of more legitimate work in greater numbers than ever. They file up and down Broadway and in and out of the agency offices all day long." The result of this great over demand for work is naturally a fall in salaries.

The Mirror states, "Leading juvenile men who formerly commanded from $75 to $100 per week are considered lucky if they are offered $50 this season. Leading men, who formerly strode the Rialto with a $250 tag upon their backs, are quite well satisfied now with $75 and $100, and but few are offered the latter figure. Old men range from $30 to $50 and the takers at the last figure are few and far between. Comedians are offered from $30 to $40, and there are many who stand ready and willing to accept a season's engagement at the first named. Legitimate eccentric comedians are rare, and what few there are maintain fair salaries. Heavies and character actors are offered from $30 to $50, according to ability and experience.

"The salaries of leading ladies—particularly those of known reputation—do not appear to have shrunk in proportion to other lines, though there is a perceptible decrease. Juvenile ladies are offered as low as $30, and many have accepted at this figure, where last season they received $40 and $50. Old women are abundant at $35, and some as low as $25."

Soubrettes have had a great tumble. Two-thirds of the women applicants are singing and dancing soubrettes, "young and charming," as Pinafore has it. Our authority states that "some of the best soubrettes, who last season commanded $60 and $75, are willing to engage at $35, $40 and $50." It is evident from the above statement that the professional market is greatly overstocked this season in the East.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Dr. Nicolay gives his two farewell nights at the Standard Theatre in his mysteries of magic, wonderful exhibitions of mesmeric power, transmission of thought, and his mysterious billiard playing, to-night and Sunday night. His entertainment is an entirely novel one.

An entire new novelty company at the Orpheum next week, upwards of twenty leading artists. For the week of Aug. 5th Over the Garden Wall Comedy Co. is underlined.

J. W. Kelley, topical songster and comedian, opens at the Cremorne next week.

"Unneighborly Neigbors" will be the comedy act at the Cremorne week of July 29th.

Mr. Edward Lattelle, a fine banjo player, opens at the Orpheum July 29th. He is one of the best in the business.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

An Arrant Knave, the play which Steele Mackaye has written for Stuart Robson, will be played early in August at Henry Irving's Lyceum Theatre, in London, for copyright purposes. A similar course was pursued in regard to The Henrietta, on performance only being given at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, the gross receipts of which reached one dollar and fifty-five cents. Mr. Robson says, The Henrietta did a trifle better than that in America—over half a million dollars being taken in two seasons.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Charlie Reed will leave for the East next week to join Donnelly & Grattan's "Natural Gas" Co.

Archie Gunter and C. Alfred Byrne have written a new comedy, "Behind the Scenes," for Minnie Palmer to play in London.

"The Burglar" is doing the best business at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, ever known at that theatre at this time of the year. This is the play that Mr. Joseph Grismer will produce at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th.

It is reported that May Howard, formerly of Rice and Dixey's "Corsair" Co., is about to be married again. Miss Howard has been married and divorced twice, and is only in her twenty-third year. If the lady's new matrimonial venture should not pan out all right she will make a first class candidate for stellar stage honors.

From London comes the report that Alice Athertor, the well known burlesque actress and wife of Willie Edouin, has become insane through grief for the loss of her child.

At the Paris Hippodrome a young lion acts as a jockey in a horse race. The unfortunate horse to whose back he clings is also comparatively small and appears to be in a terrible fright during the time his torture endures, but it is not long. The exhibition is by no means attractive, but it is relished by many spectators.

The old drama of 'The Stranglers of Paris" has just been reproduced in London under the title of "The Grip of Iron."

Raoul Koszalsky, a 5-year-old Russian, is the latest piano prodigy. He plays Mendelssohn, Rubinstein and Chopin with marked skill.

Idalene Cotton is rapidly developing into a jolly little soubrette.

Mrs. Langtry will try a new historical play on the Nottingham, Eng., dog next September prior to producing it in London.

The dailies are taking up again and canvassing the condition of Mary Anderson; that was very definitely settled when the telegram was sent from London a month ago announcing that by the advice of her physician she had cancelled her contracts for twelve months made with Abbey. It was then stated it was owing to Miss Anderson's continued mental prostration that the cancelment was made, and that it was hoped that a year's rest would restore her to health. Bodily her health seems unaffected. It is the mind that is impaired in its faculties. Though not insane, as one report has it, there can be no doubt but that the unfortunate girl is afflicted with a loss of memory, a listlessness, and at times, to a certain degree of mental blankness that is more dangerous than any physical prostration could be. Let us hope that the year's quietude from mental work may bring perfect restoration.

Charlie Reed closes his special engagement at the Alcazar Sunday night.

Managers of most of the Fall and Winter attractions are making arrangements in the East for the rehearsals of their companies in their coming productions. During the months of August and September all the New York theatres will be fully occupied every hour in the day. W. H. Crane has made a sensible move by calling his company for their first rehearsal in Boston, at the Hollis Street Theatre, on August 19th. Not only will they have freedom from interruption, but Mr. Crane will have more time to give to his rehearsals. William Seymour will direct the production of all of the plays that go to make up Mr. Crane's repertoire.

Fanny Bowman joins the Grismer forces at the Bush Street Aug. 12th.

M. B. Leavitt has engaged Hilda Thomae, Bessie Cleveland, Pauline Markham, Marguerite Wood, Lulu Redden, Dorete & Oreste, Louise and Ray Allen and August Siegrist for his spectacle, "Spider and the Fly." Jake Rosenthal will travel in advance of the company.

"Fatherland," the "next" at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Cons. A Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company. Opening night Monday next.

The Tempest is being done at the Paris Opera House, as a ballet extravaganza. The pirouttes and other fantistic steps of the fair performers, the scenery and the costume, with the magical feats of Prospero, presents a dramatic sight much admired by the audience. The finale of this ballet-extravaganza is singularly effective. A forest opens, and the sea is disclosed; a magical ship is then seen advancing. Prospero, Ferdinand, Miranda with the genii and fairies of the island are drawn, as if by some invisible power, towardt it, and float through the air as if in an apotheosis, till they reach it.

Jules Massenet, the composer of Manon and Le Cid, is the youngest of a family of twenty-one children. His father was in poor circumstances, and at the age of 15 young Jules left Geneva for Paris, to pursue his musical studies. His first engagement was at the Chatelet Theatre, Paris, where he played the big drum and tinkled the triangle for the sum of nine francs a week. At this time he was studying at the Conservatoire, and used to borrow a decent coat from one friend, a hat from another, and a pair of boots from a third to enable him to present a decent appearance before his professors. In 1863 he secured the Prix de Rome, and in 1867, when the scholarship had expired, he returned to

NO FLIES ON THEM.

Now in these fly-time days, the cow
Who is worldly wise
Will wade into the shady pond
With water to her eyes.
She'll very calmly chew her cud,
From care and trouble free,
And marking as she flings the mud,
"There are no flies on me."

The neighbor's dog now shuns the beat
And as he wildly pants,
He digs a costly, cool retreat
Within your choice lawn plants.
Amidst the fragrant mignonette
He crawls with ghoulish glee,
And to the house-cat shouts "You bet
There are no flies on me."

STAGE REALISMS.

The drama is ever striving after the real. We had but recently "The Paymaster" with the hero's real plunge in real water and coming out all wet, and "Monbars" with its red hot poker sizzling on the naked arm—simulated, we admit, but still very effective; and still have the fire scene and the leaps for life from the three-story burning tenement house in "One of the Bravest." These are advances in realism that tend to stimulate our nerves, and there are more in store for us in the prolific East. The last New York Truth—that never told a lie—says that, "At the Eden Musee figures of Sullivan and Kilrain are almost completed and will be put on view this week. They are remarkably lifelike, and will be attired in fighting costume and displayed in the regulation twenty-four footring. The whole scene will be a correct reproduction of that at Richburg, from photographs taken upon the spot. The fair sex may be counted upon to take as much interest as the men in the wonderfully developed physique of the two eminent professors of the fistic art." The same journal asserts that, "Manager E. G. Stone, of the Paul Kauvar Company, says that he is going to have a number of wax heads among his properties this season. He has ordered four at a cost of $300 each. One is used in the guillotine scene of Kauvar. Stone intends to put on the drama more elaborately than ever before."

These are praiseworthy attempts at realism. If the ladies are debarred from seeing Sullivan and Kilrain in the ring they can at least see their exact counterparts in fighting costume and position. And then think how thrilling it will be to see that realistic looking head drop from the guillotine in "Paul Kauvar."

Who will first dramatize "Kate Maxwell," and give us the thrilling picture of the hanging of the notorious Cattle Queen by the lynchers from a limb of a stunted pine by the banks of the Sweetwater River, with the real tree in the play? It will come.

Robert Mantell will star next season in "The Corsican Brothers" under Manager Pitou, opening at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, N. Y., in the Fall.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicago; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera company, Maggie

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Sunday night is the last night of Chas. McCarthy and "One of the Bravest," in the greatest fire scene ever on the stage, in which all the life-saving appliances of the New York fire department are introduced to rescue the inmates from a burning three-story tenement house. Rescues are made by people jumping from the top story of the burning building into jumping-blankets held to receive them, and by scaling-ladders, life-lines and life-belts.

The piece has made a sensation and has drawn large houses.

—o—

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" next week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinnstube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. They are all scenes peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is accredited with a magnetism of feeling in his part of a Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage."

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company of twenty odd people in support, with fine scenery and costumes.

Alcazar Theatre.

"The Leather Patch," another of Harrigan's popular dramas of New York life, forms this week's bill at Alcazar. The piece is very amusing; the comedy element being well brought to the front in Harrigan in the character of a New York undertaker trying to recover a lost will which had been sewed up in a leather patch on a pair of old discarded pantaloons that keep changing from hand to hand. The Christmas scenes, the tenement house and the wake of Levy Heyer are all graphic portraitures of New York's undercrust life and characters.

Our space will not permit of an extended notice. We can only call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" next week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are so ludicrous that one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, commences his engagement here in his new play, "The Donagh"—a sacred casket—one of his most successful pieces. The play is founded on the legend of the mysterious power of this casket, held sacred for six hundred years. No true Irishman would take a false oath on the Donagh for fear of meeting with its legendary punishment of some terrible disaster, or even being smitten with sudden death. It is the working up to a trial of this test that forms a play of most interesting events, in which Mr. Murphy has a character that he appears to great advantage in.

Mr. Murphy makes his bow in "The Donagh" as Lanty Killaly, in this strikingly romantic drama, and acts with his wonted humor, quickness of feeling and pathos. In many instances the situations are full and pronounced. Mr. John W. Thompson as Dorsey McMurragh, Mr. Charles J. Edmonds as Mr. McBride, Mr. M. Heppard as Dennis, Miss Belle Melville as Rose Coonan, Miss Minnie Young and Miss Idaline Cotton deserve especial credit for fine acting.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shan Rhue" at the California next week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Shaun Rhue) in his inimitable way.

Maurice Heppard, Dan Kelly, and W. T. Shehan, who made successful appearances this week, are included in the cast.

Standard Theatre.

Dr. Nicolay, the Parisian mesmerist and magician, who showed in his two nights' performances at the Standard Theatre that he could do things in both lines that neither could do, will give two farewell performances at the Standard Theatre on Saturday and Sunday nights, prior to his departure for Paris.

Dr. Nicolay is a mystery, a remarkable scientific illusionist and mesmerist. His prestidigitation is without the aid of apparatus. He gives wonderful exhibitions of mesmerism, fascination by will power, transmission of thought and feeling, tetanic catalepsis and rigidity, magnetic sympathy, the last stage of life, etc. His billiard exhibition is one of his greatest mysteries. He makes the balls reverse the laws of billiards, perform the most difficult curves, and almost make carome by themselves, and a multiplicity of other business, novel, startling, and at the same time absorbingly interesting.

The Doctor's entertainment is divided in four parts. For particulars see programme elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the Standard box office from 2 to 5 P. M. Box office open on Friday.

FIGARO will be the house programme.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Samoa Warriors brought here by Mr. Cunningham, dusky-skinned fellows of great muscular strength, chosen for their intelligence and experiness, are in their last week at the Orpheum. They give rare exhibitions of spear and knife-throwing, club exercises, war-dances and songs, and also physical pastimes and national diversions. They are nine in number and have proven great drawing cards.

In addition to the Samoans, the following new specialty artists appear this week: The Newcomb Family, vocalists and sketch artists, five in number; Hallet & Raymond, grotesque comedians and dancers; Verna Hernkohl, the Vienna waltz singer; Emery & Russell, the musical artists, and Wm. Gibbons, eccentric comedian. Vanola, the Mexican juggler, and Joe Natus, tenor vocalist, are retained. This is a strong array of attractions.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre next week.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week's attraction, the sensational drama, "Burr Oaks." Mr. Chas. Chappelle assumes the role of Burr Oaks, a young farmer, afterwards an outcast. Miss May Nannary plays Maggie Oaks and our favorite Conchita has the pleasing soubrette role of Sallie Beadle.

"Burr Oaks" is playing to full houses and has made a dramatic hit. Darrell Vinton renders the part of Eben Hartstone surprisingly well and brings out all the points to be made very clearly, and he shares the honors of the production with Mr. Chapelle.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "Mliss."

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

James Reilly, singing character comedian, and Haynes & Leigh, phenomenal skate dancers, are the new faces for this week.

Johnnie Cain, Geo Drew, Jennie Haywood, Miss Flora Hastings, Miss Judd London, Kitty Roslin, Lettie LeVyne and Birth Weston remain on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union next week.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Master Solony, the boy contortionist; the Irish character artists, Mitchell and Walter Ford, and Hayes & Marion put in first appearances this week.

Lang's Comiques, Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Kitty Drew remain.

The entire company are presented in the blood-curdling drama, "McGinty's Racket."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, is billed to appear next week.

John and Lou Cook join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "Kitty and the Baby," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Rink," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, the Stetson Sisters and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Chas. Berkeley.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, May Howard, Mabel Adair, Bob McDonald, James Post and Chas. Berkeley make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with Charles Berkeley's sparkling first-part, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Post & Ashley, sketch team, and Miss Mabel Adair are the new faces.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, July 28th, grand picnic of the Golden Eagle Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Dinner at Martinez, 50 cents. The comfort of the excursion, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Marie Jansen, Sadie Martinot and Pauline Hall, are each spoken of in some theatrical circles as the prototype of Grisette, the heroine of the scandalous novel published by Lew Roser. Meanwhile the audacious author is threatened with a libel suit by Tim Murphy who thinks he recognizes himself in Tim Merry.

The price of beer has been raised to ten cents in New York, and the impecunious actor fails to chase the duck, to fly the pigeon, or carry the banner, or hunt the fox, to rush the growler, or roll the rock with the usual frequency.

Ada Dyas will be the Elizabeth in Richard Mansfield's production of Richard III next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall will, it is now settled, make their first appearance in this country in A Scrap of Paper.

Geo. H. Wood plays Palestine Puter in "Cordelia's Aspirations" at the Alcazar next week.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr Cunningham takes his nine Samoan warriors East on Tuesday. They go from here direct to Chicago. They have been a great novelty at the Orpheum in their war dances and songs, their knife juggling and other exhibitions of native life as existing in Samoa, and have proven big drawing cards. They will prove bigger ones in the East.

Horses have always been features to shows from the Roman hippodrome down to the present circus, and of late days they have figured considerably on the dramatic stage; as at the Bush, in the fire engine scene, and at the Alcazar in the hack scene, last week. The engine horses behaved themselves very creditably during their engagement, but there are hard stories told of the horse that was engaged to haul the hack load to the Undertakers' Ball in "Leather Patch." He belonged to McBride's stables on Sutter street. He was a good reliable horse, and such confidence was placed in his good character that he was allowed to come home after performance at night unescorted. This he did for the first nights of the week, but afterwards appeared to become demoralized by his association with the stage, and wandered around after performance peering into beer halls and other lighted up places in an aimless sort of a manner entirely foreign to his previous custom. He kept getting later and later in reporting home, and one night he did not turn up at all. Upon being sought for he was found up on Bush street, after 1 P. M., near "The Progress" saloon. This let his night rambling out. He was called for after that and led home by the nose.

The new minstrel company, with Geo. A. Primrose and Wm. H. West as sole proprietors, will bear the hopeful title of "Primrose & West's Model Minstrels." Its regular season will commence about the middle of December.

The Boston Symphony Orchestral Club, formed mostly of the former members and soloists of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Theodore Thomas Orchestra of New York, will start out on their fourth annual tour in the Fall, and will visit the Pacific Coast during their coming season.

An entire new novelty company at the Orpheum this week, upwards of twenty leading artists. For the week of Aug. 5th Over the Garden Wall Comedy Co. is underlined.

J. W. Kelley, topical songster and comedian, opens at the Cremorne next week.

"Unneighborly Neighbors" will be the comedy act at the Cremorne this week.

Mr. Edward Lattelle, a fine banjo player, opens at the Orpheum this week. He is one of the best in the business.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

Managers of most of the Fall and Winter attractions are making arrangements in the East for the rehearsals of their companies in their coming productions. During the months of August and September all the New York theatres will be fully occupied every hour in the day. W. H. Crane has made a sensible move by calling his company for their first rehearsal in Boston, at the Hollis Street Theatre, on August 19th. Not only will they have freedom from interruption, but Mr. Crane will have more time to give to his rehearsals. William Seymour will direct the production of all of the plays that go to make up Mr. Crane's repertoire.

An Arrant Knave, the play which Steele Mackaye has written for Stuart Robson, will be played early in August at Henry Irving's Lyceum Theatre, in London, for copyright purposes. A similar course was pursued in regard to The Henrietta, on performance only being given at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, the gross receipts of which reached one dollar and fifty-five cents. Mr. Robson says, The Henrietta did a trifle better than that in America — over half a million dollars being taken in two seasons.

Mr. Wood, of the West End Critic and Theatre, New York, deserves sympathy. Ingratitude is the blackest of crimes, and Tommy Russell and his mother were really treated royally by Mr. Wood.

"The Burglar" is doing the best business at Madison Square Theatre, New

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Editha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Madison Square Theatre to crowded houses, and is the latest New York success. Mr. Grismer has the sole right of production of the piece on this coast.

Augustin Daly left for the East on Sunday.

Stanley Felch, formerly of this city, who went East as the singing comedian of "Said Pasha," was married last week in St. Louis to Miss Carrie Dalmar, a professional. Wonder if he will ask "Why?" as much now as he did in "Said Pasha."

Lora Hollis is a candidate for a position in the Daly company.

Tamagno, Durot and Giannini are the three tenors engaged for the twelve representations of Verdi's "Otelo" in London. Tamagno, the grand tenor robusto, is the high horse in opera just now. Not satisfied with the $1500 he puts in his pocket each evening he sings, he also makes his manager come down with six general entrance tickets, four reserved seats, two fauteuilles and two boxes.

Joseph R. Grismer is insuring his success for Australia next season by securing a number of the most successful American plays to take with him.

The Daly company, now in their last week at the Baldwin, will leave for New York on Sunday next. Ada Rehan leaves on Saturday evening. Kitty Cheatham will take Miss Rehan's place as Niabe in "A Night Off" for Saturday night's performance.

Charlie Reed left for the East to-day to join Donnelly & Grattan's "Natural Gas" Co.

Archie Gunter and C. Alfred Byrne have written a new comedy, "Behind the Scenes," for Minnie Palmer to play in London.

Within a month eight operatic companies left Milan for different cities in Europe, including the La Scala Opera Co. of two hundred persons that are to give twelve representations of Verdi's 'Otello" in London. This represents the exodus of 1400 people—that is, singers, musicians and choruses. This proves pretty conclusively two things, that Milan is the opera productive center of Europe and that Italian opera is not a dead institution yet.

It is reported that May Howard, formerly of Rice and Dixey's "Corsair" Co., is about to be married again. Miss Howard has been married and divorced twice, and is only in her twenty-third year. If the lady's new matrimonial venture should not pan out all right she will make a first class candidate for stellar stage honors.

From London comes the report that Alice Atherton, the well known burlesque actress and wife of Willie Edouin, has become insane through grief for the loss of her child.

At the Paris Hippodrome a young lion acts as a jockey in a horse race. The unfortunate horse to whose back he clings is also comparatively small and appears to be in a terrible fright during the time his torture endures, but it is not long. The exhibition is by no means attractive, but it is relished by many spectators.

The old drama of 'The Stranglers of Paris" has just been reproduced in London under the title of "The Grip of Iron."

Raoul Koszalsky, a 5-year-old Russian, is the latest piano prodigy. He plays Mendelssohn, Rubinstein and Chopin with marked skill.

Idalene Cotton is rapidly developing into a jolly little soubrette.

Mrs. Langtry will try a new historical play on the Nottingham, Eng., dog next September prior to producing it in London.

The dailies are taking up again and canvassing the condition of Mary Anderson; that was very definitely settled when the telegram was sent from London a month ago announcing that by the advice of her physician she had cancelled her contracts for twelve months made with Abbey. It was then stated it was owing to Miss Anderson's continued mental prostration that the cancelment was made, and that it was hoped that a year's rest would restore her to health. Bodily her health seems unaffected. It is the mind that is impaired in its faculties. Though not insane, as one report has it, there can be no doubt but that the unfortunate girl is afflicted with a loss of memory, a listlessness, and at times, to a certain degree of mental blankness that is more dangerous than any physical prostration could be. Let us hope that one year's quietude from mental work may bring perfect restoration.

Fanny Bowman joins the Grismer forces at the Bush Street Aug. 12th.

M. B. Leavitt has engaged Hilda Thomas, Bessie Cleveland, Pauline Markham, Marguerite Wood, Lulu Redden, Dorste & Oreste, Louise and Ray Allen and August Siegrist for his spectacle, "Spider and the Fly." Jake Rosenthal will travel in advance of the company.

"Fatherland' this week at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company.

Drop the curtain; put out the light;
The play is ended, and, wrong or right,
The players weary, with minds unstrung,
Enter the bar room one by one.

What's the difference, do you care
That saw them under the footlights' glare?
Do you question if they are ill or well,
As long as no "chestnuts" to you they tell?

"What are their troubles to you?" you say;
"At the end of the week they'll get their pay."
Yes, they'll get it; they are only hired,
To keep the world from getting tired.

They, poor devils, with aching hearts,
Must hide their sorrows and play their parts;
In one short night, from eight to eleven,
Many an actor has earned a Heaven.

So don't begrudge them a glass of beer,
(The Bohemian is sure to crop out here);
Their troubles are over. "Walter!" I cry,
"Eins! Hello, Monty! Hans, make that zwei!"

PROFESSIONAL SALARIES EAST.

The New York Mirror asserts that there has been a great cut in professional salaries East for the coming season, and never before has there been so many applications for engagements in New York. "It seems," says the Mirror, "as if all the professionals of the country had congregated in this city, augmented by an unprecedented accession of the aspirants from the various dramatic schools and elocutionary foundries, and the ambitious offshoots of the variety business who are desirous of shouldering the fardels of more legitimate work in greater numbers than ever. They file up and down Broadway and in and out of the agency offices all day long." The result of this great over demand for work is naturally a fall in salaries.

The Mirror states, 'Leading juvenile men who formerly commanded from $75 to $100 per week are considered lucky if they are offered $50 this season. Leading men, who formerly strode the Rialto with a $250 tag upon their backs, are quite well satisfied now with $75 and $100, and but few are offered the latter figure. Old men range from $30 to $50, and the takers at the last figure are few and far between. Comedians are offered from $30 to $40, and there are many who stand ready and willing to accept a season's engagement at the first named. Legitimate eccentric comedians are rare, and what few there are maintain fair salaries. Heavies and character actors are offered from $30 to $50, according to ability and experience.

"The salaries of leading ladies—particularly those of known reputation—do not appear to have shrunk in proportion to other lines, though there is a perceptible decrease. Juvenile ladies are offered as low as $30, and many have accepted at this figure, where last season they received $40 and $50. Old women are abundant at $35, and some as low as $25."

Soubrettes have had a great tumble. Two-thirds of the women applicants are singing and dancing soubrettes, "young and charming," as Pinafore has it. Our authority states that "some of the best soubrettes, who last season commanded $60 and $75, are willing to engage at $35,

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" this week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinntube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. They are all scenes peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is accredited with a magnetism of feeling in his part of a Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage."

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company of twenty odd people in support, with fine scenery and costumes. See cast and synopsis.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Box office open on Thursday.

Usual matinees: Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" this week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It tells the story of Dan Mulligan's prosperity, and of his ambitious wife's aspirations in assuming an aristocratic position in society and aping the manners of culture and refinement. Surely not an uncommon case in real life.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shan Bhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them. It is in the second act of this drama that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppard, John W. Thompson, Dan Kelly and W. J. Shehan, who made successful appearances last week, are included in the cast.

Orpheum Opera House.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre this week, consisting of the Dare Bros., famous gymnasts; J. S. Williams, tenor vocalist; the Miller Bros., from the Crystal Palace, London, with grand scenic illustrations; Lang & Sharp, musical sketch artists; Lloa Bros., aerial artists; Edward Latelle, banjo virtuoso; the Fuhrer Family; Schmitt's Troupe of Tyrolean Warblers; Hallett & Raymond, grotesque dancers and comedians, and Little Rosco, "Punch."

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, "Over the Garden Wall" Comedy Co.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss." Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, is billed to appear this week.

Lang's Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed. Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, an entire new company, direct from the East, will appear a the Cremorne.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Billy Akarman.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, Blanche Stetson, Maud Stetson, Bob McDonald, James Post and Billy Akarman make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with a parlor concert, and the arrival of "Ole Bull," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Billy Akarman and the Stetson Sisters, Maud and Blanche, put in first appearances this week.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, August 4th, grand picnic of the Silver Lake Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Dinner at Martinez, 50 cents. The comfort of the excursion, under the management of P. H. Hick will be properly looked after.

The Tempest is being done at the Paris Opera House, as a ballet extravaganza. The pirouettes and other fantastic steps of the fair performers, the scenery and the costume, with the magical feats of Prospero, presents a dramatic sight much admired by the audience. The finale of this ballet-extravaganza is singularly effective. A forest opens, and the sea is disclosed; a magical ship is then seen advancing. Prospero,

NO FLIES ON THEM.

Now in these fly-time days, the cow
Who is worldly wise
Will wade into the shady pond
With water to her eyes.
She'll very calmly chew her cud,
From care and trouble free,
R marking as she flings the mud,
"There are no flies on me."

The neighbor's dog now shuns the heat
And as he wildly pants,
He digs a costly, cool retreat
Within your choice lawn plants.
Amidst the fragrant mignonette
He crawls with ghoulish glee,
And to the house-cat shouts "You bet
There are no flies on me."

STAGE REALISMS.

The drama is ever striving after the real. We had but recently "The Paymaster" with the hero's real plunge in real water and coming out all wet, and "Monbars" with its red hot poker sizzling on the naked arm—simulated, we admit, but still very effective; and still have the fire scene and the leaps for life from the three-story burning tenement house in "One of the Bravest." These are advances in realism that tend to stimulate our nerves, and there are more in store for us in the prolific East. The last New York Truth—that never told a lie—says that, "At the Eden Musee figures of Sullivan and Kilrain are almost completed and will be put on view this week. They are remarkably lifelike, and will be attired in fighting costume and displayed in the regulation twenty-four footing. The whole scene will be a correct reproduction of that at Richburg, from photographs taken upon the spot. The fair sex may be counted upon to take as much interest as the men in the wonderfully developed physique of the two eminent professors of the fistic art." The same journal asserts that, "Manager E. G. Stone, of the Paul Kauvar Company, says that he is going to have a number of wax heads among his properties this season. He has ordered four at a cost of $300 each. One is used in the guillotine scene of Kauvar. Stone intends to put on the drama more elaborately than ever before."

These are praiseworthy attempts at realism. If the ladies are debarred from seeing Sullivan and Kilrain in the ring they can at least see their exact counterparts in fighting costume and position. And then think how thrilling it will be to see that realistic looking head drop from the guillotine in 'Paul Kauvar."

Who will first dramatize "Kate Maxwell," and give us the thrilling picture of the hanging of the notorious Cattle Queen by the lynchers from a limb of a stunted pine by the banks of the Sweetwater River, with the real tree in the play? It will come.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicago; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera company, Maggie Mitchell, Jed Prouty, Rice's Corsair Co., Jim, the Penman, Rice's Evangeline, Held by the Enemy, Legal Wreck, Tin Soldier, Margaret Mather, Frank Mayo, Marie Prescott, and R. D. MacLean.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

DECLINE OF THE DRAMA IN NEW YORK.

Theatrical affairs are at low ebb in New York. It is unquestionably the fact that New York does not compare to San Francisco as a theatrical center at present. We are running more theatres, and sustaining them the year round, than New York is now, and our managers don't fail. On the contrary, look at Manager Tom Lee's recent disastrous failure at the Windsor Theatre in that big city. That shows the difference. He produced an entire novelty for the New Yorkers. Both piece and company were imported by Manager Lee, and they had never had an attraction like it there before. All the papers acknowledge that fact. Yet, what was the result of this great enterprise and outlay of money on Manager Lee's part?

The first week's receipts was $2,000, and $1500 covered the second week's business. This paltry $3500, divided in two parts—for the attraction received 50 per cent—just barely paid one item, Manager Lee's rental of $800 a week for his theatre. Naturally, owing to the apathy of the New York theatre-goers, his great enterprise went under, and he had to close his season disheartened. The great drama and talented company, Manager Lee claimed, "was above the comprehension of the citizens of New York," and he was right.

New York's ignorance, it is humiliating to admit, stood between its citizens and their appreciation of a play that ranked as famed in its native land as any of Shakespeare's plays does here. But the Swingtion Sai Royal Chinese Dramatic Co. is busted, and that tells the story. The talented company of Oriental thespians were degraded to the pitiful position of giving a law-abiding Sunday night Sacred Concert on the last night of their season at the Windsor and sing ng sacred arias to the accompaniment of Chinese fiddles, tom-toms and cymbals, played by some of their members, as a means of picking up a little grub money. Isn't the drama declining in New York. Look at the difference. San Francisco has sustained a Chinese theatre twenty years ago, and at present supports three Chinese theatres and supports them well, too.

Manager Lee in all his misfortune has not been idle. It was known that he was in correspondence with a manager in this city famous for his success in the dramatic world, and for his adaptation of pieces, in regard to producing the drama in English; and the fact of Augustin Daly's sudden departure for New York on Sunday night points to him as being the man. It is not for nothing that Dorney, his business manager, has been talking about the surprise that Daly was going to spring on the public. The public can congratulate itself upon having the felicity of seeing in the near future Ada Rehan as the Oriental heroine of Wang Chin Foo's great drama, "Love in a Teapot"—Dorney says that is to be its title—adapted from the Chinese by Augustin Daly.

Idalene Cotton is rapidly developing into a jolly little soubrette.

Mrs. Langtry will try a new historical play on the Nottingham, Eng., dog next September prior to producing it in London.

An entire new novelty company at the Orpheum this week, upwards of twenty leading artists. For the week of Aug. 5 in Over the Garden Wall Comedy Co. is underlined.

Fanny Bowman joins the Grismer forces at the Bush Street Aug. 12th.

M. B. Leavitt has engaged Hilda Thomas, Bessie Cleveland, Pauline Markham, Marguerite Wood, Lulu Redden, Dorsie & Oreste, Louise and Ray Allen and August Siegrist for his spectacle, "Spider and the Fly." Jake Rosenthal will travel in advance of the company.

"Fatherland" this week at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Ones. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company.

Robert Mantell will star next season in

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Karl Gardner has a tenor voice of peculiar sweetness, purity and high range. He is the best Swiss singer or yodeler on the stage. His selections include "Pretty Bobolink," "Shut Your Eyes Tightly and Open Your Mouth," "Gesundheit," and Kline's finest effort in the line of musical composition, "The Lilac."

John Maguire, manager of the Grand Opera House in this city and the Montana circuit, has signed contracts for the following attractions for the Pacific Coast: Gilmore's Band, Mrs. Scott-Siddons and the Campanini Operatic Concert Co. The last includes Myron Whitney, Del Puente and Senora Del Vere as the principal artiste.

Manager Al Hayman was taken seriously ill at St. Catherine's, Ontario, July 29th, while on his way East. He was taken from the train to rooms in a hotel, but rallied sufficiently to resume his journey East. Mr. Hayman had not recovered sufficiently when he left San Francisco to make the trip, and it proved too fatiguing in his debilitated condition.

Mr. George Osbourne and wife arrived at New York from Europe Monday, July 22nd. He had a pleasant trip abroad, and his own health and that of his wife is much improved.

Before leaving for the East, J. J. Wallace, the favorite old-time actor, will take a benefit.

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lansom (a pupil of Mr. Warner's).

Miss Lora Hollis (Fair) has signed with Augustin Daly and is now a member of his company. She joins the company in New York Sept. 1st.

Dave Belasco's horse, Black Bess, will figure in the stirring incidents of Bronson Howard's great war play, "Shenandoah."

Augustin Daly's Company last performances at the Baldwin: "7-20-8" for matinee Wednesday, "The Inconstant" Thursday night, and "A Night Off" Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

It is probable that John A. Ellsler will be seen in support of his daughter Effie next season.

Manager Abbey thinks that Mary Anderson will be able to resume her professional duties in a year. He has contracts with Patti, Albani, and the tenor Tamagno; also with Dallert, pianist; Sarasate, violinist, and the young prodigy, Otto Hegner.

Karl Gardner gives us his eight years comedy success in the East, "Karl, the Peddler," next week at the Bush, with an entire change of songs, including his famed lullaby.

"The Inconstant," that Daly's company revives for Thursday night, is a moss-grown legitimate play itself, and owes its existence to the way-back times. Its plot is borrowed from Beaumont and Fletcher's "Wild Goose Chase." The dramatic incident where Oriana saves young Mirabel's life is said to have been founded on a circumstance that happened to Farquhar, the author, when he was on military duty abroad. "The Inconstant" was presented at Drury Lane Theatre, London, in 1812, with Banister, the famous comedian of his time. Chas. Kemble appeared as young Mirabel at Covent Garden in 1824, and it was Jas. E. Murdock's favorite role in the 'Forties, who excelled as Mirabel. The play has been relegated to the dockyard of the legitimates for many years, with the exception of the Daly production.

The text of "Shaun Rhue" has the characteristic flash of Irish wit, tempered by good nature. Murphy asserts himself as Shaun as the best of the flock of Irish comedians, and retains all wonted sprightliness, naturalness and humor.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Editha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Madison Square Theatre to crowded houses, and is the latest New York success. Mr. Grismer has the sole right of production of the piece on this coast.

Augustin Daly left for the East on Sunday.

Stanley Felch, formerly of this city, who went East as the singing comedian of "Said Pasha," was married last week in St. Louis to Miss Carrie Dalmar, a professional. Wonder if he will ask "Why?" as much now as he did in "Said Pasha."

Lora Hollis is a candidate for a position in the Daly company.

Tamagno, Durot and Giannini are the three tenors engaged for the twelve representations of Verdi's "Otello" in London. Tamagno, the grand tenor robusto, is the high horse in opera just now. Not satisfied with the $1500 he puts in his pocket each evening he sings, he also makes his manager come down with six general entrance tickets, four reserved seats, two fauteuilles and two boxes.

Joseph R. Grismer is insuring his success for Australia next season by securing a number of the most successful American plays to take with him.

The Daly company, now in their last week at the Baldwin, will leave for New York on Sunday next. Ada Rehan leaves on Saturday evening. Kitty Cheatham will take Miss Rehan's place as Niobe in "A Night Off" for Saturday night's performance.

THE SEA.

O, senseless Sea, long shall men proclaim
Thy freedom and thy power! Slave of the Moon,
Thy wrath is borrowed of the wind, the Noon
Supplies thy smiles, thy life is but a name
That poets use. To thee nor praise nor blame
Belong. And yet shall man, alas, not soon
Forget to fear thee, and thy dim halls strewn
With bones of bravest man and fairest dame?
The careless fish within thee sport and breed,
The bird above thee spreads her scornful wing;
Yet thou, more lifeless than thy weakest weed,
Canst shake the very soul of priest and king,
And sye to man thy breathless breast appears
A waste of sighs, a wilderness of tears.

—[THE ACADEMY.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. Cunningham takes his nine Samoan warriors East to-day. They go from here direct to Chicago. They have been a great novelty at the Orpheum in their war dances and songs, their knife juggling and other exhibitions of native life as existing in Samoa, and have proven big drawing cards. They will prove bigger ones in the East.

Horses have always been features to shows from the Roman hippodrome down to the present circus, and of late days they have figured considerably on the dramatic stage; as at the Bush, in the fire engine scene, and at the Alcazar in the back scene, last week. The engine horses behaved themselves very creditably during their engagement, but there are hard stories told of the horse that was engaged to haul the hack load to the Undertakers' Ball in "Leather Patch." He belonged to McBride's stables on Sutter street. He was a good reliable horse, and such confidence was placed in his good character that he was allowed to come home after performance at night unescorted. This he did for the first nights of the week, but afterwards appeared to become demoralized by his association with the stage, and wandered around after performance peering into beer halls and other lighted up places in an aimless sort of a manner entirely foreign to his previous custom. He kept getting later and later in reporting home, and one night he did not turn up at all. Upon being sought for he was found up on Bush street, after 1 P. M., near "The Progress" saloon. This let his night rambling out. He was called for after that and led home by the nose.

The new minstrel company, with Geo. A. Primrose and Wm. H. West as sole proprietors, will bear the hopeful title of "Primrose & West's Model Minstrels." Its regular season will commence about the middle of December.

The Boston Symphony Orchestral Club, formed mostly of the former members and soloists of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Theodore Thomas Orchestra of New York, will start out on their fourth annual tour in the Fall, and will visit the Pacific Coast during their coming season.

Raoul Koczalsky, a 5-year-old Russian, is the latest piano prodigy. He plays Mendelssohn, Rubinstein and Chopin with marked skill.

"Unneighborly Neigbors" will be the comedy act at the Cremorne this week.

Mr. Edward Lattelle, a fine banjo player, opens at the Orpheum this week. He is one of the best in the business.

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....JULY 30, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine Hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" this week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinstube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. The scenes are peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling as the Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage." His songs command general recalls, and the pictures of home life that the play abounds in, especially in the scenes where little Meenie appears, are natural, full of feeling, and touch the heart scarcely less than the songs of Gardner.

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters. Among the ladies, Miss Eva Byron shines as the impersonator of Rhoda Stanford. The scenery and costumes are very handsome.

"Fatherland" can keep the stage only this week.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Box office open on Thursday.

Usual matinees : Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" this week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It tells the story of Dan Mulligan's prosperity, and of his ambitious wife's aspirations in assuming an aristocratic position in society and aping the manners of culture and refinement. Surely not an uncommon case in real life.

Harrigan's Dan Mulligan has touches of both humor and pathos, and bears the charm of naturalness and feeling all through it. Mrs. Yeamans does some admirable acting in the unsympathetic character of the display loving wife, Cordelia. It is the best acting part she has had. The company are good in support, and the songs and dances enliven the play all through.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week we are to have "The Logaire," an entirely new play, and one that had a successful run in New York.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shaun Rhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them.

"Shaun Rhue" is the old stage story of villainy thwarted by honesty. The scene where Galligan thinks he has his victim trapped, and is himself thrown from the cliff to the lake that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppard is a clever actor of character Irish parts. The remainder of the company render good support.

Next week "Kerry Gow," one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces.

Orpheum Opera House.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre this week, consisting of the Dare Bros., famous gymnasts; Miss Vera Hernkohl, vocalist; the Millar Bros , from the Crystal Palace, London, with grand scenic illustrations; Lang & Sharp, musical sketch artists; Lion Bros., aerial artists; Edward Latelle, banjo virtuoso; the Edmonds Sisters; Schmitt's Troupe of Tyrolean Warblers, and Hallett & Raymond, grotesque dancers and comedians.

The company is veritably a big one; every performer is an artist in their line of business. The Dare Brothers do a fine bar act, and the Lion Brothers are unapproachable in their feats of zamphillerostration; Edward Latelle gives the best banjo music ever heard at the Orpheum; Hallett & Raymond really present new ideas in the way of comicalities

The Millar Brothers have a fine selection of views, and they are admirably thrown upon the canvas. It is a fine specialty entertainment.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, "Over the Garden Wall" Comedy Co.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr. Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss," Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, is billed to appear this week.

Lang's Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Mattie Wallace, Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed. Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, an entire new company, direct from the East, will appear at the Cremorne.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair join the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Billy Akarman.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, Blanche Stetson, Maud Stetson, Bob McDonald, James Post and Billy Akarman make up the company this week.

pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Billy Akarman and the Stetson Sisters, Maud and Blanche, put in first appearances this week.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, August 4th, grand picnic of the Silver Lake Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions up the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry at 10.15 A M., and returning at 7 30 P.M. Single fares to Vallejo and Martinez, 50 cents. Tickets, for the round trip 75 cents, including ferry tickets from Vallejo to U. S. Navy Yard at Mare Island; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Dinner at Martinez, 50 cents. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Within a month eight operatic companies left Milan for different cities in Europe, including the La Scala Opera Co. of two hundred persons that are to give twelve representations of Verdi's "Otello" in London. This represents the exodus of 1400 people—that is, singers, musicians and choruses. This proves pretty conclusively two things, that Milan is the opera productive center of Europe and that Italian opera is not a dead institution yet.

M. B. Leavitt has booked the following attractions for his new Windsor Theatre in Chicag ; J. W. Morrissey's Grand and Comic English Opera ompany, Maggie Mitchell, Jeff Prouty, Rice's Corsair Co., Jim, the Penman, Rice's Evangeline, Held by the Enemy, Legal Wreck, Tin Soldier, Margaret Mather, Frank Mayo Marie Prescott, and R. D. MacLean.

"The Burglar" is doing the best business at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, ever known at that theatre at this time of the year. This is the play that Mr. Joseph Cramer will produce at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th,

Charlie Reed left for the East to-day to join Donnelly & Grattan's "Natural Gas" Co.

Archie Gunter and C. Alfred Byrne have written a new comedy, "Behind the Scenes," for Minnie Palmer to play in London.

Jules Massenet, the composer of Manon and Le Cid, is the youngest of a family of twenty-one children. His father was in poor circumstances, and at the age of 15 young Jules left Geneva for Paris, to pursue his musical studies. His first engagement was at the Chatelet Theatre, Paris, where he played the big drum and tinkled the triangle for the sum of nine francs a week. At this time he was studying at the Conservatoire, and used to borrow a decent coat from one friend, a hat from another, and a pair of boots from a third to enable him to present a decent appearance before his professors. In 1863 he secured the Prix de Rome, and in 1867, when the scholarship had expired, he returned to Paris to try his luck as a composer. He had ten years' bitter experience of misery until, in 1877, his Roi de Lahore brought him into fame, and put money into his pockets.

A Berlin policeman has been discovered who possesses an unusually fine and powerful tenor voice. Several operatic managers, including Sucher and Angelo Neumann, are endeavoring to procure his discharge from the force, with a view of converting honest Robert into the revolutionary Masaniello or the highwayman Fra Diavolo. Signor Foli was also a policeman when discovered.

Mr. John Larry Sullivan is going to play the tank in Lost in New York next season. Duncan Harrison offered him a big price to play the same thing in The Paymaster, but General Barton's tank being larger it was only natural that J. L. should accept his offer.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" this week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag" Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinstube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. The scenes are peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling as the Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage." His songs command general recalls, and the pictures of home life that the play abounds in, especially in the scenes where little Meenie appears, are natural full of feeling, and touch the heart scarcely less than the songs of Gardner

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr Gardner brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters. Among the ladies, Miss Eva Byron shines as the impersonator of Rhoda Stanford. The scenery and costumes are very handsome

"Fatherland" can keep the stage only this week.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Box office open on Thursday.

Usual matinees : Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" this week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It tells the story of Dan Mulligan's prosperity, and of his ambitious wife's aspirations in assuming an aristocratic position in society and aping the manners of culture and refinement. Surely not an uncommon case in real life.

Harrigan's Dan Mulligan has touches of both humor and pathos, and bears the charm of naturalness and feeling all through it. Mrs Yeamans does some admirable acting in the unsympathetic character of the display loving wife, Cordelia. It is the best acting part she has had. The company are good in support, and the songs and dances enliven the play all through.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week we are to have "The Logaire," an entirely new play, and one that had a successful run in New York.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shaun Rhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them.

"Shaun Rhue" is the old stage story of villainy thwarted by honesty. The scene where Galligan thinks he has his victim trapped, and is himself thrown from the cliff to the lake that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppard is a clever actor of character Irish parts. The remainder of the company render good support.

Next week "Kerry Gow," one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces.

Orpheum Opera House.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre this week, consisting of the Dare Bros., famous gymnasts; Miss Vera Hernkohl, vocalist; the Millar Bros , from the Crystal Palace, London, with grand scenic illustrations; Lang & Sharp, musical sketch artists; Lion Bros., aerial artists; Edward Latelle, banjo virtuoso; the Fuhrer Family; Schmitt's Troupe of Tyrolean Warblers, and Hallett & Raymond, grotesque dancers and comedians.

The company is veritably a big one; every performer is an artist in their line of business. The Dare Brothers do a fine bar act, and the Lion Brothers are unapproachable in their feats of zamphillerostration; Edward Latelle gives the best banjo music ever heard at the Orpheum; Hallett & Raymond really present new ideas in the way of comicalities

The Millar Brothers have a fine selection of views, and they are admirably thrown upon the canvas. It is a fine specialty entertainment.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, "Over the Garden Wall" Comedy Co.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss." Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket, and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, and Drawee, the champion juggler, appear this week.

Lang's Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

The Ford Bros.' laughable act, "John W. S. McSweeney's Arrival," is the interlude sketch.

A grand 8-round glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, an entire new company, direct from the East, will appear a the Cremorne.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair, vocalist, and Stella Merriam, serio-comic vocalist and change artist, joined the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Billy Akarman.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, Bob McDonald, James Post and Billy Akarman make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with a parlor concert, and the arrival of "Ole Bull," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Billy Akarman and the Stetson Sisters, Maud and Blanche, put in first appearances this week.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, August 4th, grand picnic of the Silver Lake Club at Seaside Gardens.

These give the participants a fine trip of 113 miles and return through the beautiful valleys of Sonoma, Healdsburg, Cloverdale, Sanel and Ukiah, and 20 mile pass that is cut through the mountains by the Russian River, between Cloverdale and Ukiah. The route is one of the most picturesque in the State. Excursionists leave Tiburon ferry at 7 30 A.M and reach Ukiah at 11 45 Four hours at Ukiah gives time to dine, see the town, go to the famed Vichy Springs, and visit the only Indian rancheria left in the State, if desired. All aboard at 4 o'clock P M. and back again in San Francisco at 8 30

These excursions will be under the experienced supervision of Colonel Menton, the road's popular excursion manager. Tickets can be procured at the office, No. 2 New Montgomery street, or at the the Tiburon ferry office.

"The Inconstant," that Daly's company revives for Thursday night, is a moss-grown legitimate play itself, and owes its existence to the way-back times. Its plot is borrowed from Beaumont and Fletcher's "Wild Goose Chase." The dramatic incident where Oriana saves young Mirabel's life is said to have been founded on a circumstance that happened to Farquhar, the author, when he was on military duty abroad. "The Inconstant" was presented at Drury Lane Theatre, London, in 1812, with Bannister, the famous comedian of his time. Cass Kemble appeared as young Mirabel at Covent Garden in 1824 and it was Jas. E. Murdock's favorite role in the 'Forties, who excelled as Mirabel. The play has been relegated to the dockyard of the legitimates for many years, with the exception of the Daly production.

Archie Gunter and C. Alfred Byrne have written a new comedy, "Behind the Scenes," for Minnie Palmer to play in London.

A Berlin policeman has been discovered who possesses an unusually fine and powerful tenor voice. Several operatic managers, including Sucher and Angelo Neumann, are endeavoring to procure his discharge from the force, with a view of converting honest Robert into the revolutionary Masaniello or the highwayman Fra Diavolo. Signor Foli was also a policeman when discovered.

Mr. John Larry Sullivan is going to play the tank in Lost in New York next season. Duncan Harrison offered him a big price to play the same thing in The Paymaster, but General Barton's tank being larger it was only natural that J. L. should accept his offer.

DECLINE OF THE DRAMA IN NEW YORK.

Theatrical affairs are at low ebb in New York. It is unquestionably the fact that New York does not compare to San Francisco as a theatrical center at present. We are running more theatres, and sustaining them the year round, than New York is now, and our managers don't fail. On the contrary, look at Manager Tom Lee's recent disastrous failure at the Windsor Theatre in that big city. That shows the difference. He produced an entire novelty for the New Yorkers. Both piece and company were imported by Manager Lee, and they had never had an attraction like it there before. All the papers acknowledge that fact. Yet, what was the result of this great enterprise and outlay of money on Manager Lee's part?

The first week's receipts was $2,000, and $1500 covered the second week's business. This paltry $3500, divided in two parts—for the attraction received 50 per cent—just barely paid one item, Manager Lee's rental of $800 a week for his theatre. Naturally, owing to the apathy of the New York theatre-goers, his great enterprise went under, and he had to close his season disheartened. The great drama and talented company, Manager Lee claimed, "was above the comprehension of the citizens of New York," and he was right.

New York's ignorance, it is humiliating to admit, stood between its citizens and their appreciation of a play that ranked as famed in its native land as any of Shakespeare's plays does here. But the Swingtien Sai Royal Chinese Dramatic Co. is busted, and that tells the story. The talented company of Oriental thespians were degraded to the pitiful position of giving a law-abiding Sunday night Sacred Concert on the last night of their season at the Windsor and singing sacred arias to the accompaniment of Chinese fiddles, tom-toms and cymbals, played by some of their members, as a means of picking up a little grub money. Isn't the drama declining in New York. Look at the difference. San Francisco has sustained a Chinese theatre twenty years ago, and at present supports three Chinese theatres and supports them well, too.

Manager Lee in all his misfortune has not been idle. It was known that he was in correspondence with a manager in this city famous for his success in the dramatic world, and for his adaptation of pieces, in regard to producing the drama in English; and the fact of Augustin Daly's sudden departure for New York on Sunday night points to him as being the man. It is not for nothing that Dorney, his business manager, has been talking about the surprise that Daly was going to spring on the public. The public can congratulate itself upon having the felicity of seeing in the near future Ada Rehan as the Oriental heroine of Wang Chin Foo's great drama, "Love in a Teapot"—Dorney says that is to be its title—adapted from the Chinese by Augustin Daly.

"Fatherland" this week at the Bush, will give us glimpses of life in the picturesque and historical land, the Tyrolese Alps, with Chas. A. Gardner, an admirable romantic actor, and the sweetest Tyrolean singer on the stage, in the character of the Chamois hunter. Mr. Gardner's play is one of unquestionable merit. He is supported by his own company.

The Daly company, now in their last week at the Baldwin, will leave for New York on Sunday next. Ada Rehan leaves on Saturday evening. Kitty Cheatham will take Miss Rehan's place as Niebe in "A Night Off" for Saturday night's performance.

Stanley Felch, formerly of this city, who went East as the singing comedian of "Said Pasha," was married last week in St. Louis to Miss Carrie Dalmar, a professional. Wonder if he will ask "Why?" as much now as he did in "Said Pasha."

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Editha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Madison Square Theatre to crowded houses, and is the latest New York success.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

"Just Across From Jersey," "Dad's Dinner Pail," "Samuel Johnson's Cake Walk" and "Wear the Trousers, Oh!" are Harrigan's songs this week.

When Gardner sings "The Lilac" in the first act of "Fatherland" all the company are grouped in the back ground in the prettiest of poses. It is a charming stage picture.

"The Burglar" is still the big attraction in New York. Dunlop's News of July 20th says: "In spite of the warm weather 'The Burglar' at the Madison Square Theatre and 'The Brigands' at the Casino are doing a good summer business; 'The Oolah' at the Broadway fairly, but 'The Clover' at Palmer's not as well as the pretty opera deserves. 'The Burglar' hangs out his standing room only sign every night." We shall see "The Burglar" at the Bush, with Jos. R. Grismer and Pœbe Davies in the leading roles, August 12th.

J. Wright Huntington, who took to the stage in this city some ten years ago, and followed a Bohemian life off of it, has for the last ten weeks been at St. Vincent Hospital, New York. He has recovered sufficiently to go to Bath Beach, Long Island, for the Summer.

The telegraphic reports of Manager Al Hayman's illness may cause unnecessary alarm. That his system has been much weakened by the severe attack of typhoid fever he had just recovered from when he left is well known. The journey may have caused physical prostration or other ailments. But the fact of his stopping over at St. Catherines, Ontario, has no bearing on the case. His mother and some members of his family are spending the Summer there, and he went there to meet them. That Mr. Chas. Frohman had left New York to join Mr Hayman at St. Catherines would be a sequence that would come very naturally about, considering the partnership business relations that exist in the East between Mr. Hayman and the Frohmans in a number of road combinations. There need be no alarm about Manager Hayman's condition. A prominent man landed in the little Canadian town, and telegrams are sensational.

Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne McDowell (Miss Fanny Davenport and her leading man) are here and will summer on the coast. Miss Davenport's trip is one of pleasure and business combined. She will open her season at the Baldwin in September.

Margaret Mather has returned from Europe and will leave New York for San Francisco next week.

August 12th, Wyatt's English Opera Company will inaugurate a season of English comic opera at the Orpheum.

"Around the World" is subject to royalties. W. J. Fleming, owner of "Around the World in Eighty Days," has begun proceedings against J. C. Duff, manager of the Standard Theatre, N. Y., to restrain him from producing the play, as he has announced, at his house Aug. 10 Mr. Fleming recently obtained an order from one of the higher courts restraining the Kiralfy Brothers from producing the play.

"Bluebeard, Jr.," the big Chicago success, is booked for dates at Niblo's Garden, New York.

Karl Gardner has a tenor voice of peculiar sweetness, purity and high range. He is the best Swiss singer or yodeler on the stage. His selections include "Pretty Bobolink," "Shut Your Eyes Tightly and Open Your Mouth," "Gesundheit," and Kline's finest effort in the line of musical composition, "The Lilac."

John Maguire, manager of the Grand Opera House in this city and the Montana circuit, has signed contracts for the following attractions for the Pacific Coast: Gilmore's Band, Mrs Scott-Siddons and the Campanini Operatic Concert Co. The last includes Myron Whitney, Del Puente and Senora Del Vere as the principal artists.

Mr. George Osbourne and wife arrived at New York from Europe Monday, July 22nd. He had a pleasant trip abroad, and his own health and that of his wife is much improved.

Before leaving for the East, J. J. Wallace, the favorite old-time actor, will take a benefit.

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lansom (a pupil of Mr. Warner's).

Miss Lora Hollis (Fair) has signed with Augustin Daly and is now a member of his company. She joins the company in New York Sept. 1st.

Dave Belasco's horse, Black Bess, will figure in the stirring incidents of Bronson Howard's great war play, "Shenandoah."

Augustin Daly's Co. last performances at the Baldwin: "The Inconstant" Thursday night, and "A Night Off" Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

It is probable that John A. Ellsler will be seen in support of his daughter Effie next season.

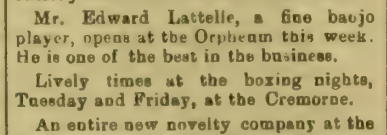
Mrs. Laulii Willis the English educated daughter of a Samoan chief, wife of the unfortunate Oakland contractor who became insolvent in trying to carry through some losing building contracts, went East in the interest of the Samoans lately on exhibition at the Orpheum yesterday. Mr. Cunningham finding the Capt. Kidd sort of a South Sea mariner who came here with them employed as interpreter to have too strong a love for whiskey to be manageable discharged him, and made arrangements to have Mrs. Willis accompany them East instead. The change is much for the better. Mrs. Willis, who is educated, lady-like and the authoress of a well constructed romance of her native island, entitled "Laulii, a Daughter of Samoa," will doubtless add to the interest of the exhibition by an interesting explanatory address.

Mr. Cunningham takes his nine Samoan warriors East to-day. They go from here direct to Chicago. They have been a great novelty at the Orpheum in their war dances and songs, their knife juggling and other exhibitions of native life as existing in Samoa, and have proven big drawing cards. They will prove bigger ones in the East.

The new minstrel company, with Geo. A. Primrose and Wm. H. West as sole proprietors, will bear the hopeful title of "Primrose & West's Model Minstrels." Its regular season will commence about the middle of December.

"Unneighborly Neighbors" will be the comedy act at the Cremorne this week.

Mr. Edward Lattelle, a fine banjo player, opens at the Orpheum this week. He is one of the best in the business.



Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

An entire new novelty company at the Orpheum this week, upwards of twenty leading artists. For the week of Aug. 5th Over the Garden Wall Comedy Co. is underlined.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine Hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" this week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinnstube," or "Spinning bee night, in the second act, with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. The scenes are peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling as the Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melody on the stage." His songs command general recalls, and the pictures of home life that the play abounds in, especially in the scenes where little Mecrie appears, are natural full of feeling and touch the heart scarcely less than the songs of Gardner.

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr Gardner brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters. Among the ladies, Miss Eva Byron shines as the impersonator of Rhoda Stanford. The scenery and costumes are very handsome.

"Fatherland" can keep the stage only this week.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Box office open on Thursday.

Usual matinees: Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cornelius' Aspirations" this week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It tells the story of Dan Mulligan's prosperity, and of his ambitious wife's aspirations in assuming an aristocratic position in society and aping the manners of culture and refinement. Surely not an uncommon case in real life.

Harrigan's Dan Mulligan has touches of both humor and pathos, and bears the charm of naturalness and feeling all through it. Mrs Yeamans does some admirable acting in the unsympathetic character of the display loving wife, Cordelia. It is the best acting part she has had. The company are good in support, and the songs and dances enliven the play all through.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week we are to have "The Lonaire," an entirely new play, and one that had a successful run in New York.

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gives us Meraden's fine play of "Shan Rhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them.

"Shaun Rhue" is the old stage story of villainy thwarted by honesty. The scene where Culligan thinks he has his victim trapped, and is himself thrown from the cliff to the lake below, is a very picturesque one as well as ex-that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppard is a clever actor of character Irish parts. The remainder of the company render good support.

Next week "Kerry Gow," one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces.

Orpheum Opera House.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre this week, consisting of the Dare Bros., famous gymnasts; Miss Vera Hernkohl, vocalist; the Millar Bros., from the Crystal Palace, London, with grand scenic illustrations; Lang & Sharp, musical sketch artists; Lion Bros., aerial artists; Edward Latelle, banjo virtuoso; the Fuhrer Family; Schmitt's Troupe of Tyrolean Warblers, and Hallett & Raymond, grotesque dancers and comedians.

The company is veritably a big one; every performer is an artist in their line of business. The Dare Brothers do a fine bar act, and the Lion Brothers are unapproachable in their feats of xamphillerostration; Edward Latelle gives the best banjo music ever heard at the Orpheum; Hallett & Raymond really present new ideas in the way of comicalities

The Millar Brothers have a fine selection of views, and they are admirably thrown upon the canvas. It is a fine specialty entertainment.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, "Over the Garden Wall," Comedy Co.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss." Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week the attraction will be the sensational melodrama, in a prologue and three acts, by James Carden, entitled "Two Roads." It will also be the last week of Mr. Chapelle's engagement.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, and Drawee, the champion juggler, appear this week.

Laug's Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

The Ford Bros.' laughable act, "John W. S. McSweeney's Arrival," is the interlude sketch.

A grand 6-round glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, an entire new company, direct from the East, will appear at the Cremorne.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair, vocalist, and Stella Merriam, serio-comic vocalist and change artist, joined the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Travers, J. Byrnes, John Cross, Jessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lou Cross.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Sunday Excursion to Ukiah.

$3 Sunday excursion trains over the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway (Donahue broad gauge) will be run to Ukiah for the rest of the season, commencing on Sunday next, August 4th. These give the participants a fine trip of 113 miles and return through the beautiful valleys of Sonoma, Healdsburg, Cloverdale, Sanel and Ukiah, and the 20 mile pass cut through the mountains by the Russian River, between Cloverdale and Ukiah. The route is one of the most picturesque in the State. Excursionists leave Tiburon ferry at 7 30 A M and reach Ukiah at 11 45. Four hours at Ukiah gives time to dine, see the town, go to the famed Vichy Springs, and visit the only Indian rancheria left in the State, if desired. All aboard at 4 o'clock P M. and back again in San Francisco at 8 30

These excursions will be under the experienced supervision of Colonel Menton, the road's popular excursion manager. Tickets can be procured at the office, No 2 New Montgomery street, or at the Tiburon ferry office.

"The Inconstant," Chas Dalton's company revives for this evening, is a most engaging romantic play itself, and owes its existence to the way-back times. It is one of Beaumont and Fletcher's "Gold Cure Cure." The date of the first production of "The Inconstant" was presented at Drury Lane Theatre, London, in 1702, with Booth, the famous tragedian as Mirabel. Cave Kimble appeared as young Mirabel at Covent Garden in 1824 and it was Jas. E Murdock's favorite role in the "Forties," who excelled as Mirabel. The play has been relegated to the dark ages of the legitimate for many years, with the exception of the Dalton production.

Archie Gunter and C. Alfred Byrne have written a new comedy, 'Behind the Scenes," for Minnie Palmer to play in London.

It is stated that Johnny Wild will quit in

A Berlin policeman has been discovered who possesses an unusually fine and powerful tenor voice. Several operatic managers, including Sacher and Angelo Neumann, are endeavoring to procure his discharge from the force, with a view of converting honest Robert into the revolutionary Masaniello or the highwayman Fra Diavolo. Signor Foli was also a policeman when discovered.

Mr. John Larry Sullivan is going to play the tank in Lost in New York next season. Duncan Harrison offered him a big price to play the same thing in The Paymaster, but General Barton's tank being larger it was only natural that J. L. should accept his offer.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Annie Adams is engaged for "The Lion and the Lamb" Co. Opens at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., August 5th.

Robert Eberle, who has been out in the eight weeks' Modjeska season as stage director, has returned to this city for a temporary stay before going East to assume the same position in the Booth-Modjeska Co. next season. He found a pleasant surprise awaiting for him in the shape of a farewell testimonial benefit, all arranged for him during his absence, to come off at the Grand Opera House on August 28th. He reports the Modjeska season a successful one in its entirety, though the Salt Lake section proved bad.

Now comes the story that an English syndicate has offered H. R. Jacobs, the New York absorbing manager, $500 000 and $15,000 yearly salary for a two-thirds interest in the twenty theatres which he controls in various parts of the East.

The widow and daughter of the late Henry Vandenhoff will be in Frederick Warde's company next season.

Dan Collyer has given up his starring tour for this season.

Rosabel Morrison will join her father's company to play Marguerite.

Otis Skinner has wisely concluded not to star next season, but to play Laertes with Booth and Modjeska.

Wilson Barrett writes that he will not sell his rights to "Ben-My-Chree" and "Good Old Timer," as those plays he disposed of during his former visits were "killed" by imperfect production in cheap theatres.

Perrugini has been engaged by Henry E. Abbey to sing Romeo to Patti's Juliet

Rosina Vokes has sailed for Liverpool to be absent six weeks.

Shakespeare's "Tempest" has been presented as a grand ballet at the Paris Opera House with marked success, owing to its wonderful scenic and mechanical effects.

Gilbert & Sullivan are at work upon a new comic opera dealing with sixteenth century "fads."

Manager Al Hayman is at Saratoga, and telegraphs a contradiction of his reported illness.

Butte, Montana, will be subjected to the fascinations of "The Twelve Temptations" August 5th.

Edwin Atwell has written a new farce-comedy, called 'Pretty Polly," in which Thomas Q Seabrooke and probably Digby Bell will star together next season. The question is, which will be the Polly?

"Billy Sweatnam is the original of the now very common broken and wandering remarks as adopted by George Thatcher and others." Yes. And FIGARO ventures the opinion that Billy Manning and Billy Sweatnam are the originators of the two different schools of minstrelsy as ruling at present on the stage.

"Edwin Atwell has changed the title of his new comedy, 'Kicks and Kisses,' to 'The Stuffed Dog.'" Atwell is an ass. FIGARO asks who wouldn't prefer the kisses, even if they were unavoidably accompanied with kicks, to a stuffed dog. He had a good title to his play, and didn't know it.

Mr. Crabtree, Miss Lotta's father, who has been living for some years in retirement at Dale, in England, is expected in New York next month on a visit to his wife and daughter. It is possible that Mr. Crabtree may be accompanied by his son George, who is also at present in Europe.

An entire new novelty company at the Orpheum this week, upwards of twenty leading artists. For the week of Aug. 5th Over the Garden Wall Comedy Co. is underlined.

Augustin Daly's Co. last performances at the Baldwin: "A Night Off" Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

"The Lion and the Lamb" will be tried on the Summer dog at the New York Bijou August 5th.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Editha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

FIGARO remembers that somewhere about '46 Coney and Blanchard were stars at Tom Hamblin's old Bowery Theatre (then called the New Bowery), New York—or rather their dogs were—in a piece called "The Dogs of Montargue." The dogs were fine, noble fellows, of the St. Bernard breed, and had been taught to save their masters from robbery and murder, and rescue them from a burning house and from an Alpine avalanche. They created a great sensation at the time. Since then dogs have played circus business as vaulters, low comedy as clowns, high comedy as love-makers and society dancers and waltzers, emotional parts as dying and dead dogs, various lines of specialties, and still keep invading the different phases of professional business. The latest dog news is that among the sensations promised by Magician Herrmann for his Transatlantic Vaudeville Company are two dogs that are said to sing tunes to a pianoforte accompaniment. Speaking of where well known stage favorites are summering, "Handsome," the famous bulldog of "A Rag Baby" and "A Brass Monkey," is recuperating from nervous prostration at Hoyt's home in Charleston, N. H.

Arthur Rehan, brother of Ada Rehan, will have a company in the Eastern field. Miss Adele Waters, of San Francisco, plays Miss Rehan's part in 'The Lottery of Love," which will be one of the pieces of the company. Most of the people Daly has been engaging for the coming season will be placed in this company, sailing with the Rehan flag at its peak.

John S. Murphy is arranging for another tour in his brother Joseph's plays.

Mr. A. M. Palmer has secured "Eugene Aubrey," which deals with the career of a captain in the English service. It is likely to be produced at the Madison Square with Maurice Barrymore as the hero.

Harry Edwards, of the old Wallack Company and the old California Theatre Co., will shortly go to Australia to play the Earl in "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

King Oscar, of Sweden, has composed an opera called "The Castle of Kronberg," which is shortly to be produced in Stockholm.

Geo. Osbourne comes to the California, Oct. 28th, in "Barnes of New York.

Thors' latest professional photos are cabinets of Ada Rehan, Kitty Cheatham, Rose Coghlan and Isabel Morris. They are fine samples of art added to beauty.

The Gordon Opera House in San Rafael will be known hereafter as the San Rafael Opera House. The owner of the theatre will soon put it in thoroughly good order, with new scenery painted by Wilkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, who are to make a tour of America under the direction of Mr. Daniel Frohman, will leave London for New York on Sept. 21st.

Mr. H. B. Conway, a British actor, comes over Sept. 21st to take his position as leading man in Mary Nevins Blaine's company.

Mr. Davison Dalziel, editor of the New York Truth, leaves for Europe the first week in August in connection with a new cable news service.

"Among the many novel effects in 'Kajanka,'" says an Eastern paper, "will be the flight of the Imp. While in the air his costume will be green, but the moment he touches the stage it changes to red and back to green as he vanishes in the air." It will be a kind of Irish-Anglo Imp, wearing the green and red alternately.

"Just Across From Jersey," "Dad's Dinner Pail," "Samuel Johnson's Cake Walk" and "Wear the Trousers, Oh!" are Harrigan's songs this week.

When Gardner sings "The Lilac" in the first act of "Fatherland" all the company are grouped in the back ground in the prettiest of poses. It is a charming stage picture.

"The Burglar" is still the big attraction in New York. Dunlop's News of July 20th says: "In spite of the warm weather 'The Burglar' at the Madison Square Theatre and 'The Brigands' at the Casino are doing a good summer business; 'The Oolah' at the Broadway fairly, but 'The Clover' at Palmer's not as well as the pretty opera deserves. 'The Burglar' hangs out his standing room only sign every night." We shall see "The Burglar" at the Bush, with Jos. R. Grismer and Phœbe Davies in the leading roles, August 12th.

August 12th, Wyatt's English Opera Company will inaugurate a season of English comic opera at the Orpheum.

"Bluebeard, Jr.," the big Chicago success, is booked for dates at Niblo's Garden, New York.

Karl Gardner has a tenor voice of peculiar sweetness, purity and high range. He is the best Swiss singer or yodeler on the stage. His selections include "Pretty Bobolink," "Shut Your Eyes Tightly and Open Your Mouth," "Gesundheit," and Kline's finest effort in the line of musical composition, "The Lilac."

Before leaving for the East, J. J. Wallace, the favorite old-time actor, will take a benefit.

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lansom (a pupil of Mr. Warner's).

Karl Gardner gives us his eight years comedy success in the East, "Karl, the Peddler," next week at the Bush, with an entire change of songs, including his famed lullaby.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, opens at this theatre in the character of an Alpine hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" this week. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the "Festag," Festal day, in which the villages pay tribute to the hunter's heroism; the "Spinstube," or "Spinning-bee night, in the second act with all its diversions, songs and spinning wheel chorus, winding up with a startling dramatic incident that is strongly worked out in the next act into a scene equal to any on the stage. The "Sangerfest" scene is the great feature of the last act. The scenes are peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling as the Chamois hunter and guide that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage." His songs command general recalls, and the pictures of home life that the play abounds in, especially in the scenes where little Meenie appears, are natural, full of feeling, and touch the heart scarcely less than the songs of Gardner.

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters. Among the ladies, Miss Eva Byron shines as the impersonator of Rhoda Stanford. The scenery and costumes are very handsome.

"Fatherland" can keep the stage only this week.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Box office open on Thursday.

Usual matinees: Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" this week. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It tells the story of Dan Mulligan's prosperity, and of his ambitious wife's aspirations in assuming an aristocratic position in society and aping the manners of culture and refinement. Surely not an uncommon case in real life.

Harrigan's Dan Mulligan has touches of both humor and pathos, and bears the charm of naturalness and feeling all through it. Mrs. Yeamans does some admirable acting in the unsympathetic character of the display loving wife, Cordelia. It is the best acting part she has had. The company are good in support, and the songs and dances enliven the play all through.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week we are to have "The Logaire," an entirely new play, and one that had a successful run in New York.

"The Lorgaire" might well be called a musical comedy, for there are twenty choruses in it. The songs are all catchy, especially so—The Milkmaid's song and "La Plus Belle France."

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gives us Marsden's fine play of "Shan Bhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them.

Galligan thinks he has his victim trapped, and is himself thrown from the cliff to the lake below, is a very picturesque one as well as exciting. It is in the second act of this drama that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppard is a clever actor of character Irish parts. The remainder of the company render good support.

Next week "Kerry Gow," one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces.

Orpheum Opera House.

An entire new novelty company open at this theatre this week, consisting of the Dare Bros., famous gymnasts; Miss Vera Hernkohl, vocalist; the Millar Bros, from the Crystal Palace, London, with grand scenic illustrations; Lang & Sharp, musical sketch artists; Lion Bros., aerial artists; Edward Latelle, banjo virtuoso; the Fuhrer Family; Schmitt's Troupe of Tyrolean Warblers, and Hallett & Raymond, grotesque dancers and comedians.

The company is veritably a big one; every performer is an artist in their line of business. The Dare Brothers do a fine bar act, and the Lion Brothers are unapproachable in their feats of xamphillerostration; Edward Latelle gives the best banjo music ever heard at the Orpheum; Hallett & Raymond really present new ideas in the way of comicalities

The Millar Brothers have a fine selection of views, and they are admirably thrown upon the canvas. It is a fine specialty entertainment.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, "Over the Garden Wall" Comedy Co.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss." Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket, and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week the attraction will be the sensational melodrama, in a prologue and three acts, by James Garden, entitled "Two Roads.", It will also be the last week of Mr. Chapelle's engagement.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, open at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, and Drawee, the champion juggler, appear this week.

Lang's Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed. Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

The Ford Bros.' laughable act, "John W. S. McSweeney's Arrival," is the interlude sketch.

A grand 8-round glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, Aug. 5th, an entire new company, direct from the East, will appear a the Cremorne.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair, vocalist, and Stella Merriam, serio-comic vocalist and change artist, joined the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialities and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

If history repeats itself at the Orpheum Geo. S. Knight's very funny farce-comedy, "Over the Garden Wall," presented under the management of Bert & Sisson, who produced "Peck's Bad Boy" there, will throng that house next week. They have purchased the coast rights to the play and have engaged Frank Howard, the popular Eastern comedian, and a good company to appear in it. It is a good commencement for the switch-off in seasons for the Orpheum.

The J. G. Stutz Co. will play the week of August 12th at Deadwood, South Dakota.

"Among the grandmothers now on the stage," says the New York Mercury, "are Modjeska, Sara Bernhardt, Ellen Terry, Lydia Thompson, Mrs. John Drew, Rose Eytinge, Louise Eldridge and Mrs. W. J. Florence." Among those who are not, as far as FIGARO know, are Lotta and Maggie Mitchell.

One of the old operas lately revived at the Paris Exposition was Paesiello's "Barber of Seville," which was produced in St. Petersburg one hundred and ten years ago and thirty-six years before Rosini composed his immortal score.

Louise Paullin, the prima donna of the recently defunct "Adrielle," proposes to go to Australia.

Manager Daniel Frohman will, in addition to his Lyceum company in New York, have the following traveling organizations next season: "The Wife," the Kendall's St. James' Combination, "Sweet Lavender," Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., and Elsie Leslie in "Prince and Pauper."

Theatrical business has become so bad in Paris owing to the attractiveness of the Exposition that the managers have reduced the prices of seats in the hope of thereby increasing their patronage.

Newton Beers' great spectacular 'Enoch Arden" which began a new forty weeks' season at Hooley's, Chicago, two weeks ago, proved to be flat and stale, and is now dead beer in Chicago.

Annie Adams is engaged for "The Lion and the Lamb" Co. Opens at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., August 5th.

Robert Eberle, who has been out in the eight weeks' Modjeska season as stage director, has returned to this city for a temporary stay before going East to assume the same position in the Booth-Modjeska Co next season. He found a pleasant surprise awaiting for him in the shape of a farewell testimonial benefit, all arranged for him during his absence, to come off at the Grand Opera House on August 28th. He reports the Modjeska season a successful one in its entirety, though the Salt Lake section proved bad.

Now comes the story that an English syndicate has offered H. R. Jacobs, the New York absorbing manager, $500 000 and $15,000 yearly salary for a two-thirds interest in the twenty theatres which he controls in various parts of the East.

The widow and daughter of the late Henry Vandenhoff will be in Frederick Warde's company next season.

Dan Collyer has given up his starring tour for this season.

Rossbal Morrison will join her father's company to play Marguerite.

Barry Edwards, of the old Wallack Company and the old California Theatre Co., will shortly go to Australia to play the Earl in "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Perrugini has been engaged by Henry E. Abbey to sing Romeo to Patti's Juliet

Rosina Vokes has sailed for Liverpool to be absent six weeks.

Shakespeare's "Tempest" has been produced as a grand ballet at the Paris Opera House with marked success, owing to its wood fairies and mechanical effects.

Gilbert & Sullivan are at work upon a new comic opera dealing with sixteenth century "fads."

Taber's latest professional photos are cabinets of Ada Rehan, Kitty Cheatham, Rose Coghlan and Isabel Morris. They are fine samples of art added to beauty.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Elitha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Charlie Reed will open the season with the "City Directory," August 12th, at Chicago. The company comes to the Bush Street Theatre.

Pretty Miss Anna L Jackson, late of the Conried Co., will be a member of Lewis Morrison's "Faust" Co. next season.

Rose Coghlan opens at the Baldwin next week in a new play, 'Jocelyn," in which she dons the breeches, fights a duel with swords, and kills her adversary. Melodramatic and sensational.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will invade Australia. Harry Edwards, who came here from there about twenty years ago, will sail on the next steamer, taking a child with him to play the little lord. Edwards will play the Earl and act as stage director.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's share of the profits of the successful comic operas for which he has furnished the score have footed up over one hundred thousand dollars.

Chauncey Olcott will be the tenor hero of Duff's "Paola" at the Fifth Avenue, N. Y., next month.

The London Gaiety Co., in "Faust Up to Date," has been engaged by Henry E. Abbey to fill Mary Anderson's time at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., Oct. 7th.

The latest name to adorn a specialty programme is Miss "Dudie" Tracy.

The great Wagner festival began at Bayreuth, July 21st, with a splendid performance of "Parsifal," which was witnessed by the Kings and Princes of the German States and by a very large attendance.

A spectacular dramatization of Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii" had its first representation at Cleveland, Ohio, and made a good impression. It can't do it here.

Marie Williams, the once famous English burlesque queen, has been engaged by Henry E. Dixey.

Booth, Modjeska and their company will begin an eight weeks' term at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., October 7th. Bob Eberle leaves us to join the company as stage director. The season opens in Pittsburg Sept. 30th.

FIGARO remembers that somewhere about '46 Coney and Blanchard were stars at Tom Hamblin's old Bowery Theatre (then called the New Bowery), New York—or rather their dogs were—in a piece called "The Dogs of Montargus." The dogs were fine, noble fellows, of the St. Bernard breed, and had been taught to save their masters from robbery and murder, and rescue them from a burning house and from an Alpine avalanche. They created a great sensation at the time. Since then dogs have played circus business as vaulters, low comedy as clowns, high comedy as love-makers and society dancers and waltzers, emotional parts as dying and dead dogs, various lines of specialties, and still keep invading the different phases of professional business. The latest dog news is that among the sensations promised by Magician Herrmann for his Transatlantic Vaudeville Company are two dogs that are said to sing tunes to a pianoforte accompaniment. Speaking of where well known stage favorites are summering, "Handsome," the famous bulldog of "A Rag Baby" and "A Brass Monkey," is recuperating from nervous prostration at Hoyt's home in Charleston, N. H.

Arthur Rehan, brother of Ada Rehan, will have a company in the Eastern field. Miss Adele Waters, of San Francisco, plays Miss Rehan's part in 'The Lottery of Love," which will be one of the pieces of the company. Most of the people Daly has been engaging for the coming season will be placed in this company, sailing with the Rehan flag at its peak.

John S. Murphy is arranging for another tour in his brother Joseph's plays.

Mr. A. M. Palmer has secured "Eugene Aubrey," which deals with the career of a captain in the English service. It is likely to be produced at the Madison Square with Maurice Barrymore as the hero.

Otis Skinner has wisely concluded not to star next season, but to play Laertes with Booth and Modjeska.

Geo. Osbourne comes to the California, Oct. 28th, in "Barnes of New York.

The attraction at the Orpheum next week will be "Over the Garden Wall" Comedy Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, who are to make a tour of America under the direction of Mr. Daniel Frohman, will leave London for New York on Sept. 21st.

Mr. H. B. Conway, a British actor, comes over Sept. 21st to take his position as leading man in Mary Nevins Blaine's company.

When Gardner sings "The Lilac" in the first act of "Fatherland" all the company are grouped in the back ground in the prettiest of poses. It is a charming stage picture.

August 12th, Wyatt's English Opera Company will inaugurate a season of English comic opera at the Orpheum.

Karl Gardner has a tenor voice of peculiar sweetness, purity and high range. He is the best Swiss singer or yodeler on the stage. His selections include "Pretty Bobolink," "Shut Your Eyes Tightly and Open Your Mouth," "Gesundheit," and Klein's finest effort in the line of musical composition, "The Lilac."

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lautom (a pupil of Mr. Warner's).

Karl Gardner gives us his eight years comedy success in the East, "Karl, the

Drop the curtain; put out the light;
The play is ended, and, wrong or right,
The players weary, with minds unstrung,
Enter the bar room one by one.

What's the difference, do you care
That saw them under the footlights' glare?
Do you question if they are ill or well,
As long as no "chestnuts" to you they tell?

"What are their troubles to you?" you say;
"At the end of the week they'll get their pay."
Yes, they'll get it; they are only hired,
To keep the world from getting tired.

They, poor devils, with aching hearts,
Must hide their sorrows and play their parts;
In one short night, from eight to eleven,
Many an actor has earned a Heaven.

So don't be grudge them a glass of beer,
(The Bohemian is sure to crop out here);
Their troubles are over. "Waiter!" Hey,
"Eins! Hello, Monty! Haus, make that zwei!"

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush street Theatre.

Karl Gardner, a very popular young German comedian of the Emmett school, with his Eastern company, gives his last impersonation of the Alpine hunter and guide in the romantic play of "Fatherland" on Sunday night. The play was written jointly by the popular author, Sydney R. Ellis and Mr. Gardner. Its action takes place in a mountainous village of Austrian Tyrol. Its characteristic features, are the home-life pictures and customs of the Alpine villagers. The scenes are peculiar to Tyrol life, and partake of the qualities of that picturesque and romantic land.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage." His songs command general recalls.

While these pretty glimpses of home life in Tyrol are being given, the plot of the play is maintained throughout, and its development worked up to intense interest. Mr. Gardner brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters.

—o—

The next week will be the last one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as Karl Gardner. He will produce for his last week his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby.

Last matinees: Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Cordelia's Aspirations" will vaunt themselves on the Alcazar stage for the last time on Sunday night. Like all of Harrigan's plays it is full of action and lively humorous life-like characterizations. The incidents are ludicrous, and one wonders at the invention that originated the situations and dovetails them into the play so artistically. It has drawn good business.

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

Next week we are to have "The Lorgaire," an Irish drama. The action takes place on the old sod. It is a new play to us, though it had a successful run in New York. Its principal scenes are: The Beggars' Gathering at Kilcolgan, the Manor House, the Seagulls Cliff and Leap for Life, the Hedge School and the Christening Party. Mr. Harrigan appears in the title-role, and the cast is a very full one, calling for twenty-six characters; among whom are his two young sons, worthy chips of the old block.

"The Lorgaire" might well be called a musical comedy, for there are twenty choruses in it. The songs are all catchy, especially so—The Milkmaid's song and "La Plus Belle France."

New California Theatre.

Joseph Murphy gave us Marsden's fine play of "Shaun Rhue" at the California this week, playing bold Larry Donovan (Red John) in his inimitable way. The play is a picture of Irish life, bringing out the intense home love, the quickness of feeling and the humor and wit that characterizes the sons of Erin; and showing as well some of the home tenantry wrongs that are inflicted on them.

"Shaun Rhue" is the old stage story of villainy thwarted by honesty. The scene where Calligan thinks he has his victim trapped, and is himself thrown from the cliff to the lake below, is a very picturesque one as well as exciting. It is in the second act of this drama that Mr. Murphy sings so feelingly his popular song of "A Handful of Earth."

Maurice Heppart is a clever actor of character Irish parts. The remainder of the company render good support.

Next week Fred. Marsden's beautiful play, "Shamus O'Brien," and one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces, will be the attraction; it is touching story of Life and Love, an every-day story in every land; there are some very exciting

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the specialty season at this house. The company is a big one; every performer is an artist in their line of business. The Dare Brothers do a fine bar act, and the Lion Brothers are unapproachable in their feats of zamphillerostration; Edward Latelle gives the best banjo music ever heard at the Orpheum; Hallett & Raymond really present new ideas in the way of comicalities.

Managers Walter & Co. present a popular comedy attraction next week in Frank Howard and his comedy company in Geo. S. Knight's musical comedy of "Over the Garden Wall"—"the funniest play of them all." Mr. Knight having been placed on the retired list, Messrs. Bert & Sissone have purchased the coast rights to his most popular play and standard success, and have engaged one of the best of Eastern dialect comedians, Mr. Frank Howard, to play the leading comedy role. "Over the Garden Wall" has the advantage of a strong cast, new costumes and scenery in this production, and as it is played at popular prices we look for it to repeat the success of Bert & Sissons' "Peck's Bad Boy" weeks at this house.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week, Mr Chas. Chapelle as Yuba Bill, in the highly sensational drama of "M'liss." Miss May Nannary as M'liss, the waif of Smith's Pocket and Conchita as Clytie Morpher, M'liss' aversion. The play is full of interesting episodes.

The play has drawn well all through the week; all of the people have shown that they are fully capable of sustaining the roles given them, and the piece has been finely given.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week the attraction will be the sensational melodrama, in a prologue and three acts, by James Carden, entitled "Two Roads." It will also be the last week of Mr. Chapelle's engagement.

Bella Union Theatre.

Laura Huget, prima donna; Franks & Marion, song and dance artists; the great Wellington, contortionist; Kitty Drew, song and dance lady, and Kitty Adams, serio-comic, opened at the Bella Union this week.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Mlle. Cyrene, the terpsichorean queen, will make her first appearance next week in the new burlesque, written by herself, entitled "The Viceroy's Favorite."

The reigning favorites are retained on the bill.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

Miss Lillie Morris, song and dance artiste, and Drawee, the champion juggler, were the new faces this week.

Langle Comiques, Hayes & Marion, Ford Bros., Bertha Waring, Stella Clair and Della Wilson remain.

The entire company are presented in Ed Lang's comedy, entitled "Unneighborly Neighbors."

The Ford Bros.' laughable act, "John W. S. McSweeney's Arrival," is the interlude sketch.

A grand Second glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Monday evening, August 5th, a strong specialty company will appear at the Cremorne, with Clifford & Hickey Carrie Monroe, Frank La Mondue, Alice Mansfield and Lulu Powers as the new faces.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

Miss Mabel Adair, vocalist, and Stella Merriam, serio-comic vocalist and change artist, joined the Comique's forces this week.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Surprise," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "Baggage Smashers," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Trayers, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Mabel Adair and Lon Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Billy Akarman.

Miss Laura Manuing, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Bessie Carlton, Blanche Stetson, Maud Stetson, Bob McDonald, James Post and Billy Akarman make up the company this week.

The entertainment commences with a parlor concert, and the arrival of "Ole Bull," with pleasing songs and witticisms by the company.

Billy Akarman and the Stetson Sisters, Maud and Blanche, put in first appearances this week.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, August 4th, grand picnic of the Silver Lake Club at Seaside Gardens.

Excursion to Vallejo and Wheatport Sunday.

The steamer Tamalpais will make an excursion to Wheatport, or the Straits of Carquenez, on Sunday, August 4th, in place of Martinez, landing at Vallejo going and returning. Wheatport is the new town between Vallejo Junction and Port Costa. Accommodations will be provided at its hotel. Its town hall will be tendered for dancing to the excursionists, and a general reception will be offered, including the fine fishing privileges from its wharves, where fish bite with avidity and big catches are the rule. The Tamalpias leaves Sausalito ferry at 10 15 A.M., and returning, leaves Wheatport at 4 P.M.; Vallejo at 4.30, arriving in this city before 7 P. M. Single fare to Vallejo, 50 cents. Tickets for the round trip, 75 cents; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Sunday Excursion to Ukiah.

$3 Sunday excursion trains over the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway (Donahue broad gauge) will be run to Ukiah for the rest of the season, commencing on Sunday next, August 4th. These give the participants a fine trip of 113 miles and return through the beautiful valleys of Sonoma, Healdsburg, Cloverdale, Sanel and Ukiah, and the 20-mile pass cut through the mountains by the Russian River, between Cloverdale and Ukiah. The route is one of the most picturesque in the State. Excursionists leave Tiburon ferry at 7 30 A.M. and reach Ukiah at 11 45. Four hours at Ukiah gives time to dine, see the town, go to the famed Vichy Springs, and visit the only Indian rancheria left in the State, if desired. All aboard at 4 o'clock P.M. and back again in San Francisco at 8 30.

These excursions will be under the experienced supervision of Colonel Merton, the road's popular excursion manager. Tickets can be procured at the office, No 2 New Montgomery street, or at the the Tiburon ferry office.

The steamer Tamalpais changes her excursion route on Sunday, Aug 4th, making Wheatport, the new town on Carquinez Straits, between Vallejo Junction and Port Costa, the terminus of Sunday's excursion in place of Martinez. The citizens have tendered their new hall, and its grain wharves offer good fishing. The Tamalpais stops at Vallejo going and coming and will land her passengers here at 7 P. M.

Stuart Robson first acted at Baltimore thirty-two years ago in "Burned Alive," from which comedy the best situations in "The Mikado" were derived.

MONDAY.....AUGUST 5, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Karl Gardner has a tenor voice of peculiar sweetness, purity and high range. He is the best Swiss singer or yodeler on the stage. His selections for this, his farewell week, are: "Come Down by Dot Gate," "Mein Father vos an Auctioneer," "French Convict," "Vienna Flower Girl," "Clock Vender," "Jack in the Box," "Alpine Guide," his beautiful "Lullaby" and in the fourth act he will sing by request his famous "Lilac" song.

Murphy revels this week in "Kerry Gow," and though no blacksmith as an actor he will play one, and shoe a horse on the stage in A 1 style.

Augustin Daly's company went from here direct to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Daly, with Miss Ada Rehan and Mrs. Gilbert as guests, will sail from New York for Paris on the 10th inst., where they will do the Exposition, returning in time to open the Daly season in New York on September 21st.

"The Lorgaire" or "The Detective" will be presented this week for the first time in San Francisco, and will fill out Harrigan's sixth week at the Alcazar. "The Lorgaire" is a picture of Irish life in Ireland, and is a departure for Mr. Harrigar, whose talents have always been confined to depicting life in New York, with the single exception of "Pete," his plantation-life play. It was produced last Winter at his New York theatre.

If history repeats itself at the Orpheum Geo. S. Knight's very funny farce-comedy, "Over the Garden Wall," presented under the management of Bert & Sisson, who produced "Peck's Bad Boy" there, will throng that house this week. They have purchased the coast rights to the play and have engaged Frank Howard, the popular Eastern comedian, and a good company to appear in it. It is a good commencement for the switch-off in seasons for the Orpheum.

The J. G. Stutz Co. will play the week of August 12th at Deadwood, South Dakota.

"Among the grandmothers now on the stage," says the New York Mercury, "are Modjeska, Sara Bernhardt, Ellen Terry, Lydia Thompson, Mrs. John Drew, Rose Eytinge, Louise Eldridge and Mrs. W. J. Florence." Among those who are not, as far as FIGARO knows, are Lotta and Maggie Mitchell.

One of the old operas lately revived at the Paris Exposition was Paisiello's "Barber of Seville," which was produced in St. Petersburg one hundred and ten years ago and thirty-six years before Rossini composed his immortal score.

Louise Paullin, the prima donna of the recently defunct "Adrielle," proposes to go to Australia.

Manager Daniel Frohman will, in addition to his Lyceum company in New York, have the following traveling organizations next season: "The Wife," the Kendal's St. James' Combination, "Sweet Lavender," Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., and Elsie Leslie in "Prince and Pauper."

Newton Beers' great spectacular "Enoch Arden" which began a new forty weeks' season at Hooley's, Chicago, two weeks ago, proved to be flat and stale, and is now dead beer in Chicago.

Annie Adams is engaged for "The Lion and the Lamb" Co. Opens at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., this week.

Robert Eberle, who has been out in the eight weeks' Modjeska season as stage director, has returned to this city for a temporary stay before going East to assume the same position in the Booth-Modjeska Co. next season. He found a pleasant surprise awaiting for him in the shape of a farewell testimonial benefit, all arranged for him during his absence, to come off at the Grand Opera House on August 28th. He reports the Modjeska season a successful one in its entirety, though the Salt Lake section proved bad.

Now comes the story that an English syndicate has offered H. R. Jacobs, the New York absorbing manager, $500 000 and $15,000 yearly salary for a two-thirds interest in the twenty theatres which he controls in various parts of the East.

Harry Edwards, of the old Wallack Company and the old California Theatre Co., will shortly go to Australia to play the Earl in "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Rosina Vokes has sailed for Liverpool to be absent six weeks.

Shakespeare's "Tempest" has been presented as a grand ballet at the Paris Opera House.

Charlie Reed will open the season with the "City Directory," August 12th, at Chicago. The company comes to the Bush Street Theatre.

Pretty Miss Anna L. Jackson, late of the Conried Co., will be a member of Lewis Morrison's "Faust" Co. next season.

Rose Coghlan opens at the Baldwin this week in a new play, "Jocelyn," in which she dons the breeches, fights a duel with swords, and kills her adversary. Melodramatic and sensational.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will invade Australia. Harry Edwards, who came here from there about twenty years ago, will sail on the next steamer, taking a child with him to play the little lord. Edwards will play the Earl and act as stage director.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's share of the profits of the successful comic operas for which he has furnished the score have footed up over one hundred thousand dollars.

Chauncey Olcott will be the tenor hero of Duff's "Paola" at the Fifth Avenue, N. Y., next month.

The London Gaiety Co., in "Faust Up to Date," has been engaged by Henry E. Abbey to fill Mary Anderson's time at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., Oct. 7th.

The latest name to adorn a specialty programme is Miss "Dudie" Tracy.

The great Wagner festival began at Bayreuth, July 21st, with a splendid performance of "Parsifal," which was witnessed by the Kings and Princes of the German States and by a very large attendance.

A spectacular dramatization of Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii" had its first representation at Cleveland, Ohio, and made a good impression. It can't do it here.

Marie Williams, the once famous English burlesque queen, has been engaged by Henry E. Dixey.

Booth, Modjeska and their company will begin an eight weeks' term at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., October 7th. Bob Eberle leaves us to join the company as stage director. The season opens in Pittsburg Sept. 30th.

FIGARO remembers that somewhere about '46 Coney and Blanchard were stars at Tom Hamblin's old Bowery Theatre (then called the New Bowery), New York—or rather their dogs were—in a piece called "The Dogs of Montargus." The dogs were fine, noble fellows, of the St. Bernard breed, and had been taught to save their masters from robbery and murder, and rescue them from a burning house and from an Alpine avalanche. They created a great sensation at the time. Since then dogs have played circus business as vaulters, low comedy as clowns, high comedy as love-makers and society dancers and waltzers, emotional parts as dying and dead dogs, various lines of specialties, and still keep invading the different phases of professional business. The latest dog news is that among the sensations promised by Magician Herrmann for his Transatlantic Vaudeville Company are two dogs that are said to sing tunes to a pianoforte accompaniment. Speaking of where well known stage favorites are summering, "Handsome," the famous bulldog of "A Rag Baby" and "A Brass Monkey," is recuperating from nervous prostration at Hoyt's home in Charleston, N. H.

Arthur Rehan, brother of Ada Rehan, will have a company in the Eastern field. Miss Adele Waters, of San Francisco, plays Miss Rehan's part in 'The Lottery of Love," which will be one of the pieces of the company. Most of the people Daly has been engaging for the coming season will be placed in this company, sailing with the Rehan flag at its peak.

John S. Murphy is arranging for another tour in his brother Joseph's plays.

Mr. A. M. Palmer has secured "Eugene Aubrey," which deals with the career of a captain in the English service. It is likely to be produced at the Madison Square with Maurice Barrymore as the hero.

Otis Skinner has wisely concluded not to star next season, but to play Laertes with Booth and Modjeska.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, who are to make a tour of America under the direction of Mr. Daniel Frohman, will leave London for New York on Sept. 21st.

Mr. H. B. Conway, a British actor, comes over Sept. 21st to take his position as leading man in Mary Nevins Blaine's company.

August 12th, Wyatt's English Opera Company will inaugurate a season of English comic opera at the Orpheum.

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lansom (a pupil of Mr. Warner's).

Gilbert & Sullivan are at work upon a new comic opera dealing with sixteenth century "fads."

Taors' latest professional photos are cabinets of Ada Rehan, Kitty Cheatham, Rose Coghlan and Isabel Morris. They are fine samples of art added to beauty.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, "Elitha's Burglar," by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Madison Square Theatre to crowded houses, and is the latest New York success. Mr. Grismer has the sole right of production of the piece on this coast.

Theatrical business has become so bad in Paris owing to the attractiveness of the Exposition that the managers have

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

Notice to Stage Managers.

We cannot make changes in Programmes after two (2) P. M. All changes handed in after that hour will have to lay over until next day.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This week will be the farewell one in this city of the jolly comedian and sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, more popularly known as "Karl Gardner," from the long run he made East in his eight years comedy success of "Karl the Peddler." In this play Mr. Gardner first achieved fame and fortune, and it will prove all the more attractive from the fact that this will be its first production on the Pacific Coast. He will also give an entire change of songs, including his world-famed lullaby, retaining, by request, his beautiful "Lilac" song, which he sings in the fourth act.

Mr. Gardner is justly credited with a geniality of feeling that charms his audiences with his mingled pathos and humor, and also with being "the sweetest singer of Tyrolean melodies on the stage." His songs command general recalls. He brings with him a well selected company, that render ample support in various lines of characters.

Last matinees : Wednesday and Saturday.

Next week we are to have Joseph R. Grismer and Phœbe Davies at the Bush, supported by a strong company, in the latest and greatest New York success, "The Burglar"—not a title that would win favor, but some scenes of the play as seen in the original sketch, "Editha's Burglar," by Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," are as charming bits of comedy as there is on the stage. If the Madison Square Theatre was not dated ahead "The Burglar" would stay there through the Winter. As it is, its managers are bidding for another New York theatre. Mr. Grismer bought the rights of the play in his visit East for the Pacific Coast.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week we are to have "The Lorgaire," an Irish drama. The action takes place on the old sod. It is a new play to us, though it had a successful run in New York. Its principal scenes are: The Beggars' Gathering at Kilcolgan, the Manor House, the Seagulls Cliff and Leap for Life, the Hedge School and the Christening Party. We have Irish life and Irish characters as found in the fishing village of Kilcolgan, and also the "real gentlemen" as seen in the Manor House. Mr. Harrigan appears in the title role, and the cast is a very full one, calling for twenty-six characters; among whom are his two young sons, worthy chips of the old block.

"The Lorgaire" might well be called a musical comedy, for there are twenty choruses in it. The songs are all catchy, especially so—The Milkmaid's song and "La Plus Belle France."

We call attention to the cast and synopsis of incidents on our first page.

New California Theatre.

This week Fred. Maraden's beautiful play, "Kerry Gow," and one of the best of Mr. Murphy's pieces, will be the attraction; it is touching story of Life and Love, an every-day tale in every land; there are some very exciting scenes in the piece, the third and fourth acts being notably strong.

Mr. Murphy has a great scene in the smithy, where he shoes the favorite race-horse and brings to grief the villain. Miss Idalene Cotton as Jack, the jockey, makes a jaunty picture.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a popular comedy attraction next week in Frank Howard and his comedy company in Geo. S. Knight's musical comedy of "Over the Garden Wall"—"the funniest play of the season." Mr. Knight having been placed on the retired list, Messrs. Barr & Simmons have purchased the coast rights to his most popular play and standard success, and have engaged one of the best of Eastern dramatic companies. Mr. Frank Howard, to play the leading comedy role. "Over the Garden Wall" has the advantage of a strong cast, new music, new costumes and scenery in this production, and as it is played at popular prices we look for it to repeat the success of Barr & Simmons' "Peck's Bad Boy" weeks at this house. Miss Freddie Stockmeyer is included in the cast. Between the acts Matt Morgan's tableaux vivants or living pictures will be shown under the direction of Mr. J. F. Raymond.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

This week the attraction will be the sensational melodrama, in a prologue and three acts, by James Carden, entitled "Two Roads," It will also be the last week of Mr. Chapelle's engagement.

Mr. Chapelle assumes the role of a man made crazy by the wrongs inflicted on him by those nearest and dearest to him, but everything is at the last made right and peace comes to his disturbed mind.

See cast in Morosco's programme space in our columns.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

Cyrene, the terpsichorean queen, will make her first appearance this week in the new burlesque, written by herself, entitled "The Viceroy's Favorite." Mr. John McCullough is the other new claimant for a share of the popular favor.

The reigning favorites are retained on the bill.

Manager Ned Foster keeps up his record in giving a full and varied bill, including acts, specialties and comedies.

Tuesday and Friday nights are the boxing meeting nights at the Bella Union, and are notable for the lively matches that come off there.

Friday night, amateur night, is one of the most interesting evenings of the week. The management offer every assistance to budding talent, and every novice is assured of fair treatment; no guying is permitted. As a consequence, amateur night is one of the most popular innovations of the management.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ed. Homan keeps the Cremorne in the front rank of variety theatres during Jack Hallinan's absence East, and Ned Nestell looks out sharper than ever for the stage department. Result good business.

This week a strong specialty company will appear at the Cremorne, with Clifford & Hickey, Carrie Monroe, Frank La Mondue, Alice Mansfield and Luin Powers as the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, Mattie Wallace and Bertha Wering remain.

Ned Nestell's sensational burlesque, "The Daughter of Satan," will be produced each evening.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, Pat Killen's Pugilistic Combination will appear. Mr. Killen will give $100 to any man who will stand up before him for four rounds.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

The comical farce-comedy, "The Wrong Man," is the interlude act.

The laughable farce of "The Landlord," with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The entertainment furnished for this week is very attractive. The various songs, specialties and comedies are rendered by Matt Treyere, J. Byrnes, John Cook, Bessie Armstrong, Stella Merriam, Nellie Henry and Lou Cook.

The Comique's company is a strong one, especially so in musical features, glees, duets and concerted pieces. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company under the stage management of Mr. Billy Akarman.

Miss Laura Manning, Miss May Morrell, May Ashley, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton Nettie Behren, Blanche Stetson, Maud Stetson, Wm. Behren, James Post and Billy Akarman make up the company this week.

The first part is made up of a fine selection of songs rendered by the different artists of the Eureka company under the careful supervision of Mr. Billy Akarman, the efficient stage manager.

The Behrens, musical sketch artists, put in first appearances this week.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, August 11th, grand picnic of the Carlton Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Excursion to Vallejo and Wheatport Sunday.

The steamer Tamalpais will make excursions to Wheatport, or the Straits of Carquinez on Sundays hereafter, in place of Martinez, landing at Vallejo going and returning. Wheatport is the new town between Vallejo Junction and Port Costa. Accommodations will be provided at its hotel. Its town hall will be tendered for dancing to the excursionists, and a general reception will be offered, including the fine fishing privileges from its wharves. Vallejo at 4.30, arriving in this city before 7 P. M. Single fares to Vallejo, 50 cents. Tickets for the round trip, 75 cents; children, half-price. The U.S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink will be properly looked after.

Sunday Excursion to Ukiah.

$3 Sunday excursion trains over the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway (Donahue broad gauge) will be run to Ukiah during the season. These give the participants a fine trip of 113 miles and return through the beautiful valleys of Sonoma, Healdsburg, Cloverdale, Sanel and Ukiah, and the 20-mile pass out through the mountains by the Russian River, between Cloverdale and Ukiah. The route is one of the most picturesque in the State. Excursionists leave Tiburon ferry at 7 30 A.M. and reach Ukiah at 11 45 Four hours at Ukiah gives time to dine, see the town, go to the famed Vichy Springs, and visit the only Indian rancheria left in the State, if desired. All aboard at 4 o'clock P.M. and back again in San Francisco at 8 30

These excursions will be under the experienced supervision of Colonel Mendell, the road's popular excursion manager. Tickets can be procured at the office, No. 2 New Montgomery street, or at the Tiburon ferry office.

SUMMER SEASON ON UNION SQUARE.

'Tis the Summer season on Union Square;
The actors are flocking from everywhere,
All kinds and all lines, you can have your pick,
From Guttersnipe Joe up to Dandy Dick
There's the tragedy king, with stately walk,
"Legitimate acting" is all his talk;
There's the comedy prince, with airy chaff,
The eccentric man, with a funny laugh;
And they smile at the ladies young and fair,
For 'tis Summer season on Union Square.

There's the juvenile man, with small mustache,
Who flatters himself he's made a mash;
And the heavy man, with swagger and dash,
Who speaks of all other acting as "trash!"
The happy old man, with his sunny smile,
And the stately duchess, who goes on style,
And the leading man, and the parts he played,
And one and all tell of the hits they made.
The star of the company was just no where!
Ah! 'tis Summer season on Union Square.

But the king of all is the actor old,
With the wonderful tales he doth unfold;
"I received a perfect ovation, sir,
And the star—why, they never looked at her,
And before the curtain thrice I was called,
And me colleagues stood there, me boy, appalled."
Ah, well! great actors have many a care—
And 'tis Summer season on Union Square.

'Twas my pride, sir, in my palmy days,
When I played me CHARACTERS, to the highest praise
With variety robbers since I've played,
And a robber chieftain I best portrayed;
But the robbing game's dead, I saw it plain,
When the curtain fell I cut them in twain!
And you'll meet him often—he's not so rare—
For 'tis Summer season on Union Square.

Now, some tell the truth, but a few there are
Who lead to the kingdom of things by-and-by;
You must pick the chaff from the wheat, my boy—
Remember, fine gold has ever alloy,
And a man's a man, good actor or bad,
Take life as it comes, if sorry or glad,
Take sunshine and roses wherever you may,
The day will come when they vanish away,
For the world rolls onward all golden fair,
And 'tis Summer season on Union Square.

The steamer Tamalpais has changed her popular excursion route, making Wheatport, the new town on Carquinez Straits, between Vallejo Junction and Port Costa, the terminus of Sunday's excursion in place of Martinez. The citizens have transferred their new hall, and the grain wharves offer good fishing. The Tamalpais stops at Vallejo going and coming and will land her passengers here at 7 P. M.

EVENING EDITION

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Ned Foster sold his four-in-hand Shetland pony teams, outfit and all, to G. V. Phinney, of Seattle, for a road turnout for his wife. The lady can congratulate herself upon having the most novel and beautiful road establishment in the Union. The price paid was $1800.

Ted Marks, formerly a resident of the coolest Summer city in the Union, and the warmest Winter one—need we add San Francisco—leaves London in charge of Prof. Herrmann's Transatlantic Vaudevilles, which will open at the Bijou, N. Y., on the 19th, and at Leavitt's Bush Street Theatre in November. Mr. Marks is positive in the assertion that this combination of attractions is the greatest of the kind that ever visited America.

Wm. and Nettie Behren, musical sketch artists, make their first appearance at the Eureka Music Hall this week in their original comedy sketch, "Pastimes."

Mr. Fred Solomon's original burlesque, "Banditti," had its first production at Koster & Bial's Theatre, New York, on August 5th.

Martin & Lonsdale, sketch artists, conclude their successful engagement at Foy's Lyceum Theatre, Ogden, this week.

Bessie Armstrong is one of the reigning favorites at the Comique.

Post & Ashley in their sketch, "Mixtures," and the Stetson Sisters in new songs are meeting with well deserved success at the Eureka.

Rose & Fenton will join Filson & Errol at Portland, Or., August 12th, to play in a new farce comedy, entitled The Chicks, under the management of John Cort.

Pat Killen's Pugilistic Combination will appear at the Cremorne Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, headed by Pat Killen, whose fame as a pugilist is world-wide, and makes a standing offer of $100 to any man who will stand up before him for four rounds. Killen comes here matched to meet Joe McAuliff, the California heavy-weight champion, in this city next September. We congratulate Manager Ned Homan upon securing so big an attraction. They will be red letter nights at the Cremorne.

Theatre Comique, Baltimore, week ending August 31: Prof. Greenbaum, Mlle. Emma (wire rope walker), John and Lucille Gleves, the Johnsons and old favorites retained.

Clinton's Theatre Royal, Portland: The Stanley Sisters, Lulu Temple, Will H. Bray, Wilson & Cameron, Riley & Fern, Eva Lester, Starin & Lester and all the old favorites retained for the week ending July 28th.

The See-Saw at the Orpheum takes the cake.

Lively times at the boxing nights, Tuesday and Friday, at the Cremorne.

Geo. Osbourne comes to the California, Oct. 28th, in "Barnes of New York."

Manager Daniel Frohman will, in addition to his Lyceum company in New York, have the following traveling organizations next season: "The Wife," the Kendal's St. James' Combination, "Sweet Lavender," Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., and Elsie Leslie in "Prince and Pauper."

Gilbert & Sullivan are at work upon a new comic opera dealing with sixteenth century "fads."

Theirs' latest professional photos are cabinets of Ada Rehan, Kitty Cheatham, Rose Coghlan and Isabel Morris. They are fine samples of art added to beauty.

The Grismer season opens at the Bush Street Theatre August 12th. Mr. Grismer presents "The Burglar," by George Thomas, an elaboration of the celebrated sketch, 'Raffles's Burglar,' by Mrs. Burnett, authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The piece is now running at the Madison Square Theatre to crowded houses, and is the latest New York success. Mr. Grismer has the sole right of production of the piece on this coast.

Robert Eberle, who has been out in the eight weeks' Modjeska season as stage director, has returned to this city for a temporary stay before going East to assume the same position in the Booth-Modjeska Co. next season. He found a pleasant surprise awaiting for him in the shape of a farewell testimonial benefit, all arranged for him during his absence, to come off at the Grand Opera House on August 28th. He reports the Modjeska season a successful one in its entirety,

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Manager J. J. Gottlob is happy in a lot of big bookings. Among others the New York Casino Company come to the Bush by-and-by, and will play this coast under the management of M. B. Leavitt.

Joe Mount, who represented Manager John Maguire with the Goodyear, Cook & Dillon Minstrels, who played them as far as Omaha, is in town awaiting Mr. Maguire's coming. Mr. Mount will be one of the staff of the Grand Opera House under Maguire's management when it opens in October.

Lewis Morrison returned with his company from his Eureka tour and took care for the East Monday night.

Mr. Harrigan at the close of his successful engagement at the Alcazar will play the principal cities on his way East. He will take the journey very leisurely, playing three weeks at St. Louis and six at Chicago. "Old Lavender" and "Cordelia's Aspirations" will be given at the one and two night stands. At the two cities mentioned a different play will be given every week.

E. J. Buckley and Miss Isabel Morris, joint stars, open in "Gwynne's Oath" at the Alcazar on the 26th inst.

Frank L. Hoogs, treasurer of the Bijou Theatre, has been to the watering places successfully managing Miss Ida Benfey as a society star in costume readings of "Elaine" and other poems.

Edward Harrigan has telegraphed East for some leading people to join him here and play Eastward en route to New York.

Thos. H. Andrews, the popular stage machinist and custodian of the Grand Opera House, will be tendered a benefit by his professional and other friends on Sunday evening, September 8th, when a big bill of attractions will be presented.

Samuel Edwards, the comedian who came out from New York with Morrison's company that played at the Bijou, left for the East Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Ward have been specially engaged to support Frank Chanfrau at the Alcazar.

"La Plus Belle France," one of the pretty melodies of "The Lorgaire," has caught on. It had to be repeated three times Monday night.

An inspired prophet has a large following of colored people in Georgia who believe that the world will come to an end on August 16th, and some wide awake swindler has sold already 150 pairs of "angel wings" at $10 a pair. Only a few days left. Are there any angel wings in town?

Last April, B. J. Murphy started out to add to the happiness of the people in the interior, when the flowers of Spring were blooming and all nature smiled with joy, with a "select company of comedians" in the comedy of "Fun in a Toy Shop." He secured Flewy-Flewy Courtright, the "right" comedian for the piece, and George M. Axtell, manager, was sure to make all acts tell, and everything was propitious. They started out for six weeks, but Hope again told a flattering tale. The interior people were apathetic, business turned bad from the start, and at last the company fell to pieces for lack of spondulicks to carry it farther. The members got back somehow, and the ultimate result is that Axtell and Courtright have commenced a joint suit against Murphy for $217 due for salaries.

Manager George Wallenrod, of the Alcazar, is going to open a new house, and will give a house-warming reception to his friends at Alcazar Cottage, 2618 Bryant street, assisted by Mrs. Wallenrod, on Saturday evening next at 8 o'clock. This house is to be his new home; and all who know him will, we are sure, heartily wish him a long life and a contented one within its portals. The Alcazar company, we learn, intend to be in at the christening. They will go out in carry-alls after the performance. They may unavoidably be a little late in starting, but they will drive their Stock-well along at a Blooming pace and Mark their way so directly that they will be there, if they have to ring the Midnight Bell to get in.

Charlie Reed will open the season with the "City Directory," August 12th, at Chicago. The company comes to the Bush Street Theatre.

Rose Coghlan opens at the Baldwin this week in a new play, 'Jocelyn,' in which she dons the breeches, fights a duel with swords, and kills her adversary. Melodramatic and sensational.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will invade Australia. Harry Edwards, who came here from there about twenty years ago, will sail on the next steamer, taking a child with him to play the little lord. Edwards will play the Earl and act as stage director.

A spectacular dramatization of Bulwer's 'Last Days of Pompeii' had its first representation at Cleveland, Ohio, and made a good impression. It can't do it here.

Booth, Modjeska and their company will begin an eight weeks' term at the Broadway Theatre, N. Y., October 7th. Bob Eberle leaves us to join the company as stage director. The season opens in Pittsburg Sept. 30th.

Arthur Rehan, brother of Ada Rehan, will have a company in the Eastern field. Miss Adele Watson, of San Francisco, plays Miss Rehan's part in 'The Lottery of Love,' which will be one of the pieces of the company. Most of the people Daly has been engaging for the coming season will be placed in this company, sailing with the Rehan flag at its peak.

"A New Way to Pay Old Debts" will be given for Mr. Warner's benefit, August 11th, at the Baldwin Theatre, the beneficiary as Sir Giles Overreach. A large number of professionals have volunteered, including J. J. Jack, J. J. Wallace, Miss Clyde Herron and Miss Ida Lansom (a
